McElroy Preparing Master Plan To Settle Missile Row

BY NATIONAL PUBLICITY

Black Eye Dealt Louisiana; Worst In Two Decades

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

BATON ROUGE — Louisiana has received its worst black eye since the scandals of 1939.

Other accomplishments in this session of the legislature include hard feelings, crack-up of Gov. Long's forces and the spending of about a half million dollars to put the show on.

But, nevertheless, more national publicity has been given this session of the legislature than anything in Louisiana government since the scandals.

A national magazine team moved into Baton Rouge shortly after Long was flown to Galveston, Tex. their stories and pictures are due to appear on the newstands this week.

COVERAGE

In addition, the Wall Street Journal is here and the Associated Press assigned one of its top color men, Hugh Mulligan of New York, to Baton Rouge. Hugh covered the Louisiana capitol for three years and made a name for himself in Monroe on the Joe Cooper story.

While Louisiana newspapers gave extensive coverage to the Long story, the national radio and television networks featured running daily accounts.

It is unfortunate, but the governor's breakdown is being wrapped around Louisiana's neck.

NOBODY KNOWS

Nobody seems to know the extent of Earl Long's sickness. There are a thousand different opinions in the capitol.

However, it's generally known now that the governor didn't want to go to Galveston.

One member of the Long party aboard the plane told a reporter that the governor, enroute to Galveston, fired Maj. Gen. Hufft, Louisiana National Guard commander, and promptly promoted a sergeant with instructions to turn the plane around.

The governor's absence has brought on an interesting series of events. Nephew Russell quick-

Earl Long's Collapse Has Big Impact

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Earl Long's collapse in the srife of a 30-day Legislature equaled the impact on Louisiana history made by the 1929 impeachment move against Huey P. Long.

The Legislature is still fussing as it approaches final adjournment next Tuesday, with Long's leaders struggling to hold command.

Long took hard his defeats, but most of his bills swept to final passage while he received treatment in a Galveston, Tex., mental clinic.

Only the highly controversial bills have lost or remain in doubt.

SHOCKS STATE

Twenty of Long's major bills in the fiscal Legislature swept to final passage easily. The one that failed was tainted with the segregation issue. Three of his pets are in doubt largely because time is running out.

Long shocked the Legislature and the hills and bayous of Louisiana during his losing fight to ease the state's voter qualification laws.

The issue was a key one in his effort to continue indefinitely as governor, and it became the sharpest thorn in his side.

The segregation forces thurst hard in defeating the colorful governor with the argument that Long was trying to stop statewide purges of what the white citizens councils called illegally registered voters. Many Negroes are the purge victims.

Long became caustic and profane in his argument in a committee meeting. He did the same at a joint session of the Legislature, called for what the lawmakers thought was to be an apology. His vehemence continued until members of his family acted and he was flown to a Galveston, Tex., mental clinic.

Cheniere Lake Yields Big One

It was a 5 foot, 9 inch alligator.

J. D. Bailey said he and a companion, Virgil Payne, came upon their unusual catch while running their trotline near Cheniere Lake dam.

"He didn't make much of a fuss — until we got him in the boat," Bailey said.

Did he give them any trouble on the way to shore?

"Well, as a matter of fact, we tried not to give him any cause to trouble us. You see, it was pretty crowded in that boat with two men and a six-foot alligator."

HOOKED LEG

The two fishermen caught him about noon Saturday between the spillway and the dam at Cheniere Lake, they said. He was hooked in the leg.

Bailey, who has been living near the lake for about 38 years, says the last alligator he remembers being caught in Cheniere Lake was a 14-footer, about 20 years ago. It was given to officials of the Bernstein Park Zoo.

The alligator caught yesterday was released to officials of the state Wildlife and Fisheries Commission, who said it would be taken to a more remote spot and released.

Joe Herring, district supervisor of the wildlife commission, said alligators are fairly common in this area.

A ten-footer was caught last year.

"Most of the bayous, lakes, and swamps in the area have alligators that come into view ev-

Atlas ICBM Explodes For Fifth Failure

Air Force Says Shift Possible To New Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) —A 100-ton Atlas ICBM exploded in flight two minutes after launching Saturday in the fifth straight failure of the nation's most advanced intercontinental weapon.

It was a bitter disappointment to the nation's missile scientists trying to develop a reliable 5,000-mile range ballistic missile to put in the hands of troops. Russia claims to possess operational ICBMs.

A usually reliable source said the failure was caused by the same type of problem that made an earlier model Atlas explode several months ago. But he said the problem was "not basic" and could be solved.

STUDY SHIFT

In Washington, Air Force officials said the latest Atlas explosion might affect the nation's long range ICBM program—possibly a shift to the newer Titan ICBM for manning some missile squadrons next year—if investigation shows serious flaws in the Atlas.

The Titan is scheduled to be ready for combat use in May, 1960. The maximum range of both the Atlas and Titan is 6,300 statute miles or more. Both cost about 2 million dollars each to build.

The Atlas has made only one full range flight of 6,300 miles.

Saturday's Atlas was of the combat type, believed developed to the point that it might be deployed to troops at ICBM bases by July. It was the third straight "operational" type Atlas to blow up within moments after blast-off on attempts to propel its nose cone 5,000 miles at a peak 16,000 mile per hour speed.

The blowup came after the Atlas' two booster engines quit 90 seconds after blastoff. In a successful test, the boosters would

FOUR OTHERS INJURED

Children Die As Bolt Hits

NEW YORK (UPI)—A flash of lightning during a freak rainstorm struck a family of six when they took refuge under an oak tree in crowded Central Park Saturday. Two children were killed and the four other persons were injured.

The lightning flash split the sky shortly before 4 p.m., EST, only about a block from the Central Park zoo, which was filled with a Saturday afternoon crowd of adults and children seeking relief from a June heat wave.

The tragedy occurred only a short distance from the expensive towering apartment houses that line Fifth Ave.

Thousands of persons were milling about the park when the storm suddenly struck. Police said no one was aware that the lightning flash hit the family, although about 300 persons were in the immediate vicinity.

Later, Martin Polinski reported to police that he saw the lightning strike. He said he took refuge under the big oak tree but left when the family rushed up.

Polinski said he ran to the next tree moments

Role Of Air Force, Army Under Study

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy returned from Geneva Saturday ready to crack down on the angry Army - Air Force missile row which has been plaguing the Pentagon.

His chief weapon for settling the dispute is an air defense "master plan" which he will submit to Congress later this month. It will spell out for each service its role in defending the nation against possible enemy bomber attack.

McElroy confirmed that the plan will advocate use of both the Army's Nike-Hercules and the Air Force's Bomarc as defense missiles.

CHIEFS DISAGREE

He also acknowledged that the Joint Chiefs of Staff which prepared a rough draft of the plan for his study, still were in disagreement on some issues. He said, however, that they were not far apart on the main policies and indicated he should have little trouble ironing out final details in the next few weeks.

MsElroy disclosed that the master plan had been sent to him in Geneva where he was serving as an adviser to Secretary of State Christian A. Herter at the Big Four Foreign Ministers Conference on Germany. He said he went over the plan both at Geneva and on his plane flight home.

Before leaving for Geneva, McElroy had issued blunt orders to the two services to stop their public bickering. He said they were alienating "our good friends in Congress." He had conferred on the controversy with President Eisenhower.

The acid dispute has been growing in recent months with the Air Force deprecating the Army's Hercules missile and the Army scoffing at the Bomarc as a defense weapon.

Air Force spokesmen stress that Bomarc has a range of from 200 to 400 miles compared to the Hercules' 80 and claim the weapon can be triggered faster should hostile bombers approach.

The Army argues that the Bomarc is too expensive, that it is still in the production stage and would prove inaccurate.

Confusion over the rival claims has already been reflected in Co

Reds Direct New Threats Against West

GENEVA (UPI) — A rocket-rattling speech by Nikita S. Khrushchev and the threat of a new Berlin Blockade Saturday paced the Western Big Three through a "very discouraging" session with Russia at the Geneva Foreign Ministers Conference.

Soviet 'foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, at a secret meeting with the Western ministers in British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd's residence, refused to discuss anything but his often-rejected proposal to establish West Berlin as a "free, demilitarized city."

It appeared that Gromyko was stalling for time while new diplomatic moves were being prepared by Soviet Premier Khrushchev in the Kremlin.

The two-hour meeting got nowhere. "It was very discouraging," a Western official said.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and his British and French colleagues hammered for guarantees of free access of military and civilian traffic to West Berlin.

On the side, Herter invited West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt to Geneva next Friday for consultations.

Magazine Editor Studies Channel

Earl V. Anderson, assistant editor of "Chemical and Engineering News," a national industrial magazine, arrived in Monroe yesterday to study the prospects for the proposed 9- foot channel for the Ouachita River.

Anderson commented that he believed the area has "a very definite and good potential" concerning the river project.

"Chemical industry must have a river nearby for complete operation," he continued, adding that it was unlike any other kind of industry.

When contacted, he was discussing the river project with Walter Koch, executive vice president of MAIDCO. The two were in agreement as to the favorable prospects for completion of the project.

Groom Killed Speeding To His Wedding

HUNTINGTON, Ind. (UPI) —A young bridegroom and his best man brother were killed in a car crash Saturday while they were rushing to a wedding three miles away.

Donald Henry Stoffel, 23, Huntington, and his brother, Bernard, 20, were killed less than a half hour before Donald was to have married Nancy Leigh Doepker, Roanoke, at St. Catherine's Roman Catholic Church.

The brothers were driving to the church where the wedding was to begin at 11 a.m. The accident occurred, police said at 10:35 a.m.

Miss Doepker was waiting at the church, along with a priest and relatives and friends of the couple. She went to Huntington County Hospital with Mrs. Agnes Stoffel, mother of the two brothers.

Donald died within 15 minutes after admission to the hospital. Bernard was killed outright.

The bride was grief stricken and near collapse, officials said.

Donald graduated from Purdue University last week

ON PINBALL RACKETEERING

Probers To Quiz Gangland Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Rackets Committee expects to get its first look next week at the reputed new Chicago underworld leader who had been sought for more than a year.

The alleged gangland bigshot, Mooney Giancana, was scheduled for questioning in connection with the current investigation of juke box and pinball racketeering in Lake County, Ind., near Chicago.

According to testimony heard this week, a syndicate headed by Giancana spread out from Chicago into the steel mill towns of Lake County during Metro Holovachka's regime as county prosecutor.

OF CAPONE ERA

A committee spokesman said Giancana is now regarded as either the number one or two man in the shifting hierarchy of the old Capone mob. The committee had been on his trail for months before a subpena-server finally caught up with him in Las Vegas, Nev., recently.

Jordan, Syria Close Border After Clash

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)— The border between the Arab states of Jordan and Syria was closed to all traffic Saturday in the wake of a series of quarrels and at least one frontier clash.

There has been tension between Jordan and Syria, now a part of the United Arab Republic with Egypt, since the spring of 1957 when Jordan's King Hussein charged Syria was backing an attempt to topple his throne.

Jordanian officials said Saturday in Amman that Syria sealed the border. But dispatches from Damascus insisted Jordan blocked the frontier.

Jordan said it has reported the closing to the United Nations representative at Amman, the Jordanian capital.

An increase in Jordan's border guard force.

Refusal of Jordan's officials to

This Driver Faces Flock Of Charges

BOUNTIFUL, Utah (AP) — A young woman drove a car 110 m.p.h. down the wrong side of a busy, four-lane highway Saturday and wound up in a psychiatric ward.

Oncoming motorists headed into ditches when Dorothy Ann Hall, 20, of Salt Lake City made her run over U.S. 91 in northern Utah at dawn with police cars in nervous pursuit.

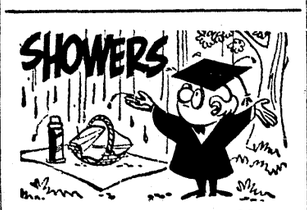

Police finally brought Miss Hall's car to a skidding stop. She pleaded guilty to charges of running a roadblock, driving on the wrong side of the road, speeding more than 100 m.p.h. in 40 and 50 m.p.h. zones, running two red lights, disobeying an officer and resisting arrest. The judge fined the woman a maximum of $598, gave her 120 days in jail and ordered her sent to the psychiatric ward of a local hospital.

Bountiful police officer Mark Briggs was chasing the woman's car when it hit a dip in the road and skidded out of control to a halt. He radioed that the chase was over and the Utah Highway Patrol radioman asked Briggs what he planned to do then.

His reply: "Stand by for a few minutes. I'm shaking so bad I can't get out of my car."

When Briggs finally recovered enough to approach the girl in the car, she refused to open her doors and he had to smash a window with his gun butt to get in. A deputy sheriff who was in the chase in another car arrived and they took the woman to the local judge. She refused to say why she did it.

Police began chasing Miss Hall's car when a citizen in nearby Layton, Utah, reported to police he had been forced off the highway by a speeding auto.

FROM TENSAS RIVER

Drowning Victim's Body Is Recovered

JONESBORO (Special)—Rescue squad workers and volunteers yesterday recovered the body of Hampton E. Aldy of Jonesboro from the Tensas River, after six hours of dragging operations.

The man drowned late Friday night after he and his son, Roy Aldy, 30, had set a trotline and were returning to camp, the son said.

Heavy clothes apparently handicapped the victim, his son added, because the body did not surface.

The metal boat the pair were in nosedived into the water.

Dr. Charles Passman, Catahoula Parish coroner, rendered a verdict of accidental drowning.

Mr. Aldy was a lifelong resident of Jackson Parish.

Funeral services are tentatively set for Wednesday, pending arrival of several out of state relatives. The Revs. John Horn and Irvin DeWitt will officiate at the services, and interment will be in the Antioch Presbyterian Church, under the direction of Southern Funeral Home.

The body will lie in state in the funeral home chapel until time for services.

Mr. Aldy is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mae Aldy, Jonesboro; four daughters, Mrs. Pauline Turner, Crowder, Miss.; Mrs. Lilly Woods, Crowley; Mrs. Delores Jones, Yakimo, Wash., and Mrs. Urie Shubert, Pine Bluff Ark.; six sons, Chester, Charles, and Roy Aldy, all of Jonesboro; Orren Aldy, Toledo, Ore.; Billy Aldy, Crowder, Miss., and Stanley Aldy, Pine Bluff, Ark.; five sisters, Mrs. Sally Whitman, Hodge; Mrs. Ode Norred, Houston, Tex.; Mrs. Mazie Watts, Oak Grove; Mrs. Pinkey Porter, Hodge, and Mrs. Mattie Cotton, Monroe; five brothers, Joe Aldy, Goldonna, Tex.; Griffin Aldy Quitman; Robert Aldy, Jonesboro; Lonny Aldy, Chatham, and Virgil Aldy, Yackimo, Wash.; 37 grandchildren, and five great - grandchildren

Reds Direct New Threats Against West

GENEVA (UPI) — A rocket-rattling speech by Nikita S. Khrushchev and the threat of a new Berlin Blockade Saturday paced the Western Big Three through a "very discouraging" session with Russia at the Geneva Foreign Ministers Conference.

Soviet 'foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, at a secret meeting with the Western ministers in British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd's residence, refused to discuss anything but his often-rejected proposal to establish West Berlin as a "free, demilitarized city."

It appeared that Gromyko was stalling for time while new diplomatic moves were being prepared by Soviet Premier Khrushchev in the Kremlin.

The two-hour meeting got nowhere. "It was very discouraging," a Western official said.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and his British and French colleagues hammered for guarantees of free access of military and civilian traffic to West Berlin.

On the side, Herter invited West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt to Geneva next Friday for consultations.

Magazine Editor Studies Channel

Earl V. Anderson, assistant editor of "Chemical and Engineering News," a national industrial magazine, arrived in Monroe yesterday to study the prospects for the proposed 9- foot channel for the Ouachita River.

Anderson commented that he believed the area has "a very definite and good potential" concerning the river project.

"Chemical industry must have a river nearby for complete operation," he continued, adding that it was unlike any other kind of industry.

When contacted, he was discussing the river project with Walter Koch, executive vice president of MAIDCO. The two were in agreement as to the favorable prospects for completion of the project.

Atlas ICBM Explodes For Fifth Failure

Air Force Says Shift Possible To New Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) —A 100-ton Atlas ICBM exploded in flight two minutes after launching Saturday in the fifth straight failure of the nation's most advanced intercontinental weapon.

It was a bitter disappointment to the nation's missile scientists trying to develop a reliable 5,000-mile range ballistic missile to put in the hands of troops. Russia claims to possess operational ICBMs.

A usually reliable source said the failure was caused by the same type of problem that made an earlier model Atlas explode several months ago. But he said the problem was "not basic" and could be solved.

STUDY SHIFT

In Washington, Air Force officials said the latest Atlas explosion might affect the nation's long range ICBM program—possibly a shift to the newer Titan ICBM for manning some missile squadrons next year—if investigation shows serious flaws in the Atlas.

The Titan is scheduled to be ready for combat use in May, 1960. The maximum range of both the Atlas and Titan is 6,300 statute miles or more. Both cost about 2 million dollars each to build.

The Atlas has made only one full range flight of 6,300 miles.

Saturday's Atlas was of the combat type, believed developed to the point that it might be deployed to troops at ICBM bases by July. It was the third straight "operational" type Atlas to blow up within moments after blast-off on attempts to propel its nose cone 5,000 miles at a peak 16,000 mile per hour speed.

The blowup came after the Atlas' two booster engines quit 90 seconds after blastoff. In a successful test, the boosters would

Groom Killed Speeding To His Wedding

HUNTINGTON, Ind. (UPI) —A young bridegroom and his best man brother were killed in a car crash Saturday while they were rushing to a wedding three miles away.

Donald Henry Stoffel, 23, Huntington, and his brother, Bernard, 20, were killed less than a half hour before Donald was to have married Nancy Leigh Doepker, Roanoke, at St. Catherine's Roman Catholic Church.

The brothers were driving to the church where the wedding was to begin at 11 a.m. The accident occurred, police said at 10:35 a.m.

Miss Doepker was waiting at the church, along with a priest and relatives and friends of the couple. She went to Huntington County Hospital with Mrs. Agnes Stoffel, mother of the two brothers.

Donald died within 15 minutes after admission to the hospital. Bernard was killed outright.

The bride was grief stricken and near collapse, officials said.

Donald graduated from Purdue University last week

FOUR OTHERS INJURED

Children Die As Bolt Hits

NEW YORK (UPI)—A flash of lightning during a freak rainstorm struck a family of six when they took refuge under an oak tree in crowded Central Park Saturday. Two children were killed and the four other persons were injured.

The lightning flash split the sky shortly before 4 p.m., EST, only about a block from the Central Park zoo, which was filled with a Saturday afternoon crowd of adults and children seeking relief from a June heat wave.

The tragedy occurred only a short distance from the expensive towering apartment houses that line Fifth Ave.

Thousands of persons were milling about the park when the storm suddenly struck. Police said no one was aware that the lightning flash hit the family, although about 300 persons were in the immediate vicinity.

Later, Martin Polinski reported to police that he saw the lightning strike. He said he took refuge under the big oak tree but left when the family rushed up.

Polinski said he ran to the next tree moments

ON PINBALL RACKETEERING

Probers To Quiz Gangland Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Rackets Committee expects to get its first look next week at the reputed new Chicago underworld leader who had been sought for more than a year.

The alleged gangland bigshot, Mooney Giancana, was scheduled for questioning in connection with the current investigation of juke box and pinball racketeering in Lake County, Ind., near Chicago.

According to testimony heard this week, a syndicate headed by Giancana spread out from Chicago into the steel mill towns of Lake County during Metro Holovachka's regime as county prosecutor.

OF CAPONE ERA

A committee spokesman said Giancana is now regarded as either the number one or two man in the shifting hierarchy of the old Capone mob. The committee had been on his trail for months before a subpena-server finally caught up with him in Las Vegas, Nev., recently.

Virtually all the other notorious Capone gang survivors as well as the top echelon of newcomers al-

Jordan, Syria Close Border After Clash

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)— The border between the Arab states of Jordan and Syria was closed to all traffic Saturday in the wake of a series of quarrels and at least one frontier clash.

There has been tension between Jordan and Syria, now a part of the United Arab Republic with Egypt, since the spring of 1957 when Jordan's King Hussein charged Syria was backing an attempt to topple his throne.

Jordanian officials said Saturday in Amman that Syria sealed the border. But dispatches from Damascus insisted Jordan blocked the frontier.

Jordan said it has reported the closing to the United Nations representative at Amman, the Jordanian capital.

An increase in Jordan's border guard force.

Refusal of Jordan's officials to

FROM TENSAS RIVER

Drowning Victim's Body Is Recovered

JONESBORO (Special)—Rescue squad workers and volunteers yesterday recovered the body of Hampton E. Aldy of Jonesboro from the Tensas River, after six hours of dragging operations.

The man drowned late Friday night after he and his son, Roy Aldy, 30, had set a trotline and were returning to camp, the son said.

Heavy clothes apparently handicapped the victim, his son added, because the body did not surface.

Dr. Charles Passman, Catahoula Parish coroner, rendered a verdict of accidental drowning.

Mr. Aldy was a lifelong resident of Jackson Parish.

Funeral services are tentatively set for Wednesday, pending arrival of several out of state relatives. The Revs. John Horn and Irvin DeWitt will officiate at the services, and interment will be in the Antioch Presbyterian Church, under the direction of Southern Funeral Home.

The body will lie in state in the funeral home chapel until time for services.

Mr. Aldy is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mae Aldy, Jonesboro; four daughters, Mrs. Pauline Turner, Crowder, Miss.; Mrs. Lilly Woods, Crowley; Mrs. Delores Jones, Yakimo, Wash., and Mrs. Urie Shubert, Pine Bluff Ark.; six sons, Chester, Charles, and Roy Aldy, all of Jonesboro; Orren Aldy, Toledo, Ore.; Billy Aldy, Crowder, Miss., and Stanley Aldy, Pine Bluff, Ark.; five sisters, Mrs. Sally Whitman, Hodge; Mrs. Ode Norred, Houston, Tex.; Mrs. Mazie Watts, Oak Grove; Mrs. Pinkey Porter, Hodge, and Mrs. Mattie Cotton, Monroe; five brothers, Joe Aldy, Goldonna, Tex.; Griffin Aldy Quitman; Robert Aldy, Jonesboro; Lonny Aldy, Chatham, and Virgil Aldy, Yackimo, Wash.; 37 grandchildren, and five great - grandchildren

Role Of Air Force, Army Under Study

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy returned from Geneva Saturday ready to crack down on the angry Army - Air Force missile row which has been plaguing the Pentagon.

His chief weapon for settling the dispute is an air defense "master plan" which he will submit to Congress later this month. It will spell out for each service its role in defending the nation against possible enemy bomber attack.

McElroy confirmed that the plan will advocate use of both the Army's Nike-Hercules and the Air Force's Bomarc as defense missiles.

CHIEFS DISAGREE

He also acknowledged that the Joint Chiefs of Staff which prepared a rough draft of the plan for his study, still were in disagreement on some issues. He said, however, that they were not far apart on the main policies and indicated he should have little trouble ironing out final details in the next few weeks.

MsElroy disclosed that the master plan had been sent to him in Geneva where he was serving as an adviser to Secretary of State Christian A. Herter at the Big Four Foreign Ministers Conference on Germany. He said he went over the plan both at Geneva and on his plane flight home.

Before leaving for Geneva, McElroy had issued blunt orders to the two services to stop their public bickering. He said they were alienating "our good friends in Congress." He had conferred on the controversy with President Eisenhower.

The acid dispute has been growing in recent months with the Air Force deprecating the Army's Hercules missile and the Army scoffing at the Bomarc as a defense weapon.

Air Force spokesmen stress the Bomarc has a range of from 200 to 400 miles compared to the Hercules' 80 and claim their weapon can be triggered faster should hostile bombers approach.

The Army argues that the Bomarc is too expensive, that it's still in the production stage and would prove inaccurate.

Confusion over the rival claims has already been reflected in Con-

Long Is Friendly To Psychiatric Ward Patients

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Louisiana Gov. Earl K. Long was described by a John Sealy Hospital spokesman Saturday as friendly with other patients in the psychiatric section.

Long, under treatement for mental illness, visits and talks with other patients, Daniel Bobbit, director of hospitals at John Sealy, said.

Bobbit said Long is free to move about on the floor where he has been confined several days.

"They have a room —you might call it a recreation room—on the floor where patients are allowed to go and Gov. Long goes there every day," he said.

A bulletin issued at the hospital described Long's condition as "approximately the same. His condition is unchanged since his arrival (on May 30). He rested fairly well last night."

Giancana will have his day in the witness chair after the committee has a delayed showdown with Holovachka, who has denounced the Lake County inquiry as a "political smear" and a "lot of poppycock."

Holovachka, now chief deputy prosecutor, complained bitterly when his scheduled appearance Friday was postponed until Monday because of the illness of Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.).

He represented himself to newsmen as anxious to defend himself against charges his office gave aid and comfort to a pinball gambling operation that allegedly flourished in the county.

Holovachka's protests caused the committee to make public Saturday a telegram which McClellan, who has been indisposed with a virus condition, sent to him last Monday.

The wire said Holovachka had failed to attend a conference his attorney arranged with committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy and "you therefore leave us no opportunity except to proceed without your cooperation."

Injured in the other car were George K. Slater, 60, and his son, Robert W., 17, Decatur, Ga. Both were hurt seriously.

Bernard was killed outright, his body pinned in the wreckage. Donald died of a skull fracture 15 minutes after admission to Huntington County Hospital.

Wedding guests were stunned when word reached the church. Some went to the scene and wept as they viewed the twisted debris.

Probate Judge Hugh Gibson set the hearing date Friday and appointed three lawyers to represent Long. He said the hearing is "for the best interests of Earl K. Long as a mentally ill patient."

The governor's wife, Mrs. Blanche Long, and his cousin, Dr. Arthur Long, had previously filed a petition seeking a committment for him not to exceed 90 days.

Attorneys Adrian Levy Sr., former Galveston mayor; Jean Hosey, former state representative, and Fine Bedford will represent Long at the hearing.

The judge said Long could have any lawyer he wants at the hearing. He said he made the appointments because he had not heard from the governor or his family on the matter.

So did Sixty Rayburn, Long's senate leader. Incidentally, other Long leaders, such as Sen. Bill Cleveland of Crowley, got hot under the collar when Rayburn leaked the word to the press that he may be drafted to head the Long party.

Rayburn said he attended a private meeting of Long people and was asked to take over if Earl didn't return.

But reporters were unable to find anybody who attended other than Rayburn. Those who didn't go were Cleveland, Sen. Sammy Downs, House Speaker Robert Angelle, Rep. Sam Cashio and Rep. Ben Holt, all Long strongmen.

As chairman of the senate finance committee, he has been the strongest man in the legislature.

Rayburn made a lot of people mad when his committee chopped down the appropriation tree. The anti- Rayburn feeling reached a climax in the house late Thursday afternoon when Rep. Richard Bertrand called Rayburn a "fly-weight" candidate for governor.

FORCES CRUMBLE

With Long away, his forces practically have crumbled. There has been no leadership whatsoever.

Ben Holt, who handles the administration's controversial legislation says he's not running again.

And Russell Long made everybody mad when he turned his appearance before a joint session last Sunday night into a dramatic performance.

However, if Earl Long can't run for governor, Russell is being considered as the logical horse to represent the Longs in the race.

But the interesting thing hasn't happened yet. That'll come when Earl returns to take care of those who haven't behaved during his absence.

LOADED QUESTIONS

It was interesting to watch the reporters from the magazines. They took enough pictures to fill an entire edition and asked enough questions to write a book.

Incidentially, their questions were loaded.

Their reception was cool, mainly because of the anti-south views of their publications. However, there were some eager to help, Wade O. Martin Jr., for instance.

IN THE CORRIDORS

Interesting political races are shaping up in Ouachita. Jim Sparks and Gilbert Faulk not likely to run . . Lawrence Gibbs may run for the senate. . others looking toward the senate include Fred Huenefeld Jr. and Jamar Adcock . . . Jake Ussery has eye on the House . . in Franklin Parish, Rudolph McIntyre is running for district attorney . . . . Rep. Ashton B. Collier, Winn, is stepping down . . . fed up . . running for sheriff. All other northeast Louisiana delegates running again . . . and a complex situation is shaping up in Baton Rouge with education and labor doing much lobbying together, where does that leave laborman Bill Dodd and educationman Shelby Jackson in the upcoming gubernatorial campaign. . . There are some who say Shelby definitely is running . . . A late comer who may get into the race is Shreveport Mayor Clyde Fant.

TOURIST VISITS RISE

LONDON (UPI)—American Express predicts that nearly a million Americans will be visiting Britain annually 10 years from now. Last year more than 325,000 Americans toured the country and this year the figure is expected to be close to 360,000, an agency spokesman said.

Black Eye Dealt Louisiana; Worst In Two Decades

ly stepped into the gubernatorial spotlight.

So did Sixty Rayburn, Long's senate leader. Incidentally, other Long leaders, such as Sen. Bill Cleveland of Crowley, got hot under the collar when Rayburn leaked the word to the press that he may be drafted to head the Long party.

Rayburn said he attended a private meeting of Long people and was asked to take over if Earl didn't return.

But reporters were unable to find anybody who attended other than Rayburn. Those who didn't go were Cleveland, Sen. Sammy Downs, House Speaker Robert Angelle, Rep. Sam Cashio and Rep. Ben Holt, all Long strongmen.

As chairman of the senate finance committee, he has been the strongest man in the legislature.

Rayburn made a lot of people mad when his committee chopped down the appropriation tree. The anti- Rayburn feeling reached a climax in the house late Thursday afternoon when Rep. Richard Bertrand called Rayburn a "fly-weight" candidate for governor.

FORCES CRUMBLE

With Long away, his forces practically have crumbled. There has been no leadership whatsoever.

Ben Holt, who handles the administration's controversial legislation says he's not running again.

And Russell Long made everybody mad when he turned his appearance before a joint session last Sunday night into a dramatic performance.

However, if Earl Long can't run for governor, Russell is being considered as the logical horse to represent the Longs in the race.

But the interesting thing hasn't happened yet. That'll come when Earl returns to take care of those who haven't behaved during his absence.

LOADED QUESTIONS

It was interesting to watch the reporters from the magazines. They took enough pictures to fill an entire edition and asked enough questions to write a book.

Incidentially, their questions were loaded.

Their reception was cool, mainly because of the anti-south views of their publications. However, there were some eager to help, Wade O. Martin Jr., for instance.

IN THE CORRIDORS

Interesting political races are shaping up in Ouachita. Jim Sparks and Gilbert Faulk not likely to run . . Lawrence Gibbs may run for the senate. . others looking toward the senate include Fred Huenefeld Jr. and Jamar Adcock . . . Jake Ussery has eye on the House . . in Franklin Parish, Rudolph McIntyre is running for district attorney . . . . Rep. Ashton B. Collier, Winn, is stepping down . . . fed up . . running for sheriff. All other northeast Louisiana delegates running again . . . and a complex situation is shaping up in Baton Rouge with education and labor doing much lobbying together, where does that leave laborman Bill Dodd and educationman Shelby Jackson in the upcoming gubernatorial campaign. . . There are some who say Shelby definitely is running . . . A late comer who may get into the race is Shreveport Mayor Clyde Fant.

Meetings Set To Explain Cheniere

Two meetings will be held during the coming week to explain the proposed purchase of Cheniere Lake. The meetings, scheduled at Sterlington Tuesday at 8:15 at Milstead's cafe and Thursday night at 7:30 at Union Church in Bosco, will be sponsored by the Ouachita parish Wildlife unit.

Wildlife President Jack Rushing said huge maps showing details of the lake will be displayed and any questions asked will be answered.

"There are many enthusiastic supporters of the lake purchase in Sterlington and Bosco, but we want to reach those who do not fully understand the importance of preservation of Cheniere for future benefits," Rushing said.

"We want to issue a special appeal to those persons who feel they do not fully understand the proposition," Rushing declared.

The Cheniere Lake proposition will be submitted to the voters of Ouachita parish June 23. Voters will decide whether a half mill tax will be levied to purchase the lake and maintain it as a recreation, fishing and sports area.

Of the total millage proposed .4 mill would be levied for five years to finance the purchase of 3,289 - acre lake from Dixie Lumber Co. for $150,000. The other .1 of a mill would be authorized for perpetual maintenance on the lake.

Many persons have asked whether ample public - owned area exists on the lake to accomodate the dockage needs of sportsmen and fishermen, Rushing said. "There will be plenty of dock areas and recreational park grounds on the lake including some that will go with the purchase of the lake," Rushing said.

"Any of these questions that may be in the mind of the public will be answered at any of the meetings we hold," according to Rushing. "What we want most to do is get people to come out and get accurate information on this proposition," he declared.

FAIR Will Be Explained In LaSalle

The Castor Creek Sportsmen's Club, of LaSalle parish, will hold a meeting Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Legion Hall in Olla where E. A. (Buddy) Freeman, manager of the forest department of Olin Mathiesin Chemical Corporation, will explain the establishment of a 400.000 acre recreation area in Olin Mathieson forest lands between Winnfield and Monroe.

In addition to Freeman, other representatives from Olin Mathieson attending the meeting will be A. B. Smith, conservation forester and J. S. Triche, area wood procurement superintendent.

A. S. (Buddy) Tidwell, firse vice-president of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation, will attend from Monroe.

Castor Creek Sportsmen's Club President, Clifton Barton, urged anyone in that area who is interested in the program to be on hand for the meeting Friday night.

The program, designated FAIR (Federation and Industrial Recreation), has already been officially set in motion and will be fully implemented in the next few months.

The FAIR program between Monroe and Winnfield was conceived as a pilot program to test the feasibility of utilizing vast private owned acreage to serve the public recreation needs.

It is reported that many large landowners throughout the United States are watching the progress of FAIR and its potential value, both to the public and landowners.

Fate Of Nine Is Baffling To Experts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Department experts were as baffled as everyone Saturday by the mystery of what happened to a World War II B-24 bomber found this week in the Sahara desert.

Department spokesmen saw little hope that an on-the-spot investigation being carried out in North Africa will shed light on the fate of the nine - man crew missing since April 4, 1943, after a bombing raid on Naples, Italy.

All nine were first listed as missing at the time, then later "presumed dead."

An Air Force spokesman acknowledged that authorities here are in almost total ignorance of the situation. They were able to list the nine airmen and their next of kin but have no details on the investigation that is now going on in the remote reaches of the Sahara.

Next of kin greeted news with puzzlement but little optimism that any of the men are still alive.

They recalled the wartime careers of the airmen and the tragic days when they were notified their sons and brothers were missing. But none had any answer to what happened on that fateful mission 16 years ago.

The Defense Department said a two - man team for the Army Mortuary Service at Frankfurt, Germany, was assigned on May 11 to investigate.

Air Force planes have flown over this site where the virtually undamaged plane was found and have taken photographs. A land expedition is heading for the spot 185 miles north-northeast of the Kufra Oasis.

The bomber was found by a geologist. The tail assembly had broken off but the radio was in working order and bottles of water which would be essential for desert travel were full.

But there was no trace of the crewmen.

There was some speculation that the airmen might have bailed out over the Mediterranean enroute back to their North African base. But experts voiced astonishment that an unmanned plane could remain aloft any distance and land with no great damage.

The Petagon said the crew of the B-24 and the next of kin, as shown by 1943 records, were:

Vogel Named To New Post At Northeast

Dr. Fred J. Vogel has been named Dean of Student Services at Northeast Louisiana State College, President George T. Walker has announced.

The appointment is a new post at the college, approved by the State Board of Education, effective July 1.

The new dean will have general direction of all student affairs, including the registrar's office, the dean of men and women, dormitories, testing and guidance, student placement and the infirmary.

He comes from Daytona Beach (Florida) Junior College where he held a similar position as dean of student services. Dean Vogel has taught in Louisiana high schools, was employed in Baptist Student Union work in Louisiana and Arkansas, and has experience in directing student activities in Florida.

A 1932 graduate of Fortier High School in New Orleans, he earned a B. A. degree from Louisiana State University in 1936 and an M. A. degree there in 1951. He received his doctorate from Florida State University in 1958, majoring in student personnel and administration.

During 1936-37 and from 1938-43, he was teacher, coach and principal in high schools of Ascension and Lafourche Parishes.

In World War II, he served three years in the U. S. Navy as an air navigator and instructor, air pilot officer, U. S. S. Independence, and was the officer-in-charge of Link Training. He was discharged with the rank of lieutenant.

For three years, he was the Baptist Student Union Secretary at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute during the period following his discharge from the armed forces, and the following year he was State Baptist Student Union secretary at Little Rock, Ark.

From 1952 to 1957, he was dormitory counselor and director of the student activity program, Florida State University, Tallahassee.

Mrs. Vogel is the former Nell Varnado of Baton Rouge.

Chaos Reigns To South Of U.S. Border

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Latin America has a fever. As its people meet the modern world headon, the impact is producing confusion, shock, high temperature, often violence.

During the past week the lands south of the United States have been dotted with eruptions, ranging from hotheaded student rioting in Ecuador to outright political rebellion in Nicaragua. Political discontent and economic and labor unrest showed through from the Caribbean to Cape Horn.

These were the main fever points:

NICARAGUA — A conservative-liberal coalition of opponents to President Luis Somoza's dictatorship sent two planeloads of invaders from neighboring Costa Rica early in the week. The government claims they are on the run, but the rebels say they are setting up positions in the hills and attracting local supporters to start a guerrilla war modeled after Fidel Castro's successful fight against dictator Fulgencio Batista in Cuba.

Somoza's government has doubled the strength of its army, already the best in the area; ordered a wave of arrests, and canceled import licenses for several businessmen who joined a brief general strike.

ECUADOR—Students in Guayaquil rioted Tuesday against a police order banning a rally. President Camilo Ponce decreed martial law throughout the country. On Wednesday thugs and looters took to the Guayaquil streets. The toll was 24 dead and 150 injured. About 450 persons were arrested.

There appeared to be little political significance to the rioting, although the government claimed Communists tried to exploit it. A local grievance started the riots. Late last month at Porto Viejo, a young army recruit got mad at his captain, shot at him and mistakenly thought he had killed the officer. The recruit committed suicide. A riot broke out at his funeral, a mob lynched the captain and two students in the mob were killed. This sparked the Guayaquil student demonstration.

PARAGUAY —Student disorders forced dictator-President Alfredo Stroessner to reimpose a state of siege and dissolve the House of Representatives. Some prominent leaders of his ruling Colorado party were arrested. On Wednesday, political party groups roamed the streets of Asuncion, the capital, shouting slogans for and against Storessner. New demonstrations were called off after student and party leaders warned their followers to lay low because of the heavy police guards.

College Student Suffers Burns In Explosion

A Northeast State College football player is in Wright - Bendel clinic with serious burns on his face and right hand, following a gasoline explosion at his home.

John McClindon, 1003 McGuire, who will enter his senior year at Northeast this fall, reported to have suffered the burns when he lit a match to burn some trash in a can in his backyard.

Fumes from gasoline - soaked rags used for cleaning a fan ignited with the flaming match which he held in his hand. and the can's contents exploded Friday night, according to reports.

His wife rushed him to the clinic, where he is under treatment for third degree burns of the nose, cheeks and hand.

FORMERLY LA. VILLAGE

Grambling Now Known As Town

GRAMBLING (Special) — An official gubernatorial proclamation has re - classified the "Village of Grambling" into the Town of Grambling, according to an announced yesterday from Grambling Mayor B. T. Woodard.

Incorporated first in 1904 with an official population of 734, the rapidly growing all - Negro community now boasts an official population of 3,228 persons. An ordinance adopting the new classification for the town was passed unanimously by the Board of Alderman in a meeting June 4, Woodard said.

Grambling, one of the few all-Negro incorporated towns in the nation, has witnessed tremendous physical growth during the past few years. A recent survey shows that an average of 20 permanent dwelling units are added annually.

Two private construction programs in the north section of the town have added over 30 homes and rental units valued in excess of $300,000.00. Several smaller housing development tracks are also in operation while many individual families also have homes under construction.

In its recent meeting, the Board of Aldermen authorized the letting of bids for a police car and during recent months it has been very active with such matters as street lights, sidewalks, town water system, gas, and good roads.

BUSINESS

With a school population of approximately 3,000 persons for nine months of each year, the 30 local business establishments in the town are expected to increase in number also.

Two organizations active in promoting the growth and development of the town are the Grambling Improvement Association and the Federal Credit Union.

The improvement association is working on such matters as attracting industry to the community, developing a shopping center, and aiding housing developers.

The Federal Credit Union organized in 1950 with 10 members now has over 400 members with assets totaling more than $50,000.

Members of the official family of the Town of Grambling are B. T. Woodard, mayor; aldermen Roy B. Moss, Wallace E. Downs and Fred Ellis; W. L. Garner, clerk, Elzie Turner, street commissioner, Frederick M. Lloyd, inspector. and Levis Jackson, marshal.

Some of the town projects under immediate consideration are the erection of a city hall and fire station, the extension of the ssewerage system and water mains to new homes, and developing the town playground.

U.S. Labor Force Jump Is Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The size of the American labor force will increase to 95 million in 1975, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said Saturday.

He based the forecast on a study of population and labor force trends prepared by the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The study showed the present labor force — about 70 million workers—will expand to 80 million by 1965 and to 95 million in the following decade.

It indicated that part - time workers will become more common in the years ahead because of the greater number of women and youngsters in the labor force.

The number of part-time jobs has increased 40 per cent in the last 10 years while the number of full-time workers rose only 10 per cent during the same time.

This trend is expected to continue because of the increasing number of job openings in stores and service industries where women have held a dominant role. They prefer to work on a part-time basis.

In the first detailed forecast of the labor force in the 1965-75 decade, the department's manpower experts predicted:

Young workers will continue to make up a sizable part of the additional 15 million persons joining in the quest for jobs.

Increased competition for starting jobs seems assured because of the expected large numbers of inexperienced workers.

Mitchell has long contended that the anticipated growth in the labor force and the relative scarcity of trained, adult males would force the nation's employers to stop discriminating against Negroes, women and older workers.

His theory is that economic necessity would force the use of members of minority groups to produce enough goods for the mushrooming population.

He has also advocated greater emphasis on training of skilled workers to prevent a shortage in the '60's.

FORMERLY LA. VILLAGE

Grambling Now Known As Town

GRAMBLING (Special) — An official gubernatorial proclamation has re - classified the "Village of Grambling" into the Town of Grambling, according to an announced yesterday from Grambling Mayor B. T. Woodard.

Incorporated first in 1934 with an official population of 734, the rapidly growing all - Negro community now boasts an official population of 3,228 persons. An ordinance adopting the new classification for the town was passed unanimously by the Board of Alderman in a meeting June 4, Woodard said.

Grambling, one of the few all-Negro incorporated towns in the nation, has witnessed tremendous physical growth during the past few years. A recent survey shows that an average of 20 permanent dwelling units are added annually.

Two private construction programs in the north section of the town have added over 30 homes and rental units valued in excess of $300,000.00. Several smaller housing development tracks are also in operation while many individual families also have homes under construction.

In its recent meeting, the Board of Aldermen authorized the letting of bids for a police car and during recent months it has been very active with such matters as street lights, sidewalks, town water system, gas, and good roads.

BUSINESS

With a school population of approximately 3,000 persons for nine months of each year, the 30 local business establishments in the town are expected to increase in number also.

Two organizations active in promoting the growth and development of the town are the Grambling Improvement Association and the Federal Credit Union.

The improvement association is working on such matters as attracting industry to the community, developing a shopping center, and aiding housing developers.

The Federal Credit Union organized in 1950 with 10 members now has over 400 members with assets totaling more than $50,000.

Members of the official family of the Town of Grambling are B. T. Woodard, mayor; aldermen Roy B. Moss, Wallace E. Downs and Fred Ellis; W. L. Garner, clerk, Elzie Turner, street commissioner, Frederick M. Lloyd, inspector. and Levis Jackson, marshal.

Some of the town projects under immediate consideration are the erection of a city hall and fire station, the extension of the ssewerage system and water mains to new homes, and developing the town playground.

POLICE BLOTTER

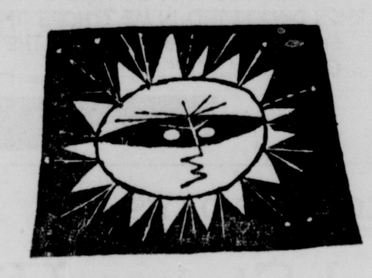

JAILED

A 50-year-old Negro was jailed on theft charges yesterday authorities said, after an auto transmission was stolen from Reed's Body Shop, 1412 DeSiard.

Robert Foster, 132 Hippmarks Alley, was taken in custody by Monroe police in the 1200 block of DeSiard Street and bond was set at $100.

ESCAPE

Charles Edward Lightsey, 19 of Fairbanks, walked off from the city jail yesterday, while he was acting as a trusty, police said. He was charged with simple escape.

Memorial To Dulles

Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.) has suggested that a stepped-up federal aid to cancer research would serve as a fitting memorial to the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. No better way to recognize Mr. Dulles' great contributions to humanity's welfare, through the medium of peace, could be found.

With this, we are sure, anyone with any knowledge of this devastating killer will agree. Since there is hardly a family in the nation in which there has not been a death from this ailment and since most families have lost many friends through this scourge, those who would agree would include practically everyone.

There is no doubt that one day medical skill will pinpoint the cause of cancer and find both a preventive and a cure. This is an absolute certainty. The only question is when it will happen.

The search is going on constantly, every hour of the day and night, in the laboratories of hospitals, universities and leading pharmaceutical establishments around the world. So many dedicated men and women in the rank's of medicine are engaged in this single task that failure is impossible.

Until victory comes, the seeking must continue. There is no lack of human dedication to the task, no shortage of inquisitive medical minds and no lack of opportunity for exhaustive tests. It is a crusade in which many of the leading minds of the profession, which itself has lost many of its members to the malignancy, are engaged.

What cancer research lacks most is money with which to hasten the conquest and victory. Prominent cancer victims in and out of congress, are urging the government to engage in a "crash" program, calling for redoubling of its research efforts. A senate appropriations subcommittee is considering the budget estimates for that purpose during the fiscal year starting July 1.

This is a proposed appropriation to which there probably would be little public objection, since it would be for a cause in which everyone it vitally and personally interested.

A factor that is expected to speed up cancer research and the expenditure of funds for that purpose is the changed public and private attitude toward publicity. Until comparatively recent years, cancer was considered a hush-hush subject and was seldom mentioned as a cause of death, with the result that the public was not fully aware of its devastation. Now it is prominently discussed when the nation's most prominent figures, such as Mr. Dulles, are affected. This public attention, plus additional funds, has greatly intensified the campaign for medicines that will both prevent and cure.

The budget estimate for the Cancer Institute, operated by the National Institute of Health, is a little more than $75 million. The house increased the total by $8 million. Doubtless much more could be used wisely in a stepped-up program.

Billions are being expended annually by the United States to promote the material and cultural progress of the world's people and for their protection against aggression, yet humanity has no enemy more insidious nor monstrous than cancer. Balanced against contributions for other purposes, the amount of money appropriated annually for cancer research is a pittance.

For the sake of every cancer sufferer and every future victim, congress would do well to heed the advocates of a greater research program.

'In Loco Parentis'

One of the difficulties of administering "in loco parentis" has been demonstraed in a Memphis high school. Similiar problems have arisen and will continue to arise in other schools.

In case anyone dosen't know (and who does?), "in loco parentis" is defined as meaning "the right of a teacher to administer discipline instead of a parent."

The Memphis trouble arose after a 17-year-old boy was given a whipping and when the boy's father brought suit against the school principal and two high school teachers.

According to the youth, his whipping resulted from a misunderstanding between the two teachers. He contended that one of the teachers had given him permission to leave his home room and that he was whipped because the other teacher did not know this permission had been granted.

The boy's father charged that the youth was beaten on the lower part of his body and on the left hand and arm with a stick and that a $50 watch was broken when the boy attempted to fend off the blows. He asserted his son was humiliated and embarrassed because the whipping was administered in the presence of other students and that he was bruised and sore from the punishment.

Teacher consultation before administering whippings and the presence of other teachers at the time of the whippings would be the best approach to ward off suits. A whipping is still the best form of punishment for unruly students.

TVA Buying Abroad

Defending its purchase abroad of one big item and its proposal to make other foreign purchases, Tennessee Valley Authority cited identical bids by American firms and disproportionate increases in prices.

Last February, TVA bought a 500,000 - watt turbogenerator in England at a cost of $12,095,800 delivered, which it said was about $6 million lower than the American bids.

TVA also said it had for some time "been disturbed by the rising prices of turbogenerators," pointing out that since 1951, the machines made by three American firms have increased by more than 50 per cent, while the average wholesale price of all commodities increased about five per cent.

If the American concerns hoped, by collusion and identical bidding, to eliminate competition and thus obtain disproportionately high prices, they would seem to have little reason to blame TVA for buying abroad. They should remember that "competition is the life of trade."

However, it seems that the high cost of goods in this country has been brought on by the continuing demands of labor bosses for higher and higher wages, even when an increase is not normally justified.

Then, too, the TVA is just another power project that is using up taxpayers' funds at a terrific rate.

It Makes A Big Difference

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAY'S

United States Highest In Funds For Education

The Financing of Education

It has become customary for American visitors to Soviet Russia on their return to the United States to speak of how much the Russians spend on education and how little the United States spends. If we take the figures, the United States spends more on education than any people on earth.

But we are a free people. Our universities are not government institutions, preaching a doctrine which is favored by those who are temporarily in power. We have throughout our history preferred to pay for ou own education, paticularly on the college and university level. There are also some excellent state colleges and universities.

I have before me some figures which I believe to be reliably compiled, which show that for the year 1957-8, colleges and universities, private and state, had an income of $3,579,730,565. Of this enormous amount $904,328,867 or about 25 per cent came from tuitions and fees; $1,751,703,096 came from support of various governments, mostly state but including special federal contractual arrangements. This came to about 49 per cent of the total. Other sources were gifts and grants, endowment earnings, etc. Endowment earnings upon which the better institutions depended in the past, amounted to only 4.6 per cent of the total, which is very small indeed.

The Council for Financial Aid to Education estimates that for the year 1969-70, education will require about $9 billion, because of the increasing population and the higher cost of everything. The figure may mean something or nothing depending upon the value of our currency. If, for instance, the American dollar at that time is worth 24 cents, $7 billion plus will be of the same value as the figures for 1957-58. Comparative figures involving currency always have to be recalculated on the basis of the value of currency at different times.

However we look at it, the cost of higher education will increase and it is not expected that tuition fees will pay for it. At best, the student pays about 25 per cent of the cost of his education. Even this amount comes high in the family budget. When two or three children in a family are at college at the same time, the load could be unbearable. This is particularly true if the better students are involved. For they will take an additional course or seminar, stay longer at college to get an M.A. or a Ph.D. or go to a professional school.

The heavy load that capable students carry at the better colleges precludes any serious outside work. Of course, students who take phony courses have plenty of time to do outside work. And there are always plenty of phony courses and plenty of phony students. But as the cost of education rises and the need for smart boys and girls grows increasingly urgent, there will be increasingly less room for the phony student at college. Usually, he will be dropped by the sophomore year. In fact, it is an economic waste to keep even a C student at college; as for those who average under C, there is no justification for keeping a chair warm for him or her. Certainly with education costing what it does, only very rich parents and very badly administered colleges will bother with dopes.

American faculties are not always of the soundest. A professor who marks favorably because a student agrees with his point of view in courses which involve analysis and interpretation is an intellectual robber. Too many independent students are marked down, particularly in the social science courses, because they reach different conclusions from the instructors, although their own conclusions give evidence of hard work, a knowledge of the subject and a capacity to think. Really smart students, while holding independent views, repeat the instructor's conclusions although regarding them as erroneous.

Such students have been taught that to advance in this world, one must flatter and lie. It is a very bad business. Truly great men do not need flattery or agreement. They appreciate originality.

What must come, during the next decade, is a complete reorientation of our system of university education so that it prepares the mind of the student for honest and original thinking. Some of the so-called disciplines may disappear as fruitless plays on words. More and more the university will be a place to acquire knowledge and the skill to use it and less and less a social center.

Congested Court Relief Proposed

Some additional light is thrown upon the live topic of congestion of dockets in Federal courts in a field study of operations of United States Courts just completed by Paul J. Cotter, an able staff member of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Some of Cotter's conclusions on methods to remedy the conditions are open to question. He could rely too much on administrative control from Washington ad his cures could go a long distance in the direction of destroying the autonomy of the district judges. which is a basic philosophy of our Federal court system.

But the Cotter study is a conscientious, objective one. Its great value is that it does not convincingly show that people cannot get speedy justice in certain Federal courts; that sometimes cases pend for years and that somethimg must be done about it.

There are wide differences in the way the judges in the 86 Federal district courts conduct their business. For instance in the Court which last year terminated most civil cases per judge (Eastern Louisiana, 594 per judge), Cotter found that trial of the average case could be obtained in substantially shorter time than in the court which terminated the fewest cases per judge (Delaware, 46.)

Delaware is a three-judge court, It also has two active retired judges. It has the lightest case load of any of the 86 Federal court districts. However, Delaware is the center of many great corporations and a very large number of the cases are complicated. Median time between trial and issue in the Delaware Federal court on civil cases actually tried in the fiscal year 1958 was 14.4 months as compared with the national median of 8.9 months.

In the Eastern Louisiana two - judge court, which sits in New Orleans and Baton Rouge, one judge takes all odd - numbered cases, the other all even - numbered ones. The judge responsible then sends out a notice of pretrial as soon as he can, and at pretrial the case is set for trial if it is not settled.

About 75 per cent of the cases in this Louisiana district are dismissed or settled at pretrial. Only about six per cent of the civil cases go to trial. The median time in fiscal 1958 was 13.2 months.

There were great differences in districts within States, even where the district's basic conditions were similar. In the Northern District of Texas, a three - judge court, the medium time between issue and trial of civil cases in 1958 was 4.7 months. In the four judge Southern District of Texas it was 7.6 months per case.

One reason for the quicker trials in the two Texas Courts were that private civil cases in the Northern District dropped off 71 per cent a 56 per cent in the Southern district. This was due to the new law which removes most workmen's compensation cases from federal courts.

Actually this new law passed by Congress and signed by President Eisenhower in August, 1958, has eased the federal court jam in all 86 districts. The law amended the United States Code by increasing to $10,000 from $3,000 the amount that must be in controversy in civil actions between citizens of different States to have the case heard in Federal rather than a State Court.

Chief Justice Warren has suggested that a way be found to transfer even more diversity cases from Federal to State Courts.

The Senate report by Cotter points a finger at a six - judge Federal court in Brookland. New York, as a "shocking example." This Brooklyn court, on a average, requires more than four years to dispose of a civil case from filing to trial. Some cases had been on the docket for seven years and, the report said, some of the Brooklyn judges are understood to spend "little more than an hour or an hour - and - half on the bench per day."

SHOOT 'EM-UPS HIT

Monroe, La.

With reference to your editorial, Morning World, May 13th, regarding juvenile delinquency, I do appreciate your interest and effort to combat the ever increasing crimes committed by juveniles. However, you overlooked or failed to include the main cause, or at least 90 percent cause-the ever increasing western pictures (shoot em-up-tony) shown on TV as well as picture shows. If the pictures would confine to bang-bang and leave off the big fisticuff rough stuff together with display of liquors and gambling with cards! It is my opinion the entire mess is very un-godly, and should be off the air definitely. The young minds fall for and absorb the rough stuff and go out to try to improve the killings-"Wow."

I have spoken against this kind of entertainment, but unfortunately, we have a very large percent of adults who would far rather watch such programs than a program of wholesome cultured entertainment.

We have had TV for 6-8 years. Just compare juvenile delinquency prior to then and today-an increase of at least 500 percent. How about that?

I do hope I make myself clear to you and readers.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Testimony Ends On Civil Rights

Three months of testimony on Civil Rights legislation have closed here. Those three months produced rafts of cold, legal logic, hurricanes of cliches and some throbbing human emotion.

Hearings in the Senate and House pitted virtually all the liberal spokesmen against the heaviest guns the South could muster in its effort to stave off new Federal integration laws.

How much effect either side had will be seen within a few weeks. Chairman Emanuel Celler (D.) N. Y., of the House Civil Rights subcommittee has promised to report out a civil rights bill — probably along the lines of the stringent one he co - authored — sometime in June.

The Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee headed by Sen. Thomas Hennings (D) Mo., closed hearings last Thursday and plans to start drafting legislation June 3. In any case, present liberal strategy is to repeat the 1957 plan —pass a Civil Rights bill in the House and bring it directly to the Senate floor. This would bypass the Senate Judiciary committee, headed by staunch segregationist Sen. James O. Eastland (D) Miss.

The lawmakers on either side will have no lack of ammunition provided by the four volumes of testimony in each house. Included in the testimony are such scenes as:

Attorney General William P. Rogers, Jr., coming before each committee to withdraw the substance of his own bill — a provision that would allow him to obtain injunctions against anyone 'interfering" with a Court integration order.

The head of the Mississippi state NAACP chapter dramatically producing a photograph of a Negro's window allegedly shattered by rifle fire. (Local authorities later said it was a BB shot).

Leander Perez of Louisiana suddenly departing from his intricately detailed discussion of Constitutional law to shout that "the Negro is only one or two steps removed from the jungle."

Southern leaders who appeared included Governors James P. Coleman of Mississippi, John Patterson of Alabama, and Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina. The attorney generals of Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama, Arkansas, North and South Carolina presented lengthy evidence. Some of the most effective arguments, however, came from working lawyers like Charles Bloch of Georgia and W. Scott Wilkinson of Shreveport, La.

If any one theme can be singled out from the millions of words directed against the legislation, it would be that passage of the most liberal bills would extend Federal powers beyond constitutional limits.

Specifically, the lawyers argued that the Fourteenth Amdndment, with its clause against denial of equal protection of the laws because of race or religion, applies only to action by the states, while the pending bills would extend its affect to actions of individuals.

If the bills pass, the Attorney General would have broad powers to arrest people who interfere with integration.

Probably the most outspoken opponent of granting such authority is Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., (D) N. C., a noted Constitutional lawyer and the only member of the Senate subcommittee to attend nearly all its hearings (he frequently presided alone.)

Ervin contends that the Civil Rights bills would select one group of people — the Negroes — for special consideration, in effect giving them rights not enjoyed by the rest of the population.

Ervin also notes that Negroes, virtually alone in America, would be provided with free legal services by the U. S. Attorney General at the taxpayers' expense.

Another running theme throughout the hearings was probably most ably summarized by Sen. John Stennis (D) Miss., who stated bluntly that enforced integration in much of the South will simply mean the closing of the schools and the migration of the people there to other regions.

It is this possibility — a reality in Little Rock and Warren county, Va. — which may have the most telling effect in the 1959 debate. Seasoned Congressional observers believe that Civil Rights backers to have lost some of the steam that carried their 1957 bill through to passage. Whether this is true will not be known, however until the votes are counted.

There are many Civil Rights bills in Congress but in the House they boil down to two essential ones:

1. The Douglas - Celler - Javits bill, a measure providing grants and assistance from the U. S. Office of Education for schools planning to integrate, and injunctive power for the Attorney General for those who don't accept any help.

2. The Administration bill, which now amounts to certain voting protections and an anti-bombing provision.

The Senate contains these measures, plus Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson's "moderate" bill, which would set up non - compulsory conciliation measures, let the FBI track down school bombers, and also provide some voting protection.

The Poplarville lynching April 25 threw a new note into the hearings, and was cited by Civil Rights backers as evidence of need for their bills, while opponents charged that local laws were adequate to deal with the problem.

Curiously, none of the bills then considered would have made any difference in Poplarville. It was not until this month that an anti-lynching bill was introduced, and no hearings have been held on it

HOLMES ALEXANDER

Army Chaplains Set Convention

AIRBORNE TO GERMANY — Something like 200 Army chaplains are meeting June 10th at Stuttgart in a cover - the - waterfront discussion of their achievements in the past and assignments of the future.

The meeting won't — but it should — compete in headlines with the get - together of foreign ministers, war ministers, atomic scientists and heads - of state.

The record will show something like 5,000 years of military occupation — and this is a blunt term for what American armed forces have been doing for nearly two decades in the nations of friend and foe. Nothing puts a greater strain upon the mettle of soldiers than to be unwelcome if necessary guests in another country. By and large Americans have acquitted themselves far better than any other occupation force in history. And this is true, I think, because we have listened to religious advisers as well as to economic and military ones.

On this tedious 20 - hour flight, I have learned a lot on this subject from Chaplain (Colonel) Benedict A. Henderson of Portland, Oregon, and the U. S. School of Chaplains, Fort Slocum. Col. Henderson, who wears a D. S. C., a Silver Star with oak - leaf cluster and a Purple Heart, is no theoretician about military affairs, but a tall, hard, devout combat veteran of World War II.

Col Henderson heads for the Stuttgart conference with conviction that the USA is recovering from extremely bad experiences, but will be stronger for the lessons learned. The high calibre of our present military character can be illustrated by two handy examples.

One: Since 1956 disciplinary barracks (jails) have been abandoned at Cumberland, Md., Gordon, Ga., and Crowder, Mo., while the prison population of military miscreants at Lompoc, Cal., and Leavenworth, Kan., has been cut in half.

Two: An evaluation of American troop behavior in the Lebanon occupation about a year ago is most gratifying. Praise does not come readily from the British, but the British Charge d'Affairs in Lebanon wrote as follows to the American Ambassador there: "For myself, I think that the ordinary GI deserves full marks and has most worthily upheld the honor of his country and service."

Such laudation, although it has a certain patronizing air, is what most Americans are proud to hear of their sons in action. But I learn from Col. Henderson that the admirable record and condition of our troops did not come out of the blue, but out of the abyss.

Trouble started in 1945 when the natural eagerness of American parents to "bring the boys home" was cunningly subverted by the then - respectable Communist fronts. The conquerors of bloody beachheads and ancient cities found themselves, in the anti -climax of victory, stranded at places where they had worn out their welcome, idle and homesick in the crammed ports of debarkation. The country which had sent them forth was babbling of everlasting peace and shrieking demands for instant and impossible troop dispersals.

Hard behind these foolish and often subversive activities, there came one of those democracy - gone- crazy storms. GI's and their Moms (and too often their Congressmen) set up a howl against the military caste system. There should be less saluting, more socializing between officers and enlisted men, snappier uniforms for the GI's, less spit - and - polish. Columnist Bob Ruark hit the jackpot by exposing the "Prussian" rigors imposed on postwar occupation troops by a fine old soldier, the late General 'Courthouse" Lee. More astonishing still, General Jimmy Doolittle gave his name to a commission which took these complaints seriously and set in motion some remedies.

With all this there came a slackness in physical fitness. The postwar soldiers would not stand for calisthenics and forced marches. A Marine sergeant was court martialled and busted when one of his hikes ended in accidental tragedy.

United States Highest In Funds For Education

The Financing of Education

It has become customary for American visitors to Soviet Russia on their return to the United States to speak of how much the Russians spend on education and how little the United States spends. If we take the figures, the United States spends more on education than any people on earth.

But we are a free people. Our universities are not government institutions, preaching a doctrine which is favored by those who are temporarily in power. We have throughout our history preferred to pay for ou own education, paticularly on the college and university level. There are also some excellent state colleges and universities.

I have before me some figures which I believe to be reliably compiled, which show that for the year 1957-8, colleges and universities, private and state, had an income of $3,579,730,565. Of this enormous amount $904,328,867 or about 25 per cent came from tuitions and fees; $1,751,703,096 came from support of various governments, mostly state but including special federal contractual arrangements. This came to about 49 per cent of the total. Other sources were gifts and grants, endowment earnings, etc. Endowment earnings upon which the better institutions depended in the past, amounted to only 4.6 per cent of the total, which is very small indeed.

The Council for Financial Aid to Education estimates that for the year 1969-70, education will require about $9 billion, because of the increasing population and the higher cost of everything. The figure may mean something or nothing depending upon the value of our currency. If, for instance, the American dollar at that time is worth 24 cents, $7 billion plus will be of the same value as the figures for 1957-58. Comparative figures involving currency always have to be recalculated on the basis of the value of currency at different times.

However we look at it, the cost of higher education will increase and it is not expected that tuition fees will pay for it. At best, the student pays about 25 per cent of the cost of his education. Even this amount comes high in the family budget. When two or three children in a family are at college at the same time, the load could be unbearable. This is particularly true if the better students are involved. For they will take an additional course or seminar, stay longer at college to get an M.A. or a Ph.D. or go to a professional school.

The heavy load that capable students carry at the better colleges precludes any serious outside work. Of course, students who take phony courses have plenty of time to do outside work. And there are always plenty of phony courses and plenty of phony students. But as the cost of education rises and the need for smart boys and girls grows increasingly urgent, there will be increasingly less room for the phony student at college. Usually, he will be dropped by the sophomore year. In fact, it is an economic waste to keep even a C student at college; as for those who average under C, there is no justification for keeping a chair warm for him or her. Certainly with education costing what it does, only very rich parents and very badly administered colleges will bother with dopes.

American faculties are not always of the soundest. A professor who marks favorably because a student agrees with his point of view in courses which involve analysis and interpretation is an intellectual robber. Too many independent students are marked down, particularly in the social science courses, because they reach different conclusions from the instructors, although their own conclusions give evidence of hard work, a knowledge of the subject and a capacity to think. Really smart students, while holding independent views, repeat the instructor's conclusions although regarding them as erroneous.

Such students have been taught that to advance in this world, one must flatter and lie. It is a very bad business. Truly great men do not need flattery or agreement. They appreciate originality.

What must come, during the next decade, is a complete reorientation of our system of university education so that it prepares the mind of the student for honest and original thinking. Some of the so-called disciplines may disappear as fruitless plays on words. More and more the university will be a place to acquire knowledge and the skill to use it and less and less a social center.

SHOOT 'EM-UPS HIT

Monroe, La.

With reference to your editorial, Morning World, May 13th, regarding juvenile delinquency, I do appreciate your interest and effort to combat the ever increasing crimes committed by juveniles. However, you overlooked or failed to include the main cause, or at least 90 percent cause-the ever increasing western pictures (shoot em-up-tony) shown on TV as well as picture shows. If the pictures would confine to bang-bang and leave off the big fisticuff rough stuff together with display of liquors and gambling with cards! It is my opinion the entire mess is very un-godly, and should be off the air definitely. The young minds fall for and absorb the rough stuff and go out to try to improve the killings-"Wow."

I have spoken against this kind of entertainment, but unfortunately, we have a very large percent of adults who would far rather watch such programs than a program of wholesome cultured entertainment.

We have had TV for 6-8 years. Just compare juvenile delinquency prior to then and today-an increase of at least 500 percent. How about that?

I do hope I make myself clear to you and readers.

Congested Court Relief Proposed

Some additional light is thrown upon the live topic of congestion of dockets in Federal courts in a field study of operations of United States Courts just completed by Paul J. Cotter, an able staff member of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Some of Cotter's conclusions on methods to remedy the conditions are open to question. He could rely too much on administrative control from Washington ad his cures could go a long distance in the direction of destroying the autonomy of the district judges. which is a basic philosophy of our Federal court system.

But the Cotter study is a conscientious, objective one. Its great value is that it does not convincingly show that people cannot get speedy justice in certain Federal courts; that sometimes cases pend for years and that somethimg must be done about it.

There are wide differences in the way the judges in the 86 Federal district courts conduct their business. For instance in the Court which last year terminated most civil cases per judge (Eastern Louisiana, 594 per judge), Cotter found that trial of the average case could be obtained in substantially shorter time than in the court which terminated the fewest cases per judge (Delaware, 46.)

Delaware is a three-judge court. It also has two active retired judges. It has the lightest case load of any of the 86 Federal court districts. However, Delaware is the center of many great corporations and a very large number of the cases are complicated. Median time between trial and issue in the Delaware Federal court on civil cases actually tried in the fiscal year 1958 was 14.4 months as compared with the national median of 8.9 months.

In the Eastern Louisiana two - judge court, which sits in New Orleans and Baton Rouge, one judge takes all odd - numbered cases, the other all even - numbered ones. The judge responsible then sends out a notice of pretrial as soon as he can, and at pretrial the case is set for trial if it is not settled.

About 75 per cent of the cases in this Louisiana district are dismissed or settled at pretrial. Only about six per cent of the civil cases go to trial. The median time in fiscal 1958 was 13.2 months.

There were great differences in districts within States, even where the district's basic conditions were similar. In the Northern District of Texas, a three - judge court, the medium time between issue and trial of civil cases in 1958 was 4.7 months. In the four judge Southern District of Texas it was 7.6 months per case.

One reason for the quicker trials in the two Texas Courts were that private civil cases in the Northern District dropped off 71 per cent a 56 per cent in the Southern district. This was due to the new law which removes most workmen's compensation cases from federal courts.

Actually this new law passed by Congress and signed by President Eisenhower in August, 1958, has eased the federal court jam in all 86 districts. The law amended the United States Code by increasing to $10,000 from $3,000 the amount that must be in controversy in civil actions between citizens of different States to have the case heard in Federal rather than a State Court.

Chief Justice Warren has suggested that a way be found to transfer even more diversity cases from Federal to State Courts.

The Senate report by Cotter points a finger at a six - judge Federal court in Brookland New York, as a "shocking example." This Brooklyn court, on a average, requires more than four years to dispose of a civil case from filing to trial. Some cases had been on the docket for seven years and, the report said, some of the Brooklyn judges are understood to spend "little more than an hour or an hour - and - half on the bench per day."

BASCOM TIMMONS

Testimony Ends On Civil Rights

Three months of testimony on Civil Rights legislation have closed here. Those three months produced rafts of cold, legal logic, hurricanes of cliches and some throbbing human emotion.

Hearings in the Senate and House pitted virtually all the liberal spokesmen against the heaviest guns the South could muster in its effort to stave off new Federal integration laws.

How much effect either side had will be seen within a few weeks. Chairman Emanuel Celler (D.) N. Y., of the House Civil Rights subcommittee has promised to report out a civil rights bill — probably along the lines of the stringent one he co - authored — sometime in June.

The Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee headed by Sen. Thomas Hennings (D) Mo., closed hearings last Thursday and plans to start drafting legislation June 3. In any case, present liberal strategy is to repeat the 1957 plan —pass a Civil Rights bill in the House and bring it directly to the Senate floor. This would bypass the Senate Judiciary committee, headed by staunch segregationist Sen. James O. Eastland (D) Miss.

The lawmakers on either side will have no lack of ammunition provided by the four volumes of testimony in each house. Included in the testimony are such scenes as:

Attorney General William P. Rogers, Jr., coming before each committee to withdraw the substance of his own bill — a provision that would allow him to obtain injunctions against anyone 'interfering" with a Court integration order.

The head of the Mississippi state NAACP chapter dramatically producing a photograph of a Negro's window allegedly shattered by rifle fire. (Local authorities later said it was a BB shot).

Leander Perez of Louisiana suddenly departing from his intricately detailed discussion of Constitutional law to shout that "the Negro is only one or two steps removed from the jungle."

Southern leaders who appeared included Governors James P. Coleman of Mississippi, John Patterson of Alabama, and Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina. The attorney generals of Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama, Arkansas, North and South Carolina presented lengthy evidence. Some of the most effective arguments, however, came from working lawyers like Charles Bloch of Georgia and W. Scott Wilkinson of Shreveport, La.

If any one theme can be singled out from the millions of words directed against the legislation, it would be that passage of the most liberal bills would extend Federal powers beyond constitutional limits.

Specifically, the lawyers argued that the Fourteenth Amdndment, with its clause against denial of equal protection of the laws because of race or religion, applies only to action by the states, while the pending bills would extend its affect to actions of individuals.

If the bills pass, the Attorney General would have broad powers to arrest people who interfere with integration.

Probably the most outspoken opponent of granting such authority is Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., (D) N. C., a noted Constitutional lawyer and the only member of the Senate subcommittee to attend nearly all its hearings (he frequently presided alone.)

Ervin contends that the Civil Rights bills would select one group of people — the Negroes — for special consideration, in effect giving them rights not enjoyed by the rest of the population.

Ervin also notes that Negroes, virtually alone in America, would be provided with free legal services by the U. S. Attorney General at the taxpayers' expense.

Another running theme throughout the hearings was probably most ably summarized by Sen. John Stennis (D) Miss., who stated bluntly that enforced integration in much of the South will simply mean the closing of the schools and the migration of the people there to other regions.

It is this possibility — a reality in Little Rock and Warren county, Va. — which may have the most telling effect in the 1959 debate. Seasoned Congressional observers believe that Civil Rights backers to have lost some of the steam that carried their 1957 bill through to passage. Whether this is true will not be known, however until the votes are counted.

There are many Civil Rights bills in Congress but in the House they boil down to two essential ones:

1. The Douglas - Celler - Javits bill, a measure providing grants and assistance from the U. S. Office of Education for schools planning to integrate, and injunctive power for the Attorney General for those who don't accept any help.

2. The Administration bill, which now amounts to certain voting protections and an anti-bombing provision.

The Senate contains these measures, plus Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson's "moderate" bill, which would set up non - compulsory conciliation measures, let the FBI track down school bombers, and also provide some voting protection.

The Poplarville lynching April 25 threw a new note into the hearings, and was cited by Civil Rights backers as evidence of need for their bills, while opponents charged that local laws were adequate to deal with the problem.

Curiously, none of the bills then considered would have made any difference in Poplarville. It was not until this month that an anti-lynching bill was introduced, and no hearings have been held on it

Army Chaplains Set Convention

AIRBORNE TO GERMANY — Something like 200 Army chaplains are meeting June 10th at Stuttgart in a cover - the - waterfront discussion of their achievements in the past and assignments of the future.

The meeting won't — but it should — compete in headlines with the get - together of foreign ministers, war ministers, atomic scientists and heads - of state.

The record will show something like 5,000 years of military occupation — and this is a blunt term for what American armed forces have been doing for nearly two decades in the nations of friend and foe. Nothing puts a greater strain upon the mettle of soldiers than to be unwelcome if necessary guests in another country. By and large Americans have acquitted themselves far better than any other occupation force in history. And this is true, I think, because we have listened to religious advisers as well as to economic and military ones.

On this tedious 20 - hour flight, I have learned a lot on this subject from Chaplain (Colonel) Benedict A. Henderson of Portland, Oregon, and the U. S. School of Chaplains, Fort Slocum. Col. Henderson, who wears a D. S. C., a Silver Star with oak - leaf cluster and a Purple Heart, is no theoretician about military affairs, but a tall, hard, devout combat veteran of World War II.

Col Henderson heads for the Stuttgart conference with conviction that the USA is recovering from extremely bad experiences, but will be stronger for the lessons learned. The high calibre of our present military character can be illustrated by two handy examples.

One: Since 1956 disciplinary barracks (jails) have been abandoned at Cumberland, Md., Gordon, Ga., and Crowder, Mo., while the prison population of military miscreants at Lompoc, Cal., and Leavenworth, Kan., has been cut in half.

Two: An evaluation of American troop behavior in the Lebanon occupation about a year ago is most gratifying. Praise does not come readily from the British, but the British Charge d'Affairs in Lebanon wrote as follows to the American Ambassador there: "For myself, I think that the ordinary GI deserves full marks and ha. most worthily upheld the honor of his country and service."

Such laudation, although it has a certain patronizing air, is what most Americans are proud to hear of their sons in action. But I learn from Col. Henderson that the admirable record and condition of our troops did not come out of the blue, but out of the abyss.

Trouble started in 1945 when the natural eagerness of American parents to "bring the boys home" was cunningly subverted by the then - respectable Communist fronts. The conquerors of bloody beachheads and ancient cities found themselves, in the anti -climax of victory, stranded at places where they had worn out their welcome, idle and homesick in the crammed ports of debarkation. The country which had sent them forth was babbling of everlasting peace and shrieking demands for instant and impossible troop dispersals.

Hard behind these foolish and often subversive activities, there came one of those democracy - gone- crazy storms. GI's and their Moms (and too often their Congressmen) set up a howl against the military caste system. There should be less saluting, more socializing between officers and enlisted men, snappier uniforms for the GI's, less spit - and - polish. Columnist Bob Ruark hit the jackpot by exposing the "Prussian" rigors imposed on postwar occupation troops by a fine old soldier, the late General 'Courthouse" Lee. More astonishing still, General Jimmy Doolittle gave his name to a commission which took these complaints seriously and set in motion some remedies.

With all this there came a slackness in physical fitness. The postwar soldiers would not stand for calisthenics and forced marches. A Marine sergeant was court martialled and busted when one of his hikes ended in accidental tragedy.

"It knocked them all down," he said. "The four who were not killed tried to get up. They were conscious but they couldn't move their legs. They couldn't get up."

The storm subsided in a few minutes as quickly as it started. Two policemen in a car on routine patrol saw the six lying under the tree.

They investigated and found two of the children badly marked and unconscious. Their bodies were blue. Two other children and a woman also were hurt.

Emergency equipment was rushed to the scene, but all efforts to revive the two children failed. The injured were taken to Roosevelt Hospital for treatment.

The injured were Mrs. Rose Carorale, mother of the four children; a man identified only as Nick Kambourakis, and James 10, and Barbara, Roslyn's twin.

have dropped off the 85-foot long war rocket.

The mighty missile exploded in flight over the ocean out of visible range of observers on the Cape.

An observer on the beaches several miles south of here reported the explosion which was confirmed almost immediately by the Air Force.

The Atlas "exploded after completion of the initial performing stage of its flight," the Air Force said. Cause of the malfunction was not explained immediately.

There was no indication as to how the failure would affect the Atlas program. The missile was programmed to reach initial operational capability this summer, and it has been chosen to put the nation's first manned space capsule into orbit.

There was much significance attached to Saturday's test, planned over a full 5,000 mile range to a target area near Ascension Island in the South Atlantic. The first two operational type Atlases exploded shortly after launching and this was the third combat-type to be tested.

It was actually the fifth Atlas in a row to fail. The last successful Atlas test flight was on Feb.4.

The first operational Atlas blew up about 1,000 feet above the Cape on April 14 and the second exploded shortly after blastoff on May 18.

Saturday the 100-ton blunt-nosed Atlas wobbled slightly as it lifted from its launching pad at 12:39 p.m. est. But then it straightened out and appeared to follow its planned flight path. It was visible from the Cape for 100 seconds before it vanished behind a cloud bank to the South.

"Practically all of the ones captured are taken to a more remote body of water and released. They're on the whole harmless as long as they're not bothered," he said.

Herring commented that the only known case of alligator hostility in the area was many years ago. A fisherman was grappling for fish in a nearby bayou when he stepped on an alligator in shallow water. His leg was badly mangled by the angered alligator.

The large reptiles usually remain in fairly shallow water, where they feed on turtles, crawfish, and other small water animals. They are little threat to the fish themselves, and usually help the fishing situation more than hinder it, the official said.

Yesterday's 'gator was caught in about 6 feet of water, according to Bailey and Payne.

And for all ambitious fishermen who really like to latch on to the big ones, here's a tip: Bailey said they used beef melt for bait when they snagged their catch.

would be asked for a fill-in on the latest Communist moves against his outpost city and the possibility of a new Red squeeze.

In East Berlin, propaganda chief Gerhart Eisler, a bail-jumping fugitive from U. S. justice, threatened another blockade of West Berlin if West Germany goes through with plans to hold a "provocative" presidential election in the free half of the city.

Eisler, writing in a Communist newspaper, also hinted at a possible increase in the cash tolls for traffic to West Berlin, renewing the suggestion of a possible attempt to strangle West Berlin economically.

It appeared West Germany would cancel plans for the election in West Berlin.

In Moscow, Khrushchev ignored the four-week-old Geneva talks to threaten the West with rocket bases in Albania and Bulgaria if the West arms Greece and Italy with rockets.

His failure to mention Geneva confirmed Western opinion that the Soviets were planning new moves and might define next week their terms for an East-West Summit Conference.

The leaders of Communist East Germany will fly to Moscow Monday for meetings with Khrushchev.

Observers said there probably would be no break in the Geneva talks before Wednesday—if then.

Jordan denied each of the charges. It said Syria was responsible for the clash on April 23 and said it was willing to discuss the incident—but only at the Jordanian town where the skirmish occurred. Jordan said Syria insisted on discussing the matter in a Syrian town.

The Middle East News Agency (MENA), a semi-official organ of the United Arab Republic, said Jordan sealed the border to truck and passenger vehicles as a "new measure" of aggression.

"Appropriate authorities" in Damascus and Cairo were studying "the general situation," MENA said.

what differently. A majority of the state's senators at that time signed a round-robin document saying that under no circumstances would they vote to remove Huey P. Long from the governorship. The 1929 impeachment move failed.

Huey P. Long later went to the U.S. Senate and later died of bullet wounds received in a fusilade that followed a gunwielder's appearance in the capitol and the assailant's slaying.

The three bills backed by Gov. Earl Long and still in doubt are his move to raise top judges pay, to set back two weeks the December Democratic primaries, and to extend controls over the small loan business.

The judges pay raise bill — amended to include the governor, education superintendent and even highway laborers — met deadlock after a conference committee could not satisfy the Senate on amendments.

Time and parliamentary procedure rather than votes may defeat the judges pay bill. The deadline for putting appropriations bills on the governor's desk passed Thursday. But administration forces may possibly continue work on the judges bills.

Two suspensions of the rules would be required—to get the issue back into a conference committee similar to the one that failed and to work a compromise on it and thent o get the House action on the bill.

If the rules are not suspended the bill is dead.

The Senate Finance Committee has bottled two of the doubtfuls—the move to set back the winter democratic primaries two weeks and the bill to tighten restrictions on the small loan business.

But Long basically had his way on other major bills, many of which had political importance.

The top one was the general appropriations bill, loaded some 479 million dollars worth. It can still be vetoed in sections and made to satisfy the administration by acting Gov. Lether Frazar.

gress. The House has voted a sharp cut in funds for the Nike-Hercules; the Senate Armed Services Committee has recommended the Bomarc program be whittled.

McElroy's final answers were promised for mid-June. Thus far Eisenhower has maintained a wait-and-see attitude.

It is likely the plan will recommend a reduction in the number of both the Hercules and Bomarc missiles which had been scheduled for installation. Some critics have noted that since both are designed as anti-aircraft weapons, they probably will be obsolete in the near future when intercontinental ballistic missiles rather than manned bombers are the weapons of attack.

A fight is shaping up which could involve the Navy and the Stragetic Air Command.

Young Citizens Endorse Mayor

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—The Young Citizens for Better Government put Shreveport Mayor Clyde Fant's name on its list of suitable candidates for governor Saturday.

Fant was brought into the political picture at the group's organizational meeting here.

Earl Long's Collapse Has Big Impact

what differently. A majority of the state's senators at that time signed a round-robin document saying that under no circumstances would they vote to remove Huey P. Long from the governorship. The 1929 impeachment move failed.

Huey P. Long later went to the U.S. Senate and later died of bullet wounds received in a fusilade that followed a gunwielder's appearance in the capitol and the assailant's slaying.

The three bills backed by Gov. Earl Long and still in doubt are his move to raise top judges pay, to set back two weeks the December Democratic primaries, and to extend controls over the small loan business.

The judges pay raise bill — amended to include the governor, education superintendent and even highway laborers — met deadlock after a conference committee could not satisfy the Senate on amendments.

Time and parliamentary procedure rather than votes may defeat the judges pay bill. The deadline for putting appropriations bills on the governor's desk passed Thursday. But administration forces may possibly continue work on the judges bills.

Two suspensions of the rules would be required—to get the issue back into a conference committee similar to the one that failed and to work a compromise on it and thent o get the House action on the bill.

If the rules are not suspended the bill is dead.

The Senate Finance Committee has bottled two of the doubtfuls—the move to set back the winter democratic primaries two weeks and the bill to tighten restrictions on the small loan business.

But Long basically had his way on other major bills, many of which had political importance.

The top one was the general appropriations bill, loaded some 479 million dollars worth. It can still be vetoed in sections and made to satisfy the administration by acting Gov. Lether Frazar.

Role Of Air Force, Army Under Study

gress. The House has voted a sharp cut in funds for the Nike-Hercules; the Senate Armed Services Committee has recommended the Bomarc program be whittled.

McElroy's final answers were promised for mid-June. Thus far Eisenhower has maintained a wait-and-see attitude.

It is likely the plan will recommend a reduction in the number of both the Hercules and Bomarc missiles which had been scheduled for installation. Some critics have noted that since both are designed as anti-aircraft weapons, they probably will be obsolete in the near future when intercontinental ballistic missiles rather than manned bombers are the weapons of attack.

The Bomarc-Hercules dispute was merely one of several controversies facing McElroy on his return.

A fight is shaping up which could involve the Navy and the Stragetic Air Command.

Group To Honor Late Pioneer In Heart Surgery

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—The Society for Vascular Surgery will honor the late Dr. L. L. Hill of Montgomery Sunday, one of Alabama's great physicians and the first surgeon in America to successfully sew up a human heart.

In special ceremonies here, Dr. Hill will be honored with a plaque commemorating his "pioneering contributions" to cardio-vascular surgery. Dr. Hill was born in 1962 and died in 1946.

The plaque will be accepted by Dr. Hill's son, Lister Hill, Alabama's senior U.S. Senator.

Dr. Hill made his great contribution in 1902 when he successfully sutured the knife pierced heart of a 13-year-old Negro boy. The event took place in Montgomery on a kitchen table in a crude wooden shack under the flickering light of two kerosene lamps.

SCOUTS TO MEET

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The 49th annual meeting of the Boy Scouts of America, bringing together about 2,000 adult scout leaders from throughout the nation, gets underway here Friday.

REPORTER RECALLS

Differences Between Huey, Earl Are Cited

EDITORS NOTE: These recollections of Huey P. Long, prompted by the hospitalization this week of his brother, Earl, were written by a veteran Washington reporter who personally covered Huey Long in his heyday. Lyle C. Wilson now is a United Press International vice president, and U.P.I. Washington manager.)

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, June 6 (UPI)—Louisiana's Gov. Earl K. Long is under restraint in a Texas mental clinic and that's a measure of the difference between Earl and his rampageous brother, Huey.

Huey Pierce Long never would have let them wear him down to the point of mental and physical exhaustion. Self-styled "The Kingfish," Huey owned and operated the government of Louisiana as though it were a peanut stand.

He bought into Arkansas and adjacent states. Huey had holdings of political substance in nearly all of the then 48 when an outraged constituent named Dr. Carl A. Weiss cut him down in September, 1935, with a small caliber, automatic handgun.

Huey died a few days later at Baton Rouge in Our Lady of the Lake Sanitarium. He died mimbling of his college boys, meaning the student body of Louisiana State University which Huey also operated as his own private venture. There will not be his like again, which probably is just as well.

From Maine to California, Long had a following. In the east it was a small, unhappy, protesting minority. In Louisiana it was a state. In the far west it was an impotent, interested audience.

But from the back country of the farm belt, from sprawling villages of cotton land where share croppers gathered on market day, from some of the wheat states piled high beyond the Mississippi, Sen. Huey Pierce Long (D-La.) heard a call—or thought he did.

The Kingfish and his campaign sound trucks were going into those states in the next presidential campaign (1936). Bullets stopped him on a march toward the White House. The kennest observers of American politics did not expect Huey to make his real presidential bid in 1936. The Senator's immediate plans appeared to be pointed in 1936 toward a passage at politics with some of the brigade commanders of New Deal strategy rather than with FDR. The presidential election of 1940 was the Kingfish's objective.

Daily he campaigned on the Senate floor, braying and boasting that he would make "every man a king."

"Share - our - wealth," Long bawled over and over again, weaving and bobbing like a middleweight fighter. He judged that 1936 was a year for guerilla warfare by "share-our-wealth" raiders on New Deal outposts. Therefore he made his engagements. First with Robinson, New Deal leader of the Senate. Robinson would be a candidate in 1936 for re-election, and Huey planned to knock him off.

Some time earlier, Huey had exploded into Arkansas politics with an invasion of sound trucks and personal oratory which, in 1932, elected to the Senate Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway. She won against a field of candidates whose local prominence should and did make the lady statesman's prospects utterly hopeless—until Long spent a mere six days in Arkansas speaking in her behalf.

Long hand-picked John H. Overton to be his Senate colleague from Louisiana and said: "We are three." Caraway, Overton and Long were a tight little voting bloc with frequent support from the lunatic fringes of both the Republican and the Democratic membership.

Huey bought the biggest Bible in town and read from it to his Senate colleagues, translating the grandeur of the King James Holy writ into the idiom of the Hill Billy Hustings. The Senator's plan to make every man a king receive $5,000, that he own his own home and that he have free higher education for his kids. In March, 1935, Huey got nation-wide radio time to tell how it could be done. He chose the Ford Motor Co., as an example.

Huey said he would take over the Ford Motor Co., and parcel it out to the citizens, leaving $5,000,000 or so for the Fords against their old age. Some of the ears-to-the-ground brigade figured Long had hurt himself politically with that one. They argued that the country was not ready for such an extraordinary plan.

The nation's response, however, was terrific. Long's office force grew. It jammed his rooms in the Senate office building and overflowed into the corridors. In one 24-hour period, the Kingfish received some 30,000 letters of applause.

Long had left Louisiana's governorship to come to the U. S. Senate, but he never quite ceased being governor. Back and forth he shutted, personally directing special sessions of the state Legislature.

None but Huey could command the political Army back home, although he had for his troops the utmost contempt. Shouting in their faces that he bought and sold state legislators like sacks of potatoes, Long ordered them to vote this and to vote that and vote they did. He gave Louisiana and the United States a demonstration of one-man rule unmatched before or since.

Huey began to dislike the gag Kingfish which he had chosen for himself.

"Kingfish, hell," he exclaimed. "I ain't no fish. I'm gonna get me a title with something like lion or tiger in it."

Earl Long made a lot of noise last month in his blow-off protest against the Louisiana Legislature. Huey could and did raise more and better hell than that in mere exuberance. When Huey pulled all the stops out, the roof blew off—every time.

CONFIRM INCIDENTS

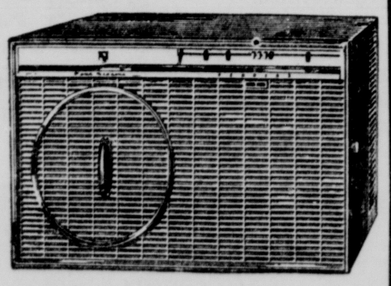

SEOUL (UPI)—The United Nations Command Friday confirmed one of four reported incidents between North and South Korean troops along the truce line on the divided Korean peninsula.

"During the night of June 4-5 suspected North Korean agents were observed in the 25th Republic of Korea division area," a spokesman said.

"In an exchange of fire one ROK soldier was killed and another wounded. A suspected North Korean agent also was killed".

Group To Honor Late Pioneer In Heart Surgery

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—The Society for Vascular Surgery will honor the late Dr. L. L. Hill of Montgomery Sunday, one of Alabama's great physicians and the first surgeon in America to successfully sew up a human heart.

In special ceremonies here, Dr. Hill will be honored with a plaque commemorating his "pioneering contributions" to cardio-vascular surgery. Dr. Hill was born in 1962 and died in 1946.

The plaque will be accepted by Dr. Hill's son, Lister Hill, Alabama's senior U.S. Senator.

Dr. Hill made his great contribution in 1902 when he successfully sutured the knife pierced heart of a 13-year-old Negro boy. The event took place in Montgomery on a kitchen table in a crude wooden shack under the flickering light of two kerosene lamps.

SCOUTS TO MEET

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The 49th annual meeting of the Boy Scouts of America, bringing together about 2,000 adult scout leaders from throughout the nation, gets underway here Friday.

REPORTER RECALLS

Differences Between Huey, Earl Are Cited

EDITORS NOTE: These recollections of Huey P. Long, prompted by the hospitalization this week of his brother, Earl, were written by a veteran Washington reporter who personally covered Huey Long in his heyday. Lyle C. Wilson now is a United Press International vice president, and U.P.I. Washington manager.)

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON, June 6 (UPI)—Louisiana's Gov. Earl K. Long is under restraint in a Texas mental clinic and that's a measure of the difference between Earl and his rampageous brother, Huey.

Huey Pierce Long never would have let them wear him down to the point of mental and physical exhaustion. Self-styled "The Kingfish," Huey owned and operated the government of Louisiana as though it were a peanut stand.

He bought into Arkansas and adjacent states. Huey had holdings of political substance in nearly all of the then 48 when an outraged constituent named Dr. Carl A. Weiss cut him down in September, 1935, with a small caliber, automatic handgun.

Huey died a few days later at Baton Rouge in Our Lady of the Lake Sanitarium. He died mimbling of his college boys, meaning the student body of Louisiana State University which Huey also operated as his own private venture. There will not be his like again, which probably is just as well.

From Maine to California, Long had a following. In the east it was a small, unhappy, protesting minority. In Louisiana it was a state. In the far west it was an impotent, interested audience.

But from the back country of the farm belt, from sprawling villages of cotton land where share croppers gathered on market day, from some of the wheat states piled high beyond the Mississippi, Sen. Huey Pierce Long (D-La.) heard a call—or thought he did.

The Kingfish and his campaign sound trucks were going into those states in the next presidential campaign (1936). Bullets stopped him on a march toward the White House. The kennest observers of American politics did not expect Huey to make his real presidential bid in 1936. The Senator's immediate plans appeared to be pointed in 1936 toward a passage at politics with some of the brigade commanders of New Deal strategy rather than with FDR. The presidential election of 1940 was the Kingfish's objective.

Daily he campaigned on the Senate floor, braying and boasting that he would make "every man a king."

"Share - our - wealth," Long bawled over and over again, weaving and bobbing like a middleweight fighter. He judged that 1936 was a year for guerilla warfare by "share-our-wealth" raiders on New Deal outposts. Therefore he made his engagements. First with Robinson, New Deal leader of the Senate. Robinson would be a candidate in 1936 for re-election, and Huey planned to knock him off.

Some time earlier, Huey had exploded into Arkansas politics with an invasion of sound trucks and personal oratory which, in 1932, elected to the Senate Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway. She won against a field of candidates whose local prominence should and did make the lady statesman's prospects utterly hopeless—until Long spent a mere six days in Arkansas speaking in her behalf.

Long hand-picked John H. Overton to be his Senate colleague from Louisiana and said: "We are three." Caraway, Overton and Long were a tight little voting bloc with frequent support from the lunatic fringes of both the Republican and the Democratic membership.

Huey bought the biggest Bible in town and read from it to his Senate colleagues, translating the grandeur of the King James Holy writ into the idiom of the Hill Billy Hustings. The Senator's plan to make every man a king receive $5,000, that he own his own home and that he have free higher education for his kids. In March, 1935, Huey got nation-wide radio time to tell how it could be done. He chose the Ford Motor Co., as an example.

Huey said he would take over the Ford Motor Co., and parcel it out to the citizens, leaving $5,000,000 or so for the Fords against their old age. Some of the ears-to-the-ground brigade figured Long had hurt himself politically with that one. They argued that the country was not ready for such an extraordinary plan.

The nation's response, however, was terrific. Long's office force grew. It jammed his rooms in the Senate office building and overflowed into the corridors. In one 24-hour period, the Kingfish received some 30,000 letters of applause.

Long had left Louisiana's governorship to come to the U. S. Senate, but he never quite ceased being governor. Back and forth he shutted, personally directing special sessions of the state Legislature.

None but Huey could command the political Army back home, although he had for his troops the utmost contempt. Shouting in their faces that he bought and sold state legislators like sacks of potatoes, Long ordered them to vote this and to vote that and vote they did. He gave Louisiana and the United States a demonstration of one-man rule unmatched before or since.

Huey began to dislike the gag Kingfish which he had chosen for himself.

"Kingfish, hell," he exclaimed. "I ain't no fish. I'm gonna get me a title with something like lion or tiger in it."

Earl Long made a lot of noise last month in his blow-off protest against the Louisiana Legislature. Huey could and did raise more and better hell than that in mere exuberance. When Huey pulled all the stops out, the roof blew off—every time.

CONFIRM INCIDENTS

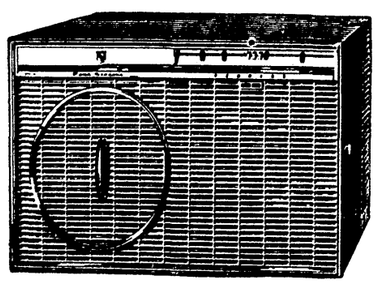

SEOUL (UPI)—The United Nations Command Friday confirmed one of four reported incidents between North and South Korean troops along the truce line on the divided Korean peninsula.

"During the night of June 4-5 suspected North Korean agents were observed in the 25th Republic of Korea division area," a spokesman said.

"In an exchange of fire one ROK soldier was killed and another wounded. A suspected North Korean agent also was killed".

Postal Supervisors Elect Officers

Re-elected officers of the Louisiana-Mississippi Association of Postal Supervisors, presented at last night's concluding banquet of three-day convention here, are left to right, O. L. Williams, Alexandria, president; Walter J. Hall, Meridian, Miss., first vice-president; Roy N. Sellers, New Orleans, second vice-president; W. H. McCulley, Jackson, Miss., third vice-president; L. T. Lewis, Shreveport, fourth vice-president; and Claude Jennings Jr., Kosciusko, Miss., secretary-treasurer. (Staff photo by Jake Vaughn)

IN LEGISLATIVE MATTERS

Postal Delegates Urged To Action

Nearly 200 postal supervisors and members of the ladies auxiliary of the Louisiana-Mississippi Association of Postal Supervisors were urged last night to deluge Congressmen with letters urging passage of legislation beneficial to post office workers.

A. L. "Bud" Sellers, second vice-president of the association from Ft. Worth, Tex., James R. Martin, regional controller, post office department, Dallas, Tex., and Mrs. Ambrose Houy, national secretary, NAPS ladies auxiliary, Rockford, Ill., were featured speakers at the banquet in the Penn Hotel which ended the group's 16th annual convention.

Pointing to national legislation, Sellers warned that the present status, "not only in items of interest to us but in general, is bogged down completely."

"Neither the House nor the Senate are meeeting every day," he continued, and chided Convention delegates that "few, if any, members (of the NAPS) seem to care."

NOT WRITING

"We, as members, are not writing letters to our Senators and Congressmen, letting them know what our needs are," he noted.

"If we don't show an interest in legislation favorable to us, we can't expect Congressmen to be interested, either," Sellers added.

He urged immediate letter-writing on the "badly-needed health insurance legislation" for postal workers, now being considered in Congress.

Martin, speaking on the means of solving personnel problems, stressed that "before you can understand people and help them with their problems, you have to like people."

Revealing the result of a study of 14,000 suicide notes, he commented that "85 per cent said, in effect, 'noobdy loves me.' This was the cause of thousands of wasted lives ... and a lot of us were at fault in not following the 11th Commandment which Jesus gave us, 'Love one another as I have loved you.'"

"You can't be a good supervisor without the desire to help your fellow-man," he said.

Mrs. Houy, speaking of the auxiliary's duty "to assist the association in all its efforts," pointed to the effect which women have on lawmaking.

"One of our letters has the impact of four written by men," she said.

OFFICERS

Officers of the association were re-elected during the afternoon business session, and presented at the banquet.

O. L. Williams of Alexandria is president; Walter J. Hall, Meridian, Miss., first vice-president; Roy N. Sellers, New Orleans, second vice-president; W. H. McCulley, Jackson, Miss., third vice-president L. T. Lewis, Shreveport, fourth vice-president and Claude Jennings Jr., Kosciusko, Miss., secretary - treasurer.

Newly elected officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary are president, Mrs. W. A. Woodall, Meridian, Miss; Mrs. L. T. Lewis, Shreveport, first vice - president; Mrs. W. E. Robbins of Jackson, Miss., second vice - president; Mrs. W. A. Duckworth, Columbus, Miss., secretary - treasurer; Mrs. E. J. Vinyard, Ponchatoula, third vice-president.

Several Monroe and West Monroe postal officials attended the banquet, including Postmaster W. W. Hathorn, Monroe, Postmaster Homer B. Roark, West Monroe; Monroe assistant-postmaster Robert Ellington, and Monroe Superintendent J. E. Peters, newly-elected branch president of the Louisiana - Mississippi NAPS.

Matt H. Creed, senior field services officer from New Orleans and past president of the association, also was a featured guest speaker at the event.

Waitress Class Scheduled By Parish School

Free courses in waitress-training will be offered by the Ouachita Valley Vocational - Technical School this week and next week, and certificates will be given for completion of the course.

S. W. Jackson, director, pointed out that this is the first time waitress work can be learned through school training. Miss Ruth Parkman, instructor, will offer several subjects in the course, including "Personality Development" and "Improving Your Appearance."

Classes will be held at the First National Bank Building, West Monroe, June 8-12 from 9 to 11 a.m.; Hollywood Drive Inn, Monroe, June 8-12, 2-4 p.m.; Virginia Hotel, June 15-19, 9-11 a.m.; Rendezvous, June 15-19 from 2-4 p.m.

Jackson stressed that those interested in enrolling in one of the classes should call the Vocation School in West Monroe immediately.

Burning Bed No Bother To Sleeping Man

A sleeping construction worker awakened to discover firemen dashing into his room to extinguish a mattress fire in the Tourist Hotel, 202 Sixth St., last night.

J. Williams escaped being burned, and the patch of fire in his bed was only six inches square when engine companies 1, 10, ladder 1 and car 3 of the Monroe Fire Department arrived.

Another resident, Frank L. Saxon, sniffed smoke at 10:28 p.m. and summoned firemen, who said the blaze apparently was caused by a cigarette.

Earlier in the day, an overheated barbecue pit behind Hailes Food Center, 1001 Texas Ave., flared up and scorched the inside of the small building housing it.

Engine companies 1 and 2 were dispatched to the fire at 5:50 p.m., and had the flames out within 30 minutes. A quantity of meat was destroyed.

Two Persons Slightly Hurt In Accidents

Two persons were slightly injured in separate wrecks yesterday morning, and a policeman was involved in an accident while rushing to answer an emergency call for one of the mishaps.

Monroe police who investigated said that Will Bryan Jr., 30, 505 D'rbonne and Mrs. Lucille F. Scalia, 30, of Sterlington Road, were involved in a collision at 11:45 a.m.

Mrs. Eula Ann Bryan, 505 D'Arbonne, riding with her son, was shaken by the mishap and taken to St. Francis hospital. She was hospitalized for observation, officials said.

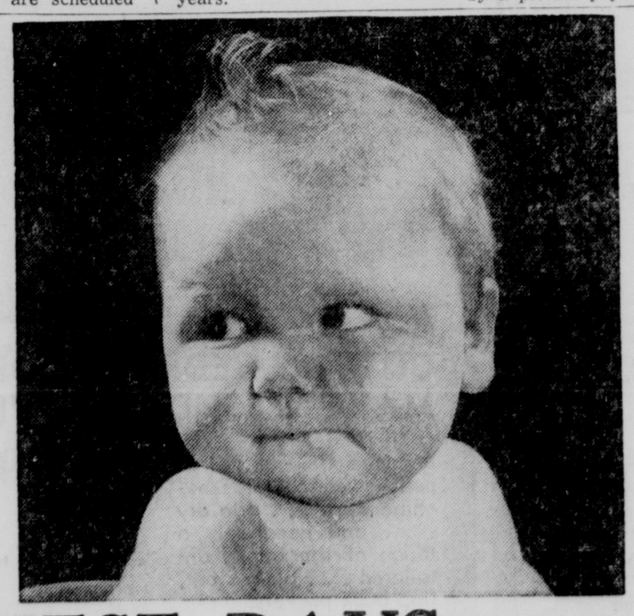

Motorcycle Officer Billy E. Copeland, 23, 907 S. Ninth St., enroute to the mishap, was involved in a collision with an auto driven by Mrs. Edith L. Kilpatrcik Route 1, Box 61, Eros. Her auto was towed away.

No charges were filed in either mishap. The side of the Byran car and the front of the Scalia vehicle were extensively damaged.

At 1:08 p.m., cars driven by Oliver R. Carroll, 30, 216 Pelican Dr., West Monroe, and Collier Murphy Jr., 35, 3905 Dick Taylor St., collided at the intersection of N. Fifth and Pine Streets.

Police said that Murphey was issued a ticket.

THESE DAYS a man has to think for himself..

Do I think everyone should be a member of People's Homestead and Savings Association? No, I think everyone should think for himself.

But I have seen how my Mother and Dad have invested their money at People's Homestead, who has paid 4% Dividends for over 22 consecutive years.

And I saw Dad very happy because of the home loan he secured through People's Homestead.

Mother and Dad have an account in my name, too, and in years to come it will help me get a college education or perhaps be the beginning of a home of my own.

If any other member of my generation should take notice of this, I hope they will encourage their parents to take advantage of the services of People's Homestead.

11 Sabbatical Leaves Given At Northeast

Eleven faculty members at Northeast Louisiana State College will be on sabbatical leave this summer in advanced graduate study and professional work, it was announced today by their respective deans or department heads.

Three of these are from the Division of Agriculture and Home Economics Assistant Prof. Edward H. Allen will attend Mississippi State University for six weeks during the summer and throughout the 1959-60 school year, for work on his doctorate. Miss Robbie Lee Coxe will attend Louisiana State University for nine weeks study and Mrs. Era Davis will study for 12 weeks at Texas Woman's University at Denton. Both are instructors in home economics studying for the PhD degree.

Instructors Delbert Vines and Carleton Page of the Division of Business Administration will both attend LSU during the nine-week summer term for work on their doctorates.

Mrs. Evelyn Barnes, director of secondary student teaching, in the Division of Education, is also planning to attend LSU this summer for advanced study.

Two assistant professors in the Division of Fine Arts will study for nine weeks of advanced graduate work this summer. Mrs. Florence Allbritton will enroll at Florida State University at Tallahassee, and Eloy Fominaya will study at Michigan State University at East Lansing.

Dr. Robert Brown, associate professor of history in the Division of Liberal arts, will enroll in the School for Foreigners of the National University of Mexico at Mexico City. He will study the Spanish language and Mexican and Latin American history. This was one of his major fields of study as a graduate student and the field in which his dissertation was written.

Mrs. Jessie Lockhart, also an instructor in the Division of Liberal Arts, will do advanced graduate work in history at LSU this summer.

Assistant Prof. Marcus Mapp of the Department of Pure and Applied Science, will enroll in an advanced field course in geology, at LSU during the summer.

AIR FORCE BELIEVES

Animals Help Pave Way For Spacemen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Projects to put monkeys, mice and later on men in space get much of their urgency from a firm Air Force belief that no substantial payload is going to land on the moon without a human intelligence aboard.

According to Brig. Gen. Homer A. Boushey, the job of piloting a sizeable spaceship to the moon is just too complicated for ground-controlled computers that would be put aloft with rockets now in sight.

But with two or three men to manipulate controls, and with the aid of re-fueling, Boushey believes that the now-available Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile could boost a 15,000-pound spaceship to a safe landing on the moon within the next 10 years.

Boushey, Air Force director of advanced technology, believes that within 20 years there will be permanent, manned bases, U. S. of Russian, on both the moon and Mars. So early exploration could be more urgent than anything directly connected with the threat of global war.

Actually, an Atlas launcher using the first stage of the Vanguard as a second could send only 430 pounds to a "soft landing" on the moon.

Even if it proves possible to use pure liquid hydrogen as the fuel of the second stage, in the configuration that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration calls the "centaur," the lunar payload would be only 711 pounds.

The big difference with men aboard is that this makes possible what Boushey calls "fuel storage in space" and re-fueling in space. The same procedure provides for getting the men back to earth.

The technology director points out that Air Force planes are refueled aloft on an average of one every three minutes in the atmosphere. He contends that refueling in space should be ewually possible.

"There is no reason why space refueling could not be accomplished," Boushey said in the latest Air Force Review.

"We could place a cluster of propulsion units (fuel tanks with a rocket engine) in orbit around the earth a month prior to the actual launch of the space vehicle.

"The launch trajectory of the vehicle itself could be predetermined so as to intercept the power package in the orbit. Pick-up could be accomplished in any one of several ways."

Boushey said that if the spaceship and the fuel tanks were only a few miles apart, a little human navigation might accomplish the pickup in a half hour.

But he added that if more time were required—perhaps several orbits around the earth—there would be little loss, since no fuel would be consumed other than for minor adjustments during the pickup or refueling procedures.

A 15,000-pound space vehicle would be about the same weight as an F-86 fighter, though by volume it might be much larger. With an 18,000-mile-an-hour orbital speed and fresh fuel tanks as starters, its trip to the moon should be assured.

Once in the moon's gravitational sphere, as Boushey visualizes the trip, the spaceship would blast off a retro-rocket to establish an orbit. This would be for the purposes of studying the lunar surface and of detaching a fuel tank that could continue to orbit the moon until needed for the return to earth.

Although the moon has some mountains estimated to be 30,000 feet high, and thus higher than any on earth, Boushey expects lunar dust to be the greatest landing hazard.

If the dust is several feet thick as believed, the blast of retro-rockets might throw a great dust cloud around the ship.

"An inducted electrostatic charge on the craft could attract to it further clouds of dust, or create a violent discharge spark on landing," Boushey said. "this is one of the unknowns the pioneers will have to contend with."

Presumably, however, small robot experiments will have suggested a way of dealing with the dust. The next question is where to land, and, for interesting reasons, it appears this may be at the moon's north or south pole.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

The retirement of Lawrence J. Fox after almost 35 years on the faculty of Louisiana Tech and as president of the Big Eight Baseball League can't be a real retirement in the sense that he will sit down and watch the world go by. True, he is taking his teacher's retirement and passing the Big Eight's reins to another, but this man, affectionately known by many as Larry or "The Major," has led a most active life in the affairs of his adopted state and is sure to keep in the whirl of things —only relaxed a bit.

A veteran of two World Wars, Louisiana commander of the American Legion in 1933, and present lieutenant governor of Kiwanis, Major Fox has long been strong in youth work and it was in this field that he was best known in his early years at Louisiana Tech, LSU, and Clemson.

A graduate of Boys High of Atlanta, Ga., (1913) and the University of Gerogia (1917), he spent two years in World War I service before returning to a normal life and accepting the post of student "Y" director, coach of freshman athletics and varsity track coach at Clemson (1919-1922). He was captain of his football, baseball, and basketball teams in high school and "made the team in the three sports at U. of Georgia.

He was "Y" director and freshman coach at Louisiana State from 1922 until 1925 when he moved to Ruston for his long tenture with Louisiana Tech. During his first five years at Tech he coached the freshman teams and varsity baseball, but since he has devoted his college duties to teaching socialogy. He obtained his master's degree while at LSU.

Major Fox had much to do with promotion and organization of the American Legion Junior baseball program in north Louisiana, and coached the first Ruston team, that, with Monroe, contened for the first district legion championship in 1927. He coached Ruston's Legion teams until 1940, going to the state finals four times. He also handled the team two years immediately after World War II.

A leader in the old Ouachita Valley and Big Six baseball leagues before World War II, and president of the Big Sox when the war put an end to it in 1942, Fox organized the Big Eight in 1946 and it has operated continuously since under his guidance. He tried unsuccessfully to "retire" as president of the Big Eight a year ago, but popular demand kept him on the job as the only prexy the loop ever had. Now he is turning the job of directing the league over to Jack Madden, former league secretary. A few years ago Fox served as president of the Northeast Louisiana League while running the Big Eight.

Now Professor and Mrs. Fox, parents of four children and proud of 13 grandchildren, are planning a summer trip to the Pacific coast where they'll visit with Larry Jr. and his family. Larry Jr. is a West Point graduate and is still with the army.

Although the load may be lightened, just to show that Professor Fox hasn't put in an order for a rocking chair, he has accepted new duties as executive secretary for state optometrists.

Chances are, when he and Mrs. Fox get back from their summer trip, the major will return very much to an active life in the affairs of his beloved Ruston. Already he has said: "We'll remain in Ruston."

Surging Yanks Edge Indians, 2-1, Behind Turley's Six-Hit Effort

Fourth Straight For New Yorkers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bob Turley pitched New York to a 2-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday to give the Yanks their fourth straight victory and their eighth in nine games.

The 28-year-old right - hander gave up six scattered hits, struck out nine batters and walked four in his first appearance against Cleveland this season. The victory was his fifth against six defeats.

Cleveland has now lost seven consecutive games.

The run off Turley was a pinch hit homer by Tito Francona, over the right field fence in the ninth inning.

It was Francona's second homer of the season and his second pinch homer against the Yanks. He beat them 4-2 here May 1.

The Yankees got an unearned run in the fifth inning. Gil McDougald was safe at first when ris grounder was fumbled by third baseman Willie Jones, obtained by the Indians Friday from the Philadelphia Phillies. McDougald went to second on a walk to Tony Kubek and scored on Turley's single to left field.

New York added the winning run in the eighth on a leadoff single to center field by Hank Bauer, a sacrifice by Elston Howard and a single to center by Mickey Mantle.

The Indians' only other threat came in the fourth inning, when they loaded the bases on an infield single by Rocky Colavito and two walks, but Ferrarese popped to McDougald to end the inning.

IN TWIN CITIES

Stovall Selected Most Outstanding

Jerry Stovall, West Monroe's master of all trades and probably the greatest all-round athlete in the history of the young school, has been selected the Twin Cities Most Outstanding Athlete by local high school coaches in a poll conducted by the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Three-sport star Stovall is the first West Monroe student to win the coveted honor, bestowed on two Ouachita athletes previously, Dickie Crowe in 1957 and Eddie McGowen in 1958.

Slated to join LSU's freshman grid team in September, Stovall lettered in football, basketball and baseball at West Monroe, winning all-state honors in two sports.

He was selected on the triple-A all-state football team selected by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association last fall and was a second team choice on the Associated Press all-state team.

Last month Stovall was named to the triple-A all-state baseball team chosen by the New Orleans Times Picayune.

A halfback in football and a second baseman in baseball, the 6-2, 187-pounder earned his first varsity letter in basketball during the past winter, playing as a regular after the early season and leading his team in free throws.

Stovall gained his greatest fame in football, finishing second in district 1-AAA scoring with 84 points and being named to the all - district and all - Twin Cities teams.

In baseball, Stovall earned all-district honors besides being chosen on the Times Picayune all-state team. A fine fielder and leader, he hit .261 for the season.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stovall, Jerry was also outstanding in other extra curricular activities at West Monroe High School. He was president of the senior class, president of the Key Club, president of the Lettermen Club and was elected a senior favorite by his classmates.

Monroe Legion Routs Oak Grove

OAK GROVE, La. (Special) — Powered by Johnny Roach's grand-slam home run in the first inning, Monroe's American Legion nine pounded out a 14-1 win over Oak Grove in a game which saw the host team commit 12 errors.

L. M. Welch opened on the hill for Red Sims' Brown - Rivers-Scoggin entry and pitched shutout ball for four innings before being relieved by Bob Saterfield in the fifth. Neal Gunn hurled the final stanza for Monroe.

Roach's circuit clout capped a six-run uprising in the first inning and made things easy for the invaders, who pushed over three more in the second and two in the third to build an early 11-0 advantage.

Monroe collected ten hits in the rout and chased Oak Grove starter Harold Kelly, a right-hander with the 11-run binge after three frames. Oman Rutherford came on in the fourth and limited Monroe to three runs over the final four innings.

Singles by Joey McGinn, James Cromwell and Eddie Kincaid, a walk to Harry Crowe and an error plated two runs and set the stage for Roach's home run. Welch struck out to retire the side.

In the second three runs came across on hits by McGinn, Ronnie Sims and Crowe a walk to Kincaid and a pair of errors.

Monroe added two more runs in the third, one in the fourth and capped the victory with two in the seventh.

Oak Grove counted its only run in the sixth on some fancy baserunning by Myrick. After reaching first on a walk, he stole second and third and sprinted home during a run - down at first base.

Texaco defeated Louisiana Plumbing, 9-6, and Monroe Brick topped Gay Clothing, 11 - 4, in Northside loop action last night.

Dunn, Texaco's winning pitcher, and Howell for the Plumbers hooked up in a duel, allowing only four hits each. Holloway had 2-3 to pace the Texaco nine and Harvey's 2-2 was tops for La. Plumbing.

Robinson tossed a three - hitter to boost Monroe Brick past Gay Clothing. McStravick was the leading hitter with 3-4 and Cohn, Williams and Greenlee collected two safe blows apiece.

Four games were played in the Southside League yesterday. North Monroe Lions beat Twin City Printing in the first one, 13-5. Hyde and Davis was the winning battery over Wright and Hudson. Balleu led the Lions at the plate with 2-3 and Whitten got 2-4 for the losers.

Twin City came back to beat the Palace, 6-0, in the second game with Wright tossing a one-hitter and going 3-4 at the plate including a home run. Lyons caught. LaDart and Corbin was the losing battery and B. Vallery got the only hit.

The Palace stopped KLIC, 5-3, with Factor and Corbin winning over Charles Hill and Foreman. Corbin got 2-3 for the winners and Donald Hill got the same for KLIC.

Friendly Finance outslugged KLIC, 16-10, in the other game as Pelafriegue had a perfect night with 3-3 to pace the win. Earl and Foreman was the losing battery and Charles Hill got 3-4 off winning pitcher Bloomer.

Phils Drop Cards Into Cellar, 4 To 3

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies climbed out of the National League cellar over St. Louis Saturday as they defeated the Cards 4-3 in a 10-inning game. A bases-loaded pinch single by Dave Philley won it.

Lindy McDaniel (3-8), the Cards' third pitcher, was charged with the loss.

The Phils had been in the cellar since May 15.

Ashburn opened the 10th with a double. Two walks, sandwiched around a sacrifice, set the stage for Philley's hit off a 3-2 pitch.

The Cards started off big, scoring two runs on four hits in the first inning. They might have had three, but Don Blasingame who opened the game with a single was out at home after Gino Cimoli's long single.

A second-inning homer by Harry Anderson, his fifth, and Ashburn's lead-off third-inning triple followed by Eddie Bouchee's single tied it up for the Phils. They went ahead in the fifth on two more hits—again by Ashburn and Bouchee—and an error by Blasingame.

St. Louis made it 3-3 in the sixth when Ken Boyer slammed his 11th homer into the lower left-field seats.

Oerter Throws For New Mark

Oerter, former Kansas star who set the Olympic record in 1956 with 184-10-2, made the toss in the trials and his early mark was not exceeded. His toss broke the meet record of 177-11 held by Jack Ellis.

Athletics Top Orioles, 5-1, With 5-Hitter

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bud Daley throttled Baltimore on five hits Saturday night as Kansas City defeated the Orioles 5-1 and remained in the first division.

The left - handed knuckleball hurler notched his fifth pitching victory while lowering his earned run average to 1.40 against his former teammates. Only the Orioles' Hoyt Wilhelm, another flutter ball pitcher with a spectacular 1.11 has a lower ERA than Daley.

The victory before a near sell-out crowd of 30,319, inched the Athletics within 2½ games of league-leading Chicago and only one behind Cleveland and the Orioles who are in a virtual tie for second place.

Morrow Is Hurt In Meet Of Champions

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Bobby Morrow, sometimes described as the world's fastest human, fell to the track Saturday night with a muscle spasm but his one - time teammate, bullet Bill Woodhouse, went on to win the 100-yard dash at the Meet of Champions.

The cheers from the crowd of 10,000 persons at the University of Houston's Jeppsum Stadium died into silence as the Olympic gold medal winner suddenly pulled up lame at the halfway mark.

Woodhouse of Abilene Christian College went on to win the event in 9.6 seconds. Morrow, a former A.C.C. star, was running unattached.

A.C.C. track Coach Oliver Jackson said after doctors and trainers examined Morrow that the track star suffered a severe muscle spasm in the upper left leg.

Jackson said he didn't know when Morrow would be able to run again but he said he believed the spasm, although extremely painful, was not serious.

The brilliant track star, a shareholder in the world's record of 9.3 seconds for the 100-yard dash, had already competed in one event—the 440-yard relays—before he started the 100.

ACC's relay team, entered as an independent in the meet, won the 440 in 40.2 seconds with Morrow as the anchor man.

When Morrow fell to the track, it marked the first time he had failed to finish a race in his career.

ROYAL ORBIT UPSET

Peter Pan 'Cap To Black Hills

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP) — King Ranch's Black Hills, ridden cleverly by Eddie Arcaro, upset Preakness winner Royal Orbit Saturday in the $28,200 Peter Pan Handicap and became a colt to reckon with in the Belmont Stakes next week.

A Belmont Park crowd of 36,486 backed Mrs. Halina Braunstein's Royal Orbit down to 1-2 favoritism but the big California-raced chestnut could do no better than third place.

He had won the Preakness three weeks ago by four smashing lengths.

Black Hills, who missed the big races this spring because of colic, went under the wire two lengths ahead of Howard B. Keck's Bagdad, another California -campaigned colt. It was another 2½ lengths back to Royal Orbit.

The Wheatley Stable's The Irishman, the only other horse in the race for 3-year-olds, was last. All four are eligible for the $120,000 added Belmont, final jewel in the Triple Crown which includes the Kentucky Derby and Preakness.

Black Hills paid $13.10. Because of the small field, there was win betting only. Black Hills was the longest - priced runner on the board.

Black Hills, son of Princequillo-Blackie 2nd by Congreve, ran the 1⅛ mile in 1:49 flat. This compared with the stakes record of 1:47 4-5, set by Counterpoint in 1951. His purse was $18,030, his biggest of the year.

In the early running Bagdad maintained the lead but Black Hills pulled alongside the pacesetter with three-fourths of a mile to go, with Royal Orbit trailing in fourth.

Going into the far turn with half a mile to, Black Hills opened up a half-length lead with Bagdad and Royal Orbit not far behind. Entering the top of the stretch, with one-quarter of mile left, Bobby Ussery sent Bagdad into the lead with Black Hills and Royal Orbit trailing.

Then Arcaro applied the whip. Black Hills zoomed through on rail to take a lead at the eighth pole. Then he drew clear.

Black Hills carried only 113 pounds compared with 118 for Bagdad and 127 for Royal Orbit, ridden by Willie Harmatz. The Irishman carried 109. All must tote 126 in the Belmont.

"There aren't any excuses," Harmatz, rider of Royal Orbit said later. "He just got outrun. He was in the clear all the way, but he couldn't make it."

Arcaro said, "The only way to describe it is that I had a very pleasant ride."

Rain-Plagued La-Ark Tries Again With 3 Games Today

The La-Ark League was conceived as a two-games-a-week circuit but has been pretty much of a Sunday afternoon loop so far.

The rain - plagued amateur circuit has managed to present only one Friday night schedule with showers and wet grounds washing out the openers two weeks ago and last Friday night's attractive slate that included a meeting between the two unbeaten leaders, Monroe and West Monroe, and Crossett'a first game in its new park.

Last week's rains have also forced alteration of today's schedule, holding up work on the Crossett field. Thus the West Monroe - Crossett, originally set for the Arkansas city, has been reset for West Monroe.

The two teams will meet on the West Monroe High School diamond at 2:30 this afternoon.

Crossett is winless in two starts while Dave McKenzie's West Monroe club has blanked Oak Grove 3-0, and Dubach, 4-0, and beaten Bastrop.

Either Oak Grove or Dubach will pick up their first victory of the season. Oak Grove is winless in three starts while Dubach has had two chances to pick up a victory.

Monroe's Sports, still unscored-upon after three league tilts and an exhibition, meet their toughest test of the season in once - beaten Bastrop at Legion Stadium. All three of Monroe's wins have been over second - division clubs. Bastrop's only loss was to unbeaten West Monroe 4-3.

The Monroe game, along with the other two contests, is slated to begin at 2:30.

Carroll George, who blanked Ruston's Big Eight League entry on two hits in an exhibition, will probably be the Monroe starter this afternoon with lefthander Fred Southerland, who was scheduled to pitch the Friday night game, a possibility.

LOOKS 'EM OVER

The retirement of Lawrence J. Fox after almost 35 years on the faculty of Louisiana Tech and as president of the Big Eight Baseball League can't be a real retirement in the sense that he will sit down and watch the world go by. True, he is taking his teacher's retirement and passing the Big Eight's reins to another, but this man, affectionately known by many as Larry or "The Major," has led a most active life in the affairs of his adopted state and is sure to keep in the whirl of things—only relaxed a bit.

A veteran of two World Wars, Louisiana commander of the American Legion in 1933, and present lieutenant governor of Kiwanis, Major Fox has long been strong in youth work and it was in this field that he was best known in his early years at Louisiana Tech, LSU, and Clemson.

A graduate of Boys High of Atlanta, Ga., (1913) and the University of Gerogia (1917), he spent two years in World War I service before returning to a normal life and accepting the post of student "Y" director, coach of freshman athletics and varsity track coach at Clemson (1919-1922). He was captain of his football, baseball, and basketball teams in high school and "made the team in the three sports at U. of Georgia.

He was "Y" director and freshman coach at Louisiana State from 1922 until 1925 when he moved to Ruston for his long tenture with Louisiana Tech. During his first five years at Tech he coached the freshman teams and varsity baseball, but since he has devoted his college duties to teaching socialogy. He obtained his master's degree while at LSU.

Major Fox had much to do with promotion and organization of the American Legion Junior baseball program in north Louisiana, and coached the first Ruston team, that, with Monroe, contened for the first district legion championship in 1927. He coached Ruston's Legion teams until 1940, going to the state finals four times. He also handled the team two years immediately after World War II.

A leader in the old Ouachita Valley and Big Six baseball leagues before World War II, and president of the Big Sox when the war put an end to it in 1942, Fox organized the Big Eight in 1946 and it has operated continuously since under his guidance. He tried unsuccessfully to "retire" as president of the Big Eight a year ago, but popular demand kept him on the job as the only prexy the loop ever had. Now he is turning the job of directing the league over to Jack Madden, former league secretary. A few years ago Fox served as president of the Northeast Louisiana League while running the Big Eight.

Now Professor and Mrs. Fox, parents of four children and proud of 13 grandchildren, are planning a summer trip to the Pacific coast where they'll visit with Larry Jr. and his family. Larry Jr. is a West Point graduate and is still with the army.

Although the load may be lightened, just to show that Professor Fox hasn't put in an order for a rocking chair, he has accepted new duties as executive secretary for state optometrists.

Chances are, when he and Mrs. Fox get back from their summer trip, the major will return very much to an active life in the affairs of his beloved Ruston. Already he has said: "We'll remain in Ruston."

Texaco defeated Louisiana Plumbing, 9-6, and Monroe Brick topped Gay Clothing, 11 - 4, in Northside loop action last night.

Dunn, Texaco's winning pitcher, and Howell for the Plumbers hooked up in a duel, allowing only four hits each. Holloway had 2-3 to pace the Texaco nine and Harvey's 2-2 was tops for La. Plumbing.

Robinson tossed a three - hitter to boost Monroe Brick past Gay Clothing. McStravick was the leading hitter with 3-4 and Cohn, Williams and Greenlee collected two safe blows apiece.

Four games were played in the Southside League yesterday. North Monroe Lions beat Twin City Printing in the first one, 13-5. Hyde and Davis was the winning battery over Wright and Hudson. Balleu led the Lions at the plate with 2-3 and Whitten got 2-4 for the losers.

Twin City came back to beat the Palace, 6-0, in the second game with Wright tossing a one-hitter and going 3-4 at the plate including a home run. Lyons caught. LaDart and Corbin was the losing battery and B. Vallery got the only hit.

The Palace stopped KLIC, 5-3, with Factor and Corbin winning over Charles Hill and Foreman. Corbin got 2-3 for the winners and Donald Hill got the same for KLIC.

Friendly Finance outslugged KLIC, 16-10, in the other game as Pelafriegue had a perfect night with 3-3 to pace the win. Earl and Foreman was the losing battery and Charles Hill got 3-4 off winning pitcher Bloomer.

Phils Drop Cards Into Cellar, 4 To 3

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies climbed out of the National League cellar over St. Louis Saturday as they defeated the Cards 4-3 in a 10-inning game. A bases-loaded pinch single by Dave Philley won it.

Lindy McDaniel (3-8), the Cards' third pitcher, was charged with the loss.

The Phils had been in the cellar since May 15.

Ashburn opened the 10th with a double. Two walks, sandwiched around a sacrifice, set the stage for Philley's hit off a 3-2 pitch.

The Cards started off big, scoring two runs on four hits in the first inning. They might have had three, but Don Blasingame who opened the game with a single was out at home after Gino Cimoli's long single.

A second-inning homer by Harry Anderson, his fifth, and Ashburn's lead-off third-inning triple followed by Eddie Bouchee's single tied it up for the Phils. They went ahead in the fifth on two more hits—again by Ashburn and Bouchee—and an error by Blasingame.

St. Louis made it 3-3 in the sixth when Ken Boyer slammed his 11th homer into the lower left-field seats.

Oerter Throws For New Mark

Oerter, former Kansas star who set the Olympic record in 1956 with 184-10-2, made the toss in the trials and his early mark was not exceeded. His toss broke the meet record of 177-11 held by Jack Ellis.

Fourth Straight For New Yorkers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bob Turley pitched New York to a 2-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday to give the Yanks their fourth straight victory and their eighth in nine games.

The 28-year-old right - hander gave up six scattered hits, struck out nine batters and walked four in his first appearance against Cleveland this season. The victory was his fifth against six defeats.

Cleveland has now lost seven consecutive games.

The run off Turley was a pinch hit homer by Tito Francona, over the right field fence in the ninth inning.

It was Francona's second homer of the season and his second pinch homer against the Yanks. He beat them 4-2 here May 1.

The Yankees got an unearned run in the fifth inning. Gil McDougald was safe at first when ris grounder was fumbled by third baseman Willie Jones, obtained by the Indians Friday from the Philadelphia Phillies. McDougald went to second on a walk to Tony Kubek and scored on Turley's single to left field.

New York added the winning run in the eighth on a leadoff single to center field by Hank Bauer, a sacrifice by Elston Howard and a single to center by Mickey Mantle.

The Indians' only other threat came in the fourth inning, when they loaded the bases on an infield single by Rocky Colavito and two walks, but Ferrarese popped to McDougald to end the inning.

Morrow Is Hurt In Meet Of Champions

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Bobby Morrow, sometimes described as the world's fastest human, fell to the track Saturday night with a muscle spasm but his one - time teammate, bullet Bill Woodhouse, went on to win the 100-yard dash at the Meet of Champions.

The cheers from the crowd of 10,000 persons at the University of Houston's Jeppsum Stadium died into silence as the Olympic gold medal winner suddenly pulled up lame at the halfway mark.

Woodhouse of Abilene Christian College went on to win the event in 9.6 seconds. Morrow, a former A.C.C. star. was running unattached.

A.C.C. track Coach Oliver Jackson said after doctors and trainers examined Morrow that the track star suffered a severe muscle spasm in the upper left leg.

Jackson said he didn't know when Morrow would be able to run again but he said he believed the spasm, although extremely painful, was not serious.

The brilliant track star, a shareholder in the world's record of 9.3 seconds for the 100-yard dash, had already competed in one event—the 440-yard relays—before he started the 100.

ACC's relay team, entered as an independent in the meet, won the 440 in 40.2 seconds with Morrow as the anchor man.

When Morrow fell to the track, it marked the first time he had failed to finish a race in his career.

Most Outstanding Athlete

IN TWIN CITIES

Stovall Selected Most Outstanding

Jerry Stovall, West Monroe's master of all trades and probably the greatest all-round athlete in the history of the young school, has been selected the Twin Cities Most Outstanding Athlete by local high school coaches in a poll conducted by the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Three-sport star Stovall is the first West Monroe student to win the coveted honor, bestowed on two Ouachita athletes previously, Dickie Crowe in 1957 and Eddie McGowen in 1958.

Slated to join LSU's freshman grid team in September, Stovall lettered in football, basketball and baseball at West Monroe, winning all-state honors in two sports.

He was selected on the triple-A all-state football team selected by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association last fall and was a second team choice on the Associated Press all-state team.

Last month Stovall was named to the triple-A all-state baseball team chosen by the New Orleans Times Picayune.

A halfback in football and a second baseman in baseball, the 6-2, 187-pounder earned his first varsity letter in basketball during the past winter. playing as a regular after the early season and leading his team in free throws.

Stovall gained his greatest fame in football, finishing second in district 1-AAA scoring with 8 points and being named to the all - district and all - Twin Cities teams.

In baseball, Stovall earned all district honors besides being chosen on the Times Picayune all-state team. A fine fielder and leader, he hit .261 for the season.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stovall, Jerry was also outstanding in other extra curricular activities at West Monroe High School. He was president of the senior class, president of the Key Club, president of the Lettermen Club and was elected senior favorite by his classmates.

Athletics Top Orioles, 5-1, With 5-Hitter

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bud Daley throttled Baltimore on five hits Saturday night as Kansas City defeated the Orioles 5-1 and remained in the first division.

The left - handed knuckleball hurler notched his fifth pitching victory while lowering his earned run average to 1.40 against his former teammates. Only the Orioles' Hoyt Wilhelm, another flutter ball pitcher with a spectacular 1.11 has a lower ERA than Daley.

The victory before a near sell-out crowd of 30,319, inched the Athletics within 2½ games of league-leading Chicago and only one behind Cleveland and the Orioles who are in a virtual tie for second place.

ROYAL ORBIT UPSET

Peter Pan 'Cap To Black Hills

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP) — King Ranch's Black Hills, ridden cleverly by Eddie Arcaro, upset Preakness winner Royal Orbit Saturday in the $28,200 Peter Pan Handicap and became a colt to reckon with in the Belmont Stakes next week.

A Belmont Park crowd of 36,486 backed Mrs. Halina Braunstein's Royal Orbit down to 1-2 favoritism but the big California-raced chestnut could do no better than third place.

He had won the Preakness three weeks ago by four smashing lengths.

Black Hills, who missed the big races this spring because of colic, went under the wire two lengths ahead of Howard B. Keck's Bagdad, another California -campaigned colt. It was another 2½ lengths back to Royal Orbit.

The Wheatley Stable's The Irishman, the only other horse in the race for 3-year-olds, was last. All four are eligible for the $120,000 added Belmont, final jewel in the Triple Crown which includes the Kentucky Derby and Preakness.

Black Hills paid $13.10. Because of the small field, there was win betting only. Black Hills was the longest - priced runner on the board.

Black Hills, son of Princequillo-Blackie 2nd by Congreve, ran the 1⅛ mile in 1:49 flat. This compared with the stakes record 1:47 4-5, set by Counterpoint in 1951. His purse was $18,030, the biggest of the year.

In the early running Bagdad maintained the lead but Black Hills pulled alongside the pacesetter with three-fourths of a mile to go, with Royal Orbit trailing in fourth.

Going into the far turn with half a mile to, Black Hills opened up a half-length lead with Bagdad and Royal Orbit not far behind. Entering the top of the stretch with one-quarter of mile left Bobby Ussery sent Bagdad in the lead with Black Hills and Royal Orbit trailing.

Then Arcaro applied the whip Black Hills zoomed through the rail to take a lead at the eighth pole. Then he drew clear.

Black Hills carried only 118 pounds compared with 118 for Bagdad and 127 for Royal Orbit ridden by Willie Harmatz. The Irishman carried 109. All mutuel tote 126 in the Belmont.

"There aren't any excuses," Harmatz rider of Royal Orbit said later. "He just got outrun. He was in the clear all the way but he couldn't make it."

Arcaro said, "The only way to describe it is that I had a very pleasant ride."

Rain-Plagued La-Ark Tries Again With 3 Games Today

The La-Ark League was conceived as a two-games-a-week circuit but has been pretty much of a Sunday afternoon loop so far.

The rain - plagued amateur circuit has managed to present only one Friday night schedule with showers and wet grounds washing out the openers two weeks ago and last Friday night's attractive slate that included a meeting between the two unbeaten leaders, Monroe and West Monroe, and Crossett'a first game in its new park.

Last week's rains have also forced alteration of today's schedule, holding up work on the Crossett field. Thus the West Monroe - Crossett, originally set for the Arkansas city, has been reset for West Monroe.

The two teams will meet on the West Monroe High School diamond at 2:30 this afternoon.

Crossett is winless in two starts while Dave McKenzie's West Monroe club has blanked Oak Grove 3-0, and Dubach, 4-0, and beaten Bastrop.

Either Oak Grove or Dubach will pick up their first victory of the season. Oak Grove is winless in three starts while Dubach has had two chances to pick up a victory.

Monroe's Sports, still unscored upon after three league tilts and an exhibition, meet their toughest test of the season in once - beaten Bastrop at Legion Stadium. The three of Monroe's wins have been over second - division clubs. Bastrop's only loss was to unbeaten West Monroe 4-3.

The Monroe game, along with the other two contests, is slated to begin at 2:30.

Carroll George, who blanked Ruston's Big Eight League entry on two hits in an exhibition, will probably be the Monroe starter this afternoon with lefthander Fred Southerland, who was scheduled to pitch the Friday night game a possibility.

Four Menard Players On Class AA All-State Team

By TOM LEDET
Town Talk Sports Writer
(Written for the La. Sports Writers Assn.)

The Eagles, victors over Chalmette in the state finals, placed John Lauve at first base, Jerome Mahfouz at second, Ted Vallery as a pitcher and Bob Rachal as a utility infielder.

This squad, boasting not a single batter with a hitting average below .300, was long on pitchers. Practically every man on the team pitched in at least one game for their respective teams during the season.

It was also highlighted by slick defensive players. John Francis Cordaro of St. John's of Shreveport, reputed to be one of the finest glove men in North Louisiana, had little trouble landing the shortstop berth.

The two catchers selected were Remi Prudhomme of Opelousas and Bruce Albert of Behrman. Prudhomme, a long-ball hitter, rapped out a .353 average, Albert batted .360 for his team and also pitched a doubleheader, winning both games.

Comprising the outfield were Paul Peak of Chalmette, Ronnie McNabb of Neville and Dwayne Frye of Minden. The utility outfielder is Behrman's Ron Newman.

The four pitchers selected to the team posted enviable records. Al Anding of Opelousas won seven of eight contests, while Sal Gutirrez of Chalmeete posted an 8-2 record. Menard's Ted Vallery won five and lost one, and his clutch win over Chalmette put new life in the sagging Eagles, eventual winners of the AA crown. Bill Morgan compiled a 6-1 mark for Springhill and is considered a top prospect, although only a junior.

The batting averages of the team ranged from Johnny Lauve's .318 mark to Peak's .550. Cordora's .400 average was high among the infielder's, while Mahfouz' .375 was second. Third baseman Dave Adkins of Morgan City posted a .350 average and utility infielder Rachal hit .345 for Menard.

Neville's McNabb hit .363 for the AA semifinalists and was also one of the best defensive outfielders in the state. Frye batted .350 for Minden and the utility outfielder — Newman — posted a .353 for the year.

Boston Cops 4-2 Win Over Chisox

CHICAGO (AP) — A brace of two-run homers by Boston's Vic Wertz and Frank Malzone cooled off the first-place Chicago White Sox 4-2 Saturday.

The winner was rookie southpaw Ted Wills, although he was chased in the eighth when the White Sox filled the bases with one out, but failed to score.

Wills was replaced by Mike Fornieles who got pinch-hitter Harry Simpson, the hero of Friday night's 5-2 victory over Boston, to hit into an inning-ending double play. Friday night, Simpson slammed a three-run pinch double in the eighth.

Wills now has two triumphs in his first two major league starts. He won his first start May 30 against Baltimore despite an 11-hit yield.

Both Red Sox homers — Wertz' in the first and Malzone's in the sixth—came off loser Ray Moore, who suffered his fourth setback against one victory.

Wertz's No. 4 homer after Pete Runnels walked gave Boston a 2-0 lead in the first. But the Sox got back one run in the third on a single by Luis Aparicio, a walk and Bubba Phillips' single, and another in the fourth on Johnny Romano's double and Jim Landis' single.

Malzone's homer after Wertz singled in the sixth was the Red Sox third sacker's eighth, but his first with anybody on base.

Wills got out of a jam in Chicago's one-run third when, with White Sox runners on second and first, cleanup batter Sherm Lollar hit into a double play.

Wertz, who has played intermittently for the Red Sox, collected three-for-four, hitting a pair of singles besides his first inning homer, scoring a pair of runs.

The Red Sox gave Chicago catcher Romano an annoying day, trying four thefts and succeeding three times. None of the thefts, however, led to a run

Finsterwald Shoots 67 In Target Match

OMAHA (AP) — Dow Finsterwald, the 1958 PGA champion, shot a 67 to edge Tommy Bolt in the National Golf Day target match Saturday.

He was 4-under-par and one stroke better than Bolt, the National Open champ, whose putting was off most of the afternoon.

Golfers across the country were playing their own courses in an effort to better the low score—Finsterwald's 67—in the match between the two pros playing Omaha's Happy Hollow Club Course.

Those who did will get medals from the Professional Golfers Assn. of America.

Finsterwald got a jump on the first hole with a birdie 4 as Bolt overshot the green. The Open champ played a pitch-and-run approach then rolled 35 feet past the pin to finish one over par.

On the eighth, Bolt's second shot out of the rough left him with a 12-foot putt which he sank for an eagle 3, while Finsterwald birdied the hole.

But he three-putted the ninth for a bogey 5 to lose the ground he had gained with the eagle. Finsterwald had a par 4 on the ninth.

Both men were 1-under-par on the 17th. No No. 18, Bolt put his approach within two feet of the cup for a cinch birdie while Finsterwald, with his second shot on the back collar of the green, played it safe for par and a one-shot edge in the medal play match.

SAAU Swim Meet Slated

The Southern Amateur Athletic Union will hold its Junior Olympic Short Course Swimming Championship Age Group Meet in Jackson, Miss. July 31-Aug. 1, Commissioner C. M. McEachern announced yesterday.

The age groups are divided as follows: 10 and under, 11 and 12, 13 and 14, and 15 and 16.

Stan's Slump Draws Hint Of Retirement

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Stan Musial hinted Saturday he might quit baseball at the end of the season unless he can get back on the beam as a $100,000 hitter.

"But there is still a long way to go," said the St. Louis Cardinals star, making a face at his present .246 average.

"More than 100 games are left ta play," the 38-year-old veteran cited in an interview with a St. Louis sportscaster, "and a lot of things can happen between now and then."

Musial, seven times a batting champion and three times chosen the National League's Most Valuable Player, refused to blame his batting woes on the five-game-week regimen prescribed for him by the Cards Manager, Solly Hemus.

"If you'll remember," Stan continued, "I was a pretty tired ball player at the end of last season. It was tough for me to play a night game and come back and play the next afternoon.

"That's when it was decided I would take a day off. I think it should help me in the long run. The big trouble with me so far is that I haven't been able to get going.

"I can't explain it. I'm doing everything I know to snap out of it. Some of the other fellows are watching me swing. I've taken extra practice. I'm practically being analyzed in order to snap out of this slump—one of the worst in my career."

This is all exceedingly frustrating to a perfectionist who last spring promised to play as long as he had value to his team and could hit well over .300.

"All I want to do is try to help the club, and I'm not doing it. But I haven't given up hope, not by a long shot."

Argonaut To Hillsdale On Stretch Drive

By BOB MYERS

Racing before an estimated 49,300 fans at Hollywood Park, most of whom were slightly hysterical at Hillsdale's terrific rush from far behind, the 4-year-old Hoosier star burst under the wire by a comfortable margin over the pacesetting Fleet Nasrullah.

How Now finished third in the eighth running of the mile attraction as Amerigo, the second choice in the betting, ran out of the money and Terrang, the third selection of the crowd, managed to get up for fourth.

The time was 1:34 3-5.

Hillsdale, packing 128 pounds, the heaviest of his career, and spotting the field six or more pounds, thus picked up his third stakes triumph of the meeting.

Hillsdale, owned by C. W. Smith of Detroit and given an artistic, if dangerous, ride by lanky Tommy Barrow, paid $5.30, $3.30 and $2.60.

Mrs. John D. Hertz' Fleet Nasrullah, who almost stole the race paid $6.50 and $4.90, and George Newell's How Now, with George Taniguchi aboard, returned $5.70

It also enhanced Hillsdale's bid for "Horse of the Year" honors.

Two weeks ago in a blanket finish, Hillsdale beat out Amerigo, Ying and Yang and Terrang, in that order, in a windup that had the first four horses separated by two noses and a neck.

This time it appeared that jockey Ismael Valenzuela on Fleet Nasrullah would romp home a wire-to-wire winner.

Hillsdale, starting from the rail post position, elected to drop back and let the front runners fight it out.

Ragan's Late Rally Ties Littler For Eastern Lead

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dave Ragan, 23-year-old golf pro seeking his first tourney victory, staged a sensational rally Saturday to tie front-running Gene Littler for the Eastern Open third round lead at 203 strokes.

Ragan, a Florida golfer playing out of Chattanooga, Tenn., made up six strokes on Littler on the back nine holes to pull even going into Sunday final 18.

Ragan, former Southern Intercollegiate champion, reeled off five straight birdies in his late drive for a 6-under-par 66.

Littler, 28-year-old from Singing Hills, Calif., was fading at the same time after leading through the first two rounds. He bogeyed three times in a row and saved himself a tie with a birdie on the last hole and wound up with a one under par 71.

Ed Oliver of Denver, who had tagged Little by a stroke during the first two rounds, fell back into a three-way tie by taking 73 strokes. Don Whitt of Borrego Springs, Calif., shot 69 and Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill., 70 to tie Oliver at 206, three shots behind the leaders.

Ragan and Little were a total of 1 strokes ahead of par. The comedown for Littler, winner of two tourneys this season and second highest money winner, was marked. He had taken advantage of par on the 6,820-yard Pine Ridge Course to the tune of a dozen strokes his first two rounds.

Ragan started the third round trailing him by five shots. After nine holes, it was six as Littler went two under and appeared to be on his way to a romp.

The complexion changed rapidly on the homecoming nine. Ragan, whose best performances this year have been third last week at Louisville and second at San Diego, knocked par for a loop from the 11th through the 15th holes.

His longest putt was 9 feet at the 14th as he either approached to a couple of feet or was on a par 5 hole in two shots.

His putt hit the cup and the ball bounced out for what would have been another birdie on the 16th.

Playing right behind him, Littler went over par by three-putting the 15th, hitting over the green on the next hole and fouling up in a trap on the 17th. He sank a 15-foot putt on the last hole for a birdie.

Littler, who had gone over par only once in his first two rounds, also took a bogey four on the eighth by three-putting.

Ragan, who is playing his third year on the pro tour, staged his remarkable recovery after taking a bogey 5 on the third hole with three putts.

RUSH LOSES FIRST

Dodgers Tumble Milwaukee, 3-2

MILWAUKEE (AP)— The Los Angeles Dodgers exploded for two runs on four straight singles in the eighth and beat the Milwaukee Braves 3-2 Saturday. Right-hander Bob Rush lost his first game of the season.

Jcnior Gilliam, with four singles and a walk, scored two of the Dodgers' runs and boosted his batting average to .293. He shared the spotlight with veteran relief pitcher Clem Labine who came on in the eighth to hurl two hitless innings and save the game for left-hander Sandy Koufax, now 2-1. Koufax yielded eight hits in seven innings but both runs off him were unearned. Wally Moon drove in the winning run for the Dodgers.

Henry Aaron provided the only bright spot for the Braves. The National League's batting leader singled to left center in the seventh inning for the 1,000th hit of his major league career. It was his second hit of the game and his 86th of the season but it went for naught when he was out trying to stretch it into a double.

Rush, bidding for his fifth triumph, had a four-hitter going before he weakened in the eighth.

Rush and Koufax waged a scoreless duel until the sixth when Rush issued his first walk in 20 1-3 innings. The Dodgers picked up a run on a walk to Gilliam, Charley Neal's sacrifice and Moon's double.

Los Angeles didn't stay in the lead for long. The Braves tallied two unaarned runs in their half of the sixth. Pafki singled and Crandall beat out a bounder off Gilliam's glove. Shortstop Maury Wills picked up the ball and threw it into right field, attempting to force Pafko. The latter scored and Crandall went to third. Felix Mantilla's sacrifice fly to left drove in Crandall.

The Dodgers pounded right back to win the game with two in the eighth. A pinch single by Norm Larker opened the inning. Gilliam singled, sending Solly Drake, running for Larker, to third. Neal drove in Drake with another single and after Juan Pizarro replaced Rush, Moon chased in Gilliam with the fourth single of the inning.

On-And-On Sets Record In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Calumet Farm's On-and-On set a track record for 6 furlongs Saturday in winning the $28,275 Sheridan Stakes by one length in Washington Park.

The temperamental son of Nasrullah, whipped by jockey Steve Brooks all down the stretch, was timed in 1:08 3-5 to lower the 1:09 record shared by Sun David and Fightin Indian.

Fightin Indian, owned by William G. Gilmore of San Francisco, was the 3-5 favorite in the Sheridan, primarily because of his record-tying run in the 6-furlong Tri-States Stakes May 18.

In the Sheridan, however, Fightin Indian was off very poorly and had no chance. He finished fifth in a field of eleven 3-year-olds.

Little Tytus was second and Coltrane was third.

On - and - On is the colt that caused so much confusion in the Kentucky Derby. Trainer Jimmy Jones announced in midweek On-and-On would not run, then put him in the entries unexpectedly. Later he scratched him.

On-and-On, second choice of the crowd of 18,569, paid $8.20, $4.60 and $4.00. Little Tytus, owned by Princilla D. Willis of Chicago, returned $6.40 and $5.00. Coltrane, owned by Regnave Stable of Chicago, paid $9.40.

On-and-On earned $16,750 while giving Calumet Farm its first stakes victory of the Chicago season.

The world record for 6 furlongs is 1:08 set by Humpty Dumpty at Golden Gate Fields in California in 1957.

Aaron Leads Amateur Meet Of Champions

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Tommy Aaron, whose hometown, Gainesville, Ga., doesn't have a golf course, took a five - stroke lead Saturday at the three-quarter post in the Sunnehanna Amateur Golf Tournament of Champions.

Aaron covered the first 54 holes of the tournament with a lusty 6-under par 67-66-71—204. He established the best competitive score ever shot on the outgoing nine of the sprawling Sunnehanna Country Club course Saturday with a 30 in the first of the two rounds.

Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., carded a 69-69-71—209 to move into second place from the No. 4 spot he held at the end of the first round.

Robert McManus of Terrace Park, Ohio, moved into third place with steady shooting that produced a 70-71-71—212 and Paul Kelly of Ossining, N. Y., held fourth place with a 69-69-75—215.

The final 18 holes of the tourney will be played Sunday.

D'Amato Views Training Action

CHATHAM, N. J. (AP) — Cus D'Amato, manager of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, visited the training camp Saturday and watched his charge batter four sparring partners for one round each. It was D'Amato's first appearance at the camp in more than two weeks.

The heavyweight champ preceded the boxing with a four-mile stint on the road and followed it with a session of the heavy punching bag.

Four Menard Players On Class AA All-State Team

By TOM LEDET
Town Talk Sports Writer
(Written for the La. Sports Writers Assn.)

The Eagles, victors over Chalmette in the state finals, placed John Lauve at first base, Jerome Mahfouz at second, Ted Vallery as a pitcher and Bob Rachal as a utility infielder.

This squad, boasting not a single batter with a hitting average below .300, was long on pitchers. Practically every man on the team pitched in at least one game for their respective teams during the season.

It was also highlighted by slick defensive players. John Francis Cordaro of St. John's of Shreveport, reputed to be one of the finest glove men in North Louisiana, had little trouble landing the shortstop berth.

The two catchers selected were Remi Prudhomme of Opelousas and Bruce Albert of Behrman. Prudhomme, a long-ball hitter, rapped out a .353 average, Albert batted .360 for his team and also pitched a doubleheader, winning both games.

Comprising the outfield were Paul Peak of Chalmette, Ronnie McNabb of Neville and Dwayne Frye of Minden. The utility outfielder is Behrman's Ron Newman.

The four pitchers selected to the team posted enviable records. Al Anding of Opelousas won seven of eight contests, while Sal Gutirrez of Chalmeete posted an 8-2 record. Menard's Ted Vallery won five and lost one, and his clutch win over Chalmette put new life in the sagging Eagles, eventual winners of the AA crown. Bill Morgan compiled a 6-1 mark for Springhill and is considered a top prospect, although only a junior.

The batting averages of the team ranged from Johnny Lauve's .318 mark to Peak's .550. Cordora's .400 average was high among the infielder's, while Mahfouz' .375 was second. Third baseman Dave Adkins of Morgan City posted a .350 average and utility infielder Rachal hit .345 for Menard.

Neville's McNabb hit .363 for the AA semifinalists and was also one of the best defensive outfielders in the state. Frye batted .350 for Minden and the utility outfielder — Newman — posted a .353 for the year.

Boston Cops 4-2 Win Over Chisox

CHICAGO (AP) — A brace of two-run homers by Boston's Vic Wertz and Frank Malzone cooled off the first-place Chicago White Sox 4-2 Saturday.

The winner was rookie southpaw Ted Wills, although he was chased in the eighth when the White Sox filled the bases with one out, but failed to score.

Wills was replaced by Mike Fornieles who got pinch-hitter Harry Simpson, the hero of Friday night's 5-2 victory over Boston, to hit into an inning-ending double play. Friday night, Simpson slammed a three-run pinch double in the eighth.

Wills now has two triumphs in his first two major league starts. He won his first start May 30 against Baltimore despite an 11-hit yield.

Both Red Sox homers — Wertz' in the first and Malzone's in the sixth—came off loser Ray Moore, who suffered his fourth setback against one victory.

Wertz's No. 4 homer after Pete Runnels walked gave Boston a 2-0 lead in the first. But the Sox got back one run in the third on a single by Luis Aparicio, a walk and Bubba Phillips' single, and another in the fourth on Johnny Romano's double and Jim Landis' single.

Malzone's homer after Wertz singled in the sixth was the Red Sox third sacker's eighth, but his first with anybody on base.

Wills got out of a jam in Chicago's one-run third when, with White Sox runners on second and first, cleanup batter Sherm Lollar hit into a double play.

Wertz, who has played intermittently for the Red Sox, collected three-for-four, hitting a pair of singles besides his first inning homer, scoring a pair of runs.

The Red Sox gave Chicago catcher Romano an annoying day, trying four thefts and succeeding three times. None of the thefts, however, led to a run

Finsterwald Shoots 67 In Target Match

OMAHA (AP) — Dow Finsterwald, the 1958 PGA champion, shot a 67 to edge Tommy Bolt in the National Golf Day target match Saturday.

He was 4-under-par and one stroke better than Bolt, the National Open champ, whose putting was off most of the afternoon.

Golfers across the country were playing their own courses in an effort to better the low score—Finsterwald's 67—in the match between the two pros playing Omaha's Happy Hollow Club Course.

Those who did will get medals from the Professional Golfers Assn. of America.

Finsterwald got a jump on the first hole with a birdie 4 as Bolt overshot the green. The Open champ played a pitch-and-run approach then rolled 35 feet past the pin to finish one over par.

On the eighth, Bolt's second shot out of the rough left him with a 12-foot putt which he sank for an eagle 3, while Finsterwald birdied the hole.

But he three-putted the ninth for a bogey 5 to lose the ground he had gained with the eagle. Finsterwald had a par 4 on the ninth.

Both men were 1-under-par on the 17th. No No. 18, Bolt put his approach within two feet of the cup for a cinch birdie while Finsterwald, with his second shot on the back collar of the green, played it safe for par and a one-shot edge in the medal play match.

Stan's Slump Draws Hint Of Retirement

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Stan Musial hinted Saturday he might quit baseball at the end of the season unless he can get back on the beam as a $100,000 hitter.

"But there is still a long way to go," said the St. Louis Cardinals star, making a face at his present .246 average.

"More than 100 games are left ta play," the 38-year-old veteran cited in an interview with a St. Louis sportscaster, "and a lot of things can happen between now and then."

Musial, seven times a batting champion and three times chosen the National League's Most Valuable Player, refused to blame his batting woes on the five-game-week regimen prescribed for him by the Cards Manager, Solly Hemus.

"If you'll remember," Stan continued, "I was a pretty tired ball player at the end of last season. It was tough for me to play a night game and come back and play the next afternoon.

"That's when it was decided I would take a day off. I think it should help me in the long run. The big trouble with me so far is that I haven't been able to get going.

"I can't explain it. I'm doing everything I know to snap out of it. Some of the other fellows are watching me swing. I've taken extra practice. I'm practically being analyzed in order to snap out of this slump—one of the worst in my career."

This is all exceedingly frustrating to a perfectionist who last spring promised to play as long as he had value to his team and could hit well over .300.

"All I want to do is try to help the club, and I'm not doing it. But I haven't given up hope, not by a long shot."

Argonaut To Hillsdale On Stretch Drive

By BOB MYERS

Racing before an estimated 49,300 fans at Hollywood Park, most of whom were slightly hysterical at Hillsdale's terrific rush from far behind, the 4-year-old Hoosier star burst under the wire by a comfortable margin over the pacesetting Fleet Nasrullah.

How Now finished third in the eighth running of the mile attraction as Amerigo, the second choice in the betting, ran out of the money and Terrang, the third selection of the crowd, managed to get up for fourth.

The time was 1:34 3-5.

Hillsdale, packing 128 pounds, the heaviest of his career, and spotting the field six or more pounds, thus picked up his third stakes triumph of the meeting.

Hillsdale, owned by C. W. Smith of Detroit and given an artistic, if dangerous, ride by lanky Tommy Barrow, paid $5.30, $3.30 and $2.60.

Mrs. John D. Hertz' Fleet Nasrullah, who almost stole the race, paid $6.50 and $4.90, and George Newell's How Now, with George Taniguchi aboard, returned $5.70.

It also enhanced Hillsdale's bid for "Horse of the Year" honors.

Two weeks ago in a blanket finish, Hillsdale beat out Amerigo, Ying and Yang and Terrang, in that order, in a windup that had the first four horses separated by two noses and a neck.

This time it appeared that jockey Ismael Valenzuela on Fleet Nasrullah would romp home a wire-to-wire winner.

Hillsdale, starting from the rail post position, elected to drop back and let the front runners fight it out.

SAAU Swim Meet Slated

The Southern Amateur Athletic Union will hold its Junior Olympic Short Course Swimming Championship Age Group Meet in Jackson, Miss.. July 31-Aug. 1, Commissioner C. M. McEachern announced yesterday.

The age groups are divided as follows: 10 and under, 11 and 12, 13 and 14, and 15 and 16.

Successful Theft

Junior Gilliam of Los Angeles hits the dirt in stealing second in the first inning of yesterday's game with the Braves in Milwaukee. Clear daylight shows between him and the gloved ball held by Milwaukee's Casey Wise, who took the throw from catcher Del Crandall. The umpire is Ken Burkhart. (AP Wirephoto)

Ragan's Late Rally Ties Littler For Eastern Lead

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dave Ragan, 23-year-old golf pro seeking his first tourney victory, staged a sensational rally Saturday to tie front-running Gene Littler for the Eastern Open third round lead at 203 strokes.

Ragan, a Florida golfer playing out of Chattanooga, Tenn., made up six strokes on Littler on the back nine holes to pull even going into Sunday final 18.

Ragan, former Southern Intercollegiate champion, reeled off five straight birdies in his late drive for a 6-under-par 66.

Littler, 28-year-old from Singing Hills, Calif., was fading at the same time after leading through the first two rounds. He bogeyed three times in a row and saved himself a tie with a birdie on the last hole and wound up with a one under par 71.

Ed Oliver of Denver, who had tagged Littler by a stroke during the first two rounds, fell back into a three-way tie by taking 73 strokes. Don Whitt of Borrego Springs, Calif., shot 69 and Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill., 70 to tie Oliver at 206, three shots behind the leaders.

Ragan and Little were a total of 1 strokes ahead of par. The comedown for Littler, winner of two tourneys this season and second highest money winner, was marked. He had taken advantage of par on the 6,820-yard Pine Ridge Course to the tune of a dozen strokes his first two rounds.

Ragan started the third round trailing him by five shots. After nine holes, it was six as Littler went two under and appeared to be on his way to a romp.

The complexion changed rapidly on the homecoming nine. Ragan, whose best performances this year have been third last week at Louisville and second at San Diego, knocked par for a loop from the 11th through the 15th holes.

His longest putt was 9 feet at the 14th as he either approached to a couple of feet or was on a par 5 hole in two shots.

His putt hit the cup and the ball bounced out for what would have been another birdie on the 16th.

Playing right behind him, Littler went over par by three-putting the 15th, hitting over the green on the next hole and fouling up in a trap on the 17th. He sank a 15-foot putt on the last hole for a birdie.

Littler, who had gone over par only once in his first two rounds, also took a bogey four on the eighth by three-putting.

Ragan, who is playing his third year on the pro tour, staged his remarkable recovery after taking a bogey 5 on the third hole with three putts.

RUSH LOSES FIRST

Dodgers Tumble Milwaukee, 3-2

MILWAUKEE (AP)— The Los Angeles Dodgers exploded for two runs on four straight singles in the eighth and beat the Milwaukee Braves 3-2 Saturday. Right-hander Bob Rush lost his first game of the season.

Jcnior Gilliam, with four singles and a walk, scored two of the Dodgers' runs and boosted his batting average to .293. He shared the spotlight with veteran relief pitcher Clem Labine who came on in the eighth to hurl two hitless innings and save the game for left-hander Sandy Koufax, now 2-1. Koufax yielded eight hits in seven innings but both runs off him were unearned. Wally Moon drove in the winning run for the Dodgers.

Henry Aaron provided the only bright spot for the Braves. The National League's batting leader singled to left center in the seventh inning for the 1,000th hit of his major league career. It was his second hit of the game and his 86th of the season but it went for naught when he was out trying to stretch it into a double.

Rush, bidding for his fifth triumph, had a four-hitter going before he weakened in the eighth.

Rush and Koufax waged a scoreless duel until the sixth when Rush issued his first walk in 20 1-3 innings. The Dodgers picked up a run on a walk to Gilliam, Charley Neal's sacrifice and Moon's double.

Los Angeles didn't stay in the lead for long. The Braves tallied two unaarned runs in their half of the sixth. Pafki singled and Crandall beat out a bounder off Gilliam's glove. Shortstop Maury Wills picked up the ball and threw it into right field, attempting to force Pafko. The latter scored and Crandall went to third. Felix Mantilla's sacrifice fly to left drove in Crandall.

The Dodgers pounded right back to win the game with two in the eighth. A pinch single by Norm Larker opened the inning. Gilliam singled, sending Solly Drake, running for Larker, to third. Neal drove in Drake with another single and after Juan Pizarro replaced Rush, Moon chased in Gilliam with the fourth single of the inning.

On-And-On Sets Record In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Calumet Farm's On-and-On set a track record for 6 furlongs Saturday in winning the $28,275 Sheridan Stakes by one length in Washington Park.

The temperamental son of Nasrullah, whipped by jockey Steve Brooks all down the stretch, was timed in 1:08 3-5 to lower the 1:09 record shared by Sun David and Fightin Indian.

Fightin Indian, owned by William G. Gilmore of San Francisco, was the 3-5 favorite in the Sheridan, primarily because of his record-tying run in the 6-furlong Tri-States Stakes May 18.

In the Sheridan, however, Fightin Indian was off very poorly and had no chance. He finished fifth in a field of eleven 3-year-olds.

Little Tytus was second and Coltrane was third.

On - and - On is the colt that caused so much confusion in the Kentucky Derby. Trainer Jimmy Jones announced in midweek On-and-On would not run, then put him in the entries unexpectedly. Later he scratched him.

On-and-On, second choice of the crowd of 18,569, paid $8.20, $4.60 and $4.00. Little Tytus, owned by Princilla D. Willis of Chicago, returned $6.40 and $5.00. Coltrane, owned by Regnave Stable of Chicago, paid $9.40.

On-and-On earned $16,750 while giving Calumet Farm its first stakes victory of the Chicago season.

The world record for 6 furlongs is 1:08 set by Humpty Dumpty at Golden Gate Fields in California in 1957.

D'Amato Views Training Action

CHATHAM, N. J. (AP) — Cus D'Amato, manager of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, visited the training camp Saturday and watched his charge batter four sparring partners for one round each. It was D'Amato's first appearance at the camp in more than two weeks.

Patterson will defend his title against Ingemar Johansson of Sweden, in New York's Yankee Stadium on Thursday, June 25.

The heavyweight champ preceded the boxing with a four-mile stint on the road and followed it with a session of the heavy punching bag.

Aaron Leads Amateur Meet Of Champions

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Tommy Aaron, whose hometown, Gainesville, Ga., doesn't have a golf course, took a five - stroke lead Saturday at the three-quarter post in the Sunnehanna Amateur Golf Tournament of Champions.

Aaron covered the first 54 holes of the tournament with a lusty 6-under par 67-66-71—204. He established the best competitive score ever shot on the outgoing nine of the sprawling Sunnehanna Country Club course Saturday with a 30 in the first of the two rounds.

Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., carded a 69-69-71—209 to move into second place from the No. 4 spot he held at the end of the first round.

Robert McManus of Terrace Park, Ohio, moved into third place with steady shooting that produced a 70-71-71—212 and Paul Kelly of Ossining, N. Y., held fourth place with a 69-69-75—215.

The final 18 holes of the tourney will be played Sunday.

Giants Rip Cincy For 13-3 Victory

CINCINNATI (AP) — The San Francisco Giants smashed Cincinnati pitching with 18 hits Saturday for a 13-3 victory and drew within 1½ games of first place Milwaukee in the National League.

Right-hander Sam Jones evened his record at 6-6 with an eight-hitter. All three Redleg runs were unearned.

The Giants opened the bombardment early when with two away in the first, Leon Wagner got to starter Bob Purkey for his fifth homer to score behind Willie Kirkland who had doubled and Orlando Cepeda, who singled.

Every man in Bill Rigney's line-up hit safely. Only Hal Jeffcoat, who pitched the third, and Tom Acker who became the Reds' sixth hurler in the seventh were able to retire them in order. Acker turned the trick in the ninth.

In that frame, Jones walked Roy McMillan Jim Pendleton batted for Willard Schmidt, second Red hurler, and walked, but Andre Rodgers fumbled Johnny Temple's grounder, McMillan scoring. Vada Pinson fanned, Frankie Robinson singled, driving in Pendleton and Temple. Gus Bell walked but Ed Bailey flied out.

In the second, the Giants combined a walk to Hobie Landrith, a sacrifice and Jim Davenport's single for another tally and added two more in the third on singles to Wagner, Daryl Spencer, Rodgers and Hobie Landrith.

In the fifth, three more Giants crossed the plate on a walk to Wagner, another single by Spencer and Rodgers' double to send Mabe to the showers. Luis Arroyo, just up from Havana, was called in, and after retiring Landrith uncorked a wild pitch to score Rodgers.

Braves Send Juan Pizarro To Louisville

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves Saturday sent southpaw pitcher Juan Pizarri to Louisville in the American Assn. on 24-hour recall.

Pizarro, a 22-year-old strikeout artist from Puerto Rico, was optioned after coming on in relief in the eighth inning of the Braves' 3-2 loss to the Los Angeles Saturday. He gave up a single for the winning run.

Pizarro started two games and relieved in eight others, losing his only decision. In 41 innings he allowed 41 hits, struck out 45 and walked 24 while compiling an earned run average of 5.05.

Hartman, who won 20 games with Atlanta of the Southern Assn. last season has only a 1-2 record with Louisville.

Cubs Batter Pirates With Six-Run First

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Moe Drabowsky, backed by a six-run Chicago first inning, beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-2 Saturday—The first time he's gone the distance in 17 starts.

The victory for the 23-year-old right-hander was his fourth of the year and his first complete game since he whipped Los Angeles 7-1 last July 5. He scattered seven hits and struck out two. Bennie Daniels, the first of four Pirate hurlers, was the loser.

Solo home runs by Ronnie Blackburn, his first in the majors, in the seventh and one by Roman Mejias in the ninth accounted for the Pirates' runs.

Eleven Cubs batted in the first inning. The big blows were Ernie Banks' triple and a two-run homer by Walt Moryn, his seventh.

A pair of singles by Tony Taylor, a single by Bibby Thomson and a double by Sammy Taylor, plus two walks, also figured in the Cubs' first inning binge.

The Cubs added single runs in the third and fourth innings. George Altman tripled in the third and scored on a single by Drabowsky. Banks' scored on Dale Long's sacrifice fly after his second triple in the fourth.

NORTH LOUISIANA LEADS

13 Repeaters Among 58 On All-State Track Squad

By BILL McINTYRE
The Shreveport Times
(Written for the Louisiana Sports Writers Assn.)

A record total of 58 runners, jumpers and throwers crowded into the 7th annual Louisiana Sports Writers Assn. All - State track and field team during the 1959 cinder campaign as times got faster and distances got better among the spike brigade.

Out of the 58 all-state selections 13 were repeaters from last year's lineup.

In a sectional breakdown North Louisiana again grabbed most of the berths with 26 selections, the Southwest was next in line with 24 choices and the Southeast and New Orleans districts were represented by four all-staters apiece. Six of North Louisiana's picks were relay-men only and the Southwest contributed eight baton-passers out of its 24.

Shreveport's Byrd High School, which won its fifth Louisiana Class AAA team title in six years, landed the most individuals on the team for the second straight year with nine standouts — including quartermiler and relay anchorman Bo Campbell who became the second spikeman to make the squad four years in a row.

Campbell joins former Baton Rouge High pole-vaulter Joe Harris, now a freshman at LSU, as a four-time flash. Harris, who holds the state composite vaulting record of 13-7, was all-state from 1955-58.

Three others — sprinter Ed Williams of Jena, half-miler Hayden Hicks of Byrd and javelin ace Joe Cage of Neville of Monroe—climbed onto the roster for the third straight time to join ex-preppers Don Troutman of Roanoke, Allen Semar of New Iberia, Joe Hill of Byrd and Wayne Olds of Fair Park in that category.

Making the squad for the second time were half-miler Earl Wright of Ruston, miler George Abbott of Jonesboro-Hodge, hop-step-jumper Don Hervey of Stonewall, hurdler Sammy Briuglio of St. Aloysius and Byrd Jackets John Alexander, George Tedford, George Thompson, Homer Blane and Ronnie Brown. Blane and Brown made it as relay legmen both years.

Performances recorded by this year's total of 58 all - staters should emphasize why the roster was increased from last year's 44. Last year's all-state crew bettered the 1957 team's best performances in 9 out of 17 events; this year's club went out and posted better marks than the 1958 array in 10 of the same 17 events.

Three of the current all-staters hold Louisiana composite records. Campbell established the state quarter-mile record of 49-flat as a junior in 1958; Edward Red of Lafayette set a new javelin record of 24 feet, 4¾ inches, this year; and Earl Wright of Ruston romped to a new 880 record of 1:56.6 at the AA state meet. State composite records are taken only from performances posted in the five state meets.

Ruston's Wright loped to a 1:56.6 half - mile to top the 880 field and he breezed home under 2 minutes five times in all. Jonesboro-Hodge's George Abbot — a member of last year's fabulous mile foursome of Olds, Hartsell, Abbott and Burton — chugged home in 4:32.3 and 4:32.8 to pace the marathon mile pack.

Ruston's Sammy Simonton and Byrd's George Thompson were hurdling hustlers. Simonton's best 180-yard low timber time was :19.7 but in match races against his competition he was near unbeatable. Thompson hit :14.8 twice in the 120 highs and also figured in the 180-yard cast.

The 1959 Louisiana All-State high school track and field squad, including all classes, has been announced by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association as follows:

TRACK EVENTS

100-YARD DASH—Ed Williams, Jena (9.7); John Alexander, Byrd (9.9); C. J. Brock, Lutcher (9.9); Jerry Hines, Haynesville (9.9w).

440-YARD RUN—George Tedford, Byrd (49.8); Bo Campbell, Byrd (49.9); Cap Middleton, Byrd (49.9).

880-YARD RUN—Earl Wright, Ruston (1:56.6); Stewart Zahn, DeRidder (1:57.5); Hayden Hicks, Byrd (1:58.6).

MILE RUN—George Abbott, Jonesboro-Hodge (4:32.3); Dan Fusilier, Cecelia (4:35.7); C. J. Abshire, Sulphur (4:40.4).

180-YARD LOW HURDLES—Sam Simonton, Ruston (19.7); Carson Pridgen, Natchitoches (19.7); George Thompson, Byrd (19.8).

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES—George Thompson, Byrd (14.8); Wallace Griffith, Jennings (14.8); Sammy Briuglio, St. Aloysius (15.0).

440-YARD RELAY—Byrd (Cap Middleton, George Thompson, Bo Campbell, John Alexander) 43.0; Sulphur (Doug Kinney, Glen Grigsby, Dale Mount, Jimmy Collins) 44.0.

FIELD EVENTS

DISCUS—Charles Nash, Lake Charles (164-1½); Billy Truax, Holy Cross (161-6); Jim Schoonmaker, Baton Rouge (159-1).

Natchitoches' Carson Pridgen snapped the wire at :19.7 over the 180-yard distance early in the season but slumped off badly for the rest of the campaign.

Byrd High School's three relay teams spread-eagled the field as much as they did in 1958. With Coach Woodrow Turner shuffling his speedsters in and out the Jackets rolled to a :43.0 time over 440 yards; 1:30.3 over the 880 yard distance; and two record-breaking times of 3:20.0 and 3:20.7 in the mile gallop.

A Jacket quartet of Blane, Middleton, Tedford and Campbell hit the 3:20.0 at the Shreveport Relays to fall short of the national prep record by only 2 1-10 seconds. Late in the season at the Shreveport Meet of Champions, with Brown replacing Blane, the Byrdmen flew to a 3:20.7 in another shot at the national mark.

The javelin throw, almost outlawed at the annual Louisiana High School Athletic Assn. meeting at Alexandria in March, produced two of the finest spear-tossers in state history in Red and Cage. Red went into the state Triple-A meet with a best heave of 196-10 and then reeled off his 214-4¾ pitch; he later pegged the spear 211-2½ at New Orleans.

Cage, although never able to equal his sophomore throws of 206-3 and 202-5, still whipped the javelin out to 199-5½.

In addition to the all-staters selected in the adjoining table other outstanding performances were turned in by the following:

Omaha Defeats Southern To Tie NAIA Playoff

ALPINE, Tex. (AP) — Omaha whipped Southern University 17-9 Saturday night to pull even with the Baton Rouge team in the battle for the NAIA baseball championship.

Omaha, loser of one game, knocked over the last unbeaten outfit in the tournament and set up one more contest to decide the title.

WRESTLING

Zybysko, Kovac Tangle Monday

Ex- champion Barney, who beat Zybysko two weeks ago but lost in a return go last Monday, has been demoted to a 20- minute opener, taking on haughty Prince Omar Khayman of Persia by way of Florida.

Treach Phillips of Spokane, Washington, who make his local debut, last week, meets Carlos Mendoza in the night's other bout, billed as the co-main event with the Kovac - Zybysko clash.

The two main events will have 60- minute time limits with two falls to win. The opener will be for one fall over the 20 - minute or less route.

The ruthless Zybysko is favored to defeat Kovac, a somewhat cleaner - fighting lad of no small talent. Zybysko lost to West Monroe's Barney two weeks ago on a disqualification but stayed out of trouble last week, not by wrestling clean, but by being a little more discreet with his rough stuff.

Mendoza, fighting out of Tijuana, will be making his first start before Monroe fans. Reputed to be a bad hombre, Mendoza will be meeting a clean fighter in Phillips, who was impressive in his victory over Khayam last week.

Tigers Stop Nats, 4-1, On Rally In 8th

DETROIT (AP)—Paul Foytack pitched his second straight complete game after 10 failures to finish, and touched off the Detroit Tigers' winning rally with an eighth-inning single in a 4-1 victory over the Washington Senators Saturday.

The hard-throwing right-hander, working without a hit through the first four innings, scattered six hits for his fourth victory. With two out in the eighth inning and the score tied 1-1, Foytack laced a single to right field and then scored the winning run.

The only damaging blow off Foytack was Faye Thorneberry's second home run. It was an upper deck blast in the eighth inning and pulled the Senators up to a 1-1 tie.

The Tigers, taking their second straight decision from the Nats, had scored in the fifth inning when a former Washington player, catcher Lou Berberet, tripled off the center field fence and scored when another ex-Senator, Rocky Bridges, looped a single to left.

Starter Russ Kemmerer dueled Foytack on even terms through seven innings before he departed for a pinch hitter. Kemmerer yielded only three hits.

Stop your floods before they start!

We have the equipment to provide the best conservation of your land

Your land may never actually be "flooded"—but it feels the effect of the floods! Irreplacable topsoil is lost. Dangerous gullies are cut into your fields. Water runs off instead of soaking in. Your farm roads, ditches and bridges are washed out. Further downstream, more farms and communities may be ruined.

We will help you put good conservation practices into use on your farm. We have experienced men and Caterpillar-built machines to form your fields, smooth out gullies, build terraces, dams and drainage ditches, clear and develop land. Call us for more information.

Giants Rip Cincy For 13-3 Victory

CINCINNATI (AP) — The San Francisco Giants smashed Cincinnati pitching with 18 hits Saturday for a 13-3 victory and drew within 1½ games of first place Milwaukee in the National League.

The Giants opened the bombardment early when with two away in the first, Leon Wagner got to starter Bob Purkey for his fifth homer to score behind Willie Kirkland who had doubled and Orlando Cepeda, who singled.

Every man in Bill Rigney's line-up hit safely. Only Hal Jeffcoat, who pitched the third, and Tom Acker who became the Reds' sixth hurler in the seventh were able to retire them in order. Acker turned the trick in the ninth.

In that frame, Jones walked Roy McMillan Jim Pendleton batted for Willard Schmidt, second Red hurler, and walked, but Andre Rodgers fumbled Johnny Temple's grounder, McMillan scoring. Vada Pinson fanned, Frankie Robinson singled, driving in Pendleton and Temple. Gus Bell walked but Ed Bailey flied out.

In the second, the Giants combined a walk to Hobie Landrith, a sacrifice and Jim Davenport's single for another tally and added two more in the third on singles to Wagner, Daryl Spencer, Rodgers and Hobie Landrith.

In the fifth, three more Giants crossed the plate on a walk to Wagner, another single by Spencer and Rodgers' double to send Mabe to the showers. Luis Arroyo, just up from Havana, was called in, and after retiring Landrith uncorked a wild pitch to score Rodgers.

Braves Send Juan Pizarro To Louisville

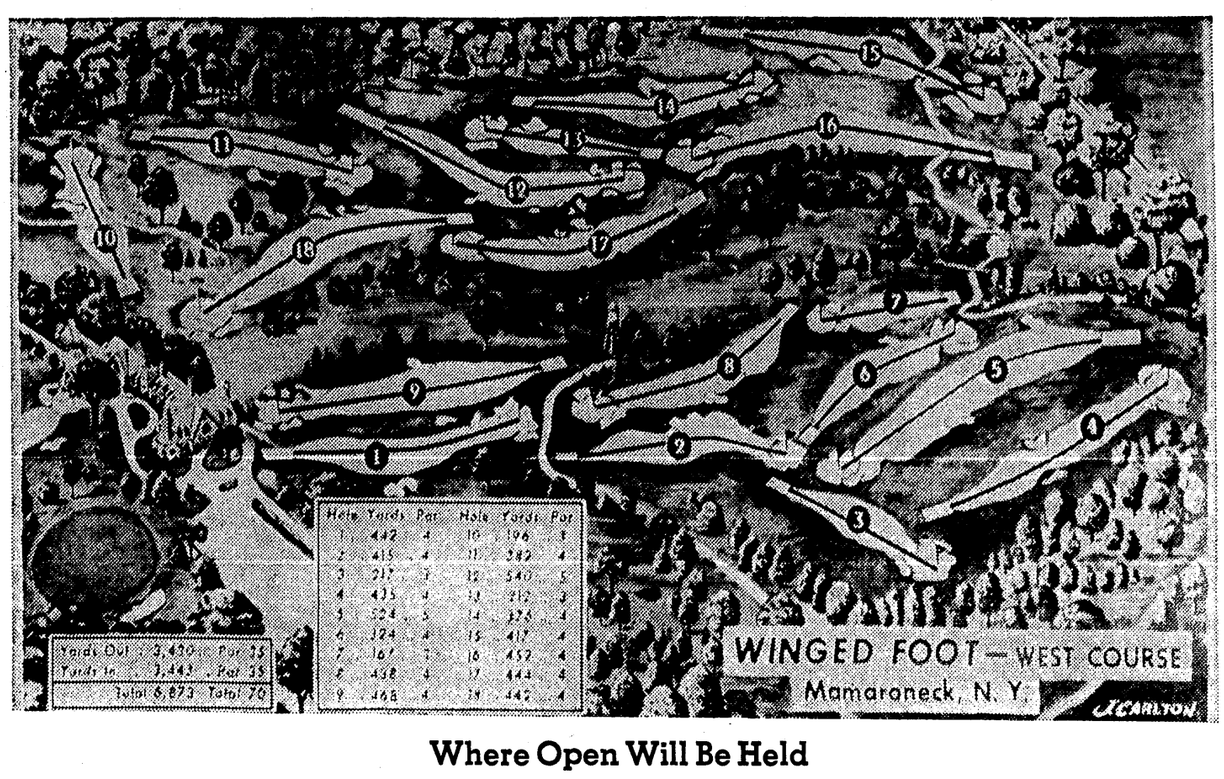

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves Saturday sent southpaw pitcher Juan Pizarri to Louisville in the American Assn. on 24-hour recall.

Pizarro, a 22-year-old strikeout artist from Puerto Rico, was optioned after coming on in relief in the eighth inning of the Braves' 3-2 loss to the Los Angeles Saturday. He gave up a single for the winning run.

Pizarro started two games and relieved in eight others, losing his only decision. In 41 innings he allowed 41 hits, struck out 45 and walked 24 while compiling an earned run average of 5.05.

Hartman, who won 20 games with Atlanta of the Southern Assn. last season has only a 1-2 record with Louisville.

Cubs Batter Pirates With Six-Run First

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Moe Drabowsky, backed by a six-run Chicago first inning, beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-2 Saturday—The first time he's gone the distance in 17 starts.

The victory for the 23-year-old right-hander was his fourth of the year and his first complete game since he whipped Los Angeles 7-1 last July 5. He scattered seven hits and struck out two. Bennie Daniels, the first of four Pirate hurlers, was the loser.

Solo home runs by Ronnie Blackburn, his first in the majors, in the seventh and one by Roman Mejias in the ninth accounted for the Pirates' runs.

Eleven Cubs batted in the first inning. The big blows were Ernie Banks' triple and a two-run homer by Walt Moryn, his seventh.

A pair of singles by Tony Taylor, a single by Bibby Thomson and a double by Sammy Taylor, plus two walks, also figured in the Cubs' first inning binge.

The Cubs added single runs in the third and fourth innings. George Altman tripled in the third and scored on a single by Drabowsky. Banks' scored on Dale Long's sacrifice fly after his second triple in the fourth.

NORTH LOUISIANA LEADS

13 Repeaters Among 58 On All-State Track Squad

By BILL McINTYRE
The Shreveport Times
(Written for the Louisiana Sports Writers Assn.)

A record total of 58 runners, jumpers and throwers crowded into the 7th annual Louisiana Sports Writers Assn. All - State track and field team during the 1959 cinder campaign as times got faster and distances got better among the spike brigade.

Out of the 58 all-state selections 13 were repeaters from last year's lineup.

In a sectional breakdown North Louisiana again grabbed most of the berths with 26 selections, the Southwest was next in line with 24 choices and the Southeast and New Orleans districts were represented by four all-staters apiece. Six of North Louisiana's picks were relay-men only and the Southwest contributed eight baton-passers out of its 24.

Shreveport's Byrd High School, which won its fifth Louisiana Class AAA team title in six years, landed the most individuals on the team for the second straight year with nine standouts — including quartermiler and relay anchorman Bo Campbell who became the second spikeman to make the squad four years in a row.

Campbell joins former Baton Rouge High pole-vaulter Joe Harris, now a freshman at LSU, as a four-time flash. Harris, who holds the state composite vaulting record of 13-7, was all-state from 1955-58.

Three others — sprinter Ed Williams of Jena, half-miler Hayden Hicks of Byrd and javelin ace Joe Cage of Neville of Monroe—climbed onto the roster for the third straight time to join ex-preppers Don Troutman of Roanoke, Allen Semar of New Iberia, Joe Hill of Byrd and Wayne Olds of Fair Park in that category.

Making the squad for the second time were half-miler Earl Wright of Ruston, miler George Abbott of Jonesboro-Hodge, hop-step-jumper Don Hervey of Stonewall, hurdler Sammy Briuglio of St. Aloysius and Byrd Jackets John Alexander, George Tedford, George Thompson, Homer Blane and Ronnie Brown. Blane and Brown made it as relay legmen both years.

Performances recorded by this year's total of 58 all - staters should emphasize why the roster was increased from last year's 44. Last year's all-state crew bettered the 1957 team's best performances in 9 out of 17 events; this year's club went out and posted better marks than the 1958 array in 10 of the same 17 events.

Three of the current all-staters hold Louisiana composite records. Campbell established the state quarter-mile record of 49-flat as a junior in 1958; Edward Red of Lafayette set a new javelin record of 24 feet, 4¾ inches, this year; and Earl Wright of Ruston romped to a new 880 record of 1:56.6 at the AA state meet. State composite records are taken only from performances posted in the five state meets.

Ruston's Wright loped to a 1:56.6 half - mile to top the 880 field and he breezed home under 2 minutes five times in all. Jonesboro-Hodge's George Abbot -- a member of last year's fabulous mile foursome of Olds, Hartsell, Abbott and Burton — chugged home in 4:32.3 and 4:32.8 to pace the marathon mile pack.

Ruston's Sammy Simonton and Byrd's George Thompson were hurdling hustlers. Simonton's best 180-yard low timber time was :19.7 but in match races against his competition he was near unbeatable. Thompson hit :14.8 twice in the 120 highs and also figured in the 180-yard cast.

The 1959 Louisiana All-State high school track and field squad, including all classes, has been announced by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association as follows:

TRACK EVENTS

100-YARD DASH—Ed Williams, Jena (9.7); John Alexander, Byrd (9.9); C. J. Brock, Lutcher (9.9); Jerry Hines, Haynesville (9.9w).

FIELD EVENTS

DISCUS—Charles Nash, Lake Charles (164-1½); Billy Truax, Holy Cross (161-6); Jim Schoonmaker, Baton Rouge (159-1).

Natchitoches' Carson Pridgen snapped the wire at :19.7 over the 180-yard distance early in the season but slumped off badly for the rest of the campaign.

Byrd High School's three relay teams spread-eagled the field as much as they did in 1958. With Coach Woodrow Turner shuffling his speedsters in and out the Jackets rolled to a :43.0 time over 440 yards; 1:30.3 over the 880 yard distance; and two record-breaking times of 3:20.0 and 3:20.7 in the mile gallop.

A Jacket quartet of Blane, Middleton, Tedford and Campbell hit the 3:20.0 at the Shreveport Relays to fall short of the national prep record by only 2 1-10 seconds. Late in the season at the Shreveport Meet of Champions, with Brown replacing Blane, the Byrdmen flew to a 3:20.7 in another shot at the national mark.

The javelin throw, almost outlawed at the annual Louisiana High School Athletic Assn. meeting at Alexandria in March, produced two of the finest spear-tossers in state history in Red and Cage. Red went into the state Triple-A meet with a best heave of 196-10 and then reeled off his 214-4¾ pitch; he later pegged the spear 211-2½ at New Orleans.

Cage, although never able to equal his sophomore throws of 206-3 and 202-5, still whipped the javelin out to 199-5½.

In addition to the all-staters selected in the adjoining table other outstanding performances were turned in by the following:

HONORABLE MENTION

Omaha Defeats Southern To Tie NAIA Playoff

ALPINE, Tex. (AP) — Omaha whipped Southern University 17-9 Saturday night to pull even with the Baton Rouge team in the battle for the NAIA baseball championship.

Omaha, loser of one game, knocked over the last unbeaten outfit in the tournament and set up one more contest to decide the title.

WRESTLING

Zybysko, Kovac Tangle Monday

Ex- champion Barney, who beat Zybysko two weeks ago but lost in a return go last Monday, has been demoted to a 20- minute opener, taking on haughty Prince Omar Khayman of Persia by way of Florida.

Treach Phillips of Spokane, Washington, who make his local debut, last week, meets Carlos Mendoza in the night's other bout, billed as the co-main event with the Kovac - Zybysko clash.

The two main events will have 60- minute time limits with two falls to win. The opener will be for one fall over the 20 - minute or less route.

The ruthless Zybysko is favored to defeat Kovac, a somewhat cleaner - fighting lad of no small talent. Zybysko lost to West Monroe's Barney two weeks ago on a disqualification but stayed out of trouble last week, not by wrestling clean, but by being a little more discreet with his rough stuff.

Mendoza, fighting out of Tijuana, will be making his first start before Monroe fans. Reputed to be a bad hombre, Mendoza will be meeting a clean fighter in Phillips, who was impressive in his victory over Khayam last week.

Tigers Stop Nats, 4-1, On Rally In 8th

DETROIT (AP)—Paul Foytack pitched his second straight complete game after 10 failures to finish, and touched off the Detroit Tigers' winning rally with an eighth-inning single in a 4-1 victory over the Washington Senators Saturday.

The hard-throwing right-hander, working without a hit through the first four innings, scattered six hits for his fourth victory. With two out in the eighth inning and the score tied 1-1, Foytack laced a single to right field and then scored the winning run.

The only damaging blow off Foytack was Faye Thorneberry's second home run. It was an upper deck blast in the eighth inning and pulled the Senators up to a 1-1 tie.

The Tigers, taking their second straight decision from the Nats, had scored in the fifth inning when a former Washington player, catcher Lou Berberet, tripled off the center field fence and scored when another ex-Senator, Rocky Bridges, looped a single to left.

Starter Russ Kemmerer dueled Foytack on even terms through seven innings before he departed for a pinch hitter. Kemmerer yielded only three hits.

Stop your floods before they start!

We have the equipment to provide the best conservation of your land

Your land may never actually be "flooded"—but it feels the effect of the floods! Irreplacable topsoil is lost. Dangerous gullies are cut into your fields. Water runs off instead of soaking in. Your farm roads, ditches and bridges are washed out. Further downstream, more farms and communities may be ruined.

We will help you put good conservation practices into use on your farm. We have experienced men and Caterpillar-built machines to form your fields, smooth out gullies, build terraces, dams and drainage ditches, clear and develop land. Call us for more information.

2 Catahoula Tax Issues Up For Vote

JONESVILLE (Special) — A special election will be held at the Recreation Center, Foules, in Ward One of Catahoula parish on Wednesday, for the purpose of levying a one (1) mill tax.

The purpose of the tax is for acquiring sites, for constructing, improving, maintaining and operating recreational facilities for the Maitland Recreation district.

The tax is to be levied for a period of 10 years on all taxable property within Ward One, which makes up the district.

The board of commissioners of the district, who called the special meeting held on April 23, of this year, will meet in special session on Thursday at 10 a.m. to canvass the returns of the election and declare the results.

A second election has been called by the Four Rivers Recreation for Tuesday, July 21. This action was taken by the commissioners of the district at a meeting held in Jonesville during the week. The district is comprised of all of Ward 6 in Catahoula parish.

The first proposition in the election call is for a $50,000 bond issue to run for 15 years. The proposal is for the purpose of purchasing and acquiring lands, buildings, equipment and other facilities including a swimming pool to be used in providing recreational facilities in said recreation district.

In the second proposition is for a ½ mill tax for 10 years for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating recreational facilities in the district. The issue will begin in 1960.

It was pointed out recently that a 3½ mill tax would be sufficient for both construction and maintenance of a swimming pool and for other needed recreational facilities in various parts of the ward. The tax would amount to $3.50 per $1000 assessment per year it was stressed and on only a parish basis.

Father Is Killed In Accident On Trip To See Son

CORINTH, Miss. (UPI)—Claude F. Douglas, Whitehaven, Tenn., real estate salesman, was killed near here Saturday in an automobile crash en route to the graduation of his son, Freeman Douglas, at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville.

C. B. Wright, Mississippi State Highway Patrol investigator said the Douglas car appeared to have run off Highway 72 at a curve 12 miles west of Corinth. There had been no collision, Wright said.

"The driver may either have gone to sleep or been ill," Wright added.

Two passengers riding in the car were not badly hurt, according to Community Hospital here. They were Douglas' wife, who had a cut knee, and Mrs. Maude Ragan of Louisville, Tenn., cuts and bruises. Both women were brought by ambulance to Memphis hospitals.

Besides his widow and son, Douglas is survived by a daughter, Mary Alice.

TEST FIRE ROCKET

CAIRO (UPI)—A newspaper reported Friday the United Arab Republic had developed and test-fired an intermediate range rocket successfu ly. The newspaper Al Akhbar said the rocket was developed at a desert plant and that proving shots gave "excellent results."

BISHOP TAKES LIFE

LONDON (UPI)—The Rt. Rev. Robert Nelson, a bishop of the Church of England whose body was found in a gas-filled room in a London hotel, committed suicide, a coroner's court ruled Friday.

Bishop Nelson, 45, suffragan bishop of Middleton, Lancashire, had come to London to work with other bishops and clergymen on a revision of the Anglican catechism.

ON D-DAY ANNIVERSARY

Ike Recalls Europe Invasion Problems

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The problems he faced in sending a huge invasion force ashore in Europe 15 years ago came back to President Eisenhower's mind Saturday on this anniversary of D-Day.

The chief executive took no public notice of the anniversary, but he talked about it soon after he arose Saturday morning.

Maj. Gen. Howard Mcc. Snyder, the President's doctor, dropped in at the Eisenhower farm at breakfast time to chat with Eisenhower before they drove to the golf course.

The President brought up the subject and he and Snyder reminisced about the vast responsibilities on Eisenhower's role as Supreme Allied Commander.

The chief executive drove to the Gettysburg Country Club before 9 a.m. edt to play golf with another associate from World War II and now a fellow farmer here, Brig. Gen. Arthur S. Nevins.

Nevins is retired and in addition to operating his own farm, assists the President with the management of his establishment.

The two played 18 holes in about two hours, and then Eisenhower faced new problems—rain clouds forming toward the Catoctin Mountains of nearby Maryland and the fact that he and his wife were giving a late afternoon lawn party for 200 White House staff members and their wives.

The Eisenhowers last gave this sort of party here in 1955. Saturday they set up a large canvas shelter over the grass to the east of their house and should rain have developed, it was hoped the tent might protect some of the guests.

the travel-lovin' Chevrolet

Nothing else but a dyed-in-the-wool sports car like the Corvette can take a turn with the solid assurance of this sweet-handling Chevrolet. Drive it—and feel the extra smoothness and stability born of Chevy's better balance and supple full coil springs.

It's easy to see where Chevrolet gets its road sense. With big coil springs at every wheel, a firm, wider stance and all of its pounds distributed with painstaking care, Chevy's born with it.

The only thing that may be hard to understand is how it can offer the ride it does, along with so many other luxury-car virtues, and still compete in the low-price field.

We use the word compete only in the sense of price. For with a ride as special as Chevy's, real competitors are hard to come by. There's a world of difference between Chevrolet's coil springs at all four wheels and the leaf springs that most other cars still use. Take a Chevy down a snaky back road and you'll feel the difference in the sure way it holds through curves and shoots over rough spots with hardly a ripple. This one's made to travel and loves every minute of it.

The proposal is for the purpose of purchasing and acquiring lands, buildings, equipment and other facilities including a swimming pool to be used in providing recreational facilities in said recreation district.

In the second proposition is for a ½ mill tax for 10 years for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and operating recreational facilities in the district. The issue will begin in 1960.

It was pointed out recently that a 3½ mill tax would be sufficient for both construction and maintenance of a swimming pool and for other needed recreational facilities in various parts of the ward. The tax would amount to $3.50 per $1000 assessment per year it was stressed and on only a parish basis.

A Determined Heiress

Chin up, Gloia Vanderbilt Stokowski Lumet was the picture of a determined mother at state supreme court during her current legal battle to win full time custody of her two sons from their father and her ex-husband, conductor Leopold Stokowski. In the background was one of her attorneys, Arnold Krakower. The children, Chris, 7, and Stan, 8, spend part of the time with their father, who currently is in Europe. Mrs. Lumet is scheduled to resume testifying Monday in the closed hearings. (AP Wirephoto)

Father Is Killed In Accident On Trip To See Son

CORINTH, Miss. (UPI)—Claude F. Douglas, Whitehaven, Tenn., real estate salesman, was killed near here Saturday in an automobile crash en route to the graduation of his son, Freeman Douglas, at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville.

C. B. Wright, Mississippi State Highway Patrol investigator said the Douglas car appeared to have run off Highway 72 at a curve 12 miles west of Corinth. There had been no collision, Wright said.

"The driver may either have gone to sleep or been ill," Wright added.

Two passengers riding in the car were not badly hurt, according to Community Hospital here. They were Douglas' wife, who had a cut knee, and Mrs. Maude Ragan of Louisville, Tenn., cuts and bruises. Both women were brought by ambulance to Memphis hospitals.

Besides his widow and son, Douglas is survived by a daughter, Mary Alice.

TEST FIRE ROCKET

CAIRO (UPI)—A newspaper reported Friday the United Arab Republic had developed and test-fired an intermediate range rocket successfu ly. The newspaper Al Akhbar said the rocket was developed at a desert plant and that proving shots gave "excellent results."

BISHOP TAKES LIFE

LONDON (UPI)—The Rt. Rev. Robert Nelson, a bishop of the Church of England whose bo was found in a gas-filled room in a London hotel, committed sui cide, a coroner's court ruled Fr day.

Bishop Nelson, 45, suffragan bishop of Middleton, Lancashire, had come to London to work with other bishops and clergymen on a revision of the Anglican catechism.

ON D-DAY ANNIVERSARY

Ike Recalls Europe Invasion Problems

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The problems he faced in sending a huge invasion force ashore in Europe 15 years ago came back to President Eisenhower's mind Saturday on this anniversary of D-Day.

The chief executive took no public notice of the anniversary, but he talked about it soon after he arose Saturday morning.

Maj. Gen. Howard Mcc. Snyder, the President's doctor, dropped in at the Eisenhower farm at breakfast time to chat with Eisenhower before they drove to the golf course.

The President brought up the subject and he and Snyder reminisced about the vast responsibilities on Eisenhower's role as Supreme Allied Commander.

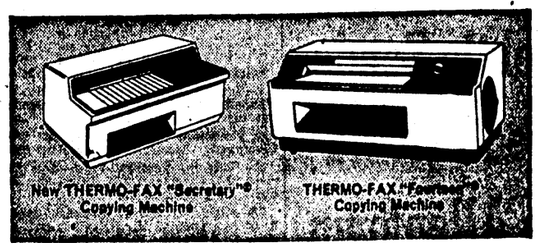

The chief executive drove to the Gettysburg Country Club before 9 a.m. edt to play golf with another associate from World War II and now a fellow farmer here, Brig. Gen. Arthur S. Nevins.

Nevins is retired and in addition to operating his own farm, assists the President with the management of his establishment.

The two played 18 holes in about two hours, and then Eisenhower faced new problems—rain clouds forming toward the Catoctin Mountains of nearby Maryland and the fact that he and his wife were giving a late afternoon lawn party for 200 White House staff members and their wives.

The Eisenhowers last gave this sort of party here in 1955. Saturday they set up a large canvas shelter over the grass to the east of their house and should rain have developed, it was hoped the tent might protect some of the guests.

the travel-lovin' Chevrolet

Nothing else but a dyed-in-the-wool sports car like the Corvette can take a turn with the solid assurance of this sweet-handling Chevrolet. Drive it—and feel the extra smoothness and stability born of Chevy's better balance and supple full coil springs.

It's easy to see where Chevrolet gets its road sense. With big coil springs at every wheel, a firm, wider stance and all of its pounds distributed with painstaking care, Chevy's born with it.

The only thing that may be hard to understand is how it can offer the ride it does, along with so many other luxury-car virtues, and still compete in the low-price field.

We use the word compete only in the sense of price. For with a ride as special as Chevy's, real competitors are hard to come by

There's a world of difference between Chevrolet's coil springs at all four wheels and the leaf springs that most other cars still use. Take a Chevy down a snaky back road and you'll feel the difference in the sure way it holds through curves and shoots over rough spots with hardly a ripple. This one's made to travel and loves every minute of it.

SPOTLIGHT ON FOOD

By Mildred Swift

More hens are producing an impressive number of eggs. Prices are the lowest they've been since 1946, in this area. Now is the time for the baby, the school child, the parent and the grandparent to have a whole egg at least five times a week — one a day is even better.

WHY EAT EGGS?

Every sealed, sanitary egg contains a yolk and white filled with nourishing food stuffs. The protein in eggs is complete just like that found in milk and meat.

Doctors say the average person needs more iron. The iron in eggs is high and along with it is copper. This copper helps the body use the iron.

It's amazing! Eggs contain twelve of the thirteen minerals most needed by the body. Not only that — just note this list of vitamins found in eggs: riboflavin (for health and vigor); thiamin (for steady nerves); niacin (preventing pellagra); Vitamin A)for healthy body tissues); Vitamin D (for helping calcium and phosphorus); and small amounts of several others.

Two large eggs provide about the same amount of protein as an average serving of meat.

By now you've decided, we hope, that you just must have at least an egg a day. The medium size egg is your best buy now on a per pound basis. Most recipes are based on using this size. There are a few "pee wee" size and some large eggs. You'll find the size you want.

Several weeks back we discussed buying eggs, grading, candling. Right now, we'll just remind you that:

(1) Eggs do not vary much in nutritive value, regardless of color, size or grade.

(2) Look for refrigerated eggs in the store.

(3) Color or shell is no indication of food value or flavor.

(4) Eggs in cartons are packed with the large end up. Keep them in that position in your refrigerator.

(5) Eggs kept at room temperature may lose as much quality in three days as those kept two weeks in your refrigerator.

(6) Keep eggs covered, as they absorb odors of other foods.

LET'S COOK 'EM

Yes — not only for breakfast but for lunch and dinner. My! but Dagwood's "Cackle Fruit" is a versatile food. As a main course, in combination with other foods, eggs add colorful interest to your meals.

When you eat eggs is not as important as how you cook them. Use even, moderate heat for cooking, and cook until just done. Cooked in this way, eggs are tender. High temperatures and long cooking tend to toughen them.

Even a boiled egg can be almost too tough to eat. When you hear the "bump, bump, bump" of eggs boiling, you're doing some mighty bad things to that fine food. As we said, you're toughening the protein. Also, you're misplacing the yolk, making the egg difficult to slice for stuffing. You have seen boiled eggs where the yellow was on one side. The white is thin there, and tears when peeled.

PEELING THEM

Since you'll be pickling and stuffing eggs for picnics, let's talk about "clean peeling." You know — you've peeled eggs and when you finished, you were practically down to the yolk. There are two ways to peel eggs nicely: (1) Take eggs out of the water as soon as their cooking time is up, crack the shell in several spots and put the eggs back into the hot water about two minutes. Now put them in cold water and proceed to peel. (2) Put a handful of salt in the cooking water. When cooking time is up, peel eggs while hot in this manner: crack shell at large end. Start peeling at this end, holding the egg under running cold water.

THESE ARE DELICIOUS!

Eggs used as a main dish can substitute for meat. What about this dinner menu?

Eggs in Nest Egg Bread
Molded Fruit Salad
Green Beans with Bacon Milk
Baked Custard

EGGS IN NESTS

1 cup uncooked rice
1 cup diced, cooked carrots or green peas
1 cup cheese, grated
2 tablespoons butter of margarine
6 eggs
Salt and pepper
Paprika

Cook rice dry. Combine with vegetables, cheese and butter or margarine. Pour into greased, shallow baking dish (8" x 12"). With the back of a large spoon, make 6 nests of the rice mixture. Break an egg into each nest. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Bake at 350F or until eggs a done. 4 to 6 servings.

BAKED CUSTARD
(6 servings)

2-3 cup sweetened condensed milk
2 cups hot water
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1-2 teasoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
Nutmeg

Mix condensed milk and hot water. Pour gradually over eggs, stirring constantly. Add vanilla. Pour into greased quart baking dish or custard cups. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Place in a pan filled with hot water to a depth of 1 inch. Bake in 325F oven for about 1 hour or until custard is set. A knife blade inserted will come out clean, when custard is done.

FREEZE SOME NOW

This is certainly a good time to put some eggs in the freezer for use when the prices go up. Call your home demonstration agent for a freezing bulletin by Miss Estelle Fournet, Food Preservation Specialist. Our number is FA 3-2251.

Miss Fournet gives you full instructions for putting eggs in the freezer. Read carefully and follow.

EXTRA

If you failed to get the recipe for pickled eggs given in this column two weeks ago, call our office. What man is there who doesn't count pickled eggs one of his favorite foods? Then, that's a hint for wives, daughters, mothers-in-law to pickle some eggs for Dad for Father's Day. They'll just about have time to be at their best, if you get these in the pickling solution now. The small eggs are ideal for this recipe, as the flavor penetrates the entire egg.

See you next Thursday afternoon and Friday morning.

Summer Classes Open Tomorrow

Regular classes for the nine-week summer term at Northeast Louisiana State College will open tomorrow at 7 a.m. and end at 12:50 p.m. according to the weekly schedule which will run Monday through Friday.

The session will close August 7.

Students who failed to register by Saturday noon may enroll until June 12 by paying a late registration fee of $5.

Any person wishing to earn credit in the college must file with the office of admissions an application for admittance on an official form and a certificate of eligibility signed by his high school principal and parish superintendent, as required by Legislative Act No. 15 of 1956.

He should also have official transcripts of high school and college records and the results of a physical examination on a form supplied by Northeast.

A veteran entering college for the first time should have with him at time of registration a certificate for education and training. Veterans under the Korean Bill (Public Law 550) must begin their training not later than three years from the date of their discharge.

College requirements include the purchase of cafeteria meal tickets by all students who live on the campus where meals will be served on a seven-day per week basis.

TO HIT ALL-TIME HIGH

Debt Interest May Unbalance Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Eisenhower administration has revealed a new threat to the President's precariously-balanced fiscal 1960 budget. It said interest on the national debt would climb to an all-time high of $8,600,000,000.

That would push the cost of running the government a half billion dollars higher than the 77 billion estimated by Eisenhower in his budget message to Congress last January.

Administration leaders said, however, that a balanced budget still was possible for the new fiscal year starting July 1. They said tax revenues also were expected to be higher than the President originally had anticipated—by 600 million dollars.

The revised forecasts were disclosed by Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson and Budget Director Maurice H. Stans in secret testimony before the House Ways & Means Committee earlier this week.

The committee made public Friday a staff analysis of the new data which indicated a strong possibility that the government would wind up in the red despite administration hopes—and even if no big new spending programs are approved.

Anderson and Stans made clear the hoped-for balance still was dependent on Congress enacting the increased postal rates and federal gasoline tax sought by Eisenhower.

But the committee staff noted there is little likelihood Congress will go along, resulting in a "small deficit" in the next fiscal period.

On this basis, spending would total $78,121,000,000 and revenues $77,700,000,000, leaving a deficit of 421 million dollars.

Eisenhower originally had anticipated a small surplus of 70 million. Under the new estimates, and with the postal and gas tax hikes, he expects a 170 million dollar surplus.

Stans also told the committee the next budget the Eisenhowr administration sends to Congress—in January 1960—will be even larger than this year's model. He said "built-in" increases in existing programs may increase that spending budget to 80 billion.

In January, the President made provision for $8,100,000,000 to finance carrying charges on the national debt, which now totals 286 billion dollars. The half-billion-dollar increase means this cost would rise a full one billion dollars over the total charge for this fiscal year.

The Democratic National Committee, in its new publication "Dispelling The Fog," said it soon may cost 11 billion dollars and more to finance the public debt, compared with $5,800,000,000 during the last full year of the Truman administration.

"Tight money, the GOP's cure-all for the economy, has turned into a Frankenstein monster," the publication said.

Informants said the President's upward revision in the public debt charge did not hinge on his expected request to Congress to increase or eliminate altogether the present ceiling on interest on long-term government bonds.

They said the President's recommendations on this would go to Congress in a special message Monday.

Leadership Training Set For Day Camp

Dr. Doyle Hamilton, chairman of the Twin Cities YMCA camping committee, announces that the YMCA will conduct a leadership training program for all YMCA - YWCA day camp staff members from Monday through Thursday of this week.

Each staff member has been carefully selected and the entire group is made up of individuals of suitable, character who enjoy outdoor work with younger children, he said.

Robert C. McKee, YMCA youth secretary, will be camp director.

Bill Robinson, YMCA general secretary, will serve as the boys program director and boys aquatic director.

Boy's counselors will be James Hudson Jr., Donn . Kurtz II, Freddy Cook, James Walker, Russell Morrow, Charles Holler, Ray Taunton, Morris Eaves, Newt Caldwell, David Sprague, and Johnny Brothers.

GIRLS GROUP

Girls counselors are Judy Lane, Gay Demmary, Cindy Guilkey, Susan Stewart, Phyllis Kulcke, Sandy Dean and Sharon Crew. Junior Counselors for the girls camp are Laural Sharp, Joyce Ann Gill, Carol Curry and Sharron Monroe.

Areas of study to be covered in the leadership training program are history and philosophy of the YMCA and its camping program; theory and practice of group work objectives of day camp program; rules and regulations governing day camp staff; day camping program; first aid; day camp administration, and YMCA aquatic program.

Limited space is still available for all periods of day camp beginning June 15.

However, Hamilton urges parents who are interested in their children attending camp to call the YMCA, FA 5-2353, immediately for registration blanks.

Youth Who Likes Lions Is Given Job With Circus

DUDLEY, England (AP)—Edward France, the butcher's boy who prefers the company of live lions to dead mutton—and who climbed into a lion's cage to prove it—has finally got himself a job with a circus.

He snapped up an offer to become a junior elephant-minder Friday, an hour after he was fined by a stern magistrate for bending the bars of the lion's den at Dudley Zoo and joining two lions, much to the consternation of onlookers.

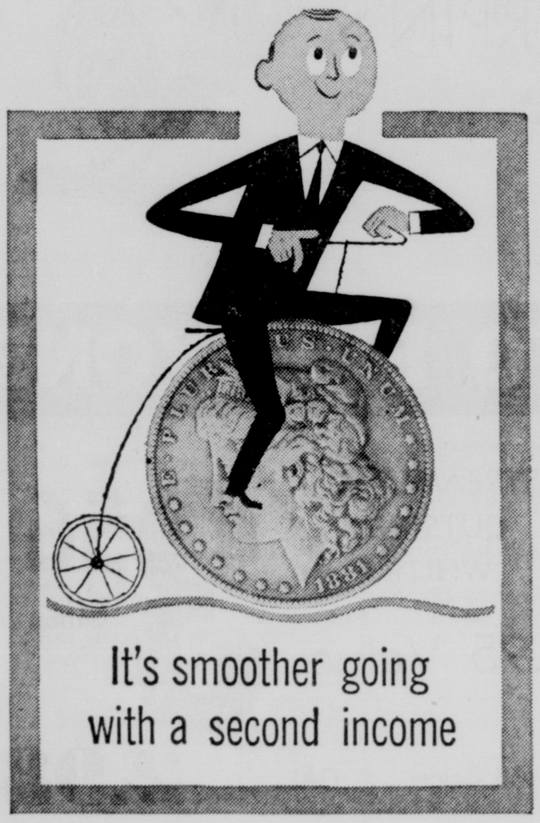

France, 17, escaped being snapped up by the lions because they had just been fed and apparently weren't hungry any more. He admitted he'd been stupid, but told the magistrate:

"I would like to be a lion tamer. I must work with animals to be happy."

He got his wish. Soon after he left court—and after parting with $60.76 in fines and court costs—he met circus boss Dick Chipperfield, who told him: "You're a young fool. You can start among the elephants next week. The first chance I get I'll move you to the lions."

WANTED: ONE SHARK

LOWESTOFT, England (UPI)—Dr. H. Cole, director of the Lowestoft Fisheries Laboratory, has appealed to fishermen to sing out when they catch a shark so he can go wrestle with it. Cole wants to climb aboard the sharks' backs and fix tags to their dorsal fins so that their movements and habits can be studied

We: You know what we mean? When you hit some of those financial bumps?

You: Sure I know what you mean. But where I work they only pay one income.

We: Exactly. But did you ever think that good investments can pave the road to a second income?

You: Swell! But I'm no financial wizard. Should I be dabbling in stocks and bonds and the like?

We: Definitely not—we're against dabbling. If you are really interested, get in touch with any Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. A Registered Representative (or a Partner) will be glad to sit down and talk with you. He will use his training and experience to aid and advise you about investing.

You: Okay, fine. But—don't you need a pretty weighty wallet to get into investing?

We: Certainly not! Through the Monthly Investment Plan you can get going on your second income with as little as $40 every 3 months, up to $1,000 every month.

You: Say — this second income idea sounds better all the time . . .

We: It is a good idea. But remember—stocks and bonds go down as well as up and sometimes companies don't pay dividends or interest. So invest only what you have left after living expenses and emergencies are taken care of.

You: That makes sense . . . but once in a while I hear of a stock that's sure to go up.

We: The air is full of "sure things." Never rely on tips and rumors. The only sensible way is to get all the facts and figures you can from a Member Firm. And check your securities with your Registered Representative from time to time. He'll gladly give you his best advice about buying or selling — or try to answer any questions about investing.

We: Couldn't be easier. Drop in on any Member Firm. Or mail the coupon below for "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS," a free booklet that's packed with useful information and lists some 365 stocks that have paid dividends every year from 25 to over 100 years.

Youth Who Likes Lions Is Given Job With Circus

DUDLEY, England (AP)—Edward France, the butcher's boy who prefers the company of live lions to dead mutton—and who climbed into a lion's cage to prove it—has finally got himself a job with a circus.

He snapped up an offer to become a junior elephant-minder Friday, an hour after he was fined by a stern magistrate for bending the bars of the lion's den at Dudley Zoo and joining two lions, much to the consternation of onlookers.

France, 17, escaped being snapped up by the lions because they had just been fed and apparently weren't hungry any more. He admitted he'd been stupid, but told the magistrate:

"I would like to be a lion tamer. I must work with animals to be happy."

He got his wish. Soon after he left court—and after parting with $60.76 in fines and court costs—he met circus boss Dick Chipperfield, who told him: "You're a young fool. You can start among the elephants next week. The first chance I get I'll move you to the lions."

WANTED: ONE SHARK

LOWESTOFT, England (UPI)—Dr. H. Cole, director of the Lowestoft Fisheries Laboratory, has appealed to fishermen to sing out when they catch a shark so he can go wrestle with it. Cole wants to climb aboard the sharks' backs and fix tags to their dorsal fins so that their movements and habits can be studied

FOR PERSONAL INTERVIEW:

MISS KIT CHUMBLEY
FRANCES HOTEL
FRIDAY, JUNE 12
9 AM-2 PM

We: You know what we mean? When you hit some of those financial bumps?

You: Sure I know what you mean. But where I work they only pay one income.

We: Exactly. But did you ever think that good investments can pave the road to a second income?

You: Swell! But I'm no financial wizard. Should I be dabbling in stocks and bonds and the like?

We: Definitely not—we're against dabbling. If you are really interested, get in touch with any Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. A Registered Representative (or a Partner) will be glad to sit down and talk with you. He will use his training and experience to aid and advise you about investing.

You: Okay, fine. But—don't you need a pretty weighty wallet to get into investing?

We: Certainly not! Through the Monthly Investment Plan you can get going on your second income with as little as $40 every 3 months, up to $1,000 every month.

You: Say – this second income idea sounds better all the time . . .

We: It is a good idea. But remember—stocks and bonds go down as well as up and sometimes companies don't pay dividends or interest. So invest only what you have left after living expenses and emergencies are taken care of.

You: That makes sense . . . but once in a while I hear of a stock that's sure to go up.

We: The air is full of "sure things." Never rely on tips and rumors. The only sensible way is to get all the facts and figures you can from a Member Firm. And check your securities with your Registered Representative from time to time. He'll gladly give you his best advice about buying or selling – or try to answer any questions about investing.

We: Couldn't be easier. Drop in on any Member Firm. Or mail the coupon below for "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS," a free booklet that's packed with useful information and lists some 365 stocks that have paid dividends every year from 25 to over 100 years.

COL. JOHN BURGESS

Chaplain To Fill Pulpit At Local Church

St. John's Christian Church, Forsythe at Westminster, will have as guest speaker today, Chaplain (Lt. Col.) John Acie Burgess, a minister in the Christian Church since 1939. He will speak at the morning worship period at 9 a.m.

Col. Burgess was graduated from Phillips University, Enid, Oklahoma, and Pacific School of Religion, Berkeley, California.

He served during World War II in North Africa, Italy and France. He was in the Korean war also with combat troops, and served in the Phillipines. Arctic northland and Alaska.

His wife, Ruby, is also a graduate of Phillips University and is an ordained minister in the Christian Church.

They are the parents of four children: Malcolm, 19, junior at the University of Texas studying Aeronautical Engineering; Ronald, 18, second year student at T. C. U. where he is preparing for the ministry, Enid Kay, 10 and Mark Alan, 5.

Before coming into the service in 1941 as chaplain, Col. Burgess served the First Christian Church, Santa Fe, New Mexico. After the war he served pastorate at San Lorenzo, and Concord, California.

The title of his sermon will be: "A Bridge to Span the Tide."

New Pastor Welcomed At W. M. Church

The congregation of the First Methodist Church in West Monroe will hear the first sermon by the Rev. Earl B. Emmerich in his new capacity as pastor of the church today at the morning worship period.

Rev. Emmerich was appointed pastor of the West Monroe Methodist Church at the recent Louisiana Methodist Conference in Shreveport.

He was born in McComb, Miss., and received his education in the public schools there, at Mississippi State College, and the Candler School of Theology at Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia.

He spent five years as a missionary to Korea and returned to America during the depression. Since that time, Rev. Emmerich has served pastorates at Asyka, Miss., Oak Grove, Parker Memorial Church in New Orleans, Rayville and Lake Charles.

Rev. Emmerich comes to West Monroe from the University Methodist Church in Lake Charles.

Though serving a larger church, he was named rural minister of the year in the state by the Progressive Farmer for work done at Holly Ridge.

In addition to his pastorates and missionary work, Rev. Emmerich has served four years on the conference board of education of the Methodist Church.

He is married to the former Katherine Sells, herself the daughter of a Methodist minister.

REV. ORY MILLER

New Minister Takes Post At Edgewood

The Rev. Ory Miller has accepted the call of the Edgewood Baptist Church, 501 Travis street in West Monroe.

He is a graduate of Louisiana College, Pineville, and the New Orleans Baptist Seminary.

His former pastorates the First Baptist Church, Livingston; First Baptist Church, Dry Prong; and the Pilgrim's Rest Church at Doyline.

Rev. Miller has also served as a member of the board of trustees of the Southeast Louisiana Baptist Encampment at Mandeville and has held a position on the executive committee of District II of the Louisiana Baptist Convention.

Rev. Miller, his wife, the former Ethel Laird, and their three children will make their home at 206 Carter Drive in West Monrie.

School Aid Big Question For French

By ANDREAS FREUND

PARIS (AP) — Premier Michel Debre's government is sailing head-on into the trouble seas of the "school question" — a quarrel over aid to Catholic schools.

No traditional argument in France runs deeper. Promising political careers have been swallowed up in the fighting and governments have been toppled.

No such grim prospect seems in store for Debre, who is delicately maneuvering toward another compromise. He has proposed a nonpartisan commission to review all possible solutions.

It may be months before the issue comes to a head in the National Assembly. But it will be a spluttering time bomb until Debre finds a way out of the present situation.

The problem sharply divides left and right in the Assembly. The left says education belongs only in the hands of the state. The right favors state aid to Catholic schools.

Under the present law some subsidies go to Catholic teachers. However this provides very little money for the Catholic schools that dot France.

The problem arises because this law was adopted by a National Assembly that was middle-of-the-road. But the elections that brought Debre to power installed a rightist majority.

The rightist lobbies, including some of Debre's own Gaullist party members, immediately began agitation to get a new school bill giving more aid to church schools and teachers.

But this poses another problem for Debre. Everyone recognizes that the last Assembly elections were won by candidates campaigning with the name of President Charles de Gaulle. The school question was a side issue in the battle over France's future form of government and a settlement in Algeria. In this situation, the left took a beating for various reasons.

But if the school issue boils up the Socialists will be pushed into an alliance with the Communists. Furthermore, the left will probably come back some day. Then it might react angrily against any rightist school bill that had been passed over its opposition.

Calvary Baptist Church Slates All Day Service

The first anniversary of D. W. Nix as pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, 812 Mississippi street in Monroe. will be recognized today with an all-day service.

Members of the congregation were urged to bring baskets of food for the noonday meal to be served on the church grounds.

Rev. Nix returned as pastor of the church last year after serving as pastor of a church in Mississippi. More than 100 members have been added during the year as a result of the leadership of the pastor.

Tech Professor Gets Economic Fellowship

RUSTON (Special) — Allen C. Perry, assistant professor of economics at Louisiana Tech, has been awarded an Economics in Action Fellowship for four weeks of graduate work at the University of Wisconsin this summer.

He received the B. A. degree from Harvard and is to obtain the degree of master of business administration from the University of Alabama this month.

Centennial Of Columbia Church Set Next Week

COLUMBIA (Special) — The First Methodist Church of Columbia, will celebrate, June 14, the Centennial of its incorporation. Rev. Douglas T. Williams, pastor, extends a very cordial invitation to all former members, their families and friends to attend.

Special plans have been made for the day. At the worship service, 11:00 o'clock a.m., Rev. Virgil Morris, a former pastor of the church, will deliver the Centennial sermon. At noon a basket lunch will be served on the church grounds or in the event of rain at the high school cafeteria.

In the afternoon Dr. E. L. Carroll, chairman of the official board of the church, will preside at the program which will include the church history by Judge Vincent Mouser and a recognition service by Mrs. Bert Bradford.

A feature of the day will be a display of material pertinent to the church history which is being assembled by Miss Bert Hearn and Miss Chrissie Davis. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Owen Brown with Mrs. Earl Harris, organist, and the youth choirs under the direction of Mrs. Charles Pollard with Miss Kathy Serrett, assistant organist, will present a musical program throughout the day.

Gospel Meeting At West Monroe Church Of Christ

There will be a gospel meeting at the White's Ferry Road Church of Christ, 3201 North Seventh street, West Monroe, today through 14.

Mr. Percy Keene, local evangelist with Bawcomville congregation of the city, will be the speaker for the occasion. These services will be conducted each evening at 7:30 p.m. Congregational singing will be directed by Alton Howard.

Mr. Dewey McDowell, local evangelist with White's Ferry Road expresses the gratitude of the church to their friends and neighbors for their kindness and interest in behalf of the work of the church in the community. And he states, "We invite our friends and neighbors to visit us during these services and enjoy the gospel sermons and singing. Also, we would like for them to know that there will be no collections taken."

Monroe Student Receives Degree

Perry Lassiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Lassiter, 201 Stubbs Avenue, Monroe, Louisiana, has received the degree of Bachelor of Divinity from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky.

The degree was conferred during the opening session of the Southern Baptist Convention at Freedom Hall in Louisville, Ky. Dr. R. Paul Caudill of Memphis, Tennessee, was the main speaker at the convention.

Southern Seminary this year is celebrating its 100th anniversary. It was founded in Greenville, S. C., in 1859, and moved to Louisville in 1877.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have very little desire to read my Bible, although I have committed my heart to Christ Jesus. I am poor and weak. I heard a preacher say that if we have no desire to read the Bible, we should question our being a Christian. Though secular books don't attract me at all, I often skip several days of Bible reading at a time. Tell me why I am so weak in my devotional life? G. J.

ANSWER: Even though we are Christians, we must cultivate the desire to read God's Word. Christian maturity does not come in a twinkling of an eye. Don't be discouraged by the remark of the minister. He probably meant something quite different than you interpreted it to mean. A desire for the Word of God is one of the Christian evidences, but no one should imply that if you inadvertently miss a day of Bible reading that you should question your salvation.

It is helpful if we can set a regular schedule for our devotions. I like to have mine just before I leave my room to go to breakfast. If I wait until later, other things might interfere. But one does not need to limit his devotions to a particular time and place. You can talk to God while waiting for a taxi, while waiting for a long distance call to be put through, or at any time there is a little lull in your daily activity. With the Christian, there is no time for boredom, for any spare time can be utilized by communion with God or reading His Word.

REV. ORY MILLER

New Minister Takes Post At Edgewood

The Rev. Ory Miller has accepted the call of the Edgewood Baptist Church, 501 Travis street in West Monroe.

He is a graduate of Louisiana College, Pineville, and the New Orleans Baptist Seminary.

His former pastorates the First Baptist Church, Livingston; First Baptist Church, Dry Prong; and the Pilgrim's Rest Church at Doyline.

Rev. Miller has also served as a member of the board of trustees of the Southeast Louisiana Baptist Encampment at Mandeville and has held a position on the executive committee of District II of the Louisiana Baptist Convention.

Rev. Miller, his wife, the former Ethel Laird, and their three children will make their home at 206 Carter Drive in West Monrie.

Rev. Nix returned as pastor of the church last year after serving as pastor of a church in Mississippi. More than 100 members have been added during the year as a result of the leadership of the pastor.

Tech Professor Gets Economic Fellowship

RUSTON (Special) — Allen C. Perry, assistant professor of economics at Louisiana Tech, has been awarded an Economics in Action Fellowship for four weeks of graduate work at the University of Wisconsin this summer.

He received the B. A. degree from Harvard and is to obtain the degree of master of business administration from the University of Alabama this month.

School Aid Big Question For French

By ANDREAS FREUND

PARIS (AP) — Premier Michel Debre's government is sailing head-on into the trouble seas of the "school question" — a quarrel over aid to Catholic schools.

No traditional argument in France runs deeper. Promising political careers have been swallowed up in the fighting and governments have been toppled.

No such grim prospect seems in store for Debre, who is delicately maneuvering toward another compromise. He has proposed a nonpartisan commission to review all possible solutions.

It may be months before the issue comes to a head in the National Assembly. But it will be a spluttering time bomb until Debre finds a way out of the present situation.

The problem sharply divides left and right in the Assembly. The left says education belongs only in the hands of the state. The right favors state aid to Catholic schools.

Under the present law some subsidies go to Catholic teachers. However this provides very little money for the Catholic schools that dot France.

The problem arises because this law was adopted by a National Assembly that was middle-of-the-road. But the elections that brought Debre to power installed a rightist majority.

The rightist lobbies, including some of Debre's own Gaullist party members, immediately began agitation to get a new school bill giving more aid to church schools and teachers.

But this poses another problem for Debre. Everyone recognizes that the last Assembly elections were won by candidates campaigning with the name of President Charles de Gaulle. The school question was a side issue in the battle over France's future form of government and a settlement in Algeria. In this situation, the left took a beating for various reasons.

But if the school issue boils up the Socialists will be pushed into an alliance with the Communists. Furthermore, the left will probably come back some day. Then it might react angrily against any rightist school bill that had been passed over its opposition.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have very little desire to read my Bible, although I have committed my heart to Christ Jesus. I am poor and weak. I heard a preacher say that if we have no desire to read the Bible, we should question our being a Christian. Though secular books don't attract me at all, I often skip several days of Bible reading at a time. Tell me why I am so weak in my devotional life? G. J.

ANSWER: Even though we are Christians, we must cultivate the desire to read God's Word. Christian maturity does not come in a twinkling of an eye. Don't be discouraged by the remark of the minister. He probably meant something quite different than you interpreted it to mean. A desire for the Word of God is one of the Christian evidences, but no one should imply that if you inadvertently miss a day of Bible reading that you should question your salvation.

It is helpful if we can set a regular schedule for our devotions. I like to have mine just before I leave my room to go to breakfast. If I wait until later, other things might interfere. But one does not need to limit his devotions to a particular time and place. You can talk to God while waiting for a taxi, while waiting for a long distance call to be put through, or at any time there is a little lull in your daily activity. With the Christian, there is no time for boredom, for any spare time can be utilized by communion with God or reading His Word.

COL. JOHN BURGESS

Chaplain To Fill Pulpit At Local Church

St. John's Christian Church, Forsythe at Westminster, will have as guest speaker today, Chaplain (Lt. Col.) John Acie Burgess, a minister in the Christian Church since 1939. He will speak at the morning worship period at 9 a.m.

Col. Burgess was graduated from Phillips University, Enid, Oklahoma, and Pacific School of Religion, Berkeley, California.

He served during World War II in North Africa, Italy and France. He was in the Korean war also with combat troops, and served in the Phillipines. Arctic northland and Alaska.

His wife, Ruby, is also a graduate of Phillips University and is an ordained minister in the Christian Church.

They are the parents of four children: Malcolm, 19, junior at the University of Texas studying Aeronautical Engineering; Ronald, 18, second year student at T. C. U. where he is preparing for the ministry, Enid Kay, 10 and Mark Alan, 5.

Before coming into the service in 1941 as chaplain, Col. Burgess served the First Christian Church, Santa Fe, New Mexico. After the war he served pastorate at San Lorenzo, and Concord, California.

The title of his sermon will be: "A Bridge to Span the Tide."

Centennial Of Columbia Church Set Next Week

COLUMBIA (Special) — The First Methodist Church of Columbia, will celebrate, June 14, the Centennial of its incorporation. Rev. Douglas T. Williams, pastor, extends a very cordial invitation to all former members, their families and friends to attend.

Special plans have been made for the day. At the worship service, 11:00 o'clock a.m., Rev. Virgil Morris, a former pastor of the church, will deliver the Centennial sermon. At noon a basket lunch will be served on the church grounds or in the event of rain at the high school cafeteria.

In the afternoon Dr. E. L. Carroll, chairman of the official board of the church, will preside at the program which will include the church history by Judge Vincent Mouser and a recognition service by Mrs. Bert Bradford.

A feature of the day will be a display of material pertinent to the church history which is being assembled by Miss Bert Hearn and Miss Chrissie Davis. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Owen Brown with Mrs. Earl Harris, organist, and the youth choirs under the direction of Mrs. Charles Pollard with Miss Kathy Serrett, assistant organist, will present a musical program throughout the day.

Gospel Meeting At West Monroe Church Of Christ

There will be a gospel meeting at the White's Ferry Road Church of Christ, 3201 North Seventh street, West Monroe, today through 14.

Mr. Percy Keene, local evangelist with Bawcomville congregation of the city, will be the speaker for the occasion. These services will be conducted each evening at 7:30 p.m. Congregational singing will be directed by Alton Howard.

Mr. Dewey McDowell, local evangelist with White's Ferry Road expresses the gratitude of the church to their friends and neighbors for their kindness and interest in behalf of the work of the church in the community. And he states, "We invite our friends and neighbors to visit us during these services and enjoy the gospel sermons and singing. Also, we would like for them to know that there will be no collections taken."

Monroe Student Receives Degree

Perry Lassiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Lassiter, 201 Stubbs Avenue, Monroe, Louisiana, has received the degree of Bachelor of Divinity from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky.

The degree was conferred during the opening session of the Southern Baptist Convention at Freedom Hall in Louisville, Ky. Dr. R. Paul Caudill of Memphis, Tennessee, was the main speaker at the convention.

Southern Seminary this year is celebrating its 100th anniversary. It was founded in Greenville, S. C., in 1859, and moved to Louisville in 1877.

New Pastor Welcomed At W. M. Church

The congregation of the First Methodist Church in West Monroe will hear the first sermon by the Rev. Earl B. Emmerich in his new capacity as pastor of the church today at the morning worship period.

Rev. Emmerich was appointed pastor of the West Monroe Methodist Church at the recent Louisiana Methodist Conference in Shreveport.

He was born in McComb, Miss., and received his education in the public schools there, at Mississippi State College, and the Candler School of Theology at Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia.

He spent five years as a missionary to Korea and returned to America during the depression. Since that time, Rev. Emmerich has served pastorates at Asyka, Miss., Oak Grove, Parker Memorial Church in New Orleans, Rayville and Lake Charles.

Rev. Emmerich comes to West Monroe from the University Methodist Church in Lake Charles.

Though serving a larger church, he was named rural minister of the year in the state by the Progressive Farmer for work done at Holly Ridge.

In addition to his pastorates and missionary work, Rev. Emmerich has served four years on the conference board of education of the Methodist Church.

He is married to the former Katherine Sells, herself the daughter of a Methodist minister.

HAVE YOU READ THE LATEST?

New Faces Credit Old Names

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you read the new novel by Sandburg? Or the one by Maugham?

This isn't the Carl Sandburg now busy writing his memoirs, or the poet and Lincoln biographer, but his daughter Helga.

This isn't, either, the W. Somerset Maugham who in his 80s has announced he will write no more, but his nephew Robin.

It is Robin's fifth novel, and Helga's second.

They are not the only ones who follow in the footsteps of writer fathers, husbands, uncles or grandfathers. Harvena Richter, daughter of Conrad Richter; Rachel Cecil, daughter of Desmond MacCarthy and also wife of Lord David Cecil; and Venetia Murray, granddaughter of the Greek scholar Gilbert Murray all have written novels published within a few days.

DIFFERENT PUBLISHERS

If you were offering a book to a publisher, it would be a help to show him a letter from your father Carl or Conrad, or your uncle Somerset. However, none of these new writers is published by the house that handles any of the related established writers, as it happens; and besides, the quality of this fiction, if not always superior, is in every case so good that the author could stand on his own. He didn't need any letter of introduction.

In another sense, too, he didn't need this help. Perhaps you couldn't tell if you didn't know, but in a couple of instances you suspect you can spot something more than a blood relationship.

Harvena Richter was exposed for a time to such novels of her father's as "The Trees," "The Fields" and "The Town," and could have learned from them something of her stately dignified prose style. There is a story-telling knack in Robin Maugham that he could have acquired from his uncle more conveniently than from other models. And though I don't want to be too far - fetched, yet Venetia Murray's handling of her theme, though it is as modern as 1959 or even 1960, is marked by a straight-forwardness and a classical sort of simplicity that she could easily have found lying around somewhere at her grandfather's.

WRITES OF BUDDING LOVE

Two of the four women write about budding love, two about love that is fading or getting pretty fleshly.

"Waiting for Love," by Venetia Murray (Dutton) is a story of 15-year-old Kitty Lee who finds it very hard to wait and almost doesn't, for 16, which appears to be England's legal age of consent. She has a beau, Jonathan, but how callow he looks beside 31-year-old Harry! Harry even has a mistress, as Kitty discovers by peeking through a window. Her own sister has a lover. She herself is the one left behind, and for the length of this short delightful book she tries by might and main to catch up. Miss Murray has been compared to Francoise Sagan, but her story is much more innocent, and an utter charmer.

In one place Kitty is asked mockingly by a friend whether, in writing a school paper, she thinks she's writing for David Cecil — professor of English at Oxford, and author of books on Hardy, Jane Austen, and Scott. This Cecil's wife, daughter of writer and critic MacCarthy, is the author of "Theresa's Choice" (Dodd, Mead). Her heroine is 18. Daughter of a quite Bohemian artist, brought up by aunt and uncle, she has some growing-up adventures, including in particular a naive and daring night in a French chateau with a young artist. This is a long novel in a Victorian style; it could have been written 50 years ago, despite the night in the chateau; and maybe that would have been the best time to read it, too.

PAINTS BRILLIANT SCENE

The most accomplished novel in this quintet is "The Human Shore," by Miss Richter (Little, Brown). Nona Reardon decides, if not to leave her husband, as she quibbles, then to let him leave her, and she remains in their seashore home while he goes off to teach. "Any relationship with a man was bound to be a battleground," she believed. He argued that "a wife is a help to her husband," but she retorted, "A wife is a slave." What's a man good for, she asks, but to lead armies, enforce law and order, and direct commerce? He can't even produce children. She has three, Mary, Chrissie and Virginia. They are all left altogether without man's help when a hurricane strikes. Miss Richter gets you all keyed up for disaster, and she paints a brilliant scene of wind and waves and trapped humans.

The Misses Murray, Cecil and Richter all write first novels. In Miss Sandburg's "Measure My Love" (McDowell, Obolensky), Faith Summers marries Buddy, though he has courted her sister Lacy and will court her again. Choice, Buddy's brother, wanted to marry Faith but settles for Lacy, yet makes passes at Faith. It reads just like an Erskine Caldwell plot, but Miss Sandburg romanticizes it and sets it far north of "Tobacco Road."

Maugham's "The Man with Two Shadows" (Harper), is basically a mystery. His hero Peter Grant goes to North Africa on a post-war assignment to work with Gen. Maddern of British Intelligence. He seems singularly unsuited for this, even in straight fiction, since he suffers loss of memory accompanied apparently by change of personality. Just when he should be saving us from communism, a curtain drops down over his mind and he starts having affairs with abused little girls in Eyptian dives. If you're not finicky about credibility, this keeps you reading.

-THE ARTS-

Stress On People, Passions

THE LIGHT INFANTRY BALL. By Hamilton Basso. Doubleday. $4.50.

Returning to the Southern town of Pompey's Head, scene of Basso's last novel, we are carried back to 1860, with Ft. Sumter fatally near. In his opening pages, Basso the adroit story - teller, draws preliminary sketches of most of his main characters and suggests their basic relationships:

John Bottomley has come in from his plantation, Deerskin, to stop a moment at the house of his father, Corwin, former governor. John remembers fondly Lydia Chadwick, who preferred the hand of Senator Stanhope. He has a fiery encounter with the slave girl, Glory, and is reminded of the mulatto barber his family never mentions. He thinks he might have prevented his brother Cameron's mysterious disappearance, hears of the murder of Shamus O'Connell in shantytown, reads Gup Monckton's paper, and brings vividly to mind the ball the night before.

Then to speed us all into the action, he rides off for a duel with Gup's brother Ules.

Moving smoothly from present to past and back, Basso reviews John's college days in Princeton where he imbibed some Northern liberalism. He shows us Southern hotheads led by Ules Monckton, who wants above all to break away from the Union, organize a new state, set out into Central and South America to conquer more territory on which to expand the slave economy.

John's sister Missy is the ingenue; Arabella, Lydia's step-daughter, the saucy minx for the reader to watch; John's mother succumbing slowly to the terror of a slave uprising provides the measure by which we estimate the deterioration of the Southern cause, the spread of corruption, and the discovery of some unworthy Southern defenders.

Basso stresses people, though the background is the Civil War. Here are countless threads of plot; a wide array of emotional tensions aroused by snobbery, pretense, ambition, anger, passion, hate, vanity, greed, pure madness and a fine healthful constructive sanity; and finally, a story so lively that about the only thing you are sure of right up to the last page is who won the war. This is superior popular romance.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Novel By Bristow Out

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

"Celia Garth" is the title of Gwen Bristow's new novel which has just been released and it is just as exciting as her other books. Miss Bristow is a very expert writer and she takes several years to write a book. Her last book was "Jubilee Trail" and all who read it enjoyed it. Her earlier books "Deep Summer," "Handsome Road" and "This Side of Glory" dealt with pioneer life in Louisiana. For her new novel, Miss Bristow has chosen the events in and around Charleston during the Revolutionary war. Celia Garth is the name of the heroine and a most appealing heroine she is. Miss Bristow has written a most believable story and one which makes the stirring days of the American Revolution seem very near and vivid. It is a book which can be highly recommended to all readers. Two other new books of fiction geared to the young adult audience are: "Stormy" by James Kjelgaard and "Dinny Gordon, Freshman" by Anne Emery. Both of these authors have an established audience who will eagerly await a new title.

During the past week our cataloguer has been so busy adding children's books to the collection, that the number of adult books added has been small. However, we do have some interesting titles for you this week. One of the outstanding books of 1958 was "Rivers, Man and Myths" by Robert E. Brittain. Everyone who is interested in the effect of Rivers on our civilization will want to read this book. "This Is the Desert" by Phil Ault is a very fine discussion of the arid regions of our country and the people who live there. "The Last Wilderness" by Morgan is an exciting presentation of the most remote region of our country. "Tomorrow Never Came" by Max Caulfield is the complete story of the sinking of the Athenia, the first boat sunk in World War II. Reading this book brings back the frightening days of autumn 1939.

Civil War stories continue to be popular. The latest book of this type is "Sea Devil of the Confederacy" by Edward Boykin. This is the story of the ship "Florida" and her intrepid captain John Newland Moffitt. It makes exciting reading. A book which will be eagerly read by advanced students is "The Greek Historians" by M. I. Finley. It is beautifully done and will add a great deal to our historical knowledge. Of all places in the United States to which tourists flock each summer, Williamsburg, Virginia is the most popular. Here people may see an authentic recreation of an 18th century town. Our newest title about this town is "Williamsburg in Color" published by "Colonial Williamsburg, Inc." A most controversial figure is Charles De Gaulle. His "War Memoirs of Charles De Gaulle" has been eagerly awaited by contemporary historians and will be eagerly read by those who enjoy the strategy of the war.

Edward E. Cummings is one of the best modern poets and his latest book is called "95 Poems." It is one that will be enjoyed by those who like poetry. A biography which will be eagerly read is "I Remember" the autobiography of Boris Pasternak, who caused such a furor with his "Doctor Jvago". "Owen Wister out West" taken from his journals and letters presents a fascinating picture of life in the West during the last part of the 19th century. ""The Seven Worlds of Theodore Roosevelt" is a very fine biography of a colorful figure in American history and represents a good composite picture of his life.

LATEST LEGEND

Kentucky Hills Still Lawless

By CHARLES STAFFORD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP) — stubborn men walk the hills of eastern Kentucky, and their obstinacy through the years has been raw material for legends.

The last legend may not have been told. In recent weeks, the hills again have echoed with gunfire.

On one side are the men who operate some 750 small, nonunion coal mines and on the other the United Mine Workers Union.

Riflemen have traded shots in the dark before dawn. Two men have been killed, others wounded. Coal loading ramps, trucks and mine buildings have been destroyed by dynamite and the arsonists torch.

Outsiders have expected this sort of carrying-on from eastern Kentuckians ever since a West Virginia Hatfield and a Kentucky McCoy crossed bitter words a century ago over the ownership of a pig. Later when Jonse Hatfield, a real mountain dandy, took advantage of Rose Anne McCoy one romantic evening, the vendetta that was to last half a century became deadly.

The nation's attention was again focused on the Kentucky mountains in the 1930s when the UMW set out to organize the coal fields. Hired gunmen patrolled the roads, shooting at anyone who had the look of an organizer about him.

It is difficult to reconcile this lawless history with the hospitality of eastern Kentuckians. But the wildness perhaps can be traced partly to the wildness of the land.

For nature hit the tilt button in this highland surrounded by the Ohio and Tug rivers, the craggy western border of Virginia and the Kentucky bluegrass. By sober estimate, 90 per cent of the land is inclined steeply toward Heaven.

Any man who would plow a stubborn hillside with a stubborn mule, plant corn and harvest a crop is a stubborn man. And a mule dragging a plow across the face of a 45-degree slope is part of the panorama of eastern Kentucky.

Agriculture is not a moneymaker in the mountains, but rather a necessary ingredient of existence. The economy of the region is hitched to only one wagon: coal.

More than half the coal in eastern Kentucky is produced by small, family-operated mines — holes punched into the hills not far from the family home. These mines employ less than a dozen men and truck their coal to a rail siding.

Recently, Collins was driving a loaded coal truck to a railroad loading ramp near Isom when pickets stopped him at a bridge.

"They threatened to throw me off the bridge and turn over the truck," he says. "They said they was going to baptize me in the name of John L. Lewis. I told them I wouldn't mind being baptized, but I wouldn't want to be baptized in his name."

Collins turned the truck around and went home. Later the loading ramp was destroyed by dynamite and he was forced to close his mines.

Collins says he tries to mine 100 tons of coal a day. "That way, if nothing breaks down, I can make $28 or $30 a day."

The proposed UMW contract, he says, would take all of that and more.

"We've laid off as long as we can. We're either going to work or fight."

EAST MEETS WEST

German Town Is One Of Contrast

By REINHOLD ENSZ

BERLIN (AP) — On the superhighway just outside an obscure town called Helmstedt, East meets West Germany.

They meet — but they do not merge.

As if to point up the difference, two buildings stand beside the autobahn.

A few hundred yards east, on the other side of a white and red striped barrier, stands a little wooden shack. From it issues a completely different kind of music: soldier choruses from the Soviet Union and high-pitched music from the People's Republic of China.

The shack is the control post for the Soviet army on the main highway between Berlin and West Germany. The music comes from a radio tuned to the Soviet station in East Germany.

The Soviet Union announced last Nov. 27 that within six months—by May 27—its soldiers would be withdrawn from the highway and East Germany given control over the Allied military traffic that tolls to and from isolated West Berlin, 110 miles to the east of Helmstedt.

The Western allies refuse to recognize the East German government and to have any dealings with it. They contend the Soviet Union has no right unilaterally to turn its occupation duties over to the East German regime. Whether the Allies would accept the East German border guards as legal "agents" of the Soviet Union is uncertain.

So far, the Soviet Union has made no move to withdraw its soldiers. Soviet and American guards continue to stand watch on either side of the autobahn barrier.

What's it like to live and work where East meets West? Reactions of members of the 23-man American unit at Helmstedt range from liking to loathing.

The commander of the unit, Capt. Louis Jennings, 32, of Bangro, Maine, says:

"It's interesting work — there's always something new. Sure, this place is isolated, but we are well received by the local people. The marriage rate between our soldiers and the local girls is quite high. We've had about seven marriages during the past year."

But a disgruntled private, who refuses use of his name, has a different viewpoint:

The main duty of the American unit is to check all American military personnel traveling to Allied - occupied West Berlin and make certain their papers are in order. Otherwise, the travelers would be turned back by the Soviets or perhaps held and questioned. The French and British units do the same for their travelers.

Travel through the checkpoint is either by auto, truck or military train. German traffic is a separate matter. It is handled entirely by East and West German border guards.

Some American travelers seem quite frightened about going down the lonely autobahn to Berlin, says Jennings.

"Some are ready to turn around and go back home when we start telling them what to do and what not to do."

For one thing, Allied military personnel are told not to stop anywhere on the 110-mile journey. Nor are they supposed to make any sidestrips. Otherwise, they risk arrest by the Communist people's police.

If an Allied vehicle breaks down the driver is supposed to fill out a form stating how far he is from the checkpoint. Then he hands it to a passing motorist to give the checkpoint which will send an emergency repair crew.

Deadly Duke And World Around Him

THE COOL WORLD. By Warren Miller. Little, Brown. $3.75.

Duke Custis has to have a gun, but Priest wants $15 for it.

Duke is 14 to his mother and whatever man happens to be taking her husband's and his father's place, and 14 to his Bible-belt grandmother—but he is 18 to his gang of Crocodiles in Harlem. Blood had been the leader but he turned junkie. Blood can bring Lu Ann around for his pleasure, and his friends, but he steals from the cashbox that holds her earnings, and goes dreadfully to pieces. Duke shoves him head-long downstairs, he crawls off weeping, and leaves Duke the boss.

Duke sees the janitor Hurst lifting trash barrels out to the walk and lifting them back, and living a life in a tiny room. That's not Duke's way. This is Babylon, his grandmother cries, and he is a child of Babylon.

That's the way he wants it. He was interested for a time in Sue Randolph, and daydreams of Mrs. Ritzie, but Lu Ann takes care of him and the fondest dream of all is stalking down the street, feeling the cross-hatched butt of Priest's Colt in his hand and knowing people are saying, "There he goes. He a cool killer."

To get the $15 he peddles dope for Royal Baron Baron's white mistress is no attraction to Duke, who pays Lu Ann for her favors with doped cigarettes, and plots with the Crocodiles for a rumble with the Wolves. They have caught him, beaten and cut him, and the Crocodiles want a reckoning. They have an arsenal of 22 blades, 3 blackjacks, 52 zip guns, 6 cutlasses and some radio aerials. They want Priest's gun, too.

This is, obviously, a "West Side Story," but distinctly a novel in its own right, and I find I like it better without music.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

Fiddlin' and Feudin' made news in the national and regional music fronts last week with New Orleans and Alabama serving as arenas.

An account of old fashioned fiddle playing from the Tuscaloosa area of Alabama pointed up the fact that folksy music of this type — while eclipsed temporarily by commercial fads — has a quality all its own and will never be blasted, rocked or bee-bopped out of existence.

OPERATIC FEUD

Turning to the heart of the Crescent City from the rural Alabama hill country for a few paragraphs, we find another favorite activity of all people from rustic to summit level — feuding.

The issue at stake here is whether or not to book the Metropolitan Opera Company for a run in New Orleans when the renowned group of musicians makes a tour of the nation from its New York headquarters.

The president of the New Orleans Opera Guild, Mrs. E. B. Ludwig, has made an unofficial announcement that her organization was booking the Met for the spring of 1960. Apparently realizing the furor the action would touch off among supporters of the local productions, the Opera Guild arranged to have the announcement come over the press wires from Birmingham, Alabama.

The response from the local New Orleans Opera House Association was immediate. This organization issued a protest on the projected Metropolitan appearance on the grounds that it would be "economically ruinous to the local New Orleans opera effort."

The protest came officially from H. Lloyd Hawkins, president of the New Orleans association. In his statement to the press, he recalled the association's efforts in 1949 to keep the Metropolitan from visiting the Louisiana city. Mrs. Ludwig who was toying with the idea of using part of the revenue raised by the Met appearances as a benefit to the local opera termed the protest "provincial."

The word probably meant little in the derogatory sense to Hawkins, a true "provincial" supporter. He pointed out the appearance of the New York company would coincide with the spring run of the New Orleans Experimental Opera Company which promotes the discovery of young talent. He believes the Met would cut heavily into the near - capacity audiences the Experimental Opera has been drawing.

The feud runs deeper than the present economic surface. New Orleans led New York in operatic endeavors until 1860. Only the Civil War and Reconstruction pushed the Crescent City out of the cultural lead.

BACK TO HILLS

Meanwhile, back in the hills, the real country fiddlers continue an art which has outlasted feuds with minstrel show, ragtime, jazz swing, jive, rock 'n roll and progressive or conservative jazz.

There is something in this American art form which is really close to the soil; in fact Bob Kyle, columnist for the Tuscaloosa News says, "Shoes that walk in barnyards pat better and win more prizes."

He lists some of the old tunes as "Salty Dog," "Ole Hen Cackle," "Listen to the Mockingbird," "Old Joe Clark," "Down Yonder," "Sally Goodin'," "Golden Slippers," "Hell Broke Loose in Georgia."

Perhaps the fiddlin' is a far cry from the glitter of the opera house, but the two arts have one thing in common: they both have stood the test of time and tumult.

Playgrounds Set To Open For Summer

Thirteen playgrounds open with a special program of games, sports, handicraft and competition Monday at 8:30 a.m., with a five-day program scheduled each week through July.

Jack Hesketh, Monroe recreation director, announced the start of the program yesterday.

"A supervisor and an assistant will be on duty at each playground," he pointed out.

Supervisors will be school teachers or housewives, with high school students as assistants.

The programs, under sponsorship of the Monroe Recreation Department, will be conducted from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday, until July 31.

"Competition between all playgrounds has been worked out, and there will be no charge for attending the playgrounds or for handicraft material," Hesketh added.

EVENT

Each Friday morning, every playground will have a special event, such as amateur day, baby-shows, and wheel parades.

Last year, between 11,000 and 12,000 children attended the white playgrounds, while approximately 13,000 participated in the programs at the Negro playgrounds.

Barkdull Faulk, Lida Benton, Plum Street, George Breece Manor, Georgia Tucker, Lexington, Sherrouse and Lakeshore will be open for white children.

Colored playgrounds will be held at Clark's elementary school, Carroll High, Booker T. Washington, Bernstein Park and the Texas Avenue housing project.

Mrs. Peggy Garnett will be special handicraft teacher.

The playgrounds will be open in the afternoons, but will not be under supervision at that time.

HAVE YOU READ THE LATEST?

New Faces Credit Old Names

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you read the new novel by Sandburg? Or the one by Maugham?

This isn't the Carl Sandburg now busy writing his memoirs, or the poet and Lincoln biographer, but his daughter Helga.

This isn't, either, the W. Somerset Maugham who in his 80s has announced he will write no more, but his nephew Robin.

It is Robin's fifth novel, and Helga's second.

They are not the only ones who follow in the footsteps of writer fathers, husbands, uncles or grandfathers. Harvena Richter, daughter of Conrad Richter; Rachel Cecil, daughter of Desmond MacCarthy and also wife of Lord David Cecil; and Venetia Murray, granddaughter of the Greek scholar Gilbert Murray all have written novels published within a few days.

DIFFERENT PUBLISHERS

If you were offering a book to a publisher, it would be a help to show him a letter from your father Carl or Conrad, or your uncle Somerset. However, none of these new writers is published by the house that handles any of the related established writers, as it happens; and besides, the quality of this fiction, if not always superior, is in every case so good that the author could stand on his own. He didn't need any letter of introduction.

In another sense, too, he didn't need this help. Perhaps you couldn't tell if you didn't know, but in a couple of instances you suspect you can spot something more than a blood relationship.

Harvena Richter was exposed for a time to such novels of her father's as "The Trees," "The Fields" and "The Town," and could have learned from them something of her stately dignified prose style. There is a story-telling knack in Robin Maugham that he could have acquired from his uncle more conveniently than from other models. And though I don't want to be too far - fetched, yet Venetia Murray's handling of her theme, though it is as modern as 1959 or even 1960, is marked by a straight-forwardness and a classical sort of simplicity that she could easily have found lying around somewhere at her grandfather's.

WRITES OF BUDDING LOVE

Two of the four women write about budding love, two about love that is fading or getting pretty fleshly.

"Waiting for Love," by Venetia Murray (Dutton) is a story of 15-year-old Kitty Lee who finds it very hard to wait and almost doesn't, for 16, which appears to be England's legal age of consent. She has a beau, Jonathan, but how callow he looks beside 31-year-old Harry! Harry even has a mistress, as Kitty discovers by peeking through a window. Her own sister has a lover. She herself is the one left behind, and for the length of this short delightful book she tries by might and main to catch up. Miss Murray has been compared to Francoise Sagan, but her story is much more innocent, and an utter charmer.

In one place Kitty is asked mockingly by a friend whether, in writing a school paper, she thinks she's writing for David Cecil — professor of English at Oxford, and author of books on Hardy, Jane Austen, and Scott. This Cecil's wife, daughter of writer and critic MacCarthy, is the author of "Theresa's Choice" (Dodd, Mead). Her heroine is 18. Daughter of a quite Bohemian artist, brought up by aunt and uncle, she has some growing-up adventures, including in particular a naive and daring night in a French chateau with a young artist. This is a long novel in a Victorian style; it could have been written 50 years ago, despite the night in the chateau; and maybe that would have been the best time to read it, too.

PAINTS BRILLIANT SCENE

The most accomplished novel in this quintet is "The Human Shore," by Miss Richter (Little, Brown). Nona Reardon decides, if not to leave her husband, as she quibbles, then to let him leave her, and she remains in their seashore home while he goes off to teach. "Any relationship with a man was bound to be a battleground," she believed. He argued that "a wife is a help to her husband," but she retorted, "A wife is a slave." What's a man good for, she asks, but to lead armies, enforce law and order, and direct commerce? He can't even produce children. She has three, Mary, Chrissie and Virginia. They are all left altogether without man's help when a hurricane strikes. Miss Richter gets you all keyed up for disaster, and she paints a brilliant scene of wind and waves and trapped humans.

The Misses Murray, Cecil and Richter all write first novels. In Miss Sandburg's "Measure My Love" (McDowell, Obolensky), Faith Summers marries Buddy, though he has courted her sister Lacy and will court her again. Choice, Buddy's brother, wanted to marry Faith but settles for Lacy, yet makes passes at Faith. It reads just like an Erskine Caldwell plot, but Miss Sandburg romanticizes it and sets it far north of "Tobacco Road."

Maugham's "The Man with Two Shadows" (Harper), is basically a mystery. His hero Peter Grant goes to North Africa on a post-war assignment to work with Gen. Maddern of British Intelligence. He seems singularly unsuited for this, even in straight fiction, since he suffers loss of memory accompanied apparently by change of personality. Just when he should be saving us from communism, a curtain drops down over his mind and he starts having affairs with abused little girls in Eyptian dives. If you're not finicky about credibility, this keeps you reading.

Deadly Duke And World Around Him

THE COOL WORLD. By Warren Miller. Little, Brown. $3.75.

Duke Custis has to have a gun, but Priest wants $15 for it.

Duke is 14 to his mother and whatever man happens to be taking her husband's and his father's place, and 14 to his Bible-belt grandmother—but he is 18 to his gang of Crocodiles in Harlem. Blood had been the leader but he turned junkie. Blood can bring Lu Ann around for his pleasure, and his friends. but he steals from the cashbox that holds her earnings, and goes dreadfully to pieces. Duke shoves him head-long downstairs, he crawls off weeping, and leaves Duke the boss.

Duke sees the janitor Hurst lifting trash barrels out to the walk and lifting them back, and living a life in a tiny room. That's not Duke's way. This is Babylon, his grandmother cries, and he is a child of Babylon.

That's the way he wants it. He was interested for a time in Sue Randolph, and daydreams of Mrs. Ritzie, but Lu Ann takes care of him and the fondest dream of all is stalking down the street, feeling the cross-hatched butt of Priest's Colt in his hand and knowing people are saying, "There he goes. He a cool killer."

To get the $15 he peddles dope for Royal Baron Baron's white mistress is no attraction to Duke, who pays Lu Ann for her favors with doped cigarettes, and plots with the Crocodiles for a rumble with the Wolves. They have caught him, beaten and cut him, and the Crocodiles want a reckoning. They have an arsenal of 22 blades, 3 blackjacks, 52 zip guns, 6 cutlasses and some radio aerials. They want Priest's gun, too.

This is, obviously, a "West Side Story," but distinctly a novel in its own right, and I find I like it better without music.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

Fiddlin' and Feudin' made news in the national and regional music fronts last week with New Orleans and Alabama serving as arenas.

An account of old fashioned fiddle playing from the Tuscaloosa area of Alabama pointed up the fact that folksy music of this type — while eclipsed temporarily by commercial fads — has a quality all its own and will never be blasted, rocked or bee-bopped out of existence.

OPERATIC FEUD

Turning to the heart of the Crescent City from the rural Alabama hill country for a few paragraphs, we find another favorite activity of all people from rustic to summit level — feuding.

The issue at stake here is whether or not to book the Metropolitan Opera Company for a run in New Orleans when the renowned group of musicians makes a tour of the nation from its New York headquarters.

The president of the New Orleans Opera Guild, Mrs. E. B. Ludwig, has made an unofficial announcement that her organization was booking the Met for the spring of 1960. Apparently realizing the furor the action would touch off among supporters of the local productions, the Opera Guild arranged to have the announcement come over the press wires from Birmingham, Alabama.

The response from the local New Orleans Opera House Association was immediate. This organization issued a protest on the projected Metropolitan appearance on the grounds that it would be "economically ruinous to the local New Orleans opera effort."

The protest came officially from H. Lloyd Hawkins, president of the New Orleans association. In his statement to the press, he recalled the association's efforts in 1949 to keep the Metropolitan from visiting the Louisiana city. Mrs. Ludwig who was toying with the idea of using part of the revenue raised by the Met appearances as a benefit to the local opera termed the protest "provincial."

The word probably meant little in the derogatory sense to Hawkins, a true "provincial" supporter. He pointed out the appearance of the New York company would coincide with the spring run of the New Orleans Experimental Opera Company which promotes the discovery of young talent. He believes the Met would cut heavily into the near - capacity audiences the Experimental Opera has been drawing.

The feud runs deeper than the present economic surface. New Orleans led New York in operatic endeavors until 1860. Only the Civil War and Reconstruction pushed the Crescent City out of the cultural lead.

BACK TO HILLS

Meanwhile, back in the hills, the real country fiddlers continue an art which has outlasted feuds with minstrel show, ragtime, jazz swing, jive, rock 'n roll and progressive or conservative jazz.

There is something in this American art form which is really close to the soil; in fact Bob Kyle, columnist for the Tuscaloosa News says, "Shoes that walk in barnyards pat better and win more prizes."

He lists some of the old tunes as "Salty Dog," "Ole Hen Cackle," "Listen to the Mockingbird," "Old Joe Clark," "Down Yonder," "Sally Goodin'," "Golden Slippers," "Hell Broke Loose in Georgia."

Perhaps the fiddlin' is a far cry from the glitter of the opera house, but the two arts have one thing in common: they both have stood the test of time and tumult.

-THE ARTS-

Stress On People, Passions

THE LIGHT INFANTRY BALL. By Hamilton Basso. Doubleday. $4.50.

Returning to the Southern town of Pompey's Head, scene of Basso's last novel, we are carried back to 1860, with Ft. Sumter fatally near. In his opening pages, Basso the adroit story - teller, draws preliminary sketches of most of his main characters and suggests their basic relationships:

John Bottomley has come in from his plantation, Deerskin, to stop a moment at the house of his father, Corwin, former governor. John remembers fondly Lydia Chadwick, who preferred the hand of Senator Stanhope. He has a fiery encounter with the slave girl, Glory, and is reminded of the mulatto barber his family never mentions. He thinks he might have prevented his brother Cameron's mysterious disappearance, hears of the murder of Shamus O'Connell in shantytown, reads Gup Monckton's paper, and brings vividly to mind the ball the night before.

Then to speed us all into the action, he rides off for a duel with Gup's brother Ules.

Moving smoothly from present to past and back, Basso reviews John's college days in Princeton where he imbibed some Northern liberalism. He shows us Southern hotheads led by Ules Monckton, who wants above all to break away from the Union, organize a new state, set out into Central and South America to conquer more territory on which to expand the slave economy.

John's sister Missy is the ingenue; Arabella, Lydia's step-daughter, the saucy minx for the reader to watch; John's mother succumbing slowly to the terror of a slave uprising provides the measure by which we estimate the deterioration of the Southern cause, the spread of corruption, and the discovery of some unworthy Southern defenders.

Basso stresses people, though the background is the Civil War. Here are countless threads of plot; a wide array of emotional tensions aroused by snobbery, pretense, ambition, anger, passion, hate, vanity, greed, pure madness and a fine healthful constructive sanity; and finally, a story so lively that about the only thing you are sure of right up to the last page is who won the war. This is superior popular romance.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Novel By Bristow Out

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

"Celia Garth" is the title of Gwen Bristow's new novel which has just been released and it is just as exciting as her other books. Miss Bristow is a very expert writer and she takes several years to write a book. Her last book was "Jubilee Trail" and all who read it enjoyed it. Her earlier books "Deep Summer," "Handsome Road" and "This Side of Glory" dealt with pioneer life in Louisiana. For her new novel, Miss Bristow has chosen the events in and around Charleston during the Revolutionary war. Celia Garth is the name of the heroine and a most appealing heroine she is. Miss Bristow has written a most believable story and one which makes the stirring days of the American Revolution seem very near and vivid. It is a book which can be highly recommended to all readers. Two other new books of fiction geared to the young adult audience are: "Stormy" by James Kjelgaard and "Dinny Gordon, Freshman" by Anne Emery. Both of these authors have an established audience who will eagerly await a new title.

During the past week our cataloguer has been so busy adding children's books to the collection, that the number of adult books added has been small. However, we do have some interesting titles for you this week. One of the outstanding books of 1958 was "Rivers, Man and Myths" by Robert E. Brittain. Everyone who is interested in the effect of Rivers on our civilization will want to read this book. "This Is the Desert" by Phil Ault is a very fine discussion of the arid regions of our country and the people who live there. "The Last Wilderness" by Morgan is an exciting presentation of the most remote region of our country. "Tomorrow Never Came" by Max Caulfield is the complete story of the sinking of the Athenia, the first boat sunk in World War II. Reading this book brings back the frightening days of autumn 1939.

Civil War stories continue to be popular. The latest book of this type is "Sea Devil of the Confederacy" by Edward Boykin. This is the story of the ship "Florida" and her intrepid captain John Newland Moffitt. It makes exciting reading. A book which will be eagerly read by advanced students is "The Greek Historians" by M. I. Finley. It is beautifully done and will add a great deal to our historical knowledge. Of all places in the United States to which tourists flock each summer, Williamsburg, Virginia is the most popular. Here people may see an authentic recreation of an 18th century town. Our newest title about this town is "Williamsburg in Color" published by "Colonial Williamsburg, Inc." A most controversial figure is Charles De Gaulle. His "War Memoirs of Charles De Gaulle" has been eagerly awaited by contemporary historians and will be eagerly read by those who enjoy the strategy of the war.

Edward E. Cummings is one of the best modern poets and his latest book is called "95 Poems." It is one that will be enjoyed by those who like poetry. A biography which will be eagerly read is "I Remember" the autobiography of Boris Pasternak, who caused such a furor with his "Doctor Jvago". "Owen Wister out West" taken from his journals and letters presents a fascinating picture of life in the West during the last part of the 19th century. "The Seven Worlds of Theodore Roosevelt" is a very fine biography of a colorful figure in American history and represents a good composite picture of his life.

LATEST LEGEND

Kentucky Hills Still Lawless

By CHARLES STAFFORD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP) — stubborn men walk the hills of eastern Kentucky, and their obstinacy through the years has been raw material for legends.

The last legend may not have been told. In recent weeks, the hills again have echoed with gunfire.

On one side are the men who operate some 750 small, nonunion coal mines and on the other the United Mine Workers Union.

Riflemen have traded shots in the dark before dawn. Two men have been killed, others wounded. Coal loading ramps, trucks and mine buildings have been destroyed by dynamite and the arsonists torch.

Outsiders have expected this sort of carrying-on from eastern Kentuckians ever since a West Virginia Hatfield and a Kentucky McCoy crossed bitter words a century ago over the ownership of a pig. Later when Jonse Hatfield, a real mountain dandy, took advantage of Rose Anne McCoy one romantic evening, the vendetta that was to last half a century became deadly.

The nation's attention was again focused on the Kentucky mountains in the 1930s when the UMW set out to organize the coal fields. Hired gunmen patrolled the roads, shooting at anyone who had the look of an organizer about him.

It is difficult to reconcile this lawless history with the hospitality of eastern Kentuckians. But the wildness perhaps can be traced partly to the wildness of the land.

For nature hit the tilt button in this highland surrounded by the Ohio and Tug rivers, the craggy western border of Virginia and the Kentucky bluegrass. By sober estimate, 90 per cent of the land is inclined steeply toward Heaven.

Any man who would plow a stubborn hillside with a stubborn mule, plant corn and harvest a crop is a stubborn man. And a mule dragging a plow across the face of a 45-degree slope is part of the panorama of eastern Kentucky.

Agriculture is not a moneymaker in the mountains. but rather a necessary ingredient of existence. The economy of the region is hitched to only one wagon: coal.

More than half the coal in eastern Kentucky is produced by small, family-operated mines — holes punched into the hills not far from the family home. These mines employ less than a dozen men and truck their coal to a rail siding.

Recently, Collins was driving a loaded coal truck to a railroad loading ramp near Isom when pickets stopped him at a bridge.

"They threatened to throw me off the bridge and turn over the truck," he says. "They said they was going to baptize me in the name of John L. Lewis. I told them I wouldn't mind being baptized, but I wouldn't want to be baptized in his name."

Collins turned the truck around and went home. Later the loading ramp was destroyed by dynamite and he was forced to close his mines.

Collins says he tries to mine 100 tons of coal a day. "That way, if nothing breaks down, I can make $28 or $30 a day."

The proposed UMW contract, he says, would take all of that and more.

"We've laid off as long as we can. We're either going to work or fight."

EAST MEETS WEST

German Town Is One Of Contrast

By REINHOLD ENSZ

BERLIN (AP) — On the superhighway just outside an obscure town called Helmstedt, East meets West Germany.

They meet — but they do not merge.

As if to point up the difference, two buildings stand beside the autobahn.

A few hundred yards east, on the other side of a white and red striped barrier, stands a little wooden shack. From it issues a completely different kind of music: soldier choruses from the Soviet Union and high-pitched music from the People's Republic of China.

The shack is the control post for the Soviet army on the main highway between Berlin and West Germany. The music comes from a radio tuned to the Soviet station in East Germany.

The Soviet Union announced last Nov. 27 that within six months—by May 27—its soldiers would be withdrawn from the highway and East Germany given control over the Allied military traffic that tolls to and from isolated West Berlin, 110 miles to the east of Helmstedt.

The Western allies refuse to recognize the East German government and to have any dealings with it. They contend the Soviet Union has no right unilaterally to turn its occupation duties over to the East German regime. Whether the Allies would accept the East German border guards as legal "agents" of the Soviet Union is uncertain.

So far, the Soviet Union has made no move to withdraw its soldiers. Soviet and American guards continue to stand watch on either side of the autobahn barrier.

What's it like to live and work where East meets West? Reactions of members of the 23-man American unit at Helmstedt range from liking to loathing.

The commander of the unit, Capt. Louis Jennings, 32, of Bangro, Maine, says:

"It's interesting work — there's always something new. Sure, this place is isolated, but we are well received by the local people. The marriage rate between our soldiers and the local girls is quite high. We've had about seven marriages during the past year."

But a disgruntled private, who refuses use of his name, has a different viewpoint:

The main duty of the American unit is to check all American military personnel traveling to Allied - occupied West Berlin and make certain their papers are in order. Otherwise, the travelers would be turned back by the Soviets or perhaps held and questioned. The French and British units do the same for their travelers.

Travel through the checkpoint is either by auto, truck or military train. German traffic is a separate matter. It is handled entirely by East and West German broder guards.

Some American travelers seem quite frightened about going down the lonely autobahn to Berlin, says Jennings.

"Some are ready to turn around and go back home when we start telling them what to do and what not to do."

For one thing, Allied military personnel are told not to stop anywhere on the 110-mile journey. Nor are they supposed to make any sidestrips. Otherwise, they risk arrest by the Communist people's police.

If an Allied vehicle breaks down the driver is supposed to fill out a form stating how far he is from the checkpoint. Then he hands it to a passing motorist to give the checkpoint which will send an emergency repair crew.

Playgrounds Set To Open For Summer

Thirteen playgrounds open with a special program of games, sports, handicraft and competition Monday at 8:30 a.m., with a five-day program scheduled each week through July.

Jack Hesketh, Monroe recreation director, announced the start of the program yesterday.

"A supervisor and an assistant will be on duty at each playground," he pointed out.

Supervisors will be school teachers or housewives, with high school students as assistants.

The programs, under sponsorship of the Monroe Recreation Department, will be conducted from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. Monday through Friday, until July 31.

"Competition between all playgrounds has been worked out, and there will be no charge for attending the playgrounds or for handicraft material," Hesketh added.

EVENT

Each Friday morning, every playground will have a special event, such as amateur day, baby-shows, and wheel parades.

Last year, between 11,000 and 12,000 children attended the white playgrounds, while approximately 13,000 participated in the programs at the Negro playgrounds.

Barkdull Faulk, Lida Benton, Plum Street, George Breece Manor, Georgia Tucker, Lexington, Sherrouse and Lakeshore will be open for white children.

Colored playgrounds will be held at Clark's elementary school, Carroll High, Booker T. Washington, Bernstein Park and the Texas Avenue housing project.

Mrs. Peggy Garnett will be special handicraft teacher.

The playgrounds will be open in the afternoons, but will not be under supervision at that time.

House Approves Bill For Public Works Projects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Friday tentatively approved a $1,177,252,000 public works appropriation bill carrying funds for planning or construction of 50 projects for which President Eisenhower budgeted no money.

Included was $5,733,000 to begin construction of seven new reclamation projects west of the Mississippi, where development of water resources has strong voter appeal.

In his budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, the President ruled against any new reclamation, harbor or flood control projects.

LITTLE THEATRE

Seasons end! We look back with pride and we hope our members look back with pleasure at the varied types of plays we have put on. The play reading committee has a harder job than some people realize. They are eager to select plays that will satisfy our audiences, but at the same time they cannot give us a steady diet of only one type of thing. Here are some of the criteria which they must use in making their search: (1) The play must not be too expensive to stage. One single scene is best but authors and Broadway producers are not so economy minded as we are forced to be. We had to contrive four sets for Country Girl - a very expensive feature. (2) A small cast is preferable to a large one. Pajama Game and Detective Story both had such large casts that our committee found it difficult to round up so many actors who could afford to give the necessary time for rehearsals. (3) The play should not offend our audiences in its lauguage or its eithics. But since the very essence of drama is conflict and the materials of conflict run right through the seven deadly sins, an author usually plunges his characters into situations in which they struggle with pride, jealousy, love, anger, ambition, fear, and hate. And they must speak in language which is natural to the social class portrayed. Shakespeare believed that a play should "hold the mirror up to nature" and that idea was not new even in his day. So in spite of the fact that some of our plays have depicted painful scenes, we are grateful that the season has provided us with comedy, tragedy, music, drama, fantasy, suspense, and wonderful fun.

As usual the cast and crew celebrated the end of the play with a party - in fact, there were two - one chez Frank and Beth Breese and the other at Joan Barber's.

We want all our members back again next year and some new ones too. Remember that two separate drives are going on, both very important. Please buy your 1959-60 season ticket now. And your donation to the building fund is vital.

Silver Discovery Anniversary Told

A new 4-cent stamp will be issued June 8 to honor the 100th anniversary of the discovery of silver at the Comstock Lode in Nevada. First day sale of the stamp will be held at Virginia City, Nev.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the Silver Centennial stamp may send their addressed envelopes, together with remittances covering the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Virginia City, Nev. The outside envelope to the postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers Silver Centennial Stamp."

The late Ernst Reuter, former mayor of Berlin, will become the fifth "Champion of Liberty" to be recognized by the United States when new 4-cent and 8-cent stamps are placed on sale at Washington, D.C., on Sept. 29.

Both stamps will feature a medallion with a likeness of Reuter and the wording "Ernst Reuter, Mayor of Berlin, 1947-1953' encircling the head.

Previous "Champions of Liberty" were Ramon Magsaysay in 1957, Simon Bolivar and Lajos Kossuth in 1958, and Jose de San Martin in February of this year.

Collectors wishing to obtain the Reuter stamp, or stamps, should send their addressed envelopes to the Postmaster, Washington, 13, D. C., with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed.

Each envelope must be marked, in pencil, in the upper right corner indicating the denomination, or denominations, to be affixed, and the number of stamps (singles, pairs, blocks, etc.) The outside envelope should be endorsed "First Day Covers Ernst Reuter Stamps."

Switzerland's annual "Pro Patria" series this year will feature minerals, rocks and fossils, reports the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America. The 5 centimes plus 5 gray and red shows a globe with the Swiss flag. The 10 c plus 10 depicts agate, a mineral found in Ponte Tresa. The 20 c plus 10 illustrates tourmaline crystals found in Binntal. The 30 c plus 10 pictures amethyst crystals. The 40 c plus 10 shows a fossil discovered by the Swiss naturalist Johann Jakob Scheuchzer.

The American Philatelic Society's 1959 convention will be held in Los Angeles Sept. 9-13. The event also will include the annual meeting of the American Stamp Dealers' Association. An exhibition will be open to the public.

The Republic of Korea honors the 10th anniversary of the founding of the Korean Marine Corps by issuing a 40-hwan olive green stamp. The design shows a replica of the marine corps insignia and a marine landing operation.

On June 10 the Bahamas will issue four new stamps to commemorate the centenary of the issuance of the first Bahamian postage stamp. The design, common to all values, will feature a portrait of Queen Elizabeth within the borders of the Queen Victoria one-penny stamp which was the first stamp for the Bahamas. The inscription on each reads: "1859 Postal Centenary 1959." The values are 1-pence, 2-pence, 6-pence and 10-pence.

Imitation Of Life

Tense Scene

Frank Sinatra and Shirley MacLaine listen to Dean Martin, their gambling friend, in "Some Came Running", MGM version of the best-selling novel by James Jones. The drama opens today at the Star Drive In.

'Room At Top' Bold Picture

Is it deliberately shocking? Or is it adult entertainment? That is the question at the heart of the controversy which centers around the new film, "Room at the Top," which opens here at the Paramount Theatre today.

When asked this question, young Jack Clayton, whose first full-length directorial assignment this was, answered with characteristic directness:

"There is no doubt that certain immature minds will come away from this film remembering only the four and five-letter words, which may rarely, if ever, have been heard on the screen before; but isn't this language part and parcel of everyday life? Isn't this the way people talk?"

"As for the intimate depiction of man-woman relationships on the screen," continued the mild-mannered, soft-spoken director, "I suggest that the shock from this film is one of recognition and identification, rather than anything else."

Thirty-eight year old Clayton, another "over-night" success, with some twenty years of hard labor at assorted jobs in British films behind him, pointed out the fact that the novel by John Braine, England's latest "angry young man," from which the picture was adopted, created the same sort of furor.

"Yet, never during production and the preparation of the film," says Clayton, "did we give any thought to the question of compromise or censorship. It was my firm conviction that to water down the basic story of the young man "on the make" to the top of the social and economic ladder, would be an insult to film audiences; for I believe, people want mature entertainment which reflects the reality they know."

"But more than that, and most important," he emphasized the words, "is the fact that we knew the majority of our audiences would feel as we do—that this is a highly moral film: that the values highlighted are the decent ones and that we are merely saying 'this is the way one man did it . . . and this is what it cost him.'"

The fact that "Room at the Top," which stars Laurence Harvey, Simone Signoret and Heather Sears, received three top British awards, broke all box-office records in England and seems on its way to break a few here.

Is Youth-Crazy Entire Country

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Miss Marlene Dietrich, the first of the red-hot grandmas, says it's difficult for a gal to age gracefully in this country because everybody is youth-crazy.

The 54-year-old star, a vision of glamor in her nightclub appearance here, lamented in her backstage dressing room at the Sahara Hotel:

"This country is wonderful but it has a youth complex, darling, and a complex is not healthy. The women are not responsible for it alone—the whole country is.

"Everybody worships youth. Everything has to be new—'rom cars to houses to anything. Here, something 15 years old is pointed out as very old, and anything old you tear down."

The blonde performer added in her soft accent:

"It's awfully difficult for the average woman to buck the national trend, darling. Young people are not taught to have reference for things old—so how can their parents be different? They don't have respect for things that have survived for many years—architecture, for instance."

Miss Dietrich, a splendid piece of architecture, is a notable exception to this trend. She has survived three decades of stardom, and two of her greatest successes are now being revived.

The movie "The Blue Angel" is being re-made in Hollywood with May Britt. "The New Dietrich." And another of her films, "Destry Rides Again," has been converted into a Broadway musical.

In addition, Miss Dietrich has gained a new audience for herself with an advice-to-the-lovelorn radio program in New York.

"You'd be surprised who writes me most," she said. "Teen-agers, wives and men.

"The teen-agers say I'm not a 'square,' and they think I'm interested in them. As for the wives, I can thank Ernest Hemingway for a lot of their letters. You know, he said I know more about love than anyone else, and most of their letters quote that.

"The men really surprised me, though, with all their letters. They also read or heard what Hemingway said, and they feel I'm fair about the subject—that I'm not necessarily taking the side of women."

Miss Dietrich said she feels people trust her judgment in these delicate matters because she is not a professional glamor queen.

"I don't pay much attention to myself," she said. "I work hard. The type of woman who wastes a lot of time on makeup and such things is the type of woman who has nothing else to do. Worrying about your looks only makes you get older faster.

"I don't diet, don't have massages and don't worry about how long I can go on. Why should I? After all, darling, I'm a lot younger than some people."

'MUSIC MAN' PROFITABLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"The Music Man" has paaraded past the 400 per cent profit mark in 18 months of performance on Broadway and the road.

The production cost $300,000, and the two acting companies are estimated to have netted $1,300,000 profit. Robert Preston stars in the Broadway version and Forrest Tucker heads the national company.

TESTING BOTH SIDES

NEW YORK (AP)—Lane Bradbury has ranged the thespic gamut on Broadway this season.

The Atlanta-born actress performed in "J. B.," the Pulitzer prize drama of man's triumph over tribulation. Now she is in the musical comedy "Gypsy," enacting the dancing-singing starlet of a vaudeville troup.

BROWNIE GOES AUTOMATIC

Have you ever wondered why they didn't build a camera that would give you a good picture in any kind of light? One that would adjust the lens setting for you automatically?

Well, they have. It's called the Brownie Starmatic and we've just finished shooting several rolls of film with it. It was an amazing experience.

We shot pictures in bright sunlight. In the shade. With side light and back light. When we saw our finished pictures, every one of them was a beauty. Yet we never touched the lens even ONCE to adjust it to all those different lighting conditions.

The Brownie Starmatic has an "electric-eye" that does the job automatically. No over exposures. No under exposures. The "electric eye" sees to it that every picture comes out just right. It even signals you NOT to shoot when the light gets too poor. How's that for service?

If you like to take good pictures without fussing with lens settings and the like, we think the Brownie Starmatic is the camera you've been waiting for. It takes beautiful color snapshots, color slides, and black-and-whites—automatically. All you have to do is aim . . . shoot . . . and collect the compliments for great pictures.

So come on in and take a first-hand look at the Starmatic. You'll be a better photographer as soon as you pick one up.

House Approves Bill For Public Works Projects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Friday tentatively approved a $1,177,252,000 public works appropriation bill carrying funds for planning or construction of 50 projects for which President Eisenhower budgeted no money.

Included was $5,733,000 to begin construction of seven new reclamation projects west of the Mississippi, where development of water resources has strong voter appeal.

In his budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, the President ruled against any new reclamation, harbor or flood control projects.

LITTLE THEATRE

Seasons end! We look back with pride and we hope our members look back with pleasure at the varied types of plays we have put on. The play reading committee has a harder job than some people realize. They are eager to select plays that will satisfy our audiences, but at the same time they cannot give us a steady diet of only one type of thing. Here are some of the criteria which they must use in making their search: (1) The play must not be too expensive to stage. One single scene is best but authors and Broadway producers are not so economy minded as we are forced to be. We had to contrive four sets for Country Girl - a very expensive feature. (2) A small cast is preferable to a large one. Pajama Game and Detective Story both had such large casts that our committee found it difficult to round up so many actors who could afford to give the necessary time for rehearsals. (3) The play should not offend our audiences in its lauguage or its eithics. But since the very essence of drama is conflict and the materials of conflict run right through the seven deadly sins, an author usually plunges his characters into situations in which they struggle with pride, jealousy, love, anger, ambition, fear, and hate. And they must speak in language which is natural to the social class portrayed. Shakespeare believed that a play should "hold the mirror up to nature" and that idea was not new even in his day. So in spite of the fact that some of our plays have depicted painful scenes, we are grateful that the season has provided us with comedy, tragedy, music, drama, fantasy, suspense, and wonderful fun.

As usual the cast and crew celebrated the end of the play with a party - in fact, there were two - one chez Frank and Beth Breese and the other at Joan Barber's.

We want all our members back again next year and some new ones too. Remember that two separate drives are going on, both very important. Please buy your 1959-60 season ticket now. And your donation to the building fund is vital.

Silver Discovery Anniversary Told

A new 4-cent stamp will be issued June 8 to honor the 100th anniversary of the discovery of silver at the Comstock Lode in Nevada. First day sale of the stamp will be held at Virginia City, Nev.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the Silver Centennial stamp may send their addressed envelopes, together with remittances covering the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Virginia City, Nev. The outside envelope to the postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers Silver Centennial Stamp."

The late Ernst Reuter, former mayor of Berlin, will become the fifth "Champion of Liberty" to be recognized by the United States when new 4-cent and 8-cent stamps are placed on sale at Washington, D.C., on Sept. 29.

Both stamps will feature a medallion with a likeness of Reuter and the wording "Ernst Reuter, Mayor of Berlin, 1947-1953' encircling the head.

Previous "Champions of Liberty" were Ramon Magsaysay in 1957, Simon Bolivar and Lajos Kossuth in 1958, and Jose de San Martin in February of this year.

Collectors wishing to obtain the Reuter stamp, or stamps, should send their addressed envelopes to the Postmaster, Washington, 13, D. C., with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed.

Each envelope must be marked, in pencil, in the upper right corner indicating the denomination, or denominations, to be affixed, and the number of stamps (singles, pairs, blocks, etc.) The outside envelope should be endorsed "First Day Covers Ernst Reuter Stamps."

Switzerland's annual "Pro Patria" series this year will feature minerals, rocks and fossils, reports the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America. The 5 centimes plus 5 gray and red shows a globe with the Swiss flag. The 10 c plus 10 depicts agate, a mineral found in Ponte Tresa. The 20 c plus 10 illustrates tourmaline crystals found in Binntal. The 30 c plus 10 pictures amethyst crystals. The 40 c plus 10 shows a fossil discovered by the Swiss naturalist Johann Jakob Scheuchzer.

The American Philatelic Society's 1959 convention will be held in Los Angeles Sept. 9-13. The event also will include the annual meeting of the American Stamp Dealers' Association. An exhibition will be open to the public.

The Republic of Korea honors the 10th anniversary of the founding of the Korean Marine Corps by issuing a 40-hwan olive green stamp. The design shows a replica of the marine corps insignia and a marine landing operation.

On June 10 the Bahamas will issue four new stamps to commemorate the centenary of the issuance of the first Bahamian postage stamp. The design, common to all values, will feature a portrait of Queen Elizabeth within the borders of the Queen Victoria one-penny stamp which was the first stamp for the Bahamas. The inscription on each reads: "1859 Postal Centenary 1959." The values are 1-pence, 2-pence, 6-pence and 10-pence.

Imitation Of Life

Tense Scene

Frank Sinatra and Shirley MacLaine listen to Dean Martin, their gambling friend, in "Some Came Running", MGM version of the best-selling novel by James Jones. The drama opens today at the Star Drive In.

Is it deliberately shocking? Or is it adult entertainment? That is the question at the heart of the controversy which centers around the new film, "Room at the Top," which opens here at the Paramount Theatre today.

When asked this question, young Jack Clayton, whose first full-length directorial assignment this was, answered with characteristic directness:

"There is no doubt that certain immature minds will come away from this film remembering only the four and five-letter words, which may rarely, if ever, have been heard on the screen before; but isn't this language part and parcel of everyday life? Isn't this the way people talk?"

"As for the intimate depiction of man-woman relationships on the screen," continued the mild-mannered, soft-spoken director, "I suggest that the shock from this film is one of recognition and identification, rather than anything else."

Thirty-eight year old Clayton, another "over-night" success, with some twenty years of hard labor at assorted jobs in British films behind him, pointed out the fact that the novel by John Braine, England's latest "angry young man," from which the picture was adopted, created the same sort of furor.

"Yet, never during production and the preparation of the film," says Clayton, "did we give any thought to the question of compromise or censorship. It was my firm conviction that to water down the basic story of the young man "on the make" to the top of the social and economic ladder, would be an insult to film audiences; for I believe, people want mature entertainment which reflects the reality they know."

"But more than that, and most important," he emphasized the words, "is the fact that we knew the majority of our audiences would feel as we do—that this is a highly moral film: that the values highlighted are the decent ones and that we are merely saying 'this is the way one man did it . . . and this is what it cost him.'"

The fact that "Room at the Top," which stars Laurence Harvey, Simone Signoret and Heather Sears, received three top British awards, broke all box-office records in England and seems on its way to break a few here.

Is Youth-Crazy Entire Country

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Miss Marlene Dietrich, the first of the red-hot grandmas, says it's difficult for a gal to age gracefully in this country because everybody is youth-crazy.

The 54-year-old star, a vision of glamor in her nightclub appearance here, lamented in her backstage dressing room at the Sahara Hotel:

"This country is wonderful but it has a youth complex, darling, and a complex is not healthy. The women are not responsible for it alone—the whole country is.

"Everybody worships youth. Everything has to be new—'rom cars to houses to anything. Here, something 15 years old is pointed out as very old, and anything old you tear down."

The blonde performer added in her soft accent:

"It's awfully difficult for the average woman to buck the national trend, darling. Young people are not taught to have reference for things old—so how can their parents be different? They don't have respect for things that have survived for many years—architecture, for instance."

Miss Dietrich, a splendid piece of architecture, is a notable exception to this trend. She has survived three decades of stardom, and two of her greatest successes are now being revived.

The movie "The Blue Angel" is being re-made in Hollywood with May Britt, "The New Dietrich." And another of her films, "Destry Rides Again," has been converted into a Broadway musical.

In addition, Miss Dietrich has gained a new audience for herself with an advice-to-the-lovelorn radio program in New York.

"You'd be surprised who writes me most," she said. "Teen-agers, wives and men.

"The teen-agers say I'm not a 'square,' and they think I'm interested in them. As for the wives, I can thank Ernest Hemingway for a lot of their letters. You know, he said I know more about love than anyone else, and most of their letters quote that.

"The men really surprised me, though, with all their letters. They also read or heard what Hemingway said, and they feel I'm fair about the subject—that I'm not necessarily taking the side of women."

Miss Dietrich said she feels people trust her judgment in these delicate matters because she is not a professional glamor queen.

"I don't pay much attention to myself," she said. "I work hard. The type of woman who wastes a lot of time on makeup and such things is the type of woman who has nothing else to do. Worrying about your looks only makes you get older faster.

"I don't diet, don't have massages and don't worry about how long I can go on. Why should I? After all, darling, I'm a lot younger than some people."

'MUSIC MAN' PROFITABLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"The Music Man" has paaraded past the 400 per cent profit mark in 18 months of performance on Broadway and the road.

The production cost $300,000, and the two acting companies are estimated to have netted $1,300,000 profit. Robert Preston stars in the Broadway version and Forrest Tucker heads the national company.

TESTING BOTH SIDES

NEW YORK (AP)—Lane Bradbury has ranged the thespic gamut on Broadway this season.

The Atlanta-born actress performed in "J. B.," the Pulitzer prize drama of man's triumph over tribulation. Now she is in the musical comedy "Gypsy," enacting the dancing-singing starlet of a vaudeville troup.

By, for, and about WOMEN

Monroe Morning World

June 7, 1959

In a twilight ceremony of tranquil simplicity last evening Miss Vivian Ann Powers became the bride of Albin Perry Lassiter, Jr., in the North Benson Baptist Church in Frankfort, Kentucky. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Powers of Frankfort, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albin Perry Lassiter of this city.

Wearing a regal gown of silk organza over taffeta, Miss Martha Louise Lester was wed last evening to William Norris III in a setting of white gladioli and burning tapers. The ceremony was held in the First Baptist Church in West Monroe. Dr. Jaroy Weber officiated. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lester and Dr. and Mrs. William Norris Jr. all of West Monroe.

In the quiet dignity of the Grace Episcopal Church Miss Martha Gaye Olcott became the bride of Thomas DeLee McDonald. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gerald Olcott and he, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ivy McDonald, all of this city. The marriage took place at two o'clock in the afternoon with The Reverend A. Donald Davies officiating.

White gladioli, asters and candles were luminescent on the altar and the bride, the former Miss Patricia Ann Davis, wore a Chantilly lace and tulle gown encrusted with sequins when she repeated her vows to Robert Eugene Thrasher. The Methodist Church Chapel in West Monroe was the scene of the wedding, solemnized last evening. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Brown Davis and Mrs. Mildred Greer of Paris, France, and Robert Derward Thrasher of Jefferson, Arkansas.

Miss Dianne Ferrand Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delma Carter, will become the bride of Robert Arthur Mears, son of Mrs. Mary Lou Mears all of West Monroe. The wedding will be an event of July 18 at 7:00 o'clock in the evening in the First Baptist Church in West Monroe. The Reverend Jaroy Weber and the Reverend A. D. Langston, the groom's grandfather, will officiate.

Miss Carol Sigourney Downes, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Robert Charles Cudd III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Cudd Jr. of this city, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lasley Jackson Downes of Rayville. The wedding will take place in late summer at the First Baptist Church in Rayville.

Afternoon Ceremony Unites In Marriage Miss Olcott, T. McDonald

Grace Episcopal Church was the scene yesterday, June 6, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of the marriage of Miss Martha Gaye Olcott and Thomas DeLee McDonald. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gerald Olcott and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ivy McDonald, all of this city. The Reverend A. Donald Davies officiated at the double ring ceremony with the immediate families and close friends present.

Bridal white gladioli, Marconi daisies and stock placed on either side of the Altar Cross were luminescent under the glow of many white candles placed in candelabra near the Chancel Steps.

The organist, David Tschabold, rendered nuptial music as the guests were escorted to their places by Neil McDonald, brother of the groom, Wallace A. Edwards of New Orleans, and Horace Smith. Serving as acolytes were Floyd Stone, Jr., and Harry L. Stone. Walter Craig Morgan was the groomsman.

Mrs. James E. Lewis, accompanied by Mr. Tschabold, sang, "O, Perfect Love," by Joseph Barnby.

Serving the bride as maid of honor was Miss Marianna Altick and Miss Carol Ann McDonald, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid.

They wore identical dresses of Schiffi silk organza in Romance blue. The taut bodices with bouffant skirts were accented with an embroidered band around the hemline. Their headbands were of matching shade, fashioned of silk organza roses. Slippers in satin were of the same shade. They wore short white gloves and carried sheath bouquets of pale yellow glamelia silhouetted with clusters of satin leaves.

THE BRIDE

As the organist began the "Processional Trumpet Voluntary" by Henry Purcell, the groom, with his best man, his father, took their places and awaited the bride.

The bride entered with her father who gave her in marriage. Her exquisite wedding gown was of lustrous white silk Peau Cascodes. The dress, an exclusive design, styled by Phillipa, was of a slim princess line, high empire bodice of imported hand made peau d' ange lace with a band of silk Peau Cascodes forming a soft flat bow in back. The three quarter length sleeves and Sabrina neckline were entirely designed of lace. The titian beauty of the bride was enhanced by the soft veil of translucent sheer tulle bordered with the matching lace of her gown and fashioned along mantilla lines framing her delicate features as she descended the aisle.

She wore short white crushed satin gloves and her only jewelry was a pair of matched pearl earrings. The bride carried a rhythmic cluster of gardenias, interspersed with stephanotis softened with trailing garlands of buds and hahn ivy.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents on Pargoud Boulevard. Mrs. Edwin Crowley in the foyer welcomed the guests who were then received by the bridal couple and their mothers. On a side table nearby an arrangement of white gladioli, daisies and stock in a silver Revere bowl was reflected in the mirror above. The bride's mother was becomingly attired in a glace' blue pure linen sheath with distinctive jacket effect of imported lace bound in matching satin with a bow at the neckline. Satin shoes and bag were of the same shade of glace' blue. A small white feather hat and crushed satin elbow length gloves completed the ensemble. Her corsage was peace rose buds.

The groom's mother chose a gown of pastel pink lace with fitted jacket of same material over taffeta. Beaded hat and shoes were of the same shade. Her corsage was of feathered carnations.

On the desk at the far end of the living room was the memory candle ornamented with lily of the valley, where Mrs. Robert O. Gunn of Houston, Texas, great aunt of the bride, asked the guests to sign the bride's book.

In the reception room on the piano were two large white wire wedding bells interlaced with satin ribbon and filled with stock. The low mantel over the fireplace held ivy leaves and magnolias. The refreshment table placed near the picture window in the room was covered with white tulle cloth edged in lace over white satin, and placed at one end was an antique silver epergne overflowing with stock, gladioli and daisies. At the opposite end serving punch from a cut glass bowl was Miss Janice Stone of Dallas, Texas, assisted by Mrs. J. Floyd Stone. The focal point of the reception room was the table holding the bride's cake. The table was beautifully draped in tulle over white satin. The cake, a three tiered confection, was done in antique white icing. White roses and wedding bells done in spun sugar outlined the tiers and surmounting the confection were two satin wedding bells resting in a bed of sugar roses. Serving the cake were Mrs. Z. T. Stone of Pine Bluff and Mrs. Walter Ryland, Jr. of Shreveport. Miss Catherine Stone and Miss Susan Stone, sub-deb daughters of the Floyd Stones Jr. and Harry L. Stones, passed trays of dainty sandwiches.

The garden, bordered in hedges of gardenias in full bloom, was inviting and some of the guests mingled outside where a tea table was placed on the patio. The table was covered with a white cutwork linen cloth. Centering it was a bouquet of magnolia buds. Serving punch at this table was Mrs. Neddo B. Scallion of Pine Bluff, Arkansas.

WEDDING TRIP

For her wedding trip the bride wore a slim shirtwaist two piece effect in blue cotton. Her accessories were white. At her shoulder was a corsage of Starlight roses. Shortly before Mr. and Mrs. McDonald left on their journey dainty rice bags of satin tied with wisps of tulle were offered to the guests by little Martha and Peggy Stone.

Afternoon Ceremony Unites In Marriage Miss Olcott, T. McDonald

Grace Episcopal Church was the scene yesterday, June 6, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of the marriage of Miss Martha Gaye Olcott and Thomas DeLee McDonald. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gerald Olcott and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ivy McDonald, all of this city. The Reverend A. Donald Davies officiated at the double ring ceremony with the immediate families and close friends present.

Bridal white gladioli, Marconi daisies and stock placed on either side of the Altar Cross were luminescent under the glow of many white candles placed in candelabra near the Chancel Steps.

The organist, David Tschabold rendered nuptial music as the guests were escorted to their places by Neil McDonald, brother of the groom, Wallace A. Edwards of New Orleans, and Horace Smith. Serving as acolytes were Floyd Stone, Jr., and Harry L. Stone. Walter Craig Morgan was the groomsman.

Mrs. James E. Lewis, accompanied by Mr. Tschabold, sang, "O, Perfect Love," by Joseph Barnby.

Serving the bride as maid of honor was Miss Marianna Altick and Miss Carol Ann McDonald, sister of the groom, was the bridesmaid.

They wore identical dresses of Schiffi silk organza in Romance blue. The taut bodices with bouffant skirts were accented with an embroidered band around the hemline. Their headbands were of matching shade, fashioned of silk organza roses. Slippers in satin were of the same shade. They wore short white gloves and carried sheath bouquets of pale yellow glamelia silhouetted with clusters of satin leaves.

Science Works Wonders, Keeps Baby Clean

IT'S A PROBLEM to keep baby clean. Ask any mother who has the experience of cleaning baby's nails before she takes him visiting, only to find little black borders at his fingertips when she introduces him to her hostess. How does a child pick up so much dirt in so short a time?

The grime goes to legs, arms and face too, and the most fastidious mother may be embarassed that her child looks neglected. The daily bath helps, but for how long?

One silver lining is clothing that make life easier for Mom.

There are the disposable diapers, now available in pastels, so that the baby who crawls around in diapers may always be clean and fresh in these chuck-easy pants. These are handy, too, for travel, so that the toddler doesn't need to wear soiled diapers for any length of time.

NEW TECHNIQUES

New improvements in washing techniques should keep the little rascal clean, in spite of dirty hands.

If you plan to block tiny wool garments, cut a frame out of cardboard before you wash the garment. The frame will help speed the drying by absorbing moisture, but be sure the cardboard does not contain dye which may come off on the garment.

It's always a good idea to pretreat extra soiled areas with extra suds rubbed in with the fingers. Small-fry socks really pick up the dirt as toddlers enjoy running around without shoes. Other spots to look for dirt are at the wrists of long-sleeved garments, and at the necks of sweaters and dresses.

WASHING WOOLENS

When washing woolens be sure the water is not too hot. Pour detergent into hot water, swish it around until it gets sudsy, then add cold water. It should feel neither cold nor hot, more on the tepid side. Newer detergents containing special ingredients may do a good washing job in lukewarm water.

Squeeze suds gently from woolen garments, roll in a turkish towel and lay away flat from direct heat or sunlight to dry. Knit wools with a shrink-resistant finish have a tendency to stretch, laundry experts say, so these, too, should be handled and blocked with care.

Garments of acrilan and orlon or of these fibers blended with wool may be washed in an automatic machine using short cycles. It helps too, to put them into a mesh laundry bag or pillow slip. Remove them from the machine when wet, blot between towels, and lay them out flat to dry.

Miss Downes - Robert Cudd Plan August Wedding

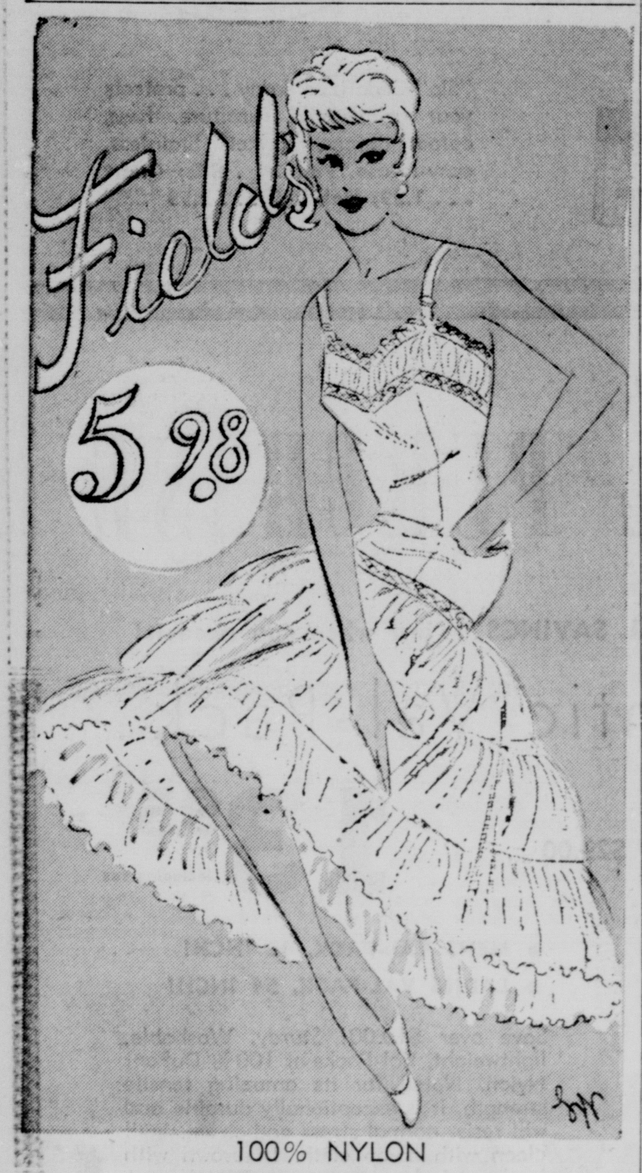

Mr. and Mrs. Lasley Jackson Downes of Rayville announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Sigourney, to Robert Charles Cudd III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Cudd, Jr., of Monroe. The wedding will take place in late summer at the First Baptist Church in Rayville.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of John Young Gladney and the late Mrs. Gladney, and the late Mr. and Mrs. George Robert Downes all of Rayville.

Miss Downes graduated from Rayville High School and received her B. A. degree from Sophie Newcomb College in New Orleans this month. At Newcomb, she was an officer of Chi Omega sorority, President of the Resident Government Association, a member of the Honor Board and Student Council, and was chosen to Phi Beta Kappa, Collegiate Who's Who, Mortar Board, and Jambalaya's Hall of fame.

The groom-elect is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKinney of Bigelow, Ark. and Mrs. R. C. Cudd and the late Mr. Cudd of Boyce.

Mr. Cudd is a graduate of Neville High School and of Tulane University in New Orleans, where he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity. He will begin his senior year in Tulane Law School this fall. In Law School, Mr. Cudd is on the student board of editors of the Tulane Law Review.

'Boss Night' Dinner Given By A. B. W. A.

The Cameo Room at the Virginia Hotel was the setting for the first Boss Night Dinner of the Tupawek Chapter of the American Business Women's Association. This meeting was also the first anniversary of the Monroe Chapter.

The speaker's table was beautifully decorated, carrying out the black and gold colors of A.B.W.A. Yellow carnations were arranged in a large champagne glass, with smaller glasses in graduated sizes filled with yellow carnations also. Across the front of the table was placed a black banner emblazoned in gold letters with the words "A Toast to the Boss."

The individual tables were decorated with yellow candles entwined with miniature gardenias, and with black and gold streamers from the candle attached to the four corners of each table with gardenias.

The guest book was presided over by Virginia Calhoun. Music was provided prior to the dinner by Mrs. Stanley Chapman. Invocation was given by Mrs. E. H. Williamson. The welcome address was delivered by Mrs. Lucille Collie, President of the Chapter. Toastmistress, Mrs. Dollie Guinn, introduced each member, and she in turn introduced her boss or guest. The history and purpose of A. B. W. A. was given by Mrs. Evelyn Pankey and the reading of the Creed, a copy of which was placed by the plate of each boss, tied with black and gold ribbon in the form of a diploma.

Perfect attendance awards were presented by Mrs. Gerrie Gross to Mrs. Virginia Wilhite, Mrs. Vera Gaddis, and Mrs. Lucille Collie, in recognition of their not missing a regular meeting during the first year of this association here.

As the most important event of the evening, a "Boss of the Year" had been selected through essays submitted by each member on her boss. Mrs. Nell Schanks read the winning eassy and Mrs. Ruth Thompson presented the trophy to their boss, Henry A. Biedenharn, Jr., who won this title.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Ralph Caldwell, who spoke on Employer - Employee Relations. Mr. Caldwell had spoken on this topic recently to this group, but had been asked to come back because of his vast experience in personnel work. Benediction was given by Mrs. Louise Chapman.

Members with their bosses and guests who attended were Louise Chapman, M. E. Luse, Beatrice Smith, Ralph Caldwell, Dollie Guinn, H. H. Guinn, Lucille Collie, Leon Surratt, Evelyn Pankey, Robert Cowden, Gerrie Gross, M.E. Gross, Virginia Calhoun, Jamar W. Adcock, Virginia Wilhite, Sam Futrell, Elaine Decell, Pat Brady, Jane Guthrie, Conway Crossland, Virginia Goodman, Walter Bentrup, Jim Baker, Edna Sanches, James S. Worley, Nell Schanks, R. L. Schanks, Ruth Thompson, Henry Biedenharn, Jr., Venila Wells, Col. C. T. Baird, Lila Walsworth, M. R. Stuart, Mary Byrd, C. W. Byrd, Vera Gaddis, Francis McLeland, Mathylde Young, James Benton, Aarah Culver, Florence Couch, Betty Tucker, J. Howard Carroll, Eula Williamson, Mrs. Ruby Taylor, Mable Lenard and Polly Chapman, Sis Larsen, Charles E. Thomas.

Lavada Smith Carey Donnell Recite Vows

Miss Lavada Smith became the bride of Pfc. Carey Donnell on Friday, May 29 in Winnsboro. The double - ring ceremony at 7:30 in the evening was performed by the Rev. T. G. Polk with only close relatives and friends of the families attending. Miss Smith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Smith and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Armstrong, all of Winnsboro.

Miss Linda Armstrong, sister of the bridegroom, was the only attendant to the bride. She wore a blue street length summer model designed with full skirt and a pink corsage.

Marline Valentine served as best man.

The bride's petite beauty emphasized the design of her bridal dress. The light blue model was ballerina length with full skirt gathered at the waistline. The neckline was in a low V-shape in the front and back. She wore white accessories and a white orchid corsage at her shoulder.

Mrs. Smith, mother of the bride was wearing an attractive pink shagbar model with white accessories. Mrs. Armstrong was attired in an orchid dress and she wore complementary accessories.

Following a wedding trip Pfc. Donnell will report back for duty at Fort Knox, Ky. Mrs. Donnell will join him there in a few weeks.

The bride is a graduate of the 1959 class of Winnsboro High School. The bridegroom also graduated from Winnsboro High School and has been in the United States army for more than a year.

Protect Them

A small inflated wading pool in the back of your station wagon may come in handy when you have children riding in it. The soft sides protect them from falls and bumps.

Good Tip

A rubber coaster placed under each crib leg will keep baby from shaking the crib around the room.

Vary your French dressing by keeping several kinds of vinegar on hand to use in them: cider, tarragon, red and white wine vinegars.

'Boss Night' Dinner Given By A. B. W. A.

The Cameo Room at the Virginia Hotel was the setting for the first Boss Night Dinner of the Tupawek Chapter of the American Business Women's Association. This meeting was also the first anniversary of the Monroe Chapter.

The speaker's table was beautifully decorated, carrying out the black and gold colors of A.B.W.A. Yellow carnations were arranged in a large champagne glass, with smaller glasses in graduated sizes filled with yellow carnations also. Across the front of the table was placed a black banner emblazoned in gold letters with the words "A Toast to the Boss."

The individual tables were decorated with yellow candles entwined with miniature gardenias, and with black and gold streamers from the candle attached to the four corners of each table with gardenias.

The guest book was presided over by Virginia Calhoun. Music was provided prior to the dinner by Mrs. Stanley Chapman. Invocation was given by Mrs. E. H. Williamson. The welcome address was delivered by Mrs. Lucille Collie, President of the Chapter. Toastmistress, Mrs. Dollie Guinn, introduced each member, and she in turn introduced her boss or guest. The history and purpose of A. B. W. A. was given by Mrs. Evelyn Pankey and the reading of the Creed, a copy of which was placed by the plate of each boss, tied with black and gold ribbon in the form of a diploma.

Perfect attendance awards were presented by Mrs. Gerrie Gross to Mrs. Virginia Wilhite, Mrs. Vera Gaddis, and Mrs. Lucille Collie, in recognition of their not missing a regular meeting during the first year of this association here.

As the most important event of the evening, a "Boss of the Year" had been selected through essays submitted by each member on her boss. Mrs. Nell Schanks read the winning eassy and Mrs. Ruth Thompson presented the trophy to their boss, Henry A. Biedenharn, Jr., who won this title.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Ralph Caldwell, who spoke on Employer - Employee Relations. Mr. Caldwell had spoken on this topic recently to this group, but had been asked to come back because of his vast experience in personnel work. Benediction was given by Mrs. Louise Chapman.

Members with their bosses and guests who attended were Louise Chapman, M. E. Luse, Beatrice Smith, Ralph Caldwell, Dollie Guinn, H. H. Guinn, Lucille Collie, Leon Surratt, Evelyn Pankey, Robert Cowden, Gerrie Gross, M.E. Gross, Virginia Calhoun, Jamar W. On Dit'

by Denise

With school closing last Saturday, there have been a flurry of parties for the young people. If one is young enough, the first week in June is almost as good as Christmas.

CHERRY CHAPMAN celebrated the end of school with a real Hawaiian luau at her home last weekend. Guests were about thirty friends from her class, which finished junior high this year. They began the evening with a swim in the gardenia-strewn pool. The wall behind the pool was hung with fishnet caught with sea shells and large cut out letters spelling "Aloha" and "Hawaii". Favors were leis, of course.

After the swim, dinner was served, followed by dancing on the patio. On the menu was sweet and sour spare ribs, ham with pineapple, Hawaiian fried rice, hot rolls, and assorted fresh fruit. Tropical punch was served from a bowl in which floated fresh pineapple and orange slices.

The Beaux and Belles Fun club ended the year with a party at the Highland Park country club. After a swim, the group enjoyed a supper of hamburgers, French fries, salad, and soft drinks, with sundaes for dessert. Favors were a choice of lipstick case with mirror, compact, or jeweled comb for the girls; initialed key-rings for the boys. About forty-five attended.

On the last day of school, MIKE CLAY also celebrated his tenth birthday. Twenty-five friends joined him at a skating party. Prize winners were MARY ANN SALISBURY, best girl skater; STEVEN BRANCH, best boy skater; and BETSY TAYLOR and SUSAN FARR, stop-the-music. Doughnuts and soft drinks were the refreshments.

Fifty children of the nursery school set were invited to a party at Bayou DeSiard county club on Tuesday. Honorees were BRENDA MADDEN and WAKE WAKEFIELD, who were five years old. Brenda was wearing a blue organdy dress with a wide Bertha collar, while Wake wore a bright red blazer striped in white with short white trousers. . . .As the young guests gathered in the main ballroom, we noted waisted yellow dress, appliqued waisted yellow dress, appliqude around the hem with a toy train. .. KATHY COTTON wearing pink with a big bow in the back. . . . and ELAINE HENRY in white organdy with a pinafore embroidered in yellow. . . .MORRIS MINTZ sported a handsome red and white striped sport coat. . . . A green velvet sash accented CHARLOTTE ETHRIDGE's white organdy. . . .With her pale yellow embroidered organdy, HOLLY POWELL wore white gloves with pearls. .. .SUSAN BROWN wore a yellow and white checked Empire.

After seeing movies in the private dining room, the youngsters were served at several small tables set up on the porch. Chocolate cake for Wake and pink cake for Brenda was served, along with ice cream and lemonade.

Bermuda shorts and sport shirts were the attire at the supper dance hosted by SANDY LAWN AND LYNN MARX on Tuesday night at the Marx home. Guest of honor was JUDY PORT, who will be moving away from Monroe the latter part of next week. Judy wore an outfit of black shirt and pedal pushers, with both pieces embroidered with butterflies and flowers in shades of grey and white.

An informal supper of hot dogs, potato chips, and soft drinks was served on the patio. Later the group went inside for dancing to the hi-fi. Pink and white gladiolas were used as decoration. An array of candies and cookies was set out for nibbling throughout the evening. . . .A Polaroid camera was used for taking pictures of the party which were entered in the album which was presented to the honoree as a farewell present.

On Wednesday JAN ADCOCK honored Judy with a luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club. White flowers were used: magnolias with their foliage in a silver compote on the buffet; white split carnations with white sprayed fern in a silver bowl on the table. Judy's gift from her hostess was a make-up travel kit. An avacado salad plate and lemon chiffon pie was served to eighteen guests.

Judy is moving to Yazoo City, Mississippi, with her parents, the RICHARD A. PORTS. Also making the move will be the BOB EDWARDS and their children, BUTCH and DEBBIE. .. ....

KAREN CROW was hostess at two home dances last weekend. Two different groups of seventh grade friends were invited in for dancing to the hi-fi. Banana splits and cola floats were refreshments . . . Another party for this group was the home dance given Monday by BARBARA MASUR. Guests came in Bermuda shorts and such informal attire. Cookies and soft drinks were served throughout the evening.

On Tuesday CAROL HADDAD was hostess at a conversational hour honoring ANITA SMITH, who is leaving soon to make her home in Houston, Texas. Gardenias were used throughout the house and centered the dining table. Party sandwiches and cookies were served with soft drinks to about fifty - five members of the high school set.

Things are never dull for the grown - ups, either. The Lotus club dinner dance last Saturday night was a most successful gala. Pink peonies centered the buffet table, where a lavish board was spread. On the menu were roast beef with mushroom sauce, ham, dirty rice, green beans almondine, and a choice of salads. Miniature chocolate eclairs were dessert . . . The Mixmasters played for dancing from eight to twelve. We noted MARIE BERNSTEIN on the dance floor, gamely sporting a gardenia corsage on the toe of the cast on her foot . . . ANN HOLMES, JEAN BROWN, and BESS COURTMAN were on the committee responsible for this party.

The annual Dutch Treat party for members of the Junior Charity League was held last Saturday night at the Harold Woods' camp. Leaguers invited their husbands to this party. The camp was set up for card games in the living room and dancing to the juke box on the screened porch. A barbecue supper of chicken, baked beans, potato salad and Brownies was served to about ninety who attended. JACKIE WOODS was chairman of the affair.

Last Saturday night and again last night the CAVITT COOKSTONS and the FRED MARXES were hosts at dinners. The parties were held at the Marx home, where guests gathered early for a dip in the pool before the meal. The buffet table was covered with a grey cloth and centered with shrimp colored gladiolas arranged in a grey crescent shaped bowl. Chicken cacciatore was served with salad, peas, and hot rolls. Dessert was fruit cup with cake and coffee. Fifteen couples attended each party.

MR. and MRS. GLENN HARDIN and family of Baton Rouge are guests this week in the home of the MIKE JOHNS JR., on Filhiol avenue.

COOKIE DITTMAN arrived on Wednesday from Lake Charles to be the guest of TISH POE. With Tish's parents, the C. W. POES, the girls left yesterday for a ten day trip West. They will go first to Crane, Texas, and thence to Carlsbad Caverns, and other points of interest in New Mexico.

The JACK MASURS left yesterday for ten days in New York City . . . Also in New York for a visit at this time are the TOMMY FRAZERS, who are attending a convention.

The SAM FUTRELLS and their daughter JANIS have returned from Dallas, Texas, where they attended the commencement exercises at Southern Methodist university. Another daughter, CAROLYN, was graduated magna cum laude.

We seldom repeat a poem, but this lighthearted lyric by Robert Burns is so perfect for the first week of June that it deserves an encore from last year:

O, my love is like a red, red rose,
That's newly sprung in June:
O, my love is like the melody
That's sweetly played in tune.
As fair art thou, my bonnie lass,
So deep in love am I;
And I will love thee still, my dear,
Till all the seas gang dry:
Till all the seas gang dry, my dear,
And the rocks melt with the sun;
And I will love thee still, my dear,
While the sands of life shall run.
And fare thee well, my only love!
And fare thee well awhile!
And I will come again, my love.
Though it were ten thousand mile!

Before you grind dry pieces of bread for crumbs it may be well to toast the bread lightly in a slow oven.

Miss Kenney Sewell Morgan Will Wed

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kenney of Gilbert announce the engagement of their daughter, Delores Kenney, to Sewell Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Morgan of Dry Prong. The wedding will be solemnized June 14, at 2:30 in the afternoon in the home of the brides' parents.

Marriage Vows Exchanged By Martha Louise Lester, William Norris III

Of much interest here was the wedding Saturday, celebrated in the First Baptist Church in West Monroe, of Miss Martha Louise Lester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lester, to William Norris III, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Norris, Jr., all of West Monroe. The ceremony took place at 7:00 o'clock in the evening and was performed by Dr. Jaroy Weber. Sandy Lawn was organist and accompanied Jack Day, soloist, who sang "Oh Perfect Love" and "Because." At the close of the ceremony he sang, "God Bless This Day," from the balcony.

Decorating the church for the wedding were large arrangements of white ruffled gladioli in a setting of woodwardia fern and southern smilax with many white cathedral tapers arranged artistically in wrought iron candelabra. Large bows of blue satin ribbon were nestled in the flowers and draped across the railing.

The bride was escorted to the alter by her father, who gave her in marriage. Her lovely gown of silk organza over bridal taffeta styled in Empire effect with re-embroidered pearl trimmed lace bodice had a flaring Princess skirt that draped to a bustle back ending in a chapel train. She wore a Juliet bridal veil of pure silk illusion of finger - tip length. Her only ornament was a string of matched cultured pearls, a gift of the groom. Her slippers were white satin.

She carried white orchids in a cascade arrangement of stephanotis and feathered white chrysanthemums fastened to a white pearl Bible. She wore the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed, and something blue.

BRIDESMAIDS

Miss Gerry Lester, a sister of the bride, was the maid-of -honor. The bridesmaids included Miss Linda Bell, a cousin of the bride, of Tyler, Texas, Miss Mary Beth Rogers, Miss Amy Hood, and Miss Kay Norris, Ellen Norris served as junior bridesmaid. Their dresses were of blue iridescent taffeta, fitted bodice with a sweetheart neckline. Taffeta bows of the same material accented the harem skirts. Each carried unique white baskets with arrangements of large blue tinted daisies and pink pom pon chrysanthemums. Their hats were made of iridescent taffeta leaves to match the dresses and they wore blue tinted slippers of the same shade.

Serving as candlelighters were Miss Bobbie Ervin and Miss Judy Carter. They wore identical dresses as the bridesmaids. Their wrist corsages were of pink pom pon chrysanthemums. The little flower girl, Sharon Fordyce, identically dressed carried a miniature white basket of flowers, the same as the bridesmaids.

Dr. Norris served his son as best man. Groomsmen were Dave Norris, a brother, Ray Vineyard, Vance Harrelson, and Lemmie Hightower. Mike Day served as ring bearer.

Mrs. Lester, the bride's mother, was becomingly dressed in a mauve lace dress with matching hat and shoes, with this she wore white kid gloves. Her wrist corsage was of pink cymbidium orchids.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding reception was held at Highland Park Country Club. The floor length covers for the tables were white net over satin caught at vantage points with blue satin flowers. The central decor was of white roses and candytuff. On either side of this arrangement were blue candles in flower decorated silver candle holders. Mrs. Lloyd Beall, Mrs. I. W. Rogers, Mrs. Robert Ervin and Mrs. Ed Hislop, Jr., alternated at the silver punch bowls. Centering a round table with matching net cloth was the tiered wedding cake on a large mirror. Between its columns, were swans and lilies of the valley. An arrangement of flowers was placed around the cake on the mirror.

Mrs. Malcolm LeFevre, assisted by Miss Theda Pettigrew and Miss Linda Bradley, served the bride's cake. Little wedding boxes with "Louise and Bill - June 6, 1959" inscribed in silver, containing a piece of the wedding cake were passed out to all the girls to "dream on." And matched with the same inscription to all the adults, by Misses Ann and Jan McLemore, Miss Nettie Beth Weber and Miss Nancy Bradley.

The guest book table, covered with net, held a memory candle which scented the room with the odor of lily of the valley. Presiding at the guest book was Miss Mary Elizabeth Heard, who wore a white silk linen dress, re-embroidered at neck and waist in blue. Her corsage was of white mums with blue cow - slips.

The bride is a graduate of West Monroe High School and is a member of Delta Beta Sigma Sorority. The groom graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and Northeast Louisiana State College.

The couple will make their home in West Monroe.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd C. Beall, Miss Linda Beall and Jack Pollard of Tyler, Texas, Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Killen of Waterproof, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Shaw of Porto Rico; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Spence, Mr. Hartie Spence and Miss Lallage Spence of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Anderson, Bill and Hank Anderson of Shreveport; Mrs. Clayton Beeson and Mr. Ralph Beeson of Pineville; Mr. and Mrs. Rex Queen and Miss Margie Bolton of Alexandria, and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Tannehill, Max and Tom of New Orleans.

A wedding trip is being spent in the Ozark Mountains.

With school closing last Saturday, there have been a flurry of parties for the young people. If one is young enough, the first week in June is almost as good as Christmas.

CHERRY CHAPMAN celebrated the end of school with a real Hawaiian luau at her home last weekend. Guests were about thirty friends from her class, which finished junior high this year. They began the evening with a swim in the gardenia-strewn pool. The wall behind the pool was hung with fishnet caught with sea shells and large cut out letters spelling "Aloha" and "Hawaii". Favors were leis, of course.

After the swim, dinner was served, followed by dancing on the patio. On the menu was sweet and sour spare ribs, ham with pineapple, Hawaiian fried rice, hot rolls, and assorted fresh fruit. Tropical punch was served from a bowl in which floated fresh pineapple and orange slices.

The Beaux and Belles Fun club ended the year with a party at the Highland Park country club. After a swim, the group enjoyed a supper of hamburgers, French fries, salad, and soft drinks, with sundaes for dessert. Favors were a choice of lipstick case with mirror, compact, or jeweled comb for the girls; initialed key-rings for the boys. About forty-five attended.

On the last day of school, MIKE CLAY also celebrated his tenth birthday. Twenty-five friends joined him at a skating party. Prize winners were MARY ANN SALISBURY, best girl skater; STEVEN BRANCH, best boy skater; and BETSY TAYLOR and SUSAN FARR, stop-the-music. Doughnuts and soft drinks were the refreshments.

Fifty children of the nursery school set were invited to a party at Bayou DeSiard county club on Tuesday. Honorees were BRENDA MADDEN and WAKE WAKEFIELD, who were five years old. Brenda was wearing a blue organdy dress with a wide Bertha collar, while Wake wore a bright red blazer striped in white with short white trousers. . . .As the young guests gathered in the main ballroom, we noted waisted yellow dress, appliqued waisted yellow dress, appliqude around the hem with a toy train. .. KATHY COTTON wearing pink with a big bow in the back. . . . and ELAINE HENRY in white organdy with a pinafore embroidered in yellow. . . .MORRIS MINTZ sported a handsome red and white striped sport coat. . . . A green velvet sash accented CHARLOTTE ETHRIDGE's white organdy. . . .With her pale yellow embroidered organdy, HOLLY POWELL wore white gloves with pearls. .. .SUSAN BROWN wore a yellow and white checked Empire.

After seeing movies in the private dining room, the youngsters were served at several small tables set up on the porch. Chocolate cake for Wake and pink cake for Brenda was served, along with ice cream and lemonade.

Bermuda shorts and sport shirts were the attire at the supper dance hosted by SANDY LAWN AND LYNN MARX on Tuesday night at the Marx home. Guest of honor was JUDY PORT, who will be moving away from Monroe the latter part of next week. Judy wore an outfit of black shirt and pedal pushers, with both pieces embroidered with butterflies and flowers in shades of grey and white.

An informal supper of hot dogs, potato chips, and soft drinks was served on the patio. Later the group went inside for dancing to the hi-fi. Pink and white gladiolas were used as decoration. An array of candies and cookies was set out for nibbling throughout the evening. . . .A Polaroid camera was used for taking pictures of the party which were entered in the album which was presented to the honoree as a farewell present.

On Wednesday JAN ADCOCK honored Judy with a luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club. White flowers were used: magnolias with their foliage in a silver compote on the buffet; white split carnations with white sprayed fern in a silver bowl on the table. Judy's gift from her hostess was a make-up travel kit. An avacado salad plate and lemon chiffon pie was served to eighteen guests.

Judy is moving to Yazoo City, Mississippi, with her parents, the RICHARD A. PORTS. Also making the move will be the BOB EDWARDS and their children, BUTCH and DEBBIE. .. ....

KAREN CROW was hostess at two home dances last weekend. Two different groups of seventh grade friends were invited in for dancing to the hi-fi. Banana splits and cola floats were refreshments . . . Another party for this group was the home dance given Monday by BARBARA MASUR. Guests came in Bermuda shorts and such informal attire. Cookies and soft drinks were served throughout the evening.

On Tuesday CAROL HADDAD was hostess at a conversational hour honoring ANITA SMITH, who is leaving soon to make her home in Houston, Texas. Gardenias were used throughout the house and centered the dining table. Party sandwiches and cookies were served with soft drinks to about fifty - five members of the high school set.

Things are never dull for the grown - ups, either. The Lotus club dinner dance last Saturday night was a most successful gala. Pink peonies centered the buffet table, where a lavish board was spread. On the menu were roast beef with mushroom sauce, ham, dirty rice, green beans almondine, and a choice of salads. Miniature chocolate eclairs were dessert . . . The Mixmasters played for dancing from eight to twelve. We noted MARIE BERNSTEIN on the dance floor, gamely sporting a gardenia corsage on the toe of the cast on her foot . . . ANN HOLMES, JEAN BROWN, and BESS COURTMAN were on the committee responsible for this party.

The annual Dutch Treat party for members of the Junior Charity League was held last Saturday night at the Harold Woods' camp. Leaguers invited their husbands to this party. The camp was set up for card games in the living room and dancing to the juke box on the screened porch. A barbecue supper of chicken, baked beans, potato salad and Brownies was served to about ninety who attended. JACKIE WOODS was chairman of the affair.

Last Saturday night and again last night the CAVITT COOKSTONS and the FRED MARXES were hosts at dinners. The parties were held at the Marx home, where guests gathered early for a dip in the pool before the meal. The buffet table was covered with a grey cloth and centered with shrimp colored gladiolas arranged in a grey crescent shaped bowl. Chicken cacciatore was served with salad, peas, and hot rolls. Dessert was fruit cup with cake and coffee. Fifteen couples attended each party.

MR. and MRS. GLENN HARDIN and family of Baton Rouge are guests this week in the home of the MIKE JOHNS JR., on Filhiol avenue.

COOKIE DITTMAN arrived on Wednesday from Lake Charles to be the guest of TISH POE. With Tish's parents, the C. W. POES, the girls left yesterday for a ten day trip West. They will go first to Crane, Texas, and thence to Carlsbad Caverns, and other points of interest in New Mexico.

The JACK MASURS left yesterday for ten days in New York City . . . Also in New York for a visit at this time are the TOMMY FRAZERS, who are attending a convention.

The SAM FUTRELLS and their daughter JANIS have returned from Dallas, Texas, where they attended the commencement exercises at Southern Methodist university. Another daughter, CAROLYN, was graduated magna cum laude.

We seldom repeat a poem, but this lighthearted lyric by Robert Burns is so perfect for the first week of June that it deserves an encore from last year:

O, my love is like a red, red rose,
That's newly sprung in June:
O, my love is like the melody
That's sweetly played in tune.
As fair art thou, my bonnie lass,
So deep in love am I;
And I will love thee still, my dear,
Till all the seas gang dry:
Till all the seas gang dry, my dear,
And the rocks melt with the sun;
And I will love thee still, my dear,
While the sands of life shall run.
And fare thee well, my only love!
And fare thee well awhile!
And I will come again, my love.
Though it were ten thousand mile!

Before you grind dry pieces of bread for crumbs it may be well to toast the bread lightly in a slow oven.

Miss Kenney Sewell Morgan Will Wed

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kenney of Gilbert announce the engagement of their daughter, Delores Kenney, to Sewell Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Morgan of Dry Prong. The wedding will be solemnized June 14, at 2:30 in the afternoon in the home of the brides' parents.

Of much interest here was the wedding Saturday, celebrated in the First Baptist Church in West Monroe, of Miss Martha Louise Lester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lester, to William Norris III, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Norris, Jr., all of West Monroe. The ceremony took place at 7:00 o'clock in the evening and was performed by Dr. Jaroy Weber. Sandy Lawn was organist and accompanied Jack Day, soloist, who sang "Oh Perfect Love" and "Because." At the close of the ceremony he sang, "God Bless This Day," from the balcony.

Decorating the church for the wedding were large arrangements of white ruffled gladioli in a setting of woodwardia fern and southern smilax with many white cathedral tapers arranged artistically in wrought iron candelabra. Large bows of blue satin ribbon were nestled in the flowers and draped across the railing.

The bride was escorted to the alter by her father, who gave her in marriage. Her lovely gown of silk organza over bridal taffeta styled in Empire effect with re-embroidered pearl trimmed lace bodice had a flaring Princess skirt that draped to a bustle back ending in a chapel train. She wore a Juliet bridal veil of pure silk illusion of finger - tip length. Her only ornament was a string of matched cultured pearls, a gift of the groom. Her slippers were white satin.

She carried white orchids in a cascade arrangement of stephanotis and feathered white chrysanthemums fastened to a white pearl Bible. She wore the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed, and something blue.

BRIDESMAIDS

Miss Gerry Lester, a sister of the bride, was the maid-of -honor. The bridesmaids included Miss Linda Bell, a cousin of the bride, of Tyler, Texas, Miss Mary Beth Rogers, Miss Amy Hood, and Miss Kay Norris, Ellen Norris served as junior bridesmaid. Their dresses were of blue iridescent taffeta, fitted bodice with a sweetheart neckline. Taffeta bows of the same material accented the harem skirts. Each carried unique white baskets with arrangements of large blue tinted daisies and pink pom pon chrysanthemums. Their hats were made of iridescent taffeta leaves to match the dresses and they wore blue tinted slippers of the same shade.

Serving as candlelighters were Miss Bobbie Ervin and Miss Judy Carter. They wore identical dresses as the bridesmaids. Their wrist corsages were of pink pom pon chrysanthemums. The little flower girl, Sharon Fordyce, identically dressed carried a miniature white basket of flowers, the same as the bridesmaids.

Dr. Norris served his son as best man. Groomsmen were Dave Norris, a brother, Ray Vineyard, Vance Harrelson, and Lemmie Hightower. Mike Day served as ring bearer.

Mrs. Lester, the bride's mother, was becomingly dressed in a mauve lace dress with matching hat and shoes, with this she wore white kid gloves. Her wrist corsage was of pink cymbidium orchids.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding reception was held at Highland Park Country Club. The floor length covers for the tables were white net over satin caught at vantage points with blue satin flowers. The central decor was of white roses and candytuff. On either side of this arrangement were blue candles in flower decorated silver candle holders. Mrs. Lloyd Beall, Mrs. I. W. Rogers, Mrs. Robert Ervin and Mrs. Ed Hislop, Jr., alternated at the silver punch bowls. Centering a round table with matching net cloth was the tiered wedding cake on a large mirror. Between its columns, were swans and lilies of the valley. An arrangement of flowers was placed around the cake on the mirror.

Mrs. Malcolm LeFevre, assisted by Miss Theda Pettigrew and Miss Linda Bradley, served the bride's cake. Little wedding boxes with "Louise and Bill - June 6, 1959" inscribed in silver, containing a piece of the wedding cake were passed out to all the girls to "dream on." And matched with the same inscription to all the adults, by Misses Ann and Jan McLemore, Miss Nettie Beth Weber and Miss Nancy Bradley.

The guest book table, covered with net, held a memory candle which scented the room with the odor of lily of the valley. Presiding at the guest book was Miss Mary Elizabeth Heard, who wore a white silk linen dress, re-embroidered at neck and waist in blue. Her corsage was of white mums with blue cow - slips.

The bride is a graduate of West Monroe High School and is a member of Delta Beta Sigma Sorority. The groom graduated from Ouachita Parish High School and Northeast Louisiana State College.

The couple will make their home in West Monroe.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd C. Beall, Miss Linda Beall and Jack Pollard of Tyler, Texas, Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Killen of Waterproof, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Shaw of Porto Rico; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Spence, Mr. Hartie Spence and Miss Lallage Spence of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Anderson, Bill and Hank Anderson of Shreveport; Mrs. Clayton Beeson and Mr. Ralph Beeson of Pineville; Mr. and Mrs. Rex Queen and Miss Margie Bolton of Alexandria, and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Tannehill, Max and Tom of New Orleans.

A wedding trip is being spent in the Ozark Mountains.

A Double Ring Ceremony Unites Miss Davis And Robert Eugene Thrasher

A double ring ceremony was held in the Chapel of the Methodist Church in West Monroe on May 31 at 8:00 o'clock in the afternoon uniting in marriage Miss Patricia Ann Davis daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Brown Davis to Robert Eugene Thrasher of West Monroe. He is the son of Mrs. Mildred Greer of Paris, France, and Robert Derward Thrasher of Jefferson, Arkansas.

The Reverend W. D. Milton performed the ceremony in a setting of low baskets of white gladioli and asters. Southern ivy entwined the candelabra and formed green pyramids of burning tapers. Rendering the music during the ceremony was Mrs. C. H. Myers who accompanied Miss Molly May, soloist, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a bridal gown of Chantilly lace over nylon taffeta and tulle of Ballerina length. A basque bodice of Chantilly lace had a deep pointed front and back neckline encrusted with sequins. The long tunic of lace had a scalloped edge and one lavish ruffle of nylon tulle. A coronet of pearls held the veil of double illusion in place. The bride carried a bouquet of feathered white chrysanthemums with a white orchid in the center. Miss Marguerite Sue Davis, maid of honor, wore a street length dress of blue silk organza over taffeta with matching slippers her headdress and gloves were of white. Miss Linda Fagan Steele, bridesmaid, was identically dressed.

Mrs. Davis, the bride's mother, chose a beige silk sheath dress with an empire top of Venetian lace, with matching slippers and bag. A pink hat and gloves complimented her ensemble Her corsage was of cymbidium orchids. The groom's mother, Mrs. Greer, chose a Paris model of blue lace with darker blue shoes and matching accessories. She also wore a cymbidium orchid corsage.

The couple will make their home in West Monroe.

The bride and groom are both graduates of West Monroe High School and they are both now attending Northeast Louisiana State College.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hogg of El-Dorado, Arkansas were out of town guests present for the wedding.

SOUNDING BOARDS

The reason is two-fold: Mrs. Peerce thinks bare floors are the most elegant of all when properly maintained; second, they give her husband's voice the true tonal quality he requires.

An easy way to deal with fresh pineapple is to cut the fruit into rounds before slicing away the rind and removing the "eyes."

Beauty Added To Wedding Cake Buffet

The traditional June wedding has a very special sentiment, an unique atmosphere that makes it a joyous and unforgettable occasion for all the years ahead, and no wedding day would be complete without that loveliest of formal settings, the wedding cake buffet.

Set with the wedding china, the new sterling, rows of gleaming champagne glasses standing by for festive toasts, and the wedding cake itself, rising high to the little bride and groom figures on top, the charm and formality of this table is an enduring memory for all.

An especially attractive graceful note will add a very appropriate theme to this buffet. The traditional symbol of youth and vitality, delicately sturdy stalks of wheat, can make this table stand out even more. Silvered for elegance and framing the cake and champagne bucket, the wheat pattern is repeated in the equally delicate and sturdy paper luncheon and cocktail napkins as the perfect accessory for important social occasions. Called simply "Silver Wheat", the practical napkins, with matching coasters as well, carry out the eloquent feeling of the entire buffet.

A perfect wedding souvenir, the "Silver Wheat" collection of paper napkins and coasters is a happy combination of traditional beauty and modern customs in the best standards of today's young newlyweds.

MRS. JACK WARREN PLUMMER

'Rooming-In, Is Sensible For The Modern Mother

"Rooming-in," the term given to the practice of keeping the baby in the room with the mother instead of the hospital nursery, is a growing procedure.

As the mother's stay in the hospital grew shorter and shorter it seemed sensible that she have more opportunity to get acquainted with her baby before she was made entirely responsible for its care.

With its small crib beside her she can become aware of all its "funny" noises; she finds it easy to lift the crying baby and hold and comfort it, or feed it if that is necessary.

From a psychiatric standpoint this holding and cuddling are just what the new baby needs. His sense of security is established when his cries are answered, and shattered when they are ignored.

Rooming-in is a great encouragement to breast-feeding. When the baby is close, the mother comes to know when the cry is just a need for companionship and when it means, "I am hungry." Way off in the nursery the baby may be brought to her only when it is "time" to feed—and this timing may or may not coincide with the baby's hunger rhythms.

When the baby is with the mother, visitors are excluded—and a very good thing, too—but the young father has an opportunity of getting to know baby instead of getting only fleeting glimpses of him through the nursery window.

To see him face to face, to lift him and help diaper him, develop his paternal emotions. And on the day he picks him up to take him home the baby is no stranger but his own baby to whose face he has "grown accustomed."

There is another immediate reason why rooming-in is an increasing practice. This is due to the dread presence of staphylococcus in hospitals. This virulent infection which in all of its types has heretofore been controlled by penicillin has now developed an immunity to it and other forms of antibiotics.

The ONLY individual who disapproves of rooming-in is the mother of several children who would prefer that her days in the hospital be baby-free.

Miss Stancil Jack W. Plummer Exchange Vows

The Parkview Baptist Church was the setting June 6 at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon for the wedding of Miss Virginia Diane Stancil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Stancil and Jack Warren Plummer, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gwinn of Jena. The Reverend H. L. Sampson officiated.

The altar and chancel rail held baskets of white gladioli and greenery. White tapers burned in branched candelabra.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a wedding gown of Ivory satin. The bodice of Chantilly lace had a Sabrina neckline. Appliques of pearl trimmed lace were on the skirt and back bustle bow. Her pearl trimmed coronet held a wedding veil of illusion. Her bouquet was of feathered carnations and stephanotis with a white orchid and satin streamers. Miss Sandra Stancil served as maid of honor. Her dress was an orchid shade of silk organza and her corsage was a nosegay in shades of orchid and white. Bridesmaids were Miss Sharon Stancil, Miss Gloria Stancil and Miss Janice Guinn.

Bobby Denton served as best man, Mike Risinger and Ronnie Haile were groomsmen. Lucian Branch served as usher.

Mrs. Stancil, the bride's mother was dressed in a mauve, French Alencon lace sheath with white accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. Gwin, wore a blue linen sheath with white accessories. They each wore corsages of white feathered carnations.

RECEPTION

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the reception room of the church. A lace cloth over orchid satin covered the table. The central decor was of gladioli and greenery.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School and is a member of Lambda Sigma Chi sorority.

The groom graduated from Jena High School, he attended Northwestern and Northeast Louisiana State College. His fraternity is Phi Kappa Phi.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Briethaupt, Jonesville; Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Denton, Jena; Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Balkom, Minden; Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Risinger, Lily; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Atkins, Borger, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Sydney King and Karen of Ruston.

Mrs. Richard Guerriero Feted With Tea-Shower

Mrs. Richard Guerriero, the former Miss Patti Pearce, daughter of Mrs. Mildred Pearce, was honored with a lovely tea shower in the home of Mrs. D. X. Ellett, on Trenton Street in West Monroe, on Saturday, May 30th, between the hours of 3:00 until 5:00 p.m.

A pink and white color scheme was used throughout, consisting of pink carnations and peonies very cleverly arranged. A white candelabrum containing pink candles and carnations was placed on the dining table, together with crystal punch bowl containing a bride's bouquet in a block of ice. Refreshments were served through the afternoon.

The honoree was seated at the end of the spacious living room where she received many beautiful gifts. She was wearing a lovely beige silk dress with orchid corsage.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Mildred Pearce; the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Henry Guerriero and Miss Blanche Milton received the guests, and were assisted by Mrs. Gardner Nagle and Mrs. Ted Landhy.

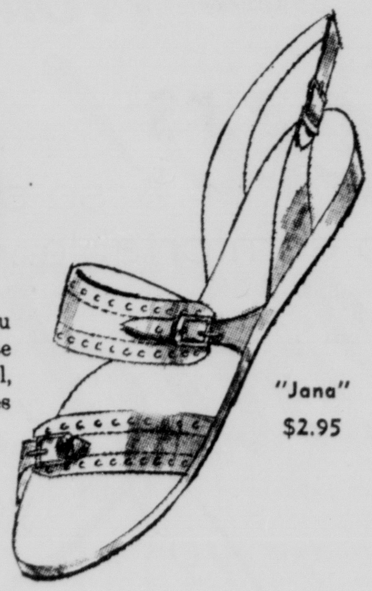

Mrs. J. E. Baugh, Mrs. Fred Culpepper, Jr. and Mrs. E. P. Chapman alternated at the punch bowl.

Those invited were: Miss Trudy Baugh, Mrs. George Phillips, Mrs. Francis Phillips, Miss Francis Ruth Phillips, Mrs. N. A. Jardine, Mrs. C. C. Whittelsey, Mrs. Francis Slagle, Mrs. L. Beaton, Mrs. Hardy Whitehead, Mrs. Roy Craig, Mrs. B. O. Yeldell, Miss Francis Louise Yeldell, Mrs. John K. Atkinson, Mrs. H. H. Davies, Mrs. M. S. A Double Ring Ceremony Unites Miss Davis And Robert Eugene Thrasher

A double ring ceremony was held in the Chapel of the Methodist Church in West Monroe on May 31 at 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon uniting in marriage Miss Patricia Ann Davis daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Brown Davis to Robert Eugene Thrasher of West Monroe. He is the son of Mrs. Mildred Greer of Paris, France, and Robert Derward Thrasher of Jefferson, Arkansas.

The Reverend W. D. Milton performed the ceremony in a setting of low baskets of white gladioli and asters. Southern ivy entwined the candelabra and formed green pyramids of burning tapers. Rendering the music during the ceremony was Mrs. C. H. Myers who accompanied Miss Molly May, soloist, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a bridal gown of Chantilly lace over nylon taffeta and tulle of Ballerina length. A basque bodice of Chantilly lace had a deep pointed front and back neckline encrusted with sequins. The long tunic of lace had a scalloped edge and one lavish ruffle of nylon tulle. A coronet of pearls held the veil of double illusion in place. The bride carried a bouquet of feathered white chrysanthemums with a white orchid in the center. Miss Marguerite Sue Davis, maid of honor, wore a street length dress of blue silk organza over taffeta with matching slippers her headdress and gloves were of white. Miss Linda Fagan Steele, bridesmaid, was identically dressed.

Mrs. Davis, the bride's mother, chose a beige silk sheath dress with an empire top of Venetian lace, with matching slippers and bag. A pink hat and gloves complimented her ensemble Her corsage was of cymbidium orchids. The groom's mother, Mrs. Greer, chose a Paris model of blue lace with darker blue shoes and matching accessories. She also wore a cymbidium orchid corsage.

The couple will make their home in West Monroe.

The bride and groom are both graduates of West Monroe High School and they are both now attending Northeast Louisiana State College.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hogg of El-Dorado, Arkansas were out of town guests present for the wedding.

SOUNDING BOARDS

When rehearsing an aria, Jan Peerce, Metropolitan Opera tenor, treads on bare floors in his living room, entrance hall, dining room and practice room.

The reason is two-fold: Mrs. Peerce thinks bare floors are the most elegant of all when properly maintained; second, they give her husband's voice the true tonal quality he requires.

An easy way to deal with fresh pineapple is to cut the fruit into rounds before slicing away the rind and removing the "eyes."

Beauty Added To Wedding Cake Buffet

The traditional June wedding has a very special sentiment, an unique atmosphere that makes it a joyous and unforgettable occasion for all the years ahead, and no wedding day would be complete without that loveliest of formal settings, the wedding cake buffet.

Set with the wedding china, the new sterling, rows of gleaming champagne glasses standing by for festive toasts, and the wedding cake itself, rising high to the little bride and groom figures on top, the charm and formality of this table is an enduring memory for all.

An especially attractive graceful note will add a very appropriate theme to this buffet. The traditional symbol of youth and vitality, delicately sturdy stalks of wheat, can make this table stand out even more. Silvered for elegance and framing the cake and champagne bucket, the wheat pattern is repeated in the equally delicate and sturdy paper luncheon and cocktail napkins as the perfect accessory for important social occasions. Called simply "Silver Wheat", the practical napkins, with matching coasters as well, carry out the eloquent feeling of the entire buffet.

A perfect wedding souvenir, the "Silver Wheat" collection of paper napkins and coasters is a happy combination of traditional beauty and modern customs in the best standards of today's young newlyweds.

MRS. JACK WARREN PLUMMER

'Rooming-In, Is Sensible For The Modern Mother

"Rooming-in," the term given to the practice of keeping the baby in the room with the mother instead of the hospital nursery, is a growing procedure.

As the mother's stay in the hospital grew shorter and shorter it seemed sensible that she have more opportunity to get acquainted with her baby before she was made entirely responsible for its care.

With its small crib beside her she can become aware of all its "funny" noises; she finds it easy to lift the crying baby and hold and comfort it, or feed it if that is necessary.

From a psychiatric standpoint this holding and cuddling are just what the new baby needs. His sense of security is established when his cries are answered, and shattered when they are ignored.

Rooming-in is a great encouragement to breast-feeding. When the baby is close, the mother comes to know when the cry is just a need for companionship and when it means, "I am hungry." Way off in the nursery the baby may be brought to her only when it is "time" to feed—and this timing may or may not coincide with the baby's hunger rhythms.

When the baby is with the mother, visitors are excluded—and a very good thing, too—but the young father has an opportunity of getting to know baby instead of getting only fleeting glimpses of him through the nursery window.

To see him face to face, to lift him and help diaper him, develop his paternal emotions. And on the day he picks him up to take him home the baby is no stranger but his own baby to whose face he has "grown accustomed."

There is another immediate reason why rooming-in is an increasing practice. This is due to the dread presence of staphylococcus in hospitals. This virulent infection which in all of its types has heretofore been controlled by penicillin has now developed an immunity to it and other forms of antibiotics.

The ONLY individual who disapproves of rooming-in is the mother of several children who would prefer that her days in the hospital be baby-free.

Miss Stancil Jack W. Plummer Exchange Vows

The Parkview Baptist Church was the setting June 6 at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon for the wedding of Miss Virginia Diane Stancil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Stancil and Jack Warren Plummer, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gwinn of Jena. The Reverend H. L. Sampson officiated.

The altar and chancel rail held baskets of white gladioli and greenery. White tapers burned in branched candelabra.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a wedding gown of Ivory satin. The bodice of Chantilly lace had a Sabrina neckline. Appliques of pearl trimmed lace were on the skirt and back bustle bow. Her pearl trimmed coronet held a wedding veil of illusion. Her bouquet was of feathered carnations and stephanotis with a white orchid and satin streamers. Miss Sandra Stancil served as maid of honor. Her dress was an orchid shade of silk organza and her corsage was a nosegay in shades of orchid and white. Bridesmaids were Miss Sharon Stancil, Miss Gloria Stancil and Miss Janice Guinn.

Bobby Denton served as best man, Mike Risinger and Ronnie Haile were groomsmen. Lucian Branch served as usher.

Mrs. Stancil, the bride's mother was dressed in a mauve, French Alencon lace sheath with white accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. Gwin, wore a blue linen sheath with white accessories. They each wore corsages of white feathered carnations.

RECEPTION

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the reception room of the church. A lace cloth over orchid satin covered the table. The central decor was of gladioli and greenery.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School and is a member of Lambda Sigma Chi sorority.

The groom graduated from Jena High School, he attended Northwestern and Northeast Louisiana State College. His fraternity is Phi Kappa Phi.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Briethaupt, Jonesville; Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Denton, Jena; Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Balkom, Minden; Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Risinger, Lily; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Atkins, Borger, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Sydney King and Karen of Ruston.

MRS. RONALD WAYNE BOYD

Miss Cammack Is Wed To Ronald Wayne Boyd

On May 31 at 7:00 o'clock in the evening Miss Georgia Eleanor Cammack of Monroe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Raymond Cammack of Shreveport formerly of Monroe became the bride of Ronald Wayne Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Volmer Vaughter Boyd of Eureka, California.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend Carnie Roy Burcham in St. John's Christian Church of this city.

The church held arrangements of magnolias and gardenias, white tapers on the alter. Miss Beth Brown of Tallulah at the organ accompanied Volmer Dean Boyd, brother of the groom, soloist, who sang, "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in an all over embroidered white silk organza ankle length sheath over cotton satin, it had a square neckline, cap sleeves with a plain silk organza floor length overskirt. The ballerina tiara made of the same material as the wedding dress held a finger tip veil of illusion. Short white kid gloves were worn. Her only ornament was a string of pearls. The nosegay she carried was of white roses. Miss Linda Lavender, maid of honor, wore pale green organdy over white taffeta as the bride's gown. Her headdress was a flat bandeau of the same material as the dress with a circular light green tulle veil. Short white gloves and slippers completed her ensemble. She carried a white wire basket filled with white stock and carnations. Suzyn Cammack, sister of the bride served as bridesmaid. Her dress was identical to maid of honors.

Velmer Dean Boyd, brother of the groom, served as best man. The groomsman was the brides brother, Sam Cammack and the ushers were Charles Hytken, Pharres Corder and Bill Burroughs.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Cammack's dress was of white eyelet bastiste over avacado green cotton satin. It was a fitted sheath, empire waistline and an avacado colored cotton satin bow was attached to the waistline and hemline, with this she wore matching slippers and her hat of white had touches of the same shade. An orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

RECEPTION

A reception followed the ceremony in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's table was covered with a cutwork cloth centered with garlands of gardenias and a silver candelabrum. On one end a double ring tiered wedding cake was placed and this was served by Mrs. Betty Engstrom, on the other a silver punch bowl stood, Mrs. John Crump presided here.

Miss Darla McAlister and Miss Billie Sue Swanson asked guests to register in the guest book. Others assisting were Mrs. Harry Spence of Shreveport and Misses Linda Engstrom, Judy Engstrom, Mary Ann Crump, Jolaine Crump, Aleese Crump and Corliss Kirby.

A wedding trip was made to Eureka, California.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School and spent two years at Louisiana State University and attended Lamar Tech in Beaumont, Texas, The groom graduated from Hope High School in Arkansas and attended Northeast Louisiana State College, he is now attending Humbolt State in California. Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ben E. Irby of Beaumont, Texas, and Mrs. T. J. Cammack and the late Mr. Cammack of Beaumont, Texas. Grand, parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Perry B. Boyd of Hope, Arkansas.

The old-fashioned method of sprinkling hard rolls with water before reheating in a moderate oven is a good one; use it if the bread is dry, but sprinkle sparingly.

Culinary art: if your cake isn't fairly flat on top, turn it over and put the frosting on the underside!

Mrs. James R. Goodwin Feted With Coffee Hour

Mrs. James Randall Goodwin the former Miss Margaret Ann Lee, was honored with a lovely shower-coffee hour on Wednesday morning prior to her wedding Saturday. This was held in the home of Mrs. Sid Walker on Hawthorne Street with Mrs. John J. Carso as cohostess.

Mrs. Goodwin received with her hostesses and her mother in a floral cotton dress with a white background and pink and green flowers.

Beautiful arrangements of summer flowers were used throughout the party area. A cornucopia stood on the mantel filled with white magnolia blossoms and magnolia buds. A massive arrangement of pink roses was used on a living room table. A cut glass bowl centered the party table banked with white gladioli and gardenias. At one end the silver service stood and was presided over by Mrs. John P. Zoll, an aunt of the bride.

Guests invited were Mrs. Wayne Gray, Miss Kathrine Walker, Miss Julia Bess Williams, Mrs. John Culpepper, Mrs. Virgil H. Reitzell, Mrs. Harry Frazer, Mrs. William Higdon, Mrs. Custer Primos, Mrs. Leo Hartman, Mrs. John Adair, Miss Ann Choate, Mrs. Margo Smith, Mrs. Robert Ewing III, Miss Lynn Zoll, Mrs. J. P. Zoll, Miss Jan Moore, Mrs. Wayne Huckaby, Mrs. Henry McClendon, Mrs. Carl Kinney, Mrs. John Adair, Mrs. William Johnson of Wilmont, Arkansas, and Mrs. Thomas Stoghill of Winnsboro.

Planning to make pickles this summer? Remember that distilled white vinegar will not impart the brownish color associated with cider vinegar. The latter gives good flavor, however, so you may use it where color isn't an important factor.

If you can manage to get some fresh baby beets, be sure to use their young and tender tops. Cook them just as you would spinach.

Pledge Troth In Candlelight Wedding Rites

In a formal, candlelight ceremony solemnized at eight o'clock Saturday evening, May 30th in the Free Methodist Church in West Monroe, Miss Frances Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Henry of West Monroe, pledged wedding vows with John A. Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Carter, also of West Monroe.

The chancel of the church was transformed into a bridal bower of greenery and white blossoms. Soft illumination for the reverently beautiful ceremony was furnished by lighted white standards. Candlelighters were Annie Jean and Harold Henry, brother and sister of the bride.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. Her exquisitely lovely bridal gown of lace over white satin was styled with a sculptured bodice, and long fitted sleeves ending in diamond points over the hands.

The bouffant, floor length skirt fell in deep folds sweeping at the back into a chapel train. The bridal headdress was a coronet of seed pearls, with the veil falling gracefully to the shoulders.

Miss Doris Henry, her sister's maid of honor, was gowned in a pink satin styled with a rounded neckline, fitted elongated bodice and bouffant skirt. White wrist length gloves and pumps completed her lovely costume. Her bouquet of pink and white chrysanthemums was tied with corresponding ribbon.

Mr. Billy Wayne Heckford of West Monroe was best man for Mr. Carter. Ushers were Mr. Larry Alexander and Mr. Luther Rhodes. All men participating in the ceremony were attired in navy blue dress suits with white carnations in their left lapels.

Miss Betty Hodge played the recital of nuptial music and was the accompanist for Mrs. Jimmie Cook, soloist, who sang "Because" and "I'll Walk Beside You."

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Henry at 411 Hermon street was the scene of the wedding reception honoring the newlyweds immediately following the ceremony.

After the bride and groom cut the cake, Miss Patsy Hammons presided at the service of the wedding cake. Presiding at the punch bowl was Miss Kay Wilhite.

Later in the evening the young couple left on a wedding trip. The bride chose for traveling a white cotton fashion, fitted at the waist, with a large collar. Her accessories were white. The orchid from her bouquet was pinned high at her shoulder. Upon their return they will make their home in Cheniere in their newly constructed home.

The bride graduated from West Monroe High School with the 1959 class. Mr. Carter graduated from Ouachita High School and attended Northeast. He served three years in the Army and upon his discharge joined his father in business in West Monroe.

Tooke - Huston Vows Pledged In Shreveport

A double ring ceremony was held on May 23, at 2:00 p.m. at the Barksdale Air Force Base Chapel, uniting in marriage Miss Sandra Lucille Huston, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Samuel R. Huston, of Barksdale Air Force Base to Lt. Richard Edgar Tooke, son of Mrs. James Wimberly Tooke and the late Mr. Tooke of this city.

Palms and matching candelabra holding lighted tapers were used in the chancel, baskets of white gladioli and ferns flanked with palms and tapers were used around the altar.

Miss Jackie Dyer, presented the nuptial music at the organ with traditional selections.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a gown of traditional satin with bodice of chantilly lace, her veil of illusion was held by a tiara of pearlized apple blossoms. Her bridal bouquet was fashioned of lilies of the valley and feathered carnations, this was centered with a large white specimen orchid further enhanced with tiny white seed pearls and satin streamers.

Serving her sister as maid - of-honor, Miss Gwendolyn Huston, in a shorter version of the bridal gown, in yellow sheer, carried a semi - cascade arrangement of white majestic daisies and English ivy.

RECEPTION

A reception followed in the home of the bride's parents, Capt. and Mrs. Huston. Arrangements of yellow gladioli and fern with palm leaves were used in the reception area. The table covered with an antique linen cloth, was centered with a pyramid of white stock and candytuft. This was flanked by matching candlelabra with burning bridal tapers.

The tiered cake stood on one end of this table while on the other a silver punch bowl was placed.

The couple will make their home in Shreveport.

The bride is a graduate of Bossier City High School and Northwestern State College School of Nursing.

The groom graduated from Neville High School and Louisiana State University. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Out - of - town guests were Mr. E. H. Huston and Mrs. F. A. Van Dyke, East Palestine, Ohio; Mrs. L. H. Higelmire, Youngstown, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. James W. Tooke, Almagordo, New Mexico, Mrs. Harry Stein, Denver, Colorado; Mrs. T. S. Butler, Mr. Robert M. Butler, Mr. and Ms. Al M. Cobb, of Jena, Louisiana; and Mr. Ralph B. King, Monroe, Louisiana.

The old-fashioned method of sprinkling hard rolls with water before reheating in a moderate oven is a good one; use it if the bread is dry, but sprinkle sparingly.

Pledge Troth In Candlelight Wedding Rites

In a formal, candlelight ceremony solemnized at eight o'clock Saturday evening, May 30th in the Free Methodist Church in West Monroe, Miss Frances Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Henry of West Monroe, pledged wedding vows with John A. Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Carter, also of West Monroe.

The chancel of the church was transformed into a bridal bower of greenery and white blossoms. Soft illumination for the reverently beautiful ceremony was furnished by lighted white standards. Candlelighters were Annie Jean and Harold Henry, brother and sister of the bride.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. Her exquisitely lovely bridal gown of lace over white satin was styled with a sculptured bodice, and long fitted sleeves ending in diamond points over the hands.

The bouffant, floor length skirt fell in deep folds sweeping at the back into a chapel train. The bridal headdress was a coronet of seed pearls, with the veil falling gracefully to the shoulders.

Miss Doris Henry, her sister's maid of honor, was gowned in a pink satin styled with a rounded neckline, fitted elongated bodice and bouffant skirt. White wrist length gloves and pumps completed her lovely costume. Her bouquet of pink and white chrysanthemums was tied with corresponding ribbon.

Mr. Billy Wayne Heckford of West Monroe was best man for Mr. Carter. Ushers were Mr. Larry Alexander and Mr. Luther Rhodes. All men participating in the ceremony were attired in navy blue dress suits with white carnations in their left lapels.

Miss Betty Hodge played the recital of nuptial music and was the accompanist for Mrs. Jimmie Cook, soloist, who sang "Because" and "I'll Walk Beside You."

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Henry at 411 Hermon street was the scene of the wedding reception honoring the newlyweds immediately following the ceremony.

After the bride and groom cut the cake, Miss Patsy Hammons presided at the service of the wedding cake. Presiding at the punch bowl was Miss Kay Wilhite.

Later in the evening the young couple left on a wedding trip. The bride chose for traveling a white cotton fashion, fitted at the waist, with a large collar. Her accessories were white. The orchid from her bouquet was pinned high at her shoulder. Upon their return they will make their home in Cheniere in their newly constructed home.

The bride graduated from West Monroe High School with the 1959 class. Mr. Carter graduated from Ouachita High School and attended Northeast. He served three years in the Army and upon his discharge joined his father in business in West Monroe.

Tooke - Huston Vows Pledged In Shreveport

A double ring ceremony was held on May 23, at 2:00 p.m. at the Barksdale Air Force Base Chapel, uniting in marriage Miss Sandra Lucille Huston, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Samuel R. Huston, of Barksdale Air Force Base to Lt. Richard Edgar Tooke, son of Mrs. James Wimberly Tooke and the late Mr. Tooke of this city.

Palms and matching candelabra holding lighted tapers were used in the chancel, baskets of white gladioli and ferns flanked with palms and tapers were used around the altar.

Miss Jackie Dyer, presented the nuptial music at the organ with traditional selections.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a gown of traditional satin with bodice of chantilly lace, her veil of illusion was held by a tiara of pearlized apple blossoms. Her bridal bouquet was fashioned of lilies of the valley and feathered carnations, this was centered with a large white specimen orchid further enhanced with tiny white seed pearls and satin streamers.

Serving her sister as maid - of-honor, Miss Gwendolyn Huston, in a shorter version of the bridal gown, in yellow sheer, carried a semi - cascade arrangement of white majestic daisies and English ivy.

RECEPTION

A reception followed in the home of the bride's parents, Capt. and Mrs. Huston. Arrangements of yellow gladioli and fern with palm leaves were used in the reception area. The table covered with an antique linen cloth, was centered with a pyramid of white stock and candytuft. This was flanked by matching candlelabra with burning bridal tapers.

The tiered cake stood on one end of this table while on the other a silver punch bowl was placed.

The couple will make their home in Shreveport.

The bride is a graduate of Bossier City High School and Northwestern State College School of Nursing.

The groom graduated from Neville High School and Louisiana State University. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Mrs. R.A. Port Feted With Coffee Hour

The Henry Mayo, Jr., home was lovely on Wednesday for an early morning coffee honoring Mrs. Richard A. Port prior to her departure this month for Yazoo City, Mississippi, where she wil make her home.

The guests were greeted by Mrs. Mayo, wearing a printed cotton sheath with matching aqua nylon overskirt, and Mrs. Port in a black eyelet batiste over black and white checked cotton with white corsage of split carnations, presented her by her hostess. Mrs. Mayo also chose this occasion to present her honoree with a parting gift of milk glass.

The party table was covered with a white Irish linen cutwork cloth over dusty pink with attention being drawn to the arrangement of pink daisies and white gardenias. The refreshment table was further enhanced by candle light from pink candles in silver holders. On the green and black ceramic tile coffee table was a crescent arrangement of pink roses and rose buds.

Alternating at the silver service were Mrs. E. F. Dalton, Mrs. Thomas Henry, and Mrs. Henry Mayo Sr. Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Edwards, daughter of the honoree, who will also make her future home in Yazoo City; Mrs. L. C. Mayo, and Mrs. W. A. Guy. Junior assistants were Lisa and Jana Mayo in fluffy pink nylon dresses.

Forty neighbors and friends called during the hours of ten to twelve to bid Mrs. Port farewell.

Altrusan's Hear Safety Address By James Kelley

Highlighting social activities of the past week was the dinner meeting at the Rendezvous last Thursday nite for members of the Altrusa Executive and Professional Women's Club.

Glowing white candles and white Easter lilies created festive table decorations for the club members and their guests. Centering the speakers table was a lovely arrangement of white gardenias and liles interspersed with greenery. The hostesses for this occasion were members of the Public Affairs Committee, Miss Bernice McCoy, Mrs. Jewel Durham, Mrs. Lois West.

A flim on various aspects of safety was shown to members by Mrs. Lois West. Following the film showing, Miss McCoy introduced the speaker, Chief of Police James Kelley who spoke on "Safety." He stated youngsters need more safety education. Each year, about 6,000 children from 5 to 14 years of age are killed in accidents.

Motor vehicle accidents cause 40 per cent of the deaths. Three out of every five motor vehicle deaths at ages 5 to 9 involve children on streets, driveways and highways.

Farm accidents cause 7 percent of the fatalities among school age children. Drowning causes 24 per cent of all fatalities among boys in the 5 to 14 age group, compared with 12 percent for girls. The accident chart reveals that drownings become more numerous as children grow older, since older children are bound to do more swimming, boating and other water sports on their own.

He pointed out some of the safety measures undertaken by his department to help curtail accidents in our city. Among these were mentioned jay walking, blind corners where shrubbery obstructs the view of oncoming vehicles, failure to stop at stop-signs and give proper signals to the person in front or in back of the auto and others.

Last evening, June 6, at half after seven o'clock Miss Vivian Ann Powers and Albin Perry Lassiter, Jr., exchanged marriage vows at the North Benson Baptist Church in Frankfort, Kentucky. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Powers and he the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albin Perry Lassiter of Monroe. The Reverend Robert L. McKinney officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Slender white tapers burned in floor candelabra which formed a background for arrangements of white gladioli. White chrysanthemums lined the ledge of the pulpit upon which was placed the pulpit Bible dating from the last century.

The piano repertoire of Mrs. Harold Burge included "The Liturgy of St. James" (French Traditional), "God, The Almighty One," and "Largo" (Xerxes) by Handel. Against this background of music, guests were shown to their pews by Marvin Edward Powers, brother of the bride, and William Warren Lassiter, brother of the groom. Before the ceremony the candles were lighted by the ushers. The pianist accompanied William Lea, who sang, "O, Perfect Love." Last to take their places were the mothers of the bridegroom and the bride.

Mrs. Robert D. Wade was the bride's only attendant. She wore a dress of imported azure silk organza over taffeta. The bodice was short-sleeved with a scoop neck. The skirt was softly gathered to patio length. A taffeta headband the same shade of her dress was worn in her hair. She wore white slippers and short white gloves. Her flowers were white carnations.

BRIDE

The groom and his father, who served as best man, awaited the bride at the altar steps and as "Praise My Soul The King of Heaven" (Regent's Square) was played, she entered with her father who gave her in marriage. The lines of her dress were simplicity itself. It was a wedding gown of moonglow white silk satin made on traditional lines fashioned in princess silhouette with portrait neckline and brief sleeves. Chantilly-type lace in a delicate rose design was shaped to the snug bodice and panelled down the front and back of the soft graceful folds of the skirt sweeping just short of a train. Her blond hair was crowned with a pearl-studded satin headdress to which was attached a short veil of illusion, imparting an ethereal quality to her petite figure as she descended the aisle. She wore short lace gloves and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, centered with a tiny corsage of white rose buds. Hidden in the bodice of her dress was an heirloom pin of gold and turquoise that had been worn by her mother and grandmother in their wedding. Her pearls were a gift of the bridegroom. As part of the ceremony, the couple knelt on white satin pillows at the altar while Mr. Lea sang, Malotte's, "The Lord's Prayer," after which they left the church to the playing of the recessional, "Hymn to Joy," by Beethoven.

RECEPTION

The side lawn of the church, surrounded by black walnut, sycamore and locust trees formed a canopy over the green grass and was the setting for the reception which immediately followed the ceremony, with Mr. and Mrs. Powers as hosts.

Mrs. Powers received her guests wearing a linen sheath of turquoise with matching accessories. Her small hat was of white lace and her shoulder corsage was of white carnations.

Assisting her was the bridegroom's mother dressed in pastel pink Morgashell linen with pink accessories. Her hat was a small flowered one the same shade as her dress. A corsage of white carnations was pinned to her purse.

A short distance away a white covered table held a single arrangement of white roses and the bride's book. Registering the guests was Miss Betty Joyce Redding.

White satin, with an overskirt of pleated white tulle, covered the refreshment table. The centerpiece, a crystal compote overflowing with white roses and snapdragons, was placed between two crystal punch bowls. Alternating at the punch services were Miss Joanne Stivers, and Mrs. Leonard Warren.

The bride's cake was placed on an individual table which was also covered in tulle over white satin. Surmounting the three tiered confection were miniature white roses and lacy garlands of smilax starred with tiny white rose buds encircled the cake. Mrs. H. L. Bradley and Mrs. Orcies Sutton served the wedding cake.

For their wedding trip to Cumberland Falls, Kentucky, the bride chose a white linen dress embroidered with pink rose buds. Her hat was of pink straw and her straw bag, gloves and slippers were white. She wore the rose corsage from her bouquet.

The couple will make their home in California.

The bride is a graduate of Bridgeport High School and received her B. A. degree from Georgetown College.

The groom is a graduate of Neville High School. He attended Northeast Louisiana State College and received his B. A. degree from Baylor University in Waco, Texas and his B. D. degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Albin Perry Lassiter were hosts at dinner last Friday evening at the Southern Hotel in Frankfort, Kentucky, honoring their son, Albin Perry and Miss Vivian Ann Powers, who were married yesterday evening at half after seven o'clock in the North Benson Baptist Church in Frankfort. The dinner preceded the wedding rehearsal.

Miss Powers wore a white silk and blue lace. Her accessories were white. A corsage of white carnations was presented to her by the hosts.

Guests included members of the bridal party, the families those coming from out-of-town to attend the nuptials. At this time the bride and groom presented gifts to each other and to their attendants.

A large bridal arrangement of white roses, orange blossoms and white stock in a silver epergne was placed on blue pastel satin streamers down the length of the table. White tapers in silver holders burned at either side of the arrangment. Miniature clusters of blue and white flowers resembling bridesmaids bouquets were tied with streamers of dainty blue satin ribbon, which extended out onto the table. Additional candles were spaced between the bouquets.

Places were marked with tiny bags of rice made of blue net and tied with blue ribbon and blue lily of the valley. Each was attached to a white place card with the enscribed name of each guest.

Those present at the dinner were the bride and bridegroom-to-be, Miss Powers and Mr. Lassiter, Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Powers, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burge, Mr. and Mrs. William Lea, Marvin Edward Powers, William Warren Lassiter, the Reverend and Mrs. Robert L. McKinney, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Wade and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Albin Lassiter.

Designers Catering To Sailing Set

NEW YORK (UPI) — Looking lovely with the wind and the spray in your hair takes some doing.

But this season, the sportswear manufacturers are out to help us—encouraged no doubt by the dollar signs ahead.

For the number of boating enthusiasts is ballooning like a spinaker before the wind. One boating magazine estimates that this year, 37 million Americans will take to the water—sailing, motoring or rowing on the nation's waterways. The National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers says there now are 700,300,000 private boats, from canoes to yachts, cruising U. S. waters.

Traditionally, the sailing set has been less fashion-conscious than the skiing set—anything "salty" went. But things are bound to happen on the bounding main as the number of sailors grows, as more stores promote water fashions and as more designers cater to this leisure group.

BOATING CLOTHES

One sportswear designer who for 23 years has specialized in ski fashions now has turned to boating clothes.

Imports include zipper - front jackets in bright patterns—most of them geometrics—on a white background. The finger-tip length jackets are made of a supple, waterproof plastic-treated material which looks like oilskin. The jackets come in both men's and women's sizes.

Also two piece suits for both men and women in "oilskin" yellow—with slipover top and hood. The adjustable trousers have a drawstring top, and snap-to-fit fasteners at both wrist and trouser cuff.

TRIM AS A BOAT

Most sports firms concentrate on sailing wear trim as a boat itself—no clutter to catch on cleats and tillers. They're bright in color for good visibility. There are the traditional sneakers, blazes, duck slacks and striped T-shirts in white and blue. For women, the white ducks are lean cut this season reaching either to the knee or just below the ankle.

Also available for women is the one piece coverall, usually shown in white, with wide sailor collar—naturally—banded in blue and red.

Favorite toppings for trousers or shorts are the T-shirts in bold stripes; but for cool, wet days there are Shetland sweaters or pullovers copied from those worn by Irish fishermen. These are of unbleached, bulky yarn, and are water-repellant.

O. E. S. Pays Tribute To Two Officers

White Lily Chapter No. 129, O. E.S. honored their secretary and treasurer at their regular meeting Monday Night May 25th.

The Secretary, Mrs. Mabel Jackson, a past matron of the Chapter having served for 12 years, as secretary, and Mrs. Vivian Monk also a Past Matron of the Chapter has served for the past 3 years.

A very impressive program was presented and tribute paid to these officers, and a lovely gift presented to them by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Hilda Starling.

The birthday of the Chapter was also observed with appropriate ceremonies, and a birthday cake was made by Mrs. Fannie Moore.

A moderate (350 degrees) oven is the best temperature at which to roast a loin of pork.

Girl Scout News

One of the busiest troops we've heard of is Troop 33, which ended its regular meetings last week. As is usual for the first year Intermediates, the girls completed Second Class Rank, sampling each of the eleven program fields. Following and interest started as Brownie Scouts and furthered by troop, and day camping, the entire troop worked on four out-of-town badges, Adventurer, Rambler, Outdoor Cook, and Campcraft. They found that the activities in these badges lent themselves perfectly to the two playdays and the two overnight camps in which the girls participated.

The troop also completed the Hospitality badge at troop meetings and by planning and carrying out a Christmas party.

In addition, three girls followed special interests in earning individual badges, Theresa Langley, Housekeeper; Sally Breard, Garden Flower, and Maureen Halpin, Cat and Dog. Sally made a beautiful booklet on the flowers she had learned, which was on exhibit at the troop's Court of Awards.

Leaders are Mrs. Frank Halpin and Mrs. C. E. Vaughan, Mrs. Clinton Langley and Mrs. Vesta Edewaard helped with some of the badge work.

Troop 2 is another that went on a fall overnight and another just a week ago, using the Campcraft badge as the basis of their activities. The girls, according to Mrs. Thomas Keller and Mrs. W. T. King, who accompanied them, especially enjoyed learning to light, clean and care for lamps and lanterns, something they had never done before.

Having learned the two basic knots and having practiced lashing a little bit in troop meetings, the girls were enthusiastic about lashing a table, which is a "must" requirement on the Camper badge. They even went on to lash a washstand as well, with those who had become more proficient patiently teaching the less experienced.

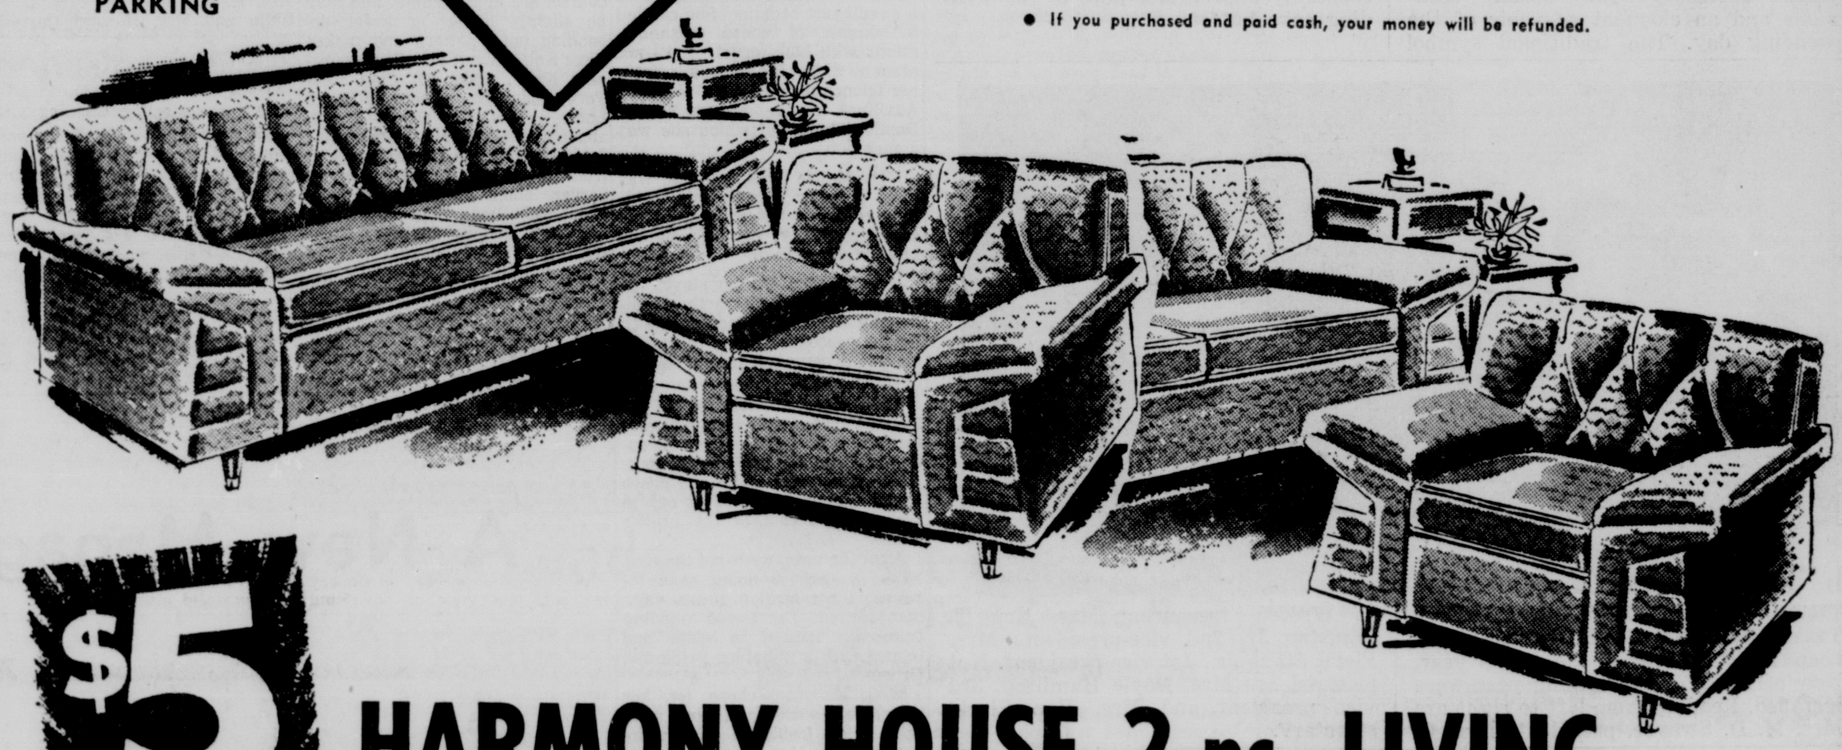

The first - year Intermediate troops has Mrs. George Rorex and Mrs. W. T. King as leaders, with Mrs. Keller helping them with the out of door activities. The following girls enjoyed the camping and also qualified for the Campcraft Badge: Susan Cochran, Nancy Edelman, Louise Hunnicutt, Mary Tom Keller, Donna King, Sharon Masur, Paula Meek, Cheryl Montgomery, Janna Rorex, Delane Ruddick, Sandra Seale, Gale Summerfield, Sherry Ursey. In addition, Linda Porter and Ilala Snapp reached Second Class Rank, but did not get to take part in the overnight.

Last evening, June 6, at half after seven o'clock Miss Vivian Ann Powers and Albin Perry Lassiter, Jr., exchanged marriage vows at the North Benson Baptist Church in Frankfort, Kentucky. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Powers and he the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albin Perry Lassiter of Monroe. The Reverend Robert L. McKinney officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Slender white tapers burned in floor candelabra which formed a background for arrangements of white gladioli. White chrysanthemums lined the ledge of the pulpit upon which was placed the pulpit Bible dating from the last century.

The piano repertoire of Mrs. Harold Burge included "The Liturgy of St. James" (French Traditional), "God, The Almighty One," and "Largo" (Xerxes) by Handel. Against this background of music, guests were shown to their pews by Marvin Edward Powers, brother of the bride, and William Warren Lassiter, brother of the groom. Before the ceremony the candles were lighted by the ushers. The pianist accompanied William Lea, who sang, "O, Perfect Love." Last to take their places were the mothers of the bridegroom and the bride.

Mrs. Robert D. Wade was the bride's only attendant. She wore a dress of imported azure silk organza over taffeta. The bodice was short-sleeved with a scoop neck. The skirt was softly gathered to patio length. A taffeta headband the same shade of her dress was worn in her hair. She wore white slippers and short white gloves. Her flowers were white carnations.

BRIDE

The groom and his father, who served as best man, awaited the bride at the altar steps and as "Praise My Soul The King of Heaven" (Regent's Square) was played, she entered with her father who gave her in marriage. The lines of her dress were simplicity itself. It was a wedding gown of moonglow white silk satin made on traditional lines fashioned in princess silhouette with portrait neckline and brief sleeves. Chantilly-type lace in a delicate rose design was shaped to the snug bodice and panelled down the front and back of the soft graceful folds of the skirt sweeping just short of a train. Her blond hair was crowned with a pearl-studded satin headdress to which was attached a short veil of illusion, imparting an ethereal quality to her petite figure as she descended the aisle. She wore short lace gloves and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, centered with a tiny corsage of white rose buds. Hidden in the bodice of her dress was an heirloom pin of gold and turquoise that had been worn by her mother and grandmother in their wedding. Her pearls were a gift of the bridegroom. As part of the ceremony, the couple knelt on white satin pillows at the altar while Mr. Lea sang, Malotte's, "The Lord's Prayer," after which they left the church to the playing of the recessional, "Hymn to Joy," by Beethoven.

RECEPTION

The side lawn of the church, surrounded by black walnut, sycamore and locust trees formed a canopy over the green grass and was the setting for the reception which immediately followed the ceremony, with Mr. and Mrs. Powers as hosts.

Mrs. Powers received her guests wearing a linen sheath of turquoise with matching accessories. Her small hat was of white lace and her shoulder corsage was of white carnations.

Assisting her was the bridegroom's mother dressed in pastel pink Morgashell linen with pink accessories. Her hat was a small flowered one the same shade as her dress. A corsage of white carnations was pinned to her purse.

A short distance away a white covered table held a single arrangement of white roses and the bride's book. Registering the guests was Miss Betty Joyce Redding.

White satin, with an overskirt of pleated white tulle, covered the refreshment table. The centerpiece, a crystal compote overflowing with white roses and snapdragons, was placed between two crystal punch bowls. Alternating at the punch services were Miss Joanne Stivers, and Mrs. Leonard Warren.

The bride's cake was placed on an individual table which was also covered in tulle over white satin. COMBINED WITH THE LOVELIEST OF CHINA, sterling and glassware, napkins are both the perfect table accessory for social occasions and an eloquent souvenir of the wedding day. The traditional symbol of wheat in delicate but sturdy "Silver Wheat" paper cocktail and luncheon napkins with matching coasters add an especially appropriate note to the wedding cake buffet.

Lynch - Hudgins Wedding In Church Rites

An impressive wedding ceremony in the Mount Vernon Baptist Church at five - thirty o'clock May 30th united Miss Gwendolyn Hudgins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hudgins of West Monroe, and Nolyeon Lynch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Natha W. Lynch, also of West Monroe.

Rev. W. E. Spencer, pastor of the Mount Vernon Baptist Church officiated at the double - ring ceremony in the presence of both families and close friends.

The bridal couple exchanged vows standing before the alter in the chancel which had been banked with greenery, white gladoli and white Easter lilies.

The bride chose for her wedding a gown of white lace over white satin, its fitted bodice styled with a sweetheart neckline. She carried a bouquet of white crysanthemums with blue forget - me - not atop a white Bible, a gift from her friends of the Young Woman's Auxiliary of the Mount Vernon Baptist Church of which she was a member.

Mrs. Marshall Parker played the nuptial music choosing the traditionally favored wedding march for the processional and recessional and accompanied Mrs. W. E. Spencer, soloist.

The reception rooms of the Mount Vernon Baptist Church were the scene of the wedding reception honoring the bride and groom.

After the newlyweds cut the first piece of their wedding cake together, the reception guests were then served. The tiered wedding cake was frosted in white and topped with a minature Bride and Groom.

Give A Gift That Bride Will Cherish

More than 200,000 girls 17 or younger will be married this year. Although brides will stand before alters all through the year, June is still "the wedding month."

Weddings mean wedding gifts. You want to be represented by something she will cherish — and remember you by —all her life. Here are some suggested gifts for the bride whose family has arranged for her basic sterling. A first step in the answer to "the problem gift" is: Find out her pattern. The jewelry store, or department store silver section, where your girl has registered her choice of pattern, is your great ally. These experts will know what is still needed: the fill - ins that will be most gratifying to the bride as well as to your own pocketbook.

Think about the girl for a minute. She and her husband will be entertaining. They will be delighted to have any of the following very useful items: (all prices, of course, are approximate, and may be slightly higher or lower depending upon pattern and make) Cake Knife, about $12; Cheese Serving Knife, about $6; Cold Meat Fork, about $13; Cream or Sauce Ladle, about $7; Gravy Ladle, about $13; Pie Server, about $10; Salad Serving Fork and Spoon set, from about $13 to $35; Tomato Server, about $14; carving Sets, about $35; Steak Sets, about $25; Salt and Pepper Shakers, about $25.

Will they have a well-set-up bar in the rumpus room? Sterling silver bar accessories are clever and in abundance. Your local store will give you a complete list of them and show you whimsical bottle openers, cork screws and sterling jiggers.

Gear the sterling wedding gift to the personality of the bride and groom — their "at home" and personal, as well as their party, outlook. For example, a dozen oyster forks will be excess luggage in the home of a couple who entertain quite casually in the casserole, plate-on-the-lap fashion.

Sterling is traditionally the wedding gift because it grows more beautiful over the years and it lasts forever.

MRS. JESSE L. SMITH, of Route 1 in Rayville announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Amelia Dell, to Robert Earl Free, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Free of Route 1, Rayville. The marriage will be solemnized on Saturday evening, June thirteenth at the Archibald Church of Christ at eight o'clock, with Rev. Leon Heath of Bastrop, officiating.

Sew Frills That Need No Ironing

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

This is the year when it's smart to be feminine. even in sports clothes.

A bright idea along this line is to wear frilly, feminie tops with your sleekest shorts and sacks this summer, for dramatic contrast.

This summer blouse has been made up by local sewing center experts in order to work out simple directions. They suggest using a drip-dry or wash-and-wear fabric in crisp white. You also may buy the wide eyelet ruffles in the same carefree finish, which requires no ironing. The beading across these front is available in the same minimum-care finish. If you are careful in selection of fabrics, this frilly top may be washed, hung up to dry and worn without ironing.

To make the blouse use any standard pattern for a short, loose top. Seam one side of the bodice, then open bodice flat and stitch rows of ruffling in place, leaving an inch and a half of ruffling free at the end of each row. Now stitch the other bodice seam, and join each row of ruffling separately.

The carefree-finish ruffling is avaiable already ruffled.

Installation Held For Garden Club

Installation of new officers of the West Oak Garden Club was recently held at a local supper club with Mrs. W. M. Jones and Mrs. W. S. Nash hostesses for the evening. COMBINED WITH THE LOVELIEST OF CHINA, sterling and glassware, napkins are both the perfect table accessory for social occasions and an eloquent souvenir of the wedding day. The traditional symbol of wheat in delicate but sturdy "Silver Wheat" paper cocktail and luncheon napkins with matching coasters add an especially appropriate note to the wedding cake buffet.

MRS. NOLYEON LYNCH

Lynch - Hudgins Wedding In Church Rites

An impressive wedding ceremony in the Mount Vernon Baptist Church at five - thirty o'clock May 30th united Miss Gwendolyn Hudgins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hudgins of West Monroe, and Nolyeon Lynch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Natha W. Lynch, also of West Monroe.

Rev. W. E. Spencer, pastor of the Mount Vernon Baptist Church officiated at the double - ring ceremony in the presence of both families and close friends.

The bridal couple exchanged vows standing before the alter in the chancel which had been banked with greenery, white gladoli and white Easter lilies.

The bride chose for her wedding a gown of white lace over white satin, its fitted bodice styled with a sweetheart neckline. She carried a bouquet of white crysanthemums with blue forget - me - not atop a white Bible, a gift from her friends of the Young Woman's Auxiliary of the Mount Vernon Baptist Church of which she was a member.

Mrs. Marshall Parker played the nuptial music choosing the traditionally favored wedding march for the processional and recessional and accompanied Mrs. W. E. Spencer, soloist.

The reception rooms of the Mount Vernon Baptist Church were the scene of the wedding reception honoring the bride and groom.

After the newlyweds cut the first piece of their wedding cake together, the reception guests were then served. The tiered wedding cake was frosted in white and topped with a minature Bride and Groom.

Welcome Garden Club Holds Installation

Give A Gift That Bride Will Cherish

More than 200,000 girls 17 or younger will be married this year. Although brides will stand before alters all through the year, June is still "the wedding month."

Weddings mean wedding gifts. You want to be represented by something she will cherish — and remember you by —all her life. Here are some suggested gifts for the bride whose family has arranged for her basic sterling. A first step in the answer to "the problem gift" is: Find out her pattern. The jewelry store, or department store silver section, where your girl has registered her choice of pattern, is your great ally. These experts will know what is still needed: the fill - ins that will be most gratifying to the bride as well as to your own pocketbook.

Think about the girl for a minute. She and her husband will be entertaining. They will be delighted to have any of the following very useful items: (all prices, of course, are approximate, and may be slightly higher or lower depending upon pattern and make) Cake Knife, about $12; Cheese Serving Knife, about $6; Cold Meat Fork, about $13; Cream or Sauce Ladle, about $7; Gravy Ladle, about $13; Pie Server, about $10; Salad Serving Fork and Spoon set, from about $13 to $35; Tomato Server, about $14; carving Sets, about $35; Steak Sets, about $25; Salt and Pepper Shakers, about $25.

Will they have a well-set-up bar in the rumpus room? Sterling silver bar accessories are clever and in abundance. Your local store will give you a complete list of them and show you whimsical bottle openers, cork screws and sterling jiggers.

Gear the sterling wedding gift to the personality of the bride and groom — their "at home" and personal, as well as their party, outlook. For example, a dozen oyster forks will be excess luggage in the home of a couple who entertain quite casually in the casserole, plate-on-the-lap fashion.

Sterling is traditionally the wedding gift because it grows more beautiful over the years and it lasts forever.

MRS. JESSE L. SMITH, of Route 1 in Rayville announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Amelia Dell, to Robert Earl Free, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Free of Route 1, Rayville. The marriage will be solemnized on Saturday evening, June thirteenth at the Archibald Church of Christ at eight o'clock, with Rev. Leon Heath of Bastrop, officiating.

Sew Frills That Need No Ironing

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

This is the year when it's smart to be feminine, even in sports clothes.

A bright idea along this line is to wear frilly, feminie tops with your sleekest shorts and sacks this summer, for dramatic contrast.

This summer blouse has been made up by local sewing center experts in order to work out simple directions. They suggest using a drip-dry or wash-and-wear fabric in crisp white. You also may buy the wide eyelet ruffles in the same carefree finish, which requires no ironing. The beading across these front is available in the same minimum-care finish. If you are careful in selection of fabrics, this frilly top may be washed, hung up to dry and worn without ironing.

To make the blouse use any standard pattern for a short, loose top. Seam one side of the bodice, then open bodice flat and stitch rows of ruffling in place, leaving an inch and a half of ruffling free at the end of each row. Now stitch the other bodice seam, and join each row of ruffling separately.

The carefree-finish ruffling is avaiable already ruffled.

Daylilies Still Very Pretty

By MILDRED SWIFT

Our daylilies are still very beautiful in the parks and boulevards around the Twin Cities. We'd like to have our friends from surrounding towns drive in and see these while they're in bloom.

Wish you home demonstration agents, mayors, garden club presidents in other towns would write me when gardens in your area are at their height of glory. Through this column, I could tell others and we'd enjoy their beauty with you.

WORK TO DO

The nurseries still have imperial candle trees. They're in buckets and this is a good time to plant. These tropical plants are not going to do any growing until the weather gets warmer, anyhow. The nights, especially, are too cool. The same is true of banana plants and elephant ears.

Fire dragon plants are available. The plant grows about two feet tall and looks like croton. Plant now for summer color.

If you can find plants of Joseph's Coat of all colors, these will also give you summer color.

It is not too late to plant caladiums or hibiscus.

Gazanzia is a gray foliage plant whose blooms are yellow - orange and look like daisies. They grow about six inches tall, the blooms shoot up about twelve inches in height. It's a perennial. I believe there are plants in the nurseries.

If you want some blue in the garden, get stokesia plants. It's also a perennial, the blooms resembling carnations.

You simply can't do without a little patch of sedums (hen and chickens). It's gray foliage arranges nicely and keeps so well when cut. We like material that doesn't have to be changed every day.

Sedum is a drowth loving plant as is portulaca. Buy the seed of the latter and plant now. It's other name is moss rose.

If you need a vine for screen planting, don't forget the morning glory in all its lovely colors — red, white, blue, bi-colors, also fringed and double. You can buy seed.

Cypress vine is a dainty foliaged plant. The blossoms are tubular, red or white. Once planted, this vine comes up year after year.

Now is the time to root such plants as boxwood, sasanqua, camellia, azalea, ligustrum and other evergreens. You'll get better results by using one of the root inducing substances, following instrucitons on the package. This can be bought in the feed and seed stores.

Many of the annuals you can still plant to give color around your garden. If you transplant seedlings, protect them from the hot sun during the heat of the day. Small boxes or newspapers will serve the purpose.

The mimosas are lovely, now. Notice the different shades of pink some deep, some with a yellowish cast. Nurserymen say they're all the same variety, so it must be the soil.

Mimosas drop dead limbs all year. If these appear and don't fall, prune and seal cut with tree seal. This we are told, will help prolong the life of the tree, whose life span is from 10 to 18 years. Average life is 12 years. Feeding in January or February, also, helps to give the tree a longer life. The shape of the mimosa in the winter is almost as interesting as it's blossoms and foliage in the summer.

GARDENIA TROUBLES

Buds are falling from your dwarf gardenias. After talking to specialists, nurserymen and from my own experience, we've come up with this: The dwarf gardenia does not like too much rain and it definitely does not like cool nights. When such conditions occur, they drop buds.

Often the garden across the street will have gardenia plants covered with blooms — yours have dropped all buds. We've found through years of experience that exposure has lots to do with the habits of all plants.

Another cause of bud drop in gardenias is nematodes. These are strange looking objects on the roots of plants that look like peanuts. Of course you have to pull the plant out of the ground to examine the root. If you find that condition, destroy the plant. Call the county agent and ask him about fumigating the soil.

There is a new chemical out that can be used for poisoning nematodes without taking up the plant. Ask at the feed and seed stores about this.

YARD FURNITURE

Now that we're staying in the garden more, we've been thinking of yard furniture. There are lots of sturdy types in the markets. Color of yard furniture enters into the garden picture. White doesn't blend well, but it is better than vivid red or orange. Good colors are dark green or brown. They just seem to melt into the surroundings. Now that May has decorated the trees and gardens and lawns, it's just feminine nature to look around our homes and find some "views" that need dressing up too. Take those tattered but beloved books on the shelf. Why not staple on fresh bright jackets for them in colorful fabrics to carry out your color scheme? Imagine such colors as royal blue, citron yellow, chartreuse or emerald green. What a lift they can give to that corner of the room. This is an especially good idea for your cookbooks — washable jackets.

There's a new freezer coming on the market that just can't frost up. It automatically defrosts itself every twenty four hours so that the frozen foods remain in their neat rows with labels easy to read. No defrosting and if you don't think this will save work and accidents, ask Blanche Oliver what happened to her during a defrosting!

If you use a chain for the last two feet of your clothesline, you can air or dry clothes on hangers without them blowing off or sliding along the line.

When sewing, thread your needle with thread before it is cut from the spool. You'll have less tangling and fewer knots.

Set Watering Schedule For Young Trees

Thirsty woody youngsters whether they are evergreens or deciduous trees or shrubs, respond best when put on a regular watering schedule for the hot weather season.

So says S. P. Engle, field representative of the Davey Tree Expert Co., who, in effect, points out that some trees show their displeasure when offered "short snorts." Small drinks on a daily basis encourage shallow rooting with all its associated woes.

Nobody can really specify just how thirsty a tree really is or precisely how many waterings are required to slake this desire. However, a watering schedule of once every seven days seems to fit most situations. The first Summer and Fall is the particularly critical time.

With the dog days, there may come warning landscape signals that your newest tree pets are in trouble. Seared lawns and wilting flower beds undoubtedly mean your trees are suffering, too — even the stalwart old citizens, particularly if storm sewers have changed the natural water tables.

Playing the hose around the base of a tree for a few minutes hardly fits the requirements. Adequate watering calls for application over the large root area with sprinklers or soil soaking devices. This assures penetration to the lower soil area where roots will reach greedily for it.

Some of the more dedicated week-end gardeners now use various types of hydrospears, slim watering needles, that can be inserted into the soil at points where water is needed most. In any event, there is no short cut to doing the job properly.

Air As Ideal Cooking Spice

With every passing year, more and more Americans discover the delights of outdoor cookery and eating. There are many, in fact, who claim that the best seasoning for any dish is good, fresh air.

Architects suggest that families with a bent towards picnicing in their own back yards should have an alfresco dining room, one which can literally replace its indoor sister three meals a day during summer months.

After putting down a good dining room floor of 2x4s — which should be spaced a quarter inch apart for water drainage and supported on framework to keep it free of the ground — architects say the next most important thing needed is weather control.

In particular, some type of sunshade is necessary, for really hot, direct sunlight is never a welcome guest at the feast. A simple, but effective, canopy can be made with easy post and beam construction. Posts should be 4x4 inch Douglas fir, and beams can be 2x6s.

It isn't necessary to have solid roofing over this area; 1x6 inch louvers or an eggcrate pattern crowned with wisteria make attractive, shade-giving parasols.

If there's a problem with wiley breezes snitching napkins off laps, windbreaks are in order to weatherproof the dining deck completely. Interesting windscreens can be built with gayly colored plastic panels set in a stout framework of Douglas fir.

The decking and sunshade can be left unstained to weather to a pleasing silvery shade.

Acres Of Timber For Each Citizen

Recently, it was estimated that there are three acres of standing timber in the U. S. for every citizen, or about 461,000,000 acres of commercial forest land. Of this vast amount, the Douglas fir region of western Oregon, Washington, and northern California only makes up six percent, yet this comparatively small area accounts for over one fourth of the nation's total lumber production. Douglas fir is specified by most builders for house framing and is widely used for house siding and interior paneling and built-ins as well. In addition to lumber manufacture, this same small region produces nearly all the nation's softwood plywood and millions of tons of pulp and paper.

Visitors to the Pacific Northwest often are puzzled when they see forests with blocks and strips logged out. The remaining blocks of standing timber are not rejects—far from it. They have been left to re-seed the harvested areas by natural means. Wind, water, and small animals like squirrels help to scatter the winged seeds into the logged strips.

Park Flowers Very Colorful

By AUDREY DAWSON

I have never seen daylilies more beautiful than this year. The ones in the city park are really gorgeous. This is another plant for our garden that is inexpensive and does not require much care and gives color over a long period of time. You know daylilies are really not true "lilies" in a botanical sense. They belong to a genus of plants called hemerocallis. This name is a Greek word and it means "beautiful for a day." This of course explains how they got the common name daylily. However, there are a few varieties that keep blossoms open until 10 or 11 o'clock at night. There are also a few varieties that unfold buds at dusk and hold them open all night and part of the next day.

We at one time thought that there were only two colors of daylilies but today flowers range from palest cream yellow through gold and orange to red - purple lavender and pink. To my knowledge we do not have varieties of blue or pure white.

You can plant daylilies at almost any time of the year but a good time is August and September and October. You may also plant them in the early spring but the first year flowers will not be quite as good as those from longer set plants.

NEW LOOK IN SHOES

The latest information from our fashion experts on shoes for milady is that the pointed toe, with slim heel is beginning to bow out. Replacing the style which has dominated the women's shoe market for more than a year is a new line most often called the "oval toe." The new look features less extreme heels and according to one designer, it extends the trend back to curves now seen in this year's dress styles. The new style is already available in some high priced shoes and is expected to reach the lower price field by fall. One manufacturer predicts that if the oval toe meets the liking of women and sales reach full volume, it will do so in the spring of 1960.

If you've furnished your lawn and backyard with picnic furniture — gliders, swings and other accessories to outloor living and entertainment, you would like these pieces to last as long as possible. All wood in constant contact with the soil is subject to rot, though the heartwood of some species such as cedars, cypress, catalpa and redwood will resist decay for a longer period than others. You can add years to the useful life of your wooden outdoor furnishings if you treat them with a wood preservative. Two excellent materials which can be easily applied can be obtained in either concentrated or ready-to-use form, from your hardware store, paint store or lumber yard. They are "Penta" and copper naphthenate. The correct name for "Penta" is pentachlorophenal.

AIR CONDITIONING

Here are some important hints from our Agricultural engineer on most air conditioning units. The motor on the cooling fan needs oiling once every six months. Put a few drops of oil in each end of the motor before you run the fan again. A clean filter means efficient operation for your conditioner — change the filter if it is replaceable. If your machine uses a reusable filter replace it.

DAIRY MONTH

Have you thought just what's in a bottle of milk? Milk is nature's most nearly perfect food. It contains almost everything that makes food good for us — let's take vitamins for example. Whole milk contains at least six of them — Vitamin A, thiamin, Riboflavin, niacin and some vitamin C and D. Minerals are plentiful, too especially calcium. It is difficult to get enough calcium unless you obtain a good part of it from milk or milk products because no food contains enough of it. Milk will also give you phosphorous and iron. Growing boys and girls must have at least a quart of milk everyday for good health.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Time Lends Appreciation

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The longer one gardens, the more one appreciates the foliage of plants whether they have any flowers or not. More and more readers of the column have been asking about ivy — asking about it even right here in the beginning of summer when there are lots of flowers.

When you begin to get interested in collecting ivies, you soon discover that there are many different kinds. They are hard to find, and the advice of your columnist is to beg a piece wherever you find it. Not many nurseries seem to keep a stock of the fine ivies. Maybe they run out quickly. Be that as it may, ivy is easy to root, and you can add to your collection by looking around and bringing home all the varieties you can lay hands on.

CAREFUL PLANTING

Be a little careful where you plant ivy because the more rampant and coarse leaved kinds can soon smother a place. The larger leaved types will look best on very large expanses of wall — the tiny leaves on quite small spaces. Ivy gets off to a slow start but makes up for it in two or three years and then tends to take the place. It is not wise to let it climb upward on walls farther than you can reach on a ladder unless you intend to cover the wall.

After ivy reaches maturity on walls and chimneys, it sends out limbs and blooms in late winter on the branches. If your wall or chimney is not very strong, the ivy will become so heavy that it will pull the wall apart in a windstorm. Birds like to nest in ivy, too, so, if you do not want them, you had better not let your ivy grow very far up walls or chimneys.

Besides the many beautiful types of green - leaved ivy, there are some choice kinds with variegated leaves. As a contrast to the greens, these cream, or white or pinkish kinds are fine for making leaf pattern designs where one can enjoy them in winter. Our southern gardens of hollies, camellias and azaleas need these light colored ivies very badly to break up the winter monotony of our evergreens.

SMALL TYPES

Along paths, at the edge of your terrace or wherever you can see them close at hand, the small types of ivy are delightful. Most of them are more bushy than vine - like and will stay put in a limited space. Hahn's self-branching was one of the best known of these varieties to the florists of twenty years ago. All of the small-leaved varieties are not entirely hardy and will sometimes die out in very cold winters. The worst mistake that gardeners are apt to make with these delicate small ivies is to plant them in wet places near a pool. They are not aquatic plants at all.

As a ground cover for large areas, remember that ivy will eventually climb your trees. There has always been some argument as to just how much competition it gives the trees. Most of the damage it does is probably from pulling them down in high winds with its weight. It takes many years for this vine to damage very large trees, however.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Group Here Has Display

By MARY JARDINE

GLADYS M. KULCKE
Guest Writer

DAHLIAS

Mrs. Pattie Carr made the white footed ceramic container for her lovely arrangement of lavender dahlias. An inverted white pottery plate was used as a base for this container. Iris and purple tipped canna leaves formed the background for this asymmetrical triangle design. The canna leaves furled around the purplish bud stalks, placed in front of the tall placement of iris leaves and back of the dahlias. This added interest and depth to the overall design.

Lavender dahlias were used in the focal area, graduating in size from the large blossoms at the base to the bud placed high on the vertical line of the design. This arrangement placed on a marble top table would be a pleasing addition to the decoration of the living room.

Red - orange gladioluses were used by Mrs. G. E. Butler to create her fan-shaped design. Canna and iris leaves were used to form the background of the fan design. The gladioli were placed fan-shaped fashion with the central vertical line tallest and each stem shorter as they came down the sides of the design. The slightly curved ends of the stalks created rhythm in the design. A low, round, black - footed container placed on a tiered black wooden base supported this arrangement. A beautiful arrangement to be used in the entrance hall. In the horticulture division Mrs. Pattie Carr entered a branch of Monarda (Horse mint). Mrs. Suzee Gorman brough the variegated hydrangea and Painted Lady of the daylily family.

Wild flowers and foliage are used with the cultivated flowers and foliage in modern arrangements. Dock and pine, both are pleasing with chrysanthemums. The texture of the materials should be harmonious. The butterfly weed was used most effectively with the glads by Mrs. Henderson. The wild flowers are plentiful and we are prone to use too many flowers in an arrangement. We should conform to the principles of arranging in general: try not to be carried away by the profusion of materials available and to keep your lines defined, your use of materials limited.

Protection From Dust Key To New Storage Design

How do you build dust - free storage units that keep summer clothes crisp and clean through the winter months

A leading architect says storage units can be designed which are completely dust-proof. They can be divider storage units, recessed wall storage, even walk in clothes units.

Of course, the architect advises, you must have a dust-proof storage unit before you apply your doors. If you build the storage shelves and storage units of wood, such as Douglas fir or western red cedar, you can be sure that you have dust - tight compartments.

But what about the doors The best type of dust-proof door for your storage unit, the architect advises, is a hinged door which fits snugly against the shelf fronts. Doors made up of fir or cedar paneling, if the room is paneled, can be designed to fit so snugly that the doors aren't visible when closed. Spring latches hold them tightly against the shelf fronts.

Boosts Wood As Material For Flooring

Our Neolithic ancestors were smarter than 20th Century man, according to a well known chiropodist. At least he knew enough to pick out soft places to walk and thus save jarring his spine.

You can save your feet, says Dr. William J. Stickel, nationally prominent chiropodist, by walking on wood. He warned that headaches, backaches, tired muscles and dislocated discs often occur when people walk all day on concrete or hard-surfaced flooring.

Wood is the prized floor surface, Dr. Stickel pointed out, because of its resilience. The extra bounce in wood, he says, helps to cushion the shock transmitted to the skeletal system by walking.

Dr. Stickel explains that wood's resiliency helps "tone up" the nerves and muscles of the feet. "Many of our physical disorders begin with our feet," he said. "Our feet are shock absorbers for the rest of our body. When the surfaces on which we walk fail to give under our weight, there is an added strain in the bones and muscles of the feet."

Not only does wood have fine resilient qualities, Dr. Stickel observes, but the fact that wood has high insulating qualities and transmits less cold in winter and less heat in summer than steel, concrete and similar materials, makes it the ideal flooring. Not only does this result in greater foot comfort all year around, but walking on wood cuts down the danger of hyperhidrosis, excessive perspiration. Floors made of west coast hemlock or Douglas fir combine beauty with comfort.

Dr. Stickel even offered advice on how to walk. He said your toes should point straight ahead, but it's all right to walk slightly pigeontoed if that feels more comfortable.

Big Windows Bring Faulty Togetherness

For those homeowners who have acquired neighborhood togetherness instead of a restful view with their picture window, Chandler D. Fairbank, OSLA, offers a solution.

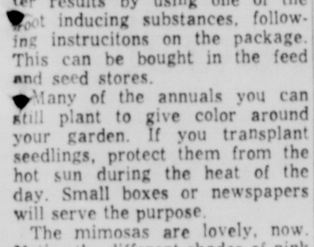

The problem won't be solved, according to the prominent landscape architect, by masking the window with blinds or draperies. But with a little clever landscaping, the family's privacy can be regained and a "view" created or the window.

In one case Fairbank handled recently, the window faced the driveway to the side of the house and looked directly into a neighboring home. Obviously, the solution was to erect a high fence, one side running parallel to the driveway and one side connecting to the house. This formed a three - sided enclosure, wtih the fourth side left open towards the back yard.

Because of the height of the fence, a light touch was needed in its design, and Architect Fairbank chose a board - on - board pattern which gave the desired privacy, while permitting free circulation of air. Vines have been trained through the spaces between the offset boards to contribute delicacy to the structure.

In designing a structure like this, the accent should fall on naturalness, according to Fairbank. The atrium should be as much a part of the house and site as possible. In this case, the fence was constructed of rough - sawn western red cedar boards which have been allowed to weather to a lovely silver, both to match the cedar house siding which was stained driftwood grey and to form a handsome backdrop for the plantings within the atrium.

Architect Fairbank then pointed out that, depending upon the location of the front door, an atrium can be developed into either an entrance to the home or an outdoor living area. In either case, appropriate shrubbery, ground cover, decks, and possibly even a reflection pool or impluvium will make it a lovely sight from the picture window.

Daylilies Still Very Pretty

By MILDRED SWIFT

Our daylilies are still very beautiful in the parks and boulevards around the Twin Cities. We'd like to have our friends from surrounding towns drive in and see these while they're in bloom.

Wish you home demonstration agents, mayors, garden club presidents in other towns would write me when gardens in your area are at their height of glory. Through this column, I could tell others and we'd enjoy their beauty with you.

WORK TO DO

The nurseries still have imperial candle trees. They're in buckets and this is a good time to plant. These tropical plants are not going to do any growing until the weather gets warmer, anyhow. The nights, especially, are too cool. The same is true of banana plants and elephant ears.

Fire dragon plants are available. The plant grows about two feet tall and looks like croton. Plant now for summer color.

If you can find plants of Joseph's Coat of all colors, these will also give you summer color.

It is not too late to plant caladiums or hibiscus.

Gazanzia is a gray foliage plant whose blooms are yellow - orange and look like daisies. They grow about six inches tall, the blooms shoot up about twelve inches in height. It's a perennial. I believe there are plants in the nurseries.

If you want some blue in the garden, get stokesia plants. It's also a perennial, the blooms resembling carnations.

You simply can't do without a little patch of sedums (hen and chickens). It's gray foliage arranges nicely and keeps so well when cut. We like material that doesn't have to be changed every day.

Sedum is a drowth loving plant as is portulaca. Buy the seed of the latter and plant now. It's other name is moss rose.

If you need a vine for screen planting, don't forget the morning glory in all its lovely colors — red, white, blue, bi-colors, also fringed and double. You can buy seed.

Cypress vine is a dainty foliaged plant. The blossoms are tubular, red or white. Once planted, this vine comes up year after year.

Now is the time to root such plants as boxwood, sasanqua, camellia, azalea, ligustrum and other evergreens. You'll get better results by using one of the root inducing substances, following instrucitons on the package. This can be bought in the feed and seed stores.

Many of the annuals you can still plant to give color around your garden. If you transplant seedlings, protect them from the hot sun during the heat of the day. Small boxes or newspapers will serve the purpose.

The mimosas are lovely, now. Notice the different shades of pink some deep, some with a yellowish cast. Nurserymen say they're all the same variety, so it must be the soil.

Mimosas drop dead limbs all year. If these appear and don't fall, prune and seal cut with tree seal. This we are told, will help prolong the life of the tree, whose life span is from 10 to 18 years. Average life is 12 years. Feeding in January or February, also, helps to give the tree a longer life. The shape of the mimosa in the winter is almost as interesting as it's blossoms and foliage in the summer.

GARDENIA TROUBLES

Buds are falling from your dwarf gardenias. After talking to specialists, nurserymen and from my own experience, we've come up with this: The dwarf gardenia does not like too much rain and it definitely does not like cool nights. When such conditions occur, they drop buds.

Often the garden across the street will have gardenia plants covered with blooms — yours have dropped all buds. We've found through years of experience that exposure has lots to do with the habits of all plants.

Another cause of bud drop in gardenias is nematodes. These are strange looking objects on the roots of plants that look like peanuts. Of course you have to pull the plant out of the ground to examine the root. If you find that condition, destroy the plant. Call the county agent and ask him about fumigating the soil.

There is a new chemical out that can be used for poisoning nematodes without taking up the plant. Ask at the feed and seed stores about this.

YARD FURNITURE

Now that we're staying in the garden more, we've been thinking of yard furniture. There are lots of sturdy types in the markets. Color of yard furniture enters into the garden picture. White doesn't blend well, but it is better than vivid red or orange. Good colors are dark green or brown. They just seem to melt into the surroundings. There are also a few varieties that unfold buds at dusk and hold them open all night and part of the next day.

We at one time thought that there were only two colors of daylilies but today flowers range from palest cream yellow through gold and orange to red - purple lavender and pink. To my knowledge we do not have varieties of blue or pure white.

You can plant daylilies at almost any time of the year but a good time is August and September and October. You may also plant them in the early spring but the first year flowers will not be quite as good as those from longer set plants.

NEW LOOK IN SHOES

The latest information from our fashion experts on shoes for milady is that the pointed toe, with slim heel is beginning to bow out. Replacing the style which has dominated the women's shoe market for more than a year is a new line most often called the "oval toe." The new look features less extreme heels and according to one designer, it extends the trend back to curves now seen in this year's dress styles. The new style is already available in some high priced shoes and is expected to reach the lower price field by fall. One manufacturer predicts that if the oval toe meets the liking of women and sales reach full volume, it will do so in the spring of 1960.

If you've furnished your lawn and backyard with picnic furniture — gliders, swings and other accessories to outloor living and entertainment, you would like these pieces to last as long as possible. All wood in constant contact with the soil is subject to rot, though the heartwood of some species such as cedars, cypress, catalpa and redwood will resist decay for a longer period than others. You can add years to the useful life of your wooden outdoor furnishings if you treat them with a wood preservative. Two excellent materials which can be easily applied can be obtained in either concentrated or ready-to-use form, from your hardware store, paint store or lumber yard. They are "Penta" and copper naphthenate. The correct name for "Penta" is pentachlorophenal.

AIR CONDITIONING

Here are some important hints from our Agricultural engineer on most air conditioning units. The motor on the cooling fan needs oiling once every six months. Put a few drops of oil in each end of the motor before you run the fan again. A clean filter means efficient operation for your conditioner — change the filter if it is replaceable. If your machine uses a reusable filter replace it.

DAIRY MONTH

Have you thought just what's in a bottle of milk? Milk is nature's most nearly perfect food. It contains almost everything that makes food good for us — let's take vitamins for example. Whole milk contains at least six of them — Vitamin A, thiamin, Riboflavin, niacin and some vitamin C and D. Minerals are plentiful, too especially calcium. It is difficult to get enough calcium unless you obtain a good part of it from milk or milk products because no food contains enough of it. Milk will also give you phosphorous and iron. Growing boys and girls must have at least a quart of milk everyday for good health.

A THOUGHT

Success comes in cans — failures in can'ts.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Time Lends Appreciation

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The longer one gardens, the more one appreciates the foliage of plants whether they have any flowers or not. More and more readers of the column have been asking about ivy — asking about it even right here in the beginning of summer when there are lots of flowers.

When you begin to get interested in collecting ivies, you soon discover that there are many different kinds. They are hard to find, and the advice of your columnist is to beg a piece wherever you find it. Not many nurseries seem to keep a stock of the fine ivies. Maybe they run out quickly. Be that as it may, ivy is easy to root, and you can add to your collection by looking around and bringing home all the varieties you can lay hands on.

CAREFUL PLANTING

Be a little careful where you plant ivy because the more rampant and coarse leaved kinds can soon smother a place. The larger leaved types will look best on very large expanses of wall — the tiny leaves on quite small spaces. Ivy gets off to a slow start but makes up for it in two or three years and then tends to take the place. It is not wise to let it climb upward on walls farther than you can reach on a ladder unless you intend to cover the wall.

After ivy reaches maturity on walls and chimneys, it sends out limbs and blooms in late winter on the branches. If your wall or chimney is not very strong, the ivy will become so heavy that it will pull the wall apart in a windstorm. Birds like to nest in ivy, too, so, if you do not want them, you had better not let your ivy grow very far up walls or chimneys.

Besides the many beautiful types of green - leaved ivy, there are some choice kinds with variegated leaves. As a contrast to the greens, these cream, or white or pinkish kinds are fine for making leaf pattern designs where one can enjoy them in winter. Our southern gardens of hollies, camellias and azaleas need these light colored ivies very badly to break up the winter monotony of our evergreens.

SMALL TYPES

Along paths, at the edge of your terrace or wherever you can see them close at hand, the small types of ivy are delightful. Most of them are more bushy than vine - like and will stay put in a limited space. Hahn's self-branching was one of the best known of these varieties to the florists of twenty years ago. All of the small-leaved varieties are not entirely hardy and will sometimes die out in very cold winters. The worst mistake that gardeners are apt to make with these delicate small ivies is to plant them in wet places near a pool. They are not aquatic plants at all.

As a ground cover for large areas, remember that ivy will eventually climb your trees. There has always been some argument as to just how much competition it gives the trees. Most of the damage it does is probably from pulling them down in high winds with its weight. It takes many years for this vine to damage very large trees, however.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Group Here Has Display

By MARY JARDINE

GLADYS M. KULCKE
Guest Writer

DAHLIAS

Mrs. Pattie Carr made the white footed ceramic container for her lovely arrangement of lavender dahlias. An inverted white pottery plate was used as a base for this container. Iris and purple tipped canna leaves formed the background for this asymmetrical triangle design. The canna leaves furled around the purplish bud stalks, placed in front of the, tall placement of iris leaves and back of the dahlias. This added interest and depth to the overall design.

Lavender dahlias were used in the focal area, graduating in size from the large blossoms at the base to the bud placed high on the vertical line of the design. This arrangement placed on a marble top table would be a pleasing addition to the decoration of the living room.

Red - orange gladioluses were used by Mrs. G. E. Butler to create her fan-shaped design. Canna and iris leaves were used to form the background of the fan design. The gladioli were placed fan-shaped fashion with the central vertical line tallest and each stem shorter as they came down the sides of the design. The slightly curved ends of the stalks created rhythm in the design. A low, round, black - footed container placed on a tiered black wooden base supported this arrangement. A beautiful arrangement to be used in the entrance hall. In the horticulture division Mrs. Pattie Carr entered a branch of Monarda (Horse mint). Mrs. Suzee Gorman brough the variegated hydrangea and Painted Lady of the daylily family.

Wild flowers and foliage are used with the cultivated flowers and foliage in modern arrangements. Dock and pine, both are pleasing with chrysanthemums. The texture of the materials should be harmonious. The butterfly weed was used most effectively with the glads by Mrs. Henderson. The wild flowers are plentiful and we are prone to use too many flowers in an arrangement. We should conform to the principles of arranging in general: try not to be carried away by the profusion of materials available and to keep your lines defined, your use of materials limited.

Protection From Dust Key To New Storage Design

How do you build dust - free storage units that keep summer clothes crisp and clean through the winter months

A leading architect says storage units can be designed which are completely dust-proof. They can be divider storage units, recessed wall storage, even walk in clothes units.

Of course, the architect advises, you must have a dust-proof storage unit before you apply your doors. If you build the storage shelves and storage units of wood, such as Douglas fir or western red cedar, you can be sure that you have dust - tight compartments.

But what about the doors The best type of dust-proof door for your storage unit, the architect advises, is a hinged door which fits snugly against the shelf fronts. Doors made up of fir or cedar paneling, if the room is paneled, can be designed to fit so snugly that the doors aren't visible when closed. Spring latches hold them tightly against the shelf fronts.

Boosts Wood As Material For Flooring

Our Neolithic ancestors were smarter than 20th Century man, according to a well known chiropodist. At least he knew enough to pick out soft places to walk and thus save jarring his spine.

You can save your feet, says Dr. William J. Stickel, nationally prominent chiropodist, by walking on wood. He warned that headaches, backaches, tired muscles and dislocated discs often occur when people walk all day on concrete or hard-surfaced flooring.

Wood is the prized floor surface, Dr. Stickel pointed out, because of its resilience. The extra bounce in wood, he says, helps to cushion the shock transmitted to the skeletal system by walking.

Dr. Stickel explains that wood's resiliency helps "tone up" the nerves and muscles of the feet. "Many of our physical disorders begin with our feet," he said. "Our feet are shock absorbers for the rest of our body. When the surfaces on which we walk fail to give under our weight, there is an added strain in the bones and muscles of the feet."

Not only does wood have fine resilient qualities, Dr. Stickel observes, but the fact that wood has high insulating qualities and transmits less cold in winter and less heat in summer than steel, concrete and similar materials, makes it the ideal flooring. Not only does this result in greater foot comfort all year around, but walking on wood cuts down the danger of hyperhidrosis, excessive perspiration. Floors made of west coast hemlock or Douglas fir combine beauty with comfort.

Dr. Stickel even offered advice on how to walk. He said your toes should point straight ahead, but it's all right to walk slightly pigeontoed if that feels more comfortable.

Big Windows Bring Faulty Togetherness

According to reports from various building congress held around the country, women are out campaigning against the picture window. This is quite understandable, considering the fact that not many homes come complete with a view to frame with a picture window.

For those homeowners who have acquired neighborhood togetherness instead of a restful view with their picture window, Chandler D. Fairbank, OSLA, offers a solution.

The problem won't be solved, according to the prominent landscape architect, by masking the window with blinds or draperies. But with a little clever landscaping, the family's privacy can be regained and a "view" created or the window.

In one case Fairbank handled recently, the window faced the driveway to the side of the house and looked directly into a neighboring home. Obviously, the solution was to erect a high fence, one side running parallel to the driveway and one side connecting to the house. This formed a three - sided enclosure, wtih the fourth side left open towards the back yard.

Because of the height of the fence, a light touch was needed in its design, and Architect Fairbank chose a board - on - board pattern which gave the desired privacy, while permitting free circulation of air. Vines have been trained through the spaces between the offset boards to contribute delicacy to the structure.

In designing a structure like this, the accent should fall on naturalness, according to Fairbank. The atrium should be as much a part of the house and site as possible. In this case, the fence was constructed of rough - sawn western red cedar boards which have been allowed to weather to a lovely silver, both to match the cedar house siding which was stained driftwood grey and to form a handsome backdrop for the plantings within the atrium.

Architect Fairbank then pointed out that, depending upon the location of the front door, an atrium can be developed into either an entrance to the home or an outdoor living area. In either case, appropriate shrubbery, ground cover, decks, and possibly even a reflection pool or impluvium will make it a lovely sight from the picture window.

BROWN PATCH ON ST. AUGUSTINE GRASS. One of the most damaging diseases of grass lawns is Brown Patch. It is caused by a fungus which lives in the soil and generally attacks during periods of Wet Weather. Due to the wet weather the past few weeks, many lawns in Monroe and surrounding area are becoming infested with Brown Patch.
FOR CONTROL we recommend TERRACLOR, a proven control or ORTHO Garden Fungicide. If you have Brown Patch in your lawn we suggest use of one of these immediately.

Printed Feed Bags Make Paint Aprons

By DOROTHY ROE

It's a wise mother who provides her budding young artist with a coloring apron BEFORE producing the bright crayons or paints. This foresight prevents stained dresses and juvenile tears.

Gaily printed cotton feed bags of flour sacks are ideal for the purpose. To make a child's apron with handy cobbler pockets you'll need one 25-pound print bag and a package of bias binding. Prepare the bag by ripping the chain-stitched seam, then soaking in warm, soapy water to remove labels.

Local sewing center experts suggest the amateur seamstress draw a pattern on brown wrapping paper before cutting the fabric. To make the pattern, measure length and width desired for apron. Draw a rectangle to these measurements. Ascertain exact center of top of apron and draw a line 3½ inches across on each side of this. At each end of this 7-inch top line, draw a semicircle which tapers out to sides to form two armholes.

MRS. WOODWARD KING MOTT

Marriage Rites Held For Miss Turpin-W. K. Mott

Tree type candelabra with burning tapers set among emerald palms on either side of the altar and massive arrangements of pink gladioli and pink carnations formed the setting for the wedding in the First Methodist Church in Natchitoches on June 6 of Miss Jane Carter Turpin and Woodard King Mott. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hutton Turpin of Natchitoches and he is the son of Mrs. Joe Monroe Mott and the late Mr. Mott of Oak Ridge. In the windows small three branched holders held pink tapers encircled with Ivy. Clusters of pink carnations and tulle poufs marked the family pews.

The Reverend George Pearce Jr. performed the double ring ceremony at 7:00 o'clock in the evening.

Miss Lorane Brittain rendered the pre - nuptial selections, and accompanied Jim Bob Key the soloist, who sang "Because" "At Dawning" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride given in marriage by her father was radiant in an imported French taffeta gown made with a long fitted basque and full wing skirt which ended in a chapel train, it was trimmed with re-embroidered Alencon lace on a portrait neckline. The three quarter sleeves were shirred. Self covered buttons and re-embroidered Alencon lace Medallions centered the front and back panels of the skirt. Her veil of imported French illusion was attached to a dainty crown of seed pearls in scallop design. She wore white gloves and carried a Cascade bouquet of white roses and ivy leaves.

Miss Harryette Hutton Turpin, a sister of the bride, dressed in pink Mooncloud silk organza served as Maid of Honor. The princess lines of her dress had tiny bow trim on the skirt and featured a full flowing backpanel to hemline. The scooped neckline had a soft self fold forming a narrow collar and short cap sleeves. Her headpiece was a matching pink taffeta crown outlined with seed pearls with a pink tulle nose veil. Her satin slippers were of matching shade, she carried a double ringed bouquet of red Delight rose buds with accents of ivy leaves.

Bridesmaids were Miss Constance Clendenin of Beaumont, Texas, Mrs. Carrol Joseph Haydel of Baton Rouge and Mrs. Don Deen of Natchitoches; they wore identical dresses to the maid of honor. Their bouquets were of pink Briarcliff rose buds.

Joe Monroe Mott of Oak Ridge served as his brothers best man. Ushers were Charles Thomas Rolf of Bastrop, John Sawyer Barr Jr. and Edward Barham of Oak Ridge.

Silver trays of dainty satin tied tulle rice bags were passed among the guests by Miss Cheryl Ann Reese and Miss Ruth Pierson.

For her wedding trip Mrs. Mott chose a Dior blue cotton and silk suit and white acessories and her corsage was of white roses.

The couple will make their home in Oak Ridge.

The bride is a graduate of Natchitoches High School and Louisiana State University. Her sorority is Kappa Kappa Gamma.

The groom graduated from Oak Ridge High School and Louisiana State University. His fraternity is Sigma Chi.

Patio Party Easy Way To Entertain

The easiest and most fashionable way to entertain this summer is with a patio party. Informality has become the keynote of all entertaining during hot weather. Congeniality just naturally blossoms at a backyard barbecue.

A patio party can be as simple or as spectacular as you desire. If it's just a simple get-together of close friends, home economsits suggest letting the guests take care of their own menus.

All the hostess must do is get a fire started in the outdoor grill well ahead of time, have frankfurters, hamburger patties, or other items to be cooked handy to the grill, and prepare a salad or other dish and a beverage before guests, arrive. Once the party starts, they will entertain themselves with their cooking.

More elaborate parties can follow the same pattern as a formal dinner gathering, except that they are served out of doors and the main course is prepared over a charcoal fire. Standing rib roasts, pork roasts, or bowl prepared on the rotisserie are excellent in such instances.

Don't overlook opportunities to prepare other foods beside meat on the outdoor grill. Potatoes wrapped in foil and placed next to the coals are especially tasty, turnin them often and also unwrap them quickly after they are baked.

Roasting ears of sweet corn laid on top of the grill or wrapped in foil and placed next to the coals also gain added flavor.

You'll find everyone will enjoy the informality of a patio, and for the host and hostess it will be especially satisfying as a convenient and economical way to entertain.

Cook sliced mushrooms in butter, add salt and pepper and then spread over an omelet before folding or rolling. A little onion (minced raw or the instant type) will point up the mushroom flavor.

TOO MUCH EXCITEMENT

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — Maria Vinco, 78, collapsed and died as she watched her brother and sister-in-law scoring the triumph of their singing careers at Milan's little Scala opera house.

Maria apparently was overwhelmed by joy Thursday as she watched her relatives in a television presentation of the opera "La Pietra di Paragone."

As the singers took their bows, Maria stepped toward the TV screen, burst into sobs and collapsed. Doctors said she suffered a heart attack.

SWAPS FOR DOG INSTEAD

Kansas Pony Just Too Rich For Solon's Blood

WASHINGTON (AP) — It cost $50 a month to keep Corb, the Kansas pony, in Washington, D.C.

So Rep. Williams H. Avery, a Republican farmer and stockman from the plains of Kansas, told his kids after a year they just couldn't afford it any more.

"I sold Corb and got a dog instead. The kids were very unhappy about the whole thing," Avery says.

He had hauled Corb east after being elected to Congress in 1954. "The kids weren't too enthused about leaving the farm," he says, "and I promised them I'd bring their pony along, hauled her here in a trailer behind my own car."

Not every congressman has a pony in his household budget.

But Avery is about typical. He is 47, has a wife and four children and a dog and keeps up two homes for his family—the one they left in Wakefield, Kans., and another in Sumner, Md., a Washington suburb.

MONEY

A congressman makes $22,500 a year, and that's big money to a good many of the folks back home.

Even so, many lawmakers grumble that the $22,500 shrinks with alarming rapidity once they leave the grassroots and settle down along the banks of the Potomac. None has been heard to say, however, that he wouldn't run for re-election because the pay was too low.

There have been disclosures, amid the recent furore over nepotism on Capitol Hill, that quite a few lawmakers put their wives, children or other relatives on the congressional payrolls.

Nepotism is one way of keeping the family budget in the black. There are other ways, too. Many of the legislators command fancy fees for writing magazine articles, making speeches, and the like.

RETIREMENT

He may join a retirement system which takes 7½ per cent of his salary and returns up to about $18,000 a year if he lives long enough and gets re-elected often enough. He may also join an insurance plan which takes $10.83 a month from his salary for a $20,000 policy if he's under 65, $15,000 if he's over 65.

The government furnishes him an office in Washington and allows up to $35,000 a year for hiring helpers and $1,200 a year for stationery. In addition, he may draw up to $1,800 a year for renting and maintaining a congressional office back in his home district.

He gets paid 20 cents a mile for one round-trip a year between the capitol and his home district.

But he usually has to spend money to get his job. Although he gets financial aid from party and friends, a congressman might spend from hundreds to thousands of dollars getting elected.

One congressman figures his $22,500 salary is about like $10,000 back home.

"I think the salary and allowances are adequate enough to break even, and that is all anybody ought to ask," says Rep. Stewart Udall (D-Ariz), 39, a lawyer, who has a wife and five children.

Rep. Avery frankly admits that "not every month have we been able to live on our salary."

Udall is buying a house with a lot of playground for the children in nearby Virginia. "If you're going to give your kids a decent break, you've got to give them good surroundings," he says. He keeps a home back in Tucson, too.

EXPENSES

Avery figures he averages about one trip a month back to his home district. With the plane ticket and the other expenses, he estimates it costs him about $300 a trip.

"People are surprised when I tell them I pay my own way—they almost disbelieve that I'm not on government voucher," he says.

Then in Washington, there's the constant go, go, go — receptions, dinners, meetings. One congressman figures he could easily spend $150 a month paying for taxicabs or for parking his car and tipping the hat check girl at these meetings, sometimes three or four an evening.

For Rep. and Mrs. Robert P. Griffin, Republican from Traverse City, Mich., paying baby sitters is a big item. They have three young sons.

Mrs. Griffin says she has to spend more money on clothes because "I dress up more." But she adds she doesn't have to have great numbers of dressy dresses.

"I never go back and indicate that I'm starving or I don't like the job," Griffin says. "I'm not dissatisfied with the salary. But, I don't think we're overpaid, by any means."

If a congressman has so many expenses, then why be one?

All of those asked that question had about the same answer: It's a challenge to serve in such a public office.

"There are certain things you believe in, that you stand for," Avery says, "and you believe them so strongly you want to see them prevail. I think every congressman thinks he's doing a better job than somebody that might take his place."

Birdman May Move

By EDITH CURREN

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Federal authorities are considering transferring the "birdman of Alcatraz" to the Federal Medical Center in Springfield, Mo.

The move, authorities say, may be made in view of Robert Stroud, who gained recognition as a bird authority in 1939 with the publication of his 500-page technical volume, "Stroud's Digest of Bird Diseases," has been at Alcatraz since 1943.

He was first convicted of manslaughter in 1909 at the age of 19 for the murder of his sweetheart's ex-boyfriend in Alaska. Stroud had been living there since leaving his home in Seattle in 1908 to join a railroad construction gang.

Sentenced to McNeil Island Penitentiary in Washington State for 12 years, he was later transferred to Leavenworth after stabbing a fellow inmate. In 1916, he was convicted of the fatal stabbing of a Leavenworth guard and sentenced to hang. President Woodrow Wilson commuted the death sentence with the provision that Stroud spend the rest of his life in solitary.

Stroud began his bird studies quite by accident at Leavenworth when a nest of baby sparrows was blown into his small exercise yard. He rescued the birds and welcomed their companionship. The warden, noting Stroud's interest, presented him with a pair of canaries and the prisoner began breeding the birds. At one time, he had 300 canaries, and a source of income. There was a market for the birds outside the prison and Stroud had no difficulty earning enough money to help support his mother. Mrs. Stroud and her friends made arrangements with the customers and furnished Stroud with the necessary supplies for his work.

LED TO CORRESPONDENCE

The breeding of birds led to a correspondence with other bird fanciers and Audubon societies took an interest in these birds bred behind prison walls. At a time when Stroud's business was at its peak, the canaries contracted a mysterious disease. The prisoner consulted all the books at his disposal but found nothing to explain the fever and glazed eyes of his feathered pets.

Stroud soon realized that the known facts about contagious diseases in birds were surprisingly few. Determined to find an answer, he began conducting experiments. Guards and inmates became used to the light that burned far into the night on the isolation block as the self-taught biologist compared notes with breeders throughout the country. The hospital laboratory donated test tubes and offered to study his dissections under microscopes.

His records included observations on bird therapeutics and pathology as well as intensive studies on bird fevers. He is credited with having developed an effective medicine for bird uremia. The first pink and lavender canaries, prized by Audubon societies, were produced by Stroud.

Soon, an Audubon journal requested articles from Stroud and prison officials gave him a typewriter. His monumental work on bird diseases was lauded by scientific institutions, bird hospitals and bird fanciers throughout the nation.

DRIVES WERE LAUNCHED

When it became known that he was a prisoner, a series of public drives to have Stroud freed were launched, but all were unsuccessful. The government's view is that "the man is a menace to society, he is a dangerous killer and must be kept locked under maximum security precautions."

With the outbreak of World War II, prison regulations tightened and Stroud's requests for supplies were repeatedly refused. The convict, becoming increasingly idle, began writing letters about himself and life in prison.

At Alcatraz, the rules put a complete end to his bird studies and his remaining flock was sent to his brother. Stroud was deprived of access to newspapers and radio broadcasts in the notorious isolation "D" cell block.

When a movie producer tried to produce Stroud's life story, the prison officials broke off the correspondence. Stroud's renewed efforts to obtain relief through the courts failed.

He no longer is in solitary and is limited to books. Stroud has turned to the study of law and foreign languages, training himself to reading fluently in French, Italian and Latin.

Widow Protects Her Home

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Writer

For a full week. Lomie Puckett, 51, a Los Angeles widow, cradled a rifle in her arms and defended her home against the advance of the new Golden Gate Freeway. She lost to the sheriff and the bulldozers.

Hazel Deubel, a 61-year-old widow in relief evicted by the Cleveland Inner Belt Freeway, spent 54 nights in protest living with her 14 dogs and six cats in a gift auto in the streets. Finally, she gave in.

The widows Puckett and Deubel are vivid illustations of the fact that there is a great deal more to building a modern superhighway than merely mapping out a route and laying a hardtop surface.

There's the humar problem, too.

With federal grants spreading the tentacles of expressways, freeways, and thruways across the land, highway officials are learning that out can't please everybody—and, sometimes, no one at all.

WARNED

The Todney Cooks were warned not to make any improvements on their Atlanta home, in the way of a circumferential highway. When their furnace broke down last winter, they had to wait for state dispensation to install a nev one.

San Franciscans rose in civic revolt this year and forced the city Board of Supervisors to reject 15½ miles of state and federal-sponsored freeway routes as despoiling "the city's picturesque distinctive heart."

Connecticut faces the costly possibility of building its Danbury cutoff through the city of Norwalk because the old village of Silvermine, another proposed route, is protesting the destructiin of its rustic beauty.

Money and sentiment are the chief factors in the human problem.

The Kansas City Expressway system, for instance, has dislodged 1,640 families and 95 commercial buildings to date. Each bit of property was acquired at a "fair price." But is a fair price always fair?

"Where it's really sad is in the case of some old folks," he said. "The property — even when we give them as much as we're allowed—isn't worth much, but it's all the world to them."

DISPLACED

Displaced owners who go to court lose more often than they win. But sometimes their victories are spectacular.

A Connecticut real estate development firm was given $600 for less than a half acre of land. A court boosted the award to $20,000. The judge ruled that the land, on which the company planned to build homes, was devalued by that amount when the state took it over.

Not even the thought of losing millions in federal subsidies can mollify some objectors.

Strange War To End Soon

KUALA LUMPUR (UPI) — An end may be in sight to a strange and deadly war that has raged for 11 years in Malay. But not until the Malayan government crushes some 800 die-hard Communist terrorists, the remains of an army once 12,000 strong.

This little known war began June 16, 1948, with a burst of machinegun fire that killed three European rubber planters near Sungei Siput, not far from Ipoh, the capital of the northwestern state of Perak.

Since then the war between murderous Communist "jungle army" and regular troops of Britain, Australia and the National Federation Army has killed thousands of persons, drained Malaya of hundreds of millions of dollars, and strained the lives of 6¼ million Malayans of all races.

Today, 11 years after the government began an all-out campaign to destroy the guerilla forces, the back of the Red threat appears to have been broken, and government leaders are predicting that 1959 should witness the final crushing of the Communist upheaval.

STRENGTH WHITTLED DOWN

Determined goverment attacks on land, sea and air against the well-equipped and battle-seasoned guerrillas of the Malayan Communist Party, led by youthful Chin Peng, have whittled down their peak strength of almost 12,000 in 1950-51 to the present hungry and bedraggled band of 800, half of which is concentrated along the northern Kedah and Perak frontiers bordering Thailand.

In the single month of December, 1951, the Communists were responsible for an average of 16 shooting "incidents" a day. That month they held up 49 vehicles, looted civilians of $204,338 and destroyed property worth $1,800,000 (Malayan). Their forays have continued ever since, but—due to attrition of their strength—with diminishing effect each year. Now their activities are almost extinct, and government bulletins announce almost daily: "No emergency casualties today."

Hounded by 30,000 British, Australian and National Federation troops, plus police and auxiliary security forces on land, and bombed incessantly from the air by British and Australian Canberra jets, the Communists are now reduced to battling for survival, eluding their pursuers and foraging for food.

CALLED EMERGENCY

Following the "June 16 incident" of 1948, the government clamped a state of emergency on the entire country of 50,915 square miles.

Eleven states in the federation of Malaya were declared a "black area" with the people subjected to surveillance by the government. Curfews were imposed in "hot areas," and travel and food movements were restricted.

Now, two-thirds of the total "black area" have been declared "white areas" and 28,000 square miles of the federation, with a population of about 3.5 million, are cleared of Communist terrorists.

History of the Communist campaign to overthrow the government by an "armed struggle" can be traced to the formation of the Malayan Communist Party (MCP) in Singapore in the 1920's.

Forced underground by a flat ban by Singapore and Malaya, then administered by the British, the MCP found its chance when the Japanese armed forces invades Singapore and Malaya in 1942.

Armed elements of the MCP, originating from a small group called the "Dalforce", volunteered to help the British check the Japanese invasion. The force grew in strength and became the "Malayan Peoples' anti-Japanese Army" (MPAJA) which wreaked havoc against the Japanese under the guidance of British officers and with arms supplied by the British.

TURNED DOWN DEMAND

Following the Japanese surrender in 1945, the MPAJA turned down a British demand to disarm and went underground in the Malayan jungles. The MCP on the political front began infiltrating trade unions, guilds and workers groups, and wormed itself into political organizations with the avowed aim of seizing the government through political means.

The government countered by organizing and building up a free trade union movement and encouraging the growth of legitimate political parties.

By the middle of 1948, the Reds realized their efforts to overthrow the government through non-violent means had failed.

The final switch to armed warfare followed a meeting of Communist leaders in Asia held at Calcutta and was believed to be influenced by orders from the Cominform. They opened the armed struggle under the banner of championing the peoples' cause against colonialism.

Polio Peril At Hand

Editor's Note—The season of greatest polio peril is at hand—and rough weather signals are flying. Ahead lies the possibility of epidemic among millions who still remain unprotected.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

Down but still dangerous, it has paralyzed nearly twice as many children so far this year than at this time in 1958.

Despite Salk vaccine, it could claim 12,000 or more victims in 1959.

That would be more than the annual toll in each of 29 of the 44 years since 1915, when parents first began dreading the approach of summer with its cruel, crippling disease.

Now there is a defense, the Salk vaccine. It is 90 per cent effective.

But 98 million Americans haven't had a single shot. Nearly one-third of children under 5 have had no vaccine.

Last year in Detroit, earlier in Chicago and Boston, many were prey to polio. This year many others could be hit hard, warn officials of the National Foundation and U.S. Public Health Service.

On April 12, 1955, an anxious world cheered when the Salk vaccine was pronounced safe, potent, effective.

Parents scrambled for scarce vaccine, impeded only for a time by unfortunate issuance of some vaccine whose virus had not been completely killed.

For five years, 1950-1954, polio averaged nearly 39,000 child and adult victims each year.

Cases in 1955, including both paralytic and nonparalytic, numbered 29,000.

But in 1956 there were 15,000 cases and in 1957 only 5,485 as Salk vaccine began to build a wall of defense.

Then, in 1958, came a warning signal. Polio hit 6,061 persons. Worse, there was a 44 per cent increase over 1957 in the number of paralytic cases, reports Gabriel Stickle, director of the foundation's statistical service.

Hardest hit were children under 5—as in the old pattern of years ago.

Kansas Pony Just Too Rich For Solon's Blood

WASHINGTON (AP) — It cost $50 a month to keep Corb, the Kansas pony, in Washington, D.C.

So Rep. Williams H. Avery, a Republican farmer and stockman from the plains of Kansas, told his kids after a year they just couldn't afford it any more.

"I sold Corb and got a dog instead. The kids were very unhappy about the whole thing," Avery says.

He had hauled Corb east after being elected to Congress in 1954. "The kids weren't too enthused about leaving the farm," he says, "and I promised them I'd bring their pony along, hauled her here in a trailer behind my own car."

That would be more than the annual toll in each of 29 of the 44 years since 1915, when parents first began dreading the approach of summer with its cruel, crippling disease.

Now there is a defense, the Salk vaccine. It is 90 per cent effective.

But 98 million Americans haven't had a single shot. Nearly one-third of children under 5 have had no vaccine.

Last year in Detroit, earlier in Chicago and Boston, many were prey to polio. This year many others could be hit hard, warn officials of the National Foundation and U.S. Public Health Service.

On April 12, 1955, an anxious world cheered when the Salk vaccine was pronounced safe, potent effective.

Parents scrambled for scarce vaccine, impeded only for a time by unfortunate issuance of some vaccine whose virus had not been completely killed.

For five years, 1950-1954, polio averaged nearly 39,000 child and adult victims each year.

Cases in 1955, including both paralytic and nonparalytic, numbered 29,000.

But in 1956 there were 15,000 cases and in 1957 only 5,485 a Salk vaccine began to build a wall of defense.

Then, in 1958, came a warning signal. Polio hit 6,061 persons. Worse, there was a 44 per cent increase over 1957 in the number of paralytic cases, reports Gabriel Stickle, director of the foundation's statistical service.

Hardest hit were children under 5—as in the old pattern of year ago.

"Once again, it begins to look like infantile paralysis," a foundation official remarked.

PETROLEUM REPORT

Eight New Completions Seen In Monroe District

Six oil producers and two gas well completions along with 15 new locations were reported last week to the Monroe District office of the Louisiana Conservation Department.

Concordia, Grant and LaSalle each had two new producing oil wells and Union had the two gas completions.

One of the Concordia wells is the William White, Inc., et al, L. M. Simmons No. 1 in Sec. 16-6-7E of Lismore Landing Field. It was completed June 1 to flow 116 barrels of 40.4 gravity petroleum per day through a 10-64 in. choke from perforations at 5286 - 90 ft. The gas - oil ration was 400:1.

The other is the Germany - Gulmon E. B. Wade No. 3 in Sec. 19-7-7E of Omega Field. Completed May 28, the well was flowing 98 barrels of 39.2 gravity petroleum per day from perforations at 4904-06 ft. Tubing pressure was 465 lbs. and the gas - oil ratio 300:1.

J. E. Grandstaff is the operator of the two Grant parish completions in Sec. 9-9-1E of Georgetown Field. One, Rhinehardt No. 1, was pumping about 15 barrels per day on May 30 from perforations at 1526-30 ft. The second well, Tremont Lumber Co. No. 1, on May 27 was pumping an estimated five barrels per day from perforations at 1530-34 ft.

Both of the LaSalle parish wells are in the productive Tullos Urania Field. In Sec. 25-10-1E Walter W. Heard Jr.'s Urania Lumber Co. No. 2 was pumping an estimated eight barrels per day from 1266-70 ft. Yazoo Operators, Inc.'s Hardtner "B" No. 7 in Sec. 7-10-2E was pumping about seven barrels from 1510-14 ft. Both wells were completed May 26.

In Union parish Olin Gas Transmission Corp. completed their Fee Gas No. 425 and 426 in Sec. 33-21-3E of the Monroe Field. The former was completed May 28 at 374 million cubic ft. before acid from 2161 ft. and the latter on June 1 at 305 million cubic ft. before acid from 2179 ft.

Last week 31 rigs were reported active and three wells were plugged and abandoned.

These were the new locations:

CALDWELL

Vixen Field - The Atlantic Refg. Co.; Olin Mathieson No. 1, Sec. 32-15-3E, located in center of SE¼ of NW¼.

Vixen Field - Barnwell Drlg. Co.; Cont-Brown No. 1, Sec. 26-15-2E, located 660 ft. east & north of SW corner of SW¼ of NW¼.

Vixen Field - Barnwell Drlg. Co.; John H. Norris No. 1, Sec. 25-15-2E, located 660 ft. north & east of SW corner of SW¼ of SE¼.

Vixen Field - Barnwell Drlg. Co.; D. C. Nichols No. 1, Sec. 25-15-2E, located 2200 ft. west, 460 ft. south of NE corner.

Vixen Field - Shell Oil Co.; La. Central No. 5, Sec. 31-15-3E, located 561 ft. south, 560 ft. east of NW corner of NW¼ of SE¼.

CATAHOULA

Wildcat Field - E. C. Wentworth, et al; Cotton-Reeves-Justiss-Albritton No. 1, Sec. 42-7-6E, from corner common to Secs. 27, 42 & 43, go 2514 ft. along Sec.-L common to Secs. 27 & 42 NE, thence at right angle SE for 113 ft.

Enterprise Field - Shell Oil Co.; La. Central Min. Co. "A" No. 2, Sec. 2-10-5E, located 444 ft. from N-L, 791 ft. from W-L of NE¼ of SW¼.

CONCORDIA

Wildcat Field - E. C. Wentworth, et al; Sturgeon A-1, Sec. 26-6-7E, from quarter corner of Sec. 25 & 26, go south 89 deg., 45 min., west 2171.4 ft. & north 400 ft.

Lismore Landing Field - William White, Inc.; Simmons No. 2, Sec. 16-6-7E, located 660ft. north from S-L, 339 ft. west of E-L of SE¼ of SW¼.

FRANKLIN

Wildcat Field - C. C. Steinberger Jr., et al; N. G. Lee, et al, No. 1, Sec. 33-14-9E, located 660 ft. south & west of NE corner of SW¼ of NE¼.

GRANT

Wildcat Field - McDowell & Cook of La., Inc.; Swope No. 1, Sec. 7-9-1E, locate 2923.14 ft. west, 357.06 ft. north of SE corner.

Selma Field - Nebo Oil Co., Inc.; Nebo Fee No. 104, Sec. 32-9-1E, located 660 ft. from N-L, 330 ft. from E-L of SE¼ of SW¼.

LASALLE

Rogers Field - Thornbrugh Well Svc. Co.; Mae Corley Norris No. 1, Sec.8-6-3 located 760 ft. east, 100 ft. south of NW corner of SE¼ of NE¼.

OUACHITA

Calhoun Field - SW Gas Prod. Co.; V. Sanford No. 1, Sec. 31-18-1E, located 325 ft. east, 1020, ft. south of NW corner of NE¼.

The following rigs were reported active last week:

EAST CARROLL

CATAHOULA

Prichard Field - A. J. Hodges Inds.; Int. Paper Co. No. 2, Sec. 20-10-6E, set 615 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe.

Prichard Field - A. J. Hodges Ind.; La. Central A-6, Sec. 17-10-6E, drilling at 7650 ft.

CONCORDIA

Brabston Field - Marlin Exp., Inc.; F. F. Yakey No. 3, Sec. 25-5-8E, drill stem test.

FRANKLIN

Wildcat Field - Trice Prod. Co.; N. L. Hower No. 1, Sec. 14-15-8E, set 502 ft of 9⅝ in. pipe, drilling at 3000 ft.

Lamar Field - Crow Drlg. & Prod. Co.; Goodman No. 2, Sec. 36-16-8E, testing.

Lamar Field - Crow Drlg. & Prod. Co.; Sevier No. 1, Sec. 32-16-9E, set 418 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, drilling at 3675 ft.

GRANT

Wildcat Field - McDowel & Cook of La., Inc.; Swope No. 1, Sec. 7-9-1E, set 103½ ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, drilling at 2776 ft.

Georgetown Filed - W. L. Holmes; Tidwell No. 1, Sec. 9-9-1E, set 40 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, drilling at 450 ft.

LASALLE

Wildcat Field - Nebo Oil Co., Inc.; Nebo Fee No. 54, Sec. 22-8-2E, testing.

West Catahoula Lake Field - E. C. Wentworth, et al; Alexander, et al, No. 1, Sec. 34-7-3E, set 4245 ft. of 5½ in. pipe, perforated 4090-92 ft.

Cypress Bayou Field - Jus-Mears Oil Co.; La. Delta Corp. B-2, Sec. 13-6-4E, testing.

Olla Field - Jus-Mears Oil Co.; Tremont Lumber. Co. D-12, Sec. 12-9-1E, set 218 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, drilling at 2100 ft.

Tullos Urania Field - E. N. Balter & Galoob; Town of Tullos No. 1, Sec. 26-10-1E, testing.

Tullos Urania Field - E. N. Balter & Galoob; Town of Tullos C-2, Sec. 26-10-1E, testing.

Tullos Urania Fiel - Walter W. Heard Jr.; Urania Lbr. Co. No. 1, Sec. 24-10-1E, testing.

Tullos Urania Field - Fred W. Henslee; Hardt-Edenborn No. 1, Sec. 7-10-2E, preparing to run 7 in. casing.

Tullos Urania Field - A. J. Hill; R. M. Doughty No. 1, Sec. 36-10-1E, testing.

Tullos Urania Field - Thompson & Grezaffie; Winberry No. 2, Sec. 18-10-2E, testing.

OUACHITA

Calhoun Field - Ark. La. Gas Co.; Blanche Brownlee No. 1, Sec. 28-18-1E, drilling at 9660 ft.

Calhoun Field - SW Nat'l Prod. Co.; LSU Unit No. 1, Sec. 26-18-1E, set 9218 ft. of 7 in. pipe.

RAPIDES

RICHLAND

Mangham Field - Bep D. Marks; Baker No. 2, Sec. 4-15-7E, set 297 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe, drilling at 2776 ft.

TENSAS

Locust idge Field - Phillips Pet. Co.; McDonald "E" No. 3, Sec. 17-10-12E, set 1848 ft. of 9⅝ in. pipe, drilling at 2500 ft.

UNION

Monroe Field - Monroe Drlg. Co. & A. R. Crow; Crow No. 1, Sec. 5-21-3E, set 202 ft. of 8⅝ in. pipe & 2173 ft. of 4½ in. pipe.

The following wells were plugged and abandoned:

CATAHOULA

Wildcat Field - O'Brien Drlg. Co.; B. M. Gilcrease No. 1, Sec. 19-8-6E, plugged and abandoned May 28 at 4512 ft.

FRANKLIN

Wildcat Field - Jett Drlg. Co., Inc.; Singer Mfg. Co. C-1, Sec. 35-16-10E, plugged & abandoned May 28 at 6112 ft.

IN SHREVEPORT DISTRICT

10 Producers Are Reported

Thirteen completions for oil and nine new drilling locations were reported in the Shreveport district last week by the Louisiana Conservation Department.

Seven completions and eight of the new locations were in Caddo Parish's Caddo Pine Island Field.

Nabors Drilling Co.'s No. 1 Rives Estate, s4-11-12, a wildcat in De Soto Parish, has been completed to flow 175 barrels of 42.8 gravity oil daily from 2,705-07 feet. Total well depth is 2,900 feet.

In district dilling, Crow Drilling and Production Co. - Ralph Akin's No. 1 Bollinger, s29-33-13, a Bossier Parish wildcat, was drilling at 3,540 feet. The well will be drilled to the Pettet zone.

Trahan, Crow and Gayle's No. 1 City of Shreveport, s32-18-13, is at a total depth of 6,380 feet and running an electrical log.

Seaboard Drilling Co., Houston, has not yet moved a rig to its No. 1 Green Walker, s8-4-12, a wildcat in Sabine Parish to test the Rodessa formation on 322 acres.

The new district completions are:

BOSSIER

Miller's Bluff Field — Inland Drilling Co. - Akin's No. 1 Gleason, s10-22-14, has been completed to flow 31 barrels of 44.4 gravity oil from 2,896-2,900 feet. Total well depth is 2,920 feet.

DESOTO

Nabors Drilling Co's No. 1 Rives Estate, s4-11-12, has been completed to flow 175 barrels of 42.8 gravity oil daily from 2,705-07 feet. Total well depth is 2,900 feet.

CADDO

Caddo Pine Island Field — W. M. Barret's No. 1 Marr and Collins, s5-19-16, completed to flow 120 barrels from the Ferdericksburg zone.

Gary and Kay's No. C-2 Shapiro, s3-20-15, completed to flow 20 barrels daily from the Chalk formation.

Longwood Field -- F. M. Hood, et al's No. 1 S. J. Durr, s18-19-16, completed to pump 38 barrels daily from the Fredericksburg zone.

Holm Timber Industries - Joe M. Burnham's No. 3 Dumidur, s8-19-16, has been completed to flow 47 barrels of 38 gravity oil daily from 2,312-54 feet. Total well depth is 2,431 feet.

Gary Kay's No. C-1 Gann, s3-10-15, has been completed to flow 20 barrels of oil from 1,391-1,310 feet. Total well depth is 1,545 feet.

Gary-Kay's No. C-2 Gann, s3-20-15, has been completed to flow 20 barrels daily from 1,402-1,510 feet. Total well depth is 1,549 feet.

Gary-Kay's No. 1 Shapiro, s3-20-15, has been completed to flow 18 barrels of oil a day from the Chalk zone at 1,398-1,506 feet. Total well depth is 1,544 feet.

Texaco, Inc's No. 47 D. H. Raines, s15-21-15, has been completed to flow 40 barrels of oil daily from 1,572-1,690 feet. Total well depth is 1,750 feet.

A. R. Wheritt's No. 10 Reid-Reynolds, s11-21-15, has been completed to flow 20 barrels daily from 1,528-1,666 feet. Total well depth is 1,686 feet.

Williams Pressure Service Co.'s No. 1 Mason Graves, s10-22-15, has been completed to flow 48 barrels of oil daily from 2,726-34 feet. Total well depth is 2,817 feet.

NATCHITOCHES

Grogan Field — Cheer & Franz's No. 3 W. L. Boone, s30-11-10, has been completed to flow 22 barrels of 42 gravity oil daily from the Nacatoch zone at 1,221-26 and 1,246-50 feet. Total well depth is 1,414 feet.

Heavy Rains Hit Crops In Mississippi

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) —The Agriculture Extension Service described Mississippi's crops as ranging from excellent to poor, largely because of excessive rains in some parts of the state.

The service said Saturday pastures generally are good, cotton, corn and soybeans are mostly up to stands and are growing fast, and some cotton fields are so grassy they may be abandoned.

Agriculture conditions by county:

Panola: Crops conditions generally are favorable, older cotton is beginning to square and poisoning for plant bugs and fleahoppers is under way, a large acreage of corn has been laid by, many farmers have sprayed for weed control, some bud damage is showing in younger corn.

Webster: Too much rain has put the farmers in grass, cotton and corn have suffered from excess water.

Leake: Thrips are doing a good bit of damage, boll weevils are beginning to show up, old corn is in good shape, 15 per cent of the crop has not been planted.

Jefferson: Rains have stopped all hay cutting and seed harvesting, many seeds have been lost, some crops were grassy before the rains.

Sharkey: The crop report is optimistic, cotton stands generally are uniform, pre-emerged cotton is excellent, the corn crop is one of the best in years, stands of soybeans are good, the beans are growing fast, with cotton squaring.

Union: The crops situation is bad, some grassy cotton may be plowed under, thrips infestations have been heavy and little poisoning has been done.

Winston: Half of the cotton has been chopped, late corn planting has been held up due to rains, a lot of hay has been lost.

Kemper: Excessive rains have made cotton so grassy some fields will have to be abandoned, a large part of the oat crop has been lost.

Lincoln: Rain is damaging all crops, including pastures, the hay crop has been damaged heavily, cotton is pretty, but so is the grass, corn fields have not been worked because of the rain, but the corn is better than usual and prospects are excellent if the rains hold off.

Cotton Futures Move In Narrow Trading Range

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures prices moved in a narrow range this week and closed mixed. Active contracts on the New York cotton exchange finished 85 cents a bale lower to 45 cents higher than a week ago.

Bullish factors included short covering, trade price fixing and some local buying prompted by the possibility of active demand for cotton early in the new season.

The nearby July contract drew support from the dwindling of the certificated stock — a trend suggesting that notices might be relatively light. July was also helped by a slower rate of loan repossessions.

Distant October firmed early in the week on short covering, then eased when the Senate approved a $50,000 price support limit for the 1960 crop. The far October position improved again later in the week on short covering.

Downward pressures on the market were confined chiefly to profit taking and hedge selling. There was also a flurry of scattered liquidation stemming from the outlook for a larger 1959 crop.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were the lowest for any week since early March. Estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 39,000 bales, the total compared with 58,000 bales in the preceding week and 100,000 bales in the corresponding week of 1958.

The total for the season through June 2 was estimated at only 2,371,000 bales. This was less than half the 4,829,000 bales exported at the same time a year ago.

Petroleum Group Named At Richland

DELHI (Special) — Selection of Louisiana Petroleum Council officials for the Richland parish chapter was announced last week by M. W. McKinney, Delhi, president of the local chapter.

The Louisiana Petroleum Council was formed by the consolidation of the former Oil Informationtion Committee and Petroleum Industries Committee to handle public and governmental relations for all segments of the oil industry which is observing its 100th anniversary during 1959.

Oil Centennial Week in Louisiana will be August 23-29, 1959.

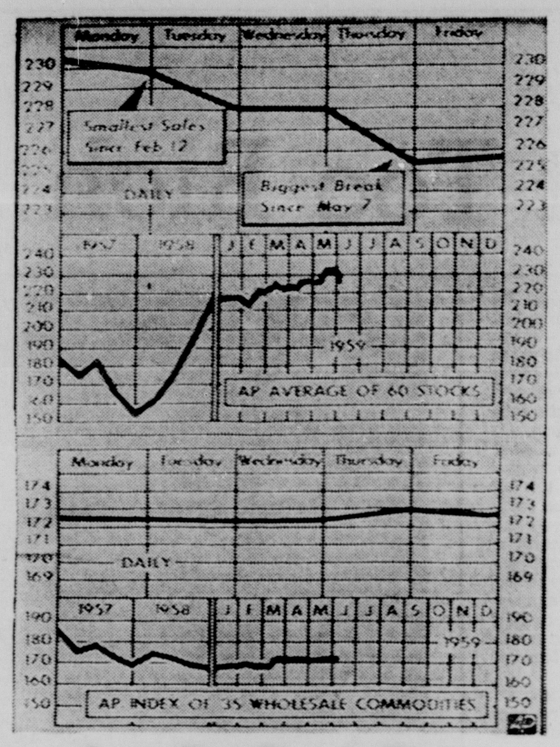

OBJECTIVES

The Louisiana Petroleum Council has the following objectives:

(1) To stimulate the timely dissemination of information concerning the petroleum industry so that public opinion and decisions relating to it will be founded in fact.

(2) To develop a climate in which a privately - managed and competitive petroleum industry can best serve the American people and strengthen the national economy.

(3) To encourage acceptance by lity to assist government at all levels in matters of public interest affecting the industry and its customers.

Down First Time In Weeks

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, declining for the first time in four weeks, recorded the sharpest weekly break since December, 1957, when it closed Friday at 225.8 from 230.3 a week ago. The commodity index moved higher for the fourth straight week, closing Friday at 172.8 from 172.5 in the preceding period. Industrials showed the largest gain. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

IMPORTS EXCEED EXPORTS

Detroit May Check Foreign Car Influx

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Detroit may play a big part in restoring our balance of payments in foreign trade and checking our outflow of gold to other nations.

If the new American small autos can check the inflow of foreign small cars the trick can be done and our position restored. thus rounding out our boom to cover all facets. The secretary of commerce has said that the only weak spot in our economy is our foreign business.

During the first quarter of this year our exports have fallen by 300-million dollars and our imports have risen by 400 million dollars a trade loss of 700 million dollars. If the sums spent abroad by our tourists and other items spent in foreign nations are considered, we had what is called an adverse balance of payments of 300 million dollars in the first quarter.

Last year foreign nations bought two billion three-hundred million dollars in gold from us at $35 an ounce. So far this year they have taken another 350 million dollars or so. This gold exodus reflects strength in foreign nations which have been unable to build dollar balances to be able to use them to buy gold and thus strengthen their central bank funds.

This situation has led to some worrying here by those who are confused by the complicated gold, foreign exchange, and foreign trade picture. There has been talk that there may be a gold price rise which would be tantamount to a devaluation of the dollar, and there has been talk that the dollar was losing its place in world esteem.

Neither one of these worries is warranted. The experts aver there will be no dollar devaluation or gold price rise. And they laugh at fears of the dollar being in disrepute. Foreigners have 16 billion 600 million of U.S. dollars in their accounts here. And that's a rise of nearly one and one half billion since the end of 1957. If they were afraid of the dollar they wouldn't hold dollars a minute.

It's still the mighty dollar even though it won't buy as much here at home as it once did.

Over the years we've been building up European and other backward nations, lending and giving them dollars and credits. They have used our dollars to build efficient machinery and now they are getting on their feet which is just what we wanted them to do.

Dollars that are going over now are being spent abroad instead of in the United States for one thing and that has cut into our exports. Our prices have risen, but so have those of Europe. Our steel prices have forced up our prices of machinery and thus we've lost some business on that score.

Of course, where Europe and other nations have been able to garner a lot of dollars is from our tourists. So if you add up what we buy in small cars, in scotch whiskey, in perfume, in Paris gowns, and travel generally you get a fancy total. Such spending reflects our prosperity.

This country isn't going to force any cuts in imports and it isn't going to halt foreign travel. There might be some cuts in foreign aid.

But the big place where we can recover our position as the experts see it is in the automobile market.

House Votes Cash To War On Hyacinths

WASHINGTON (Special) — The House tentatively restored $500,000 for water hyacinth eradication yesterday after appeals from three Louisiana lawmakers.

The House approved by a 59-55 vote an amendment to the public works appropriation bill offered by Rep. Otto Passman (D) La., to put back the half-million dollars deleted by the appropriations committee last Tuesday.

The committee said they were reluctant to approve the funds because it would put the Army Corps of Engineers into biological research on a large scale and that testimony supporting the hyacinth eradication was "vague."

The bureau of the budget had originally recommended the expenditure clear the fast-growing navigation menace in eight southren states.

DELETED

Passman told the House he believed the hyacinth money was deleted from lack of information about the eradication program, which was started last year.

Reps. I. A. Thompson and Edwin E. Willis of Louisiana also urged the House to add the hyacinth funds. Thompson said the plants are doing $30 million in damage annually in southern waterways and unless stopped, "the hyacinths would stretch from oeean to ocean."

He added that the plants were recently discovered to have developed some resistance to salt water and threaten to clog vast areas of shoreline as well as inland waters.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (D) Mo., of the House appropriations committee opposed the amendment, on grounds that it would open the door to additional spending above the committee's recommendations.

Passman, himself a member of the appropriations committee, said that in this case, "I did not consider myself a judas to vote against my own committee"—a fairly unusual action.

FORMS NEW DIVISION

ELKHART, Ind. (UPI) — Miles Laboratories Inc. announced a major corporate realignment encompassing the formation of a new operation called the Miles Chemical Co. The new company will function as one of four main divisions of the parent firm.

QUOTED VALUES DROP

Stocks Level Off In 'Correction'

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's long-waited "correction" came this week—the sharpest decline for any week since the week ended Dec. 21, 1957.

An estimated $5,800,000,000 was shorn from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the decline in the Associated Press average.

The market break was robbed of any aspect of panic or a rush to unload, however. Volume slipped to 14,785,757 shares from 14,872,535 the week before. It was the lightest trading since the week ended Aug. 30, 1958 when the total was 13,577,760 shares.

This was the third straight week of declining volume. It reflected extreme caution based mainly on the fear that stock prices had already discounted a good portion of the increased earnings resulting from the vigorous business recovery. The business and economic news remained quite good but there was nothing very new and flashy to freshen interest in Wall Street.

A new element of uncertainty was introduced early in the week, however, and haunted the stock market atmosphere for most of the trading sessions. This was the apparent determination of the national administration ot ask Congress to either increase the 4¼ per cent interest rate ceiling on U.S. government bonds or to abolish it.

It was a switch for the government market after two weeks of very slight gains. It was more of the same, however, for corporates —their 10th consecutive week going downhill.

Trading volume came to $27,551,000 par value on the New York stock exchange, compared with $26,373,100 for the previous week and $29,727,500 for the corresponding week a year ago.

Ellender Claims Supports Ceiling Will Hike Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La) contended Saturday that a $5,000 ceiling on farm price supports, instead of saving the taxpayers' money, probably will increase government costs.

Ellender, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said the price support limit voted by the Senate is attributed to "a misunderstanding fostered and furthered by a few selfish interests, and aided and abetted by an unsympathetic press."

With about 10 million dollars worth of farm surpluses now in government hands, Ellender said, proposals to limit price support loans are doubly attractive, and he added:

"If I believed for a moment that such limitations would either reduce government costs, or improve the present farm program, I would not hesitate to support them."

Ellender spoke out in a radio program recorded for use in his home state.

Ellender said all previous efforts to put a dollar limit on price support loans had been defeated by congress "as inconsistent with our current farm price stabilization program."

If large producers are barred from support loans, he said, they will sell their crops and push down prices with the result that most small producers will seek government loans.

He said the result will be an increase in the number of loans that must be processed and a boost in administrative costs.

Oilmen From 53 Nations Trade Ideas At Forum

NEW YORK (AP) — Oilmen from 53 nations Friday ended a six-day forum for the exchange of ideas and research plans.

Over 300 papers on late developments in the search for new petroleum products, markets and equipment were placed before some 5,000 oil scientists this week.

"It has been a truly international exchange of technical information," said Dr. E. V. Murphree, retiring congress chairman from Linden, N. J.

Sir Stephen Gibson, the new chairman from Longon, said the papers and discussions here indicate the next few years will be a period of more than average technical progress for the oil industry.

The American oil industry drew praise from foreign delegates for financing research projects designed to provide a better understanding of the chemical properties of crude oil.

Grains Score Small Gains During Week

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market bucked a succession of mildly bearish influences this week but managed to work out a few moderate gains on the board of trade.

Oats and old crop corn contracts withstood the lower trend and held fractional gains despite a general decline Friday which knocked new crop soybeans down sharply.

Indecision about market positions in wheat held that grain on a rather narrow course all week but there appeared to be no doubt about the outlook for soybeans, particularly the 1959 crop months.

Broker opiniin appeared to be about evenly divided in wheat trade. On one hand, there was a well known belief that grain from the 1959 winter crop now being harvested in the Southwest will move into commercial channels in heavy volume so long as prices hold above those of a year ago.

One commission house reminded that a year ago the grain was sold rather freely at prices well below current levels and below the government price support loan. First arrivals from this year's harvest have brought prices equal to or above the loan.

On the other hand, some commission houses contended that much of the selling last year was more or less forced because of the lack of storage facilities for the record high yield.

IN MISSISSIPPI OIL AREA

2-Year-Old Field Developing Rapidly

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A new dual oil well in the Raleigh Field of Smith County points up the rapid development of the 2-year old field into one of the finest multiple zone reservoirs in Mississippi.

California Co. completed the Everett No. 1, sec. 33-2N-7E, at 259 barrels of oil daily from a zone at 12,546-76 feet and 255 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 12,928-48 feet.

California Co. also is below 10,400 feet in the closely watched Jasper County Wildcat Peek No. 1, sec. 10-10n-11E, near the Sharon Field.

The well, a 13,000-foot test, has logged a shallow gas sand at 4,441 feet. The zone tested 1½ million cubic feet of gas daily.

In Jones County, Pan American Petroleum Corp.'s Stringer No. 1, sec. 15-6n-12w, has stuck drill pipe at 16,857 feet.

Gulf Coast Drilling and Exploration Co. is below 12,900 feet in the Covington County wildcat Weeks No. 1, sec. 18-9n-16w, after running electric log. The venture is running high on structure but has logged no shows.

Another dry hole has been recorded in the one-well Morton field of Scott County.

A. W. Williams and Love Petroleum abandoned the Mahaffey No. 1, sec. 10-5n-6e, after failing to log Eutaw oil sand.

It is the third dry hole in the 3-month-oil field.

In Madison County, near Madison Station, G. W. Gill is erecting a pump at the wildcat Crawford No. 1, sec. 7-7N-2E. The venture has swabbed a small amount of oil from the Selma gas rock at 3,701-12 feet.

In Pike County, east of the Little Creek Field, J. C. Maxwell is coring below 10,730 feet in the wildcat McCullough No. 1, sec. 15-4n-93.

Also in Pike County near the Summit Field, Cordell and Ballard is below 10,000 feet in the wildcat Southwest Junior College No. 1, sec. 19-4n-8e.

Field drilling:

In Lincoln County's Little Creek Field, Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. completed the Major-Baco No. 1, sec. 34-5n-8e, at 208 barrels of oil daily from perforations at 10,782-804 feet.

Also at Lincoln County's Little Creek Field, Bateman and Hawkins completed the McClelland No. 1, sec. 33-5n-8e, at 247 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 10,732-60 feet.

Abandoned wells:

Humphreys County: Hargrave Oil Corp. abandoned the wildcat Harkins No. 1, sec. 35-13n-3w, dry at 9,370 feet.

Simpson County: Arkansas Fuel Oil Co. abandoned the Womack No. 1, sec. 1-10n-17w, in the Magee Field, dry at 14,025 feet.

PETROLEUM REPORT

Eight New Completions Seen In Monroe District

Six oil producers and two gas well completions along with 15 new locations were reported last week to the Monroe District office of the Louisiana Conservation Department.

Concordia, Grant and LaSalle each had two new producing oil wells and Union had the two gas completions.

One of the Concordia wells is the William White, Inc., et al, L. M. Simmons No. 1 in Sec. 16-6-7E of Lismore Landing Field. It was completed June 1 to flow 116 barrels of 40.4 gravity petroleum per day through a 10-64 in. choke from perforations at 5286 - 90 ft. The gas - oil ration was 400:1.

The other is the Germany - Gulmon E. B. Wade No. 3 in Sec. 19-7-7E of Omega Field. Completed May 28, the well was flowing 98 barrels of 39.2 gravity petroleum per day from perforations at 4904-06 ft. Tubing pressure was 465 lbs. and the gas - oil ratio 300:1.

J. E. Grandstaff is the operator of the two Grant parish completions in Sec. 9-9-1E of Georgetown Field. One, Rhinehardt No. 1, was pumping about 15 barrels per day on May 30 from perforations at 1526-30 ft. The second well, Tremont Lumber Co. No. 1, on May 27 was pumping an estimated five barrels per day from perforations at 1530-34 ft.

Both of the LaSalle parish wells are in the productive Tullos Urania Field. In Sec. 25-10-1E Walter W. Heard Jr.'s Urania Lumber Co. No. 2 was pumping an estimated eight barrels per day from 1266-70 ft. Yazoo Operators, Inc.'s Hardtner "B" No. 7 in Sec. 7-10-2E was pumping about seven barrels from 1510-14 ft. Both wells were completed May 26.

In Union parish Olin Gas Transmission Corp. completed their Fee Gas No. 425 and 426 in Sec. 33-21-3E of the Monroe Field. The former was completed May 28 at 374 million cubic ft. before acid from 2161 ft. and the latter on June 1 at 305 million cubic ft. before acid from 2179 ft.

Last week 31 rigs were reported active and three wells were plugged and abandoned.

These were the new locations:

IN SHREVEPORT DISTRICT

10 Producers Are Reported

Thirteen completions for oil and nine new drilling locations were reported in the Shreveport district last week by the Louisiana Conservation Department.

Seven completions and eight of the new locations were in Caddo Parish's Caddo Pine Island Field.

Nabors Drilling Co.'s No. 1 Rives Estate, s4-11-12, a wildcat in De Soto Parish, has been completed to flow 175 barrels of 42.8 gravity oil daily from 2,705-07 feet. Total well depth is 2,900 feet.

In district dilling, Crow Drilling and Production Co. - Ralph Akin's No. 1 Bollinger, s29-33-13, a Bossier Parish wildcat, was drilling at 3,540 feet. The well will be drilled to the Pettet zone.

Trahan, Crow and Gayle's No. 1 City of Shreveport, s32-18-13, is at a total depth of 6,380 feet and running an electrical log.

Seaboard Drilling Co., Houston, has not yet moved a rig to its No. 1 Green Walker, s8-4-12, a wildcat in Sabine Parish to test the Rodessa formation on 322 acres.

The new district completions are:

BOSSIER

Miller's Bluff Field — Inland Drilling Co. - Akin's No. 1 Gleason, s10-22-14, has been completed to flow 31 barrels of 44.4 gravity oil from 2,896-2,900 feet. Total well depth is 2,920 feet.

DESOTO

Nabors Drilling Co's No. 1 Rives Estate, s4-11-12, has been completed to flow 175 barrels of 42.8 gravity oil daily from 2,705-07 feet. Total well depth is 2,900 feet.

CADDO

Caddo Pine Island Field — W. M. Barret's No. 1 Marr and Collins, s5-19-16, completed to flow 120 barrels from the Ferdericksburg zone.

Gary and Kay's No. C-2 Shapiro, s3-20-15, completed to flow 20 barrels daily from the Chalk formation.

Longwood Field — F. M. Hood, et al's No. 1 S. J. Durr, s18-19-16, completed to pump 38 barrels daily from the Frederciksburg zone.

Holm Timber Industries - Joe M. Burnham's No. 3 Dumidur, s8-19-16, has been completed to flow 47 barrels of 38 gravity oil daily from 2,312-54 feet. Total well depth is 2,431 feet.

Gary Kay's No. C-1 Gann. s3-10-15, has been completed to flow 20 barrels of oil from 1,391-1,510 feet. Total well depth is 1,545 feet.

Gary-Kay's No. C-2 Gann, s3-20-15, has been completed to flow 20 barrels daily from 1,402-1,510 feet. Total well depth is 1,549 feet.

Gary-Kay's No. 1 Shapiro, s3-20-15, has been completed to flow 18 barrels of oil a day from the Chalk zone at 1,398-1,506 feet. Total well depth is 1,544 feet.

Texaco, Inc's No. 47 D. H. Raines, s15-21-15, has been completed to flow 40 barrels of oil daily from 1,572-1,690 feet. Total well depth is 1,750 feet.

A. R. Wheritt's No. 10 Reid-Reynolds, s11-21-15, has been completed to flow 20 barrels daily from 1,528-1,666 feet. Total well depth is 1,686 feet.

Williams Pressure Service Co.'s No. 1 Mason Graves, s10-22-15, has been completed to flow 48 barrels of oil daily from 2,726-34 feet. Total well depth is 2,817 feet.

NATCHITOCHES

Grogan Field — Cheer & Franz's No. 3 W. L. Boone, s30-11-10, has been completed to flow 22 barrels of 42 gravity oil daily from the Nacatoch zone at 1,221-26 and 1,246-50 feet. Total well depth is 1,414 feet.

Heavy Rains Hit Crops In Mississippi

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) —The Agriculture Extension Service described Mississippi's crops as ranging from excellent to poor, largely because of excessive rains in some parts of the state.

The service said Saturday pastures generally are good, cotton, corn and soybeans are mostly up to stands and are growing fast, and some cotton fields are so grassy they may be abandoned.

Agriculture conditions by county:

Panola: Crops conditions generally are favorable, older cotton is beginning to square and poisoning for plant bugs and fleahoppers is under way, a large acreage of corn has been laid by, many farmers have sprayed for weed control, some bud damage is showing in younger corn.

Webster: Too much rain has put the farmers in grass, cotton and corn have suffered from excess water.

Leake: Thrips are doing a good bit of damage, boll weevils are beginning to show up, old corn is in good shape, 15 per cent of the crop has not been planted.

Jefferson: Rains have stopped all hay cutting and seed harvesting, many seeds have been lost, some crops were grassy before the rains.

Sharkey: The crop report is optimistic, cotton stands generally are uniform, pre-emerged cotton is excellent, the corn crop is one of the best in years, stands of soybeans are good, the beans are growing fast, with cotton squaring.

Union: The crops situation is bad, some grassy cotton may be plowed under, thrips infestations have been heavy and little poisoning has been done.

Winston: Half of the cotton has been chopped, late corn planting has been held up due to rains, a lot of hay has been lost.

Kemper: Excessive rains have made cotton so grassy some fields will have to be abandoned, a large part of the oat crop has been lost.

Lincoln: Rain is damaging all crops, including pastures, the hay crop has been damaged heavily, cotton is pretty, but so is the grass, corn fields have not been worked because of the rain, but the corn is better than usual and prospects are excellent if the rains hold off.

Cotton Futures Move In Narrow Trading Range

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures prices moved in a narrow range this week and closed mixed. Active contracts on the New York cotton exchange finished 85 cents a bale lower to 45 cents higher than a week ago.

Bullish factors included short covering, trade price fixing and some local buying prompted by the possibility of active demand for cotton early in the new season.

The nearby July contract drew support from the dwindling of the certificated stock — a trend suggesting that notices might be relatively light. July was also helped by a slower rate of loan repossessions.

Distant October firmed early in the week on short covering, then eased when the Senate approved a $50,000 price support limit for the 1960 crop. The far October position improved again later in the week on short covering.

Downward pressures on the market were confined chiefly to profit taking and hedge selling. There was also a flurry of scattered liquidation stemming from the outlook for a larger 1959 crop.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were the lowest for any week since early March. Estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 39,000 bales, the total compared with 58,000 bales in the preceding week and 100,000 bales in the corresponding week of 1958.

The total for the season through June 2 was estimated at only 2,371,000 bales. This was less than half the 4,829,000 bales exported at the same time a year ago.

Petroleum Group Named At Richland

DELHI (Special) — Selection of Louisiana Petroleum Council officials for the Richland parish chapter was announced last week by M. W. McKinney, Delhi, president of the local chapter.

Other officers for Richland parish are Vice - President W. L. Haley, Rayville; Secretary, Ralph Waites, Delhi; and Petroleum Industries School Chairman Luther Ellison, Delhi.

The Louisiana Petroleum Council was formed by the consolidation of the former Oil Informationtion Committee and Petroleum Industries Committee to handle public and governmental relations for all segments of the oil industry which is observing its 100th anniversary during 1959.

Oil Centennial Week in Louisiana will be August 23-29, 1959.

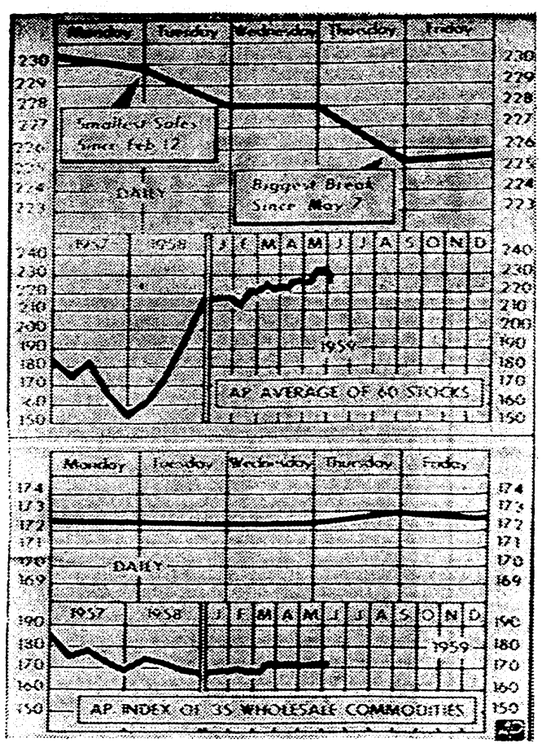

OBJECTIVES

The Louisiana Petroleum Council has the following objectives:

(1) To stimulate the timely dissemination of information concerning the petroleum industry so that public opinion and decisions relating to it will be founded in fact.

(2) To develop a climate in which a privately - managed and competitive petroleum industry can best serve the American people and strengthen the national economy.

(3) To encourage acceptance by lity to assist government at all levels in matters of public interest affecting the industry and its customers.

Down First Time In Weeks

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, declining for the first time in four weeks, recorded the sharpest weekly break since December, 1957, when it closed Friday at 225.8 from 230.3 a week ago. The commodity index moved higher for the fourth straight week, closing Friday at 172.8 from 172.5 in the preceding period. Industrials showed the largest gain. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Detroit May Check Foreign Car Influx

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Detroit may play a big part in restoring our balance of payments in foreign trade and checking our outflow of gold to other nations.

If the new American small autos can check the inflow of foreign small cars the trick can be done and our position restored. thus rounding out our boom to cover all facets. The secretary of commerce has said that the only weak spot in our economy is our foreign business.

During the first quarter of this year our exports have fallen by 300-million dollars and our imports have risen by 400 million dollars a trade loss of 700 million dollars. If the sums spent abroad by our tourists and other items spent in foreign nations are considered, we had what is called an adverse balance of payments of 300 million dollars in the first quarter.

Last year foreign nations bought two billion three-hundred million dollars in gold from us at $35 an ounce. So far this year they have taken another 350 million dollars or so. This gold exodus reflects strength in foreign nations which have been unable to build dollar balances to be able to use them to buy gold and thus strengthen their central bank funds.

This situation has led to some worrying here by those who are confused by the complicated gold, foreign exchange, and foreign trade picture. There has been talk that there may be a gold price rise which would be tantamount to a devaluation of the dollar, and there has been talk that the dollar was losing its place in world esteem.

Neither one of these worries is warranted. The experts aver there will be no dollar devaluation or gold price rise. And they laugh at fears of the dollar being in disrepute. Foreigners have 16 billion 600 million of U.S. dollars in their accounts here. And that's a rise of nearly one and one half billion since the end of 1957. If they were afraid of the dollar they wouldn't hold dollars a minute.

It's still the mighty dollar even though it won't buy as much here at home as it once did.

Over the years we've been building up European and other backward nations, lending and giving them dollars and credits. They have used our dollars to build efficient machinery and now they are getting on their feet which is just what we wanted them to do.

Dollars that are going over now are being spent abroad instead of in the United States for one thing and that has cut into our exports. Our prices have risen, but so have those of Europe. Our steel prices have forced up our prices of machinery and thus we've lost some business on that score.

Of course, where Europe and other nations have been able to garner a lot of dollars is from our tourists. So if you add up what we buy in small cars, in scotch whiskey, in perfume, in Paris gowns, and travel generally you get a fancy total. Such spending reflects our prosperity.

This country isn't going to force any cuts in imports and it isn't going to halt foreign travel. There might be some cuts in foreign aid.

But the big place where we can recover our position as the experts see it is in the automobile market.

House Votes Cash To War On Hyacinths

WASHINGTON (Special) — The House tentatively restored $500,000 for water hyacinth eradication yesterday after appeals from three Louisiana lawmakers.

The House approved by a 59-55 vote an amendment to the public works appropriation bill offered by Rep. Otto Passman (D) La., to put back the half-million dollars deleted by the appropriations committee last Tuesday.

The committee said they were reluctant to approve the funds because it would put the Army Corps of Engineers into biological research on a large scale and that testimony supporting the hyacinth eradication was "vague."

The bureau of the budget had originally recommended the expenditure clear the fast-growing navigation menace in eight southern states.

DELETED

Passman told the House he believed the hyacinth money was deleted from lack of information about the eradication program, which was started last year.

Reps. I. A. Thompson and Edwin E. Willis of Louisiana also urged the House to add the hyacinth funds. Thompson said the plants are doing $30 million in damage annually in southern waterways and unless stopped, "the hyacinths would stretch from ocean to ocean."

He added that the plants were recently discovered to have developed some resistance to salt water and threaten to clog vast areas of shoreline as well as inland waters.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (D) Mo., of the House appropriations committee opposed the amendment, on grounds that it would open the door to additional spending above the committee's recommendations.

Passman, himself a member of the appropriations committee, said that in this case, "I did not consider myself a judas to vote against my own committee"—a fairly unusual action.

Final votes on the appropriations bill is scheduled for Tuesday.

QUOTED VALUES DROP

Stocks Level Off In 'Correction'

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's long-waited "correction" came this week—the sharpest decline for any week since the week ended Dec. 21, 1957.

An estimated $5,800,000,000 was shorn from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the decline in the Associated Press average.

The market break was robbed of any aspect of panic or a rush to unload, however. Volume slipped to 14,785,757 shares from 14,872,535 the week before. It was the lightest trading since the week ended Aug. 30, 1958 when the total was 13,577,760 shares.

This was the third straight week of declining volume. It reflected extreme caution based mainly on the fear that stock prices had already discounted a good portion of the increased earnings resulting from the vigorous business recovery. The business and economic news remained quite good but there was nothing very new and flashy to freshen interest in Wall Street.

A new element of uncertainty was introduced early in the week, however, and haunted the stock market atmosphere for most of the trading sessions. This was the apparent determination of the national administration ot ask Congress to either increase the 4¼ per cent interest rate ceiling on U.S. government bonds or to abolish it.

It was a switch for the government market after two weeks of very slight gains. It was more of the same, however, for corporates —their 10th consecutive week going downhill.

Trading volume came to $27,551,000 par value on the New York stock exchange, compared with $26,373,100 for the previous week and $29,727,500 for the corresponding week a year ago.

Ellender Claims Supports Ceiling Will Hike Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La) contended Saturday that a $5,000 ceiling on farm price supports, instead of saving the taxpayers' money, probably will increase government costs.

Ellender, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said the price support limit voted by the Senate is attributed to "a misunderstanding fostered and furthered by a few selfish interests, and aided and abetted by an unsympathetic press."

With about 10 million dollars worth of farm surpluses now in government hands, Ellender said, proposals to limit price support loans are doubly attractive, and he added:

"If I believed for a moment that such limitations would either reduce government costs, or improve the present farm program, I would not hesitate to support them."

Ellender spoke out in a radio program recorded for use in his home state.

Ellender said all previous efforts to put a dollar limit on price support loans had been defeated by congress "as inconsistent with our current farm price stabilization program."

If large producers are barred from support loans, he said, they will sell their crops and push down prices with the result that most small producers will seek government loans.

He said the result will be an increase in the number of loans that must be processed and a boost in administrative costs.

Oilmen From 53 Nations Trade Ideas At Forum

NEW YORK (AP) — Oilmen from 53 nations Friday ended a six-day forum for the exchange of ideas and research plans.

Over 300 papers on late developments in the search for new petroleum products, markets and equipment were placed before some 5,000 oil scientists this week.

"It has been a truly international exchange of technical information," said Dr. E. V. Murphree, retiring congress chairman from Linden, N. J.

Sir Stephen Gibson, the new chairman from Longon, said the papers and discussions here indicate the next few years will be a period of more than average technical progress for the oil industry.

The American oil industry drew praise from foreign delegates for financing research projects designed to provide a better understanding of the chemical properties of crude oil.

Grains Score Small Gains During Week

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market bucked a succession of mildly bearish influences this week but managed to work out a few moderate gains on the board of trade.

Oats and old crop corn contracts withstood the lower trend and held fractional gains despite a general decline Friday which knocked new crop soybeans down sharply.

Indecision about market positions in wheat held that grain on a rather narrow course all week but there appeared to be no doubt about the outlook for soybeans, particularly the 1959 crop months.

Broker opiniin appeared to be about evenly divided in wheat trade. On one hand, there was a well known belief that grain from the 1959 winter crop now being harvested in the Southwest will move into commercial channels in heavy volume so long as prices hold above those of a year ago.

One commission house reminded that a year ago the grain was sold rather freely at prices well below current levels and below the government price support loan. First arrivals from this year's harvest have brought prices equal to or above the loan.

On the other hand, some commission houses contended that much of the selling last year was more or less forced because of the lack of storage facilities for the record high yield.

IN MISSISSIPPI OIL AREA

2-Year-Old Field Developing Rapidly

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A new dual oil well in the Raleigh Field of Smith County points up the rapid development of the 2-year old field into one of the finest multiple zone reservoirs in Mississippi.

California Co. completed the Everett No. 1, sec. 33-2N-7E, at 259 barrels of oil daily from a zone at 12,546-76 feet and 256 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 12,928-48 feet.

California Co. also is below 10,400 feet in the closely watched Jasper County Wildcat Peek No. 1, sec. 10-10n-11E, near the Sharon Field.

The well, a 13,000-foot test, has logged a shallow gas sand at 4,441 feet. The zone tested 1½ million cubic feet of gas daily.

In Jones County, Pan American Petroleum Corp.'s Stringer No. 1, sec. 15-6n-12w, has stuck drill pipe at 16,857 feet.

Gulf Coast Drilling and Exploration Co. is below 12,900 feet in the Covington County wildcat Weeks No. 1, sec. 18-9n-16w, after running electric log. The venture is running high on structure but has logged no shows.

In Simpson County, Skelly Oil is below 13,560 feet in the wildcat Mississippi No. 1, sec. 1-10n-18w near Sanitorium.

Another dry hole has been recorded in the one-well Morton field of Scott County.

A. W. Williams and Love Petroleum abandoned the Mahaffey No. 1, sec. 10-5n-6e, after failing to log Eutaw oil sand.

It is the third dry hole in the 3-month-oil field.

The discovery well produces from a sand at 6,410-20 feet.

In Madison County, near Madison Station, G. W. Gill is erecting a pump at the wildcat Crawford No. 1, sec. 7-7N-2E. The venture has swabbed a small amount of oil from the Selma gas rock at 3,701-12 feet.

In Pike County, east of the Little Creek Field, J. C. Maxwell is coring below 10,730 feet in the wildcat McCullough No. 1, sec. 15-4n-93.

Also in Pike County near the Summit Field, Cordell and Ballard is below 10,000 feet in the wildcat Southwest Junior College No. 1, sec. 19-4n-8e.

Field drilling:

In Lincoln County's Little Creek Field, Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. completed the Major-Baco No. 1, sec. 34-5n-8e, at 208 barrels of oil daily from perforations at 10,782-804 feet.

Also at Lincoln County's Little Creek Field, Bateman and Hawkins completed the McClelland No. 1, sec. 33-5n-8e, at 247 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 10,732-60 feet.

In Clarke County's Junction Field, Carter Oil Co. completed the Butler No. 1, sec. 30-2n-17e, at 122 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 3,732 feet.

Abandoned wells:

Hinds County: Jett Drilling Co. abandoned the wildcat Bridgers No. 1, sec. 2-3n-2w, dry at 13,320 feet.

Humphreys County: Hargrave Oil Corp. abandoned the wildcat Harkins No. 1, sec. 35-13n-3w, dry at 9,370 feet.

Simpson County: Arkansas Fuel Oil Co. abandoned the Womack No. 1, sec. 1-10n-17w, in the Magee Field, dry at 14,025 feet.

EXCELLENT construction. On big corner lot. To build this home today on this lot would cost double — ask any carpenter or contractor! It represents real livability — you really must get inside to feel the spaciousness of this fine home. None other on the sale market can compare with it in many ways. There are 3425 sq. ft. Large 26 ft. living room with fireplace, 20 ft. dining room, 11 ft. breakfast room with China cabinets built-in, very large kitchen with huge pantry, tile counters and floors, 4 of the 6 bedrooms are carpeted, 2 very large ceramic tile baths, side and back screened with ceiling fans. Air conditioned, 12 large closets, oak floors, floor furnaces, attic fan, ceiling fans through the house. Big double garage, maid's room and bath. Sleeping porch, Lifetime roof. Lot 125x145, pretty shade trees. After you've enjoyed this home with your family and children for many years, it will still be a good home with apartment posibilities. SPACIOUS LIVABILITY
SOLID CONSTRUCTION
AND THE CHARM that can be found only an "older" home that's kept pace with the times. The location is ideal—near Neville, all Northside schools, churches, swimming pool, and golf course. The tastefully decorated interior is one you'll want to see with its: living room with mantle, separate dining room, TV room, exceptional 12x24 kitchen with 10 windows, 34 ft. of Formica topped cabinets, and lifetime terrazzo floors. Each of the 3 bedrooms have walk-in closets, 2 baths (one has dressing room). And extras galore including: 10x28 concrete porch with adjoining 16x32 patio, the finest of drapes made by the Palace throughout the home, hardwood floors, Venetian blinds, attic fan, 220 wiring, insulation, aluminum awnings. Double carport, 10x16 storage room, solid concrete drive to street, sidewalks, and well landscaped 75x150 ft. St. Augustine lawn with large shade trees. It's well worth the asking price of $27,500, and owner will finance! Don't miss seeing this if you're looking for a spacious family home!

Want Ad Brings Important Plant to Arkansas Town

Central Transformer Corporation, now employing 400 people in a modern plant in Pine Bluff, Arkansas, came to the town through a Want Ad.

Pine Bluff advertised its industrial advantages in major eastern newspaper Want Ad sections. The ad appealed to the company. They answered it, and eventually made the move.

HERE IT IS!
SPACIOUS LIVABILITY
SOLID CONSTRUCTION
AND THE CHARM that can be found only an "older" home that's kept pace with the times. The location is ideal—near Neville, all Northside schools, churches, swimming pool, and golf course. The tastefully decorated interior is one you'll want to see with its: living room with mantle, separate dining room, TV room, exceptional 12x24 kitchen with 10 windows, 34 ft. of Formica topped cabinets, and lifetime terrazzo floors. Each of the 3 bedrooms have walk-in closets, 2 baths (one has dressing room). And extras galore including: 10x28 concrete porch with adjoining 16x32 patio, the finest of drapes made by the Palace throughout the home, hardwood floors, Venetian blinds, attic fan, 220 wiring, insulation, aluminum awnings. Double carport, 10x16 storage room, solid concrete drive to street, sidewalks, and well landscaped 75x150 ft. St. Augustine lawn with large shade trees. It's well worth the asking price of $27,500, and owner will finance! Don't miss seeing this if you're looking for a spacious family home!

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Want Ad Brings Important Plant to Arkansas Town

Central Transformer Corporation, now employing 400 people in a modern plant in Pine Bluff, Arkansas, came to the town through a Want Ad.

Pine Bluff advertised its industrial advantages in major eastern newspaper Want Ad sections. The ad appealed to the company. They answered it, and eventually made the move.

$5 to first sender of each true newspaper Classified Advertising result story we accept. Howard Parish Associates. P. O. Box 126, N. W. Br., Miami 47, Fla.

BILL MAYSON! I HAVEN'T SEEN YOU IN YEARS!

HI YA, CHAMP! SAY, YOU CAN DO ME A BIG FAVOR...

I MUST LEAVE TOWN...WILL YOU TAKE CARE OF MY LITTLE 4½-YEAR-OLD CHOLLY?

WE'LL BE DELIGHTED

SURE, BILL... BRING HIM IN

SAY HELLO TO CHOLLY, FOLKS

TCH, TCH... I THOUGHT HE WAS A CHILD.

YOU'LL LOVE HIM... WELL- I'VE GOT TO LEAVE!

I TOLD THE FELLAS I'D TAKE YOU TO THE GYM TODAY...BUT YOU MUST STAY IN BED, JOANNIE...

YES, DADDY.

JOE'S BRINGIN' HIS LI'L GIRL HERE T'DAY... JOANNIE'S A DREAM!

SHE MUST BE... HE'S ALWAYS TALKIN' ABOUT HER, JERRY!

HEY- LOOK!

UH...NICE-LOOKIN' KID...NEEDS A SHAVE, THOUGH... TCH, TCH

PUT YER GLASSES ON, JOIK- IT'S A CHIMPANZEE!

JOANNIE'S HOME WITH A COLD...

I'M TAKING CARE OF CHOLLY FOR A FRIEND... HE'S A HIGHLY INTELLIGENT ANIMAL!

AHH- CHIMPS GOT A INFERIOR BRAIN... WATCH THIS-

THEY CAN ONLY COPY WHAT US SOOPERIOR HUMAN BEIN'S SHOW 'EM...C'MON, CHOLLY- PUT UP YER DUKES LIKE ME!

HA-HA... I S'POSE THAT WAS JUST AN ACCIDENT!

WE STILL OWES YO' THREE HOURS MORE O' HARD WORK!!

THINK

SOB!!

DON'T FEEL ROTTEN, BOYS!! AH SAVED 'NUFF TO SEE ME THROUGH, IN SOLID COMFORT!!

THANK GOODNESS TH' BIG PROBLEM- NAMELY OUR BOSS' HAPPINESS, IS TOOK CARE OF-

BUT THAR'S STILL ONE EMBARRASSIN' LI'L PROBLEM-

NAMELY, WHO'S GONNA TAKE CARE O' US?

SENATOR JACK S. PHOGBOUND, NATCHERLY!!- WE ALLUS VOTED FO' HIM, BECUZ HE ALLUS PROMISED HE'D LOOK AFTER US!!- OH, THAR'S NO JACK S. LIKE OUR JACK S.!!

SOON'S HE HEARS O' OUR TROUBLE, HE'LL DRAP EVERYTHING!!

YOUR CONSTITUENTS IN DOGPATCH WANT YOU TO DROP EVERYTHING, AND GET THEM A GOVERNMENT LOAN!!

RIGHT!!

DEPARTMENT OF MINOR AFFAIRS? CAN YOU RUSH THROUGH A LOAN, TO SUPPORT A DISASTER AREA FOR A YEAR?-

HOW MUCH?

WELL-HMM-SINCE IT'S DOGPATCH-

WOULD TWENTY DOLLARS BE TOO MUCH?

I THINK WE CAN SWING IT!!- BUT FIRST I MUST CHECK TO SEE IF THEY'VE EVER HAD A LOAN BEFORE-

GREAT SCOTT!!- IF THIS IS TRUE, DOGPATCH IS THE MOST IMPORTANT SQUARE MILE ON EARTH!!

YES, YES!

ALL BE HAPPY!

BOY, WAS THAT PARADISE! WERE THEY LOVELY! THEY MADE ME THEIR CHIEF. WAS I HAPPY!...THEN AFTER ONLY 3 DAYS.....

SO THIS IS THE WAY YOU RECONNOITER!...QUICK, THERE'S A RESCUE PLANE!

BUT WE JUST GOT HERE, BUZ!

QUICK, I TELL YOU!

OH, NO, NO! OTHER GUYS ARE LOST ON ISLANDS FOR MONTHS...WHY MUST I BE RESCUED SO SOON?

I DON'T HEAR TINK OR PRINCESS ANNIE ANYWHERE! STRANGE HOW THEY CAN VANISH!

OH, IT'S SUCH A LARGE CASTLE, DUCHESS!

BUT CHILDREN ARE SUCH SNOOPERS! YOU DON'T SUPPOSE THEY EVER GO DOWN INTO THOSE DARK TUNNELS, DO YOU? THEY COULD GET LOST!

PROBABLY THEY'RE IN THE KITCHEN! CHILDREN ARE ALWAYS HUNGRY!

HM-M! POSSIBLY! BUT I WORRY ABOUT THEM! THAT DARK, GRIM, SILENT WATER! HOW UNFORTUNATE IF THEY SHOULD FALL IN THERE AND NEVER BE FOUND AGAIN!

NOW THEN! ONE MORE GOOD HARD LICK SHOULD DO IT! STAND CLEAR AND HOLD THAT LIGHT STEADY!

WHAT TH'...? NOW YOU DID IT!

KRUNCH!

WHY'D Y'DROP TH' FLASH-LIGHT?

I...I C-C-COULDN'T HELP IT, ANNIE! D-DIDN'T Y'SEE 'EM IN THERE? PEOPLE! DEAD PEOPLE! TWO OF 'EM!

SURE, I SAW 'EM! BUT DEAD PEOPLE CAN'T HURT YOU!

TWO WOMEN, LOOKED LIKE! ANYWAY, THEY HAD ON WOMEN'S DRESSES!

I'M SCARED! I'VE NEVER BEEN SO SCARED! I'M GETTIN' OUT O' HERE!

HARK! DID YOU HEAR THAT? SOMEBODY ELSE DOWN HERE!

UH... PARDON ME... I'M LOOKING FOR A DOCTOR LIVINGSTONE... YOU KNOW OF HIM, I PRESUME...

UJIJI-UJIJI-MAU-MAU..

JUST WHEN I'M ENJOYING MYSELF! PSST.. HEY, BONGO.. TELL THAT PEST YOU THINK I'M IN PAGO-PAGO... I HAVEN'T BEEN HERE IN YEARS.. I WAS ONLY PASSING THRU, IF IT WAS ME...

ELMO IS VERY BIG-HEARTED WHEN WIFEY IS IN A SHOPPING MOOD..

SALE

YEAH... IT IS NIFTY.... WHY DON'TCHA GO DOWN-TOWN TOMORROW AND GET IT?

THEN THE BILL COMES IN.. POP! HE BLOWS HIS TOP!!

WHA'?! $38.95 FOR THAT?! ARE YOU CRAZY?!

Little Orphan Annie

"COMES AT THE LAST, AND WITH A LITTLE PIN BORES THROUGH HIS CASTLE WALL" SHAKESPEARE SO ANNIE'S OPENED A "HOLE IN THE WALL."

I DON'T HEAR TINK OR PRINCESS ANNIE ANYWHERE! STRANGE HOW THEY CAN VANISH!

OH, IT'S SUCH A LARGE CASTLE, DUCHESS!

BUT CHILDREN ARE SUCH SNOOPERS! YOU DON'T SUPPOSE THEY EVER GO DOWN INTO THOSE DARK TUNNELS, DO YOU? THEY COULD GET LOST!

PROBABLY THEY'RE IN THE KITCHEN! CHILDREN ARE ALWAYS HUNGRY!

HM-M! POSSIBLY! BUT I WORRY ABOUT THEM! THAT DARK, GRIM, SILENT WATER! HOW UNFORTUNATE IF THEY SHOULD FALL IN THERE AND NEVER BE FOUND AGAIN!

NOW THEN! ONE MORE GOOD HARD LICK SHOULD DO IT! STAND CLEAR AND HOLD THAT LIGHT STEADY!

WHAT TH'...? NOW YOU DID IT!

KRUNCH

WHY'D Y'DROP TH' FLASH-LIGHT?

I...I C-C-COULDN'T HELP IT, ANNIE! D-DIDN'T Y'SEE 'EM IN THERE? PEOPLE! DEAD PEOPLE! TWO OF 'EM!

SURE, I SAW 'EM! BUT DEAD PEOPLE CAN'T HURT YOU!

TWO WOMEN, LOOKED LIKE! ANYWAY, THEY HAD ON WOMEN'S DRESSES!

I'M SCARED! I'VE NEVER BEEN SO SCARED! I'M GETTIN' OUT O' HERE!

HARK! DID YOU HEAR THAT? SOMEBODY ELSE DOWN HERE!

AI! IT MUST BE THEM!

EASY, MATES! IT'S ONLY US! OLD FROG AND SEAWEED SUE!

AND DON'T YOU FRET! MUM'S TH WORD T'WIXT US FOUR FRIENDS!

HAROLD GRAY 6-7

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME

by JIMMY HATLO

BUT WE SPENT WEEKS FIGURING OUT WHAT POINTS OF INTEREST TO VISIT... AREN'T WE GOING TO VISIT DIAMOND CAVE?

NO... GOTTA GET TO LOOPYVILLE BEFORE DARK... WE GOTTA GET GOING TOMORROW AT 4 A.M. SO I CAN SAY WE MADE HORSECHESTER IN ONE DAY....

WHY DO THEY CALL IT A PLEASURE TRIP?

THEN THE CHAOS COMMENCED

THERE! THE BABY'S ASLEEP! NOW WE CAN ENJOY THE MOVIE....

C'MON!! START THE PICTURE!

HONK! HONK!

HEY!! LET'S GO! RUN THE MOVIE!!

HONK-HONK!

Thanx to MIKE SNELSON, LA HARBRA, CALIF.
